Dwight Reviews GLCEDC Annexation Request January 11 Board of Trustee Meeting Summary

by Madelyn Fogarty
madelynfogarty@yahoo.com

The Dwight Village Board of Trustees met January 11 following a holiday recess. The board is currently conducting meetings via teleconference calls to help ensure the safety and wellbeing of all those in attendance and as allowed by an edict from Governor Pritzker. Village Administrator Kevin McNamara noted that the governor has extended the order through February 6.

In new business, Adam Dontz, CEO of the Greater Livingston County Economic Development Council, was on hand with an application request for the annexation of approximately 365 acres of land situated east of town known as the McPart L.L.C. parcels (Parcel Index Numbers (PIN) 05-03-400-011 and 05-03-400-010.

Mayor Jared Anderson explained that, as this property is presented to prospective clients, it is helpful if there are facilitated agreements with the Village of Dwight for water and sewer should the property be developed. According to Dontz, proposals have been submitted to the GLCEDC from national brokerage companies and their recommendation is that the annexation and zoning be done before they move forward with a national marketing campaign.

The GLCEDC has negotiated a five year purchase option for the property and has done its due diligence with regard to inspections and property studies at an investment of approximately $100,000. The board approved sending the McPart annexation petition to the Planning Commission for a public hearing.

In a communication notice, the Village of Dwight has been selected as a recipient of an Illinois Housing Development Authority $60,000 grant through the Strong Communities Program. The grant is to be used for improvements through tear downs of decayed property. At this time, no guidelines had been made available.

In reports to the board, Mayor Jared Anderson gave a shout out to the Dwight Public Works for their efforts following the recent snow and ice that covered the area for several days. Cory Scoles with DPW asked the community for patience as they work to clean up all of the downed branches.

Chief of Police Tim Henson called on citizens to be aware of Illinois House Bill 163 and Senate Bill 1188 pointing out that there are unfunded police mandates in the bill, among other things, which he called "detrimental" to current and future police officers. Chief Henson encouraged everyone to write their senators and representatives to make their voices heard.

"There is a lot of traction with these bills and, the more people that are heard, the better," stated Chief Henson.

Representing the Dwight Economic Alliance, Jane Anderson reported that great community support was shown for local businesses during the DEA Buck sales leading up to the holidays. According to Jane, December sales were $2,735.

"DEA Bucks are a great way to put your money back in to the community," said Anderson.

Plans for the 2021 Route 66 Smoke Out are underway with the event slated for Saturday, May 1. This year's event will feature two competitions – a Backyard BBQ competition and a regular Smoke Out contest. Both events are KCBS sanctioned. Organizer Rodney Connor is planning the event downtown this year and in conjunction with the Red Carpet Corridor. Pending COVID restrictions, if DEA's Springfest event does take place this year, it will also be held downtown.

Anderson encouraged everyone to visit Emling Florist during its close out sale to wish Linda Emling a happy retirement and thank her for the many years of business service to the community. It was also noted that hair and beauty salon Studio 134 has moved to its new downtown location at 146 E. Main Street.

Also approved by the board were:

- payment of December 22, 2020 bills totaling $169,175.87.
- payment of January 11, 2021 bills totaling $57,528.63.

Present for the January 11 session were Mayor Anderson, Trustees Randy Irvin, Jerry Curtis, Marla Kinkade, Chuck Butterbordt, Jennifer Johnson and Justin Eggenberger.

The next meeting of the Dwight Village Board of Trustees will take place at 6:30 p.m., Monday, January 25. Please check prior for meeting location meeting / access information.

DCS Approves Blue Sky Solar Energy Tax Abatement January BOE Actions

by Madelyn Fogarty
madelynfogarty@yahoo.com

Dwight Common School District #232 Board of Education met via a virtual meeting on January 13 where it approved a tax abatement request from Blue Sky Solar Energy, LLC.

The Blue Sky Solar Project, impacting 2,700 acres of farm land in Grundy County between Dwight and Gardner as the largest proposed solar farm in Illinois, is expected to bring substantial new money to the Dwight Common School District each year after agreed upon tax abatement incentives are gone.

Last week, DCS Board members approved a Resolution authorizing District 232 to execute the tax abatement agreement for Blue Sky Solar Energy, LLC, allowing a two-year, eighty-percent (80%) first year abatement, and twenty percent (20%) second year abatement, not to exceed $2 million in total. Blue Sky Solar Energy, LLC had previously requested a 75% tax abatement for two years with a maximum $4 million abatement. The application requires that it result in a final agreement signed and delivered on or before 90 days after the resolution adoption. There are a total of 15 taxing bodies involved. Once fully up and running, Dr. Jancek estimated a $12 million increased EAV with an approximate $300,000 of potential revenue each year.

In other financial business, it was reported that the State of Illinois currently owes the district $34,580.40 in mandated categorical payments for 2021.

In reports to the Board, Principal Julie Schultz reported that, with current enrollment numbers at 477 total students, 79 percent of students have chosen the hybrid learning platform with 21 percent remote. Mrs. Shultz thanked teachers and families for all of their effort during the first semester and noted that "everyone is thrilled to be back in the building."

Assistant Principal/Athletic Director Jeremy Jenkins reported that the IESA and IHSA have, again, pushed out the potential start date for school sports with a plan to revisit in late January. It was noted that Scholastic Bowl has a team and will be moving forward with virtual meets.

Administrators are looking at creative ways to build skills and prevent retentions as the need for after school and possible evening study programs increase due to COVID circumstances.

"Ultimately, we want to give everyone as many opportunities as possible for success," stated Principal Schultz.

Superintendent Dr. Richard Jancek reported that there will be two new board members with Tara Hansen and Lori Bowman running unopposed for two opening seats on the board. Current BOE members Bo Partney and Cathy Ferguson will not be seeking re-election to retain their seats. Also on the April consolidated election ballot will be incumbent board members Nick Stepanovich and Marc Ellis looking to retain their board seats.

In maintenance, Dr. Jancek reported that bleacher inspections will be taking place to ensure these are up to code with any repairs noted and fixed. In addition, the 1960's walk-in freezer/cooler is in need of repair as well as the cafeteria dishwasher. Significant food service revenues from the federal government due to COVID may be used to fund these projects.

In other business, Dr. Jancek reported on government COVID relief funding, and possible expenditure of these funds with the District's portion totaling approximately $350,000. This one time lump sum stimulus payment must be expended by September 2022 and can only be used in three categories: Personal Protective Equipment (PPE), including building and cleaning supplies necessary to keep the building open; loss of learning options; and mental health. Some options being considered for use of the relief funding include afterschool programs; Saturday morning sessions; evening resources; summer school options, snacks and a late bus rider option for the after school programs; PPE; and a fulltime social worker.

In another matter, the board reviewed a crop and income report on the nine acres of farm ground leased out by the district. The district's net income from the 2020 corn crop was $865.40. Proceeds are designated for outside playground / activity projects

The board also:

- approved IASB Press Plus Board Policy Issue 106 Updates (second reading).
- approved hiring Allison Schantz, Health Aide, with the Dwight High School District assuming 50 percent of the salary / benefits.

All board members were present at the January virtual session. The next regular meeting of the Dwight Common School Board of Education will be 6 p.m., Wednesday, February 10. Please check the school's website for location / virtual access information prior to the meeting. Since October 2020, members of the Redbird and Trojan community have been able to virtually login and watch regularly scheduled monthly board meetings.

It's History...

ORR BROS. GARAGE, East Chippewa St., Dwight, IL.

State Rep. Tom Bennett, 106th District

New General Assembly, Speaker

I was honored on Wednesday to once again take the oath of office as the representative from the 106th district. It is a privilege to represent the people of our area, and I remain grateful to you for your trust.

This year we face many challenges as a state, and there is much the General Assembly needs to do to meet those challenges. We have to get serious about reforming our ethical culture in state government. We must fix our broken pension system and reform our property taxes as well. This should be the year we work together to pass a realistic, balanced budget based on an honest assessment of what our fiscal condition is.

The state of Illinois also has some administrative challenges that we have to overcome soon. The problems in the Department of Employment Security continue to make things hard for those who have become unemployed due to the pandemic, or those who have had fraudulent applications filed in their names. And we must straighten out the backlog of FOID card applications.

When we reach the end of the spring session in May, we as legislators will have to come back and ask ourselves some important questions. What have we really done to help all of Illinois? What have we done to help our constituents protect themselves and recover from Covid-19? What have we done to improve the process at IDES? What have we done to help our local businesses that have lost millions due to the pandemic?

What have we done to help our neighbors who no longer have jobs? What have we done to improve the ethical tone and culture of the House? What have we done to take some of the governmental burden off of businesses? What have we done to improve our schools and roads? What have we done to improve our budget, our debt and our pension situation? Who have we helped?

There is much to do, but if we are willing to work together and make tough choices, we can meet the challenges we face.

Madigan Out as Speaker
 The Illinois House of Representatives got its first new Speaker of the 21st century this week, as Representative Chris Welch of Hillside was chosen to lead the body for the upcoming term. Welch replaces longtime Speaker Michael Madigan of Chicago, who was first elected Speaker in 1983.

Speaker Welch joined the House in 2013 after serving on his local school board. Before becoming Speaker he was chairman of the House Executive Committee.

Former Speaker Madigan was a longtime impediment to reform and amassed far too much power for any one individual in government, I hope that Speaker Welch will seize the opportunity to improve the climate in the General Assembly on everything from ethics and civility to including both parties in passing legislation. This can be a real turning point for the state if we can change things for the better in the Illinois House.

Voting No on law enforcement bill

I voted no on a law enforcement bill, House Bill 3653 (formerly known as House Bill 163), which was opposed almost universally by law enforcement and prosecutors from every part of the state because it harms law enforcement and makes our state less safe. Unfortunately it passed by a vote of 60-50.

Disappointing end to 101st General Assembly

Before the inauguration on Wednesday, the House returned for five days of session to finish the outgoing 101st General Assembly. It was a chance to wrap up bills before the new members of the House were sworn in. It could have been a chance to act on ethics reform and property tax reform, to look into the failures at the Department of Employment Security, or reduce the wait time for FOID card applications, or to re-assert the legislature's role in state government after months of Governor Pritzker's governing by executive order.

What we got was a hyper-partisan session that seemed at times to have more to do with internal Democratic Party politics than it did with governing the state of Illinois. Not a single Republican bill was even called for a vote during the entire session. It was a serious disappointment.

Among the other bills passed were a well-intentioned but flawed education bill. It was laden with unfunded mandates which will force property taxes to be raised while decreasing the qualifications for obtaining quality educators by removing the minimum grade point average of 3.0 to obtain an alternative Educator License. The House also continued its frustrating pattern of passing legislation that will hurt small businesses and job creators in Illinois.

There were a few bright spots. There was a great amount of concern that the lame duck session would see an income tax increase rushed through, but that did not occur. We also saw a few good pieces of legislation, like a bill to crack down on payday lenders, but overall it was a sad end to the outgoing General Assembly.

VA Director steps down

On Monday morning the House held a hearing to look into what went wrong at the LaSalle Veterans Home where a coronavirus outbreak sickened many veterans and staff. Numerous shortcomings in the state's response to the outbreak have come to light in the aftermath.

Monday afternoon the director of the Illinois Department of Veterans Affairs, Linda Chapa LaVia, announced she was stepping down from her post. She will be replaced by Major General Peter Nezamis, who will serve as interim director of the agency until a new director can be appointed.

How much do we owe?

As of the time of this writing, the State of Illinois owes $5,295,045,572 in unpaid bills to state vendors. One year ago, the backlog stood at $6.7 billion. This figure represents the amount of bills submitted to the office of the Comptroller and still awaiting payment. It does not include debts that can only be estimated, such as our unfunded pension liability which is subject to a wide range of factors and has been estimated to be more than $14 billion.

 MAKING SENSE OF INVESTING

Pre-Retirees: Plan Now for Health Care Costs

If you're close to retirement, you'll have several financial issues to consider. But you'll want to pay attention to one of the most important of these issues: health care costs. How can you prepare yourself for these expenses? First, get an early start on estimating health care costs. More than two-thirds of those planning to retire in the next 10 years say they have no idea what their health and long-term care costs will be in retirement, according to the Edward Jones/Age Wave Four Pillars of the New Retirement study. And some people don't worry much about these costs, which may be considerable, thinking that Medicare will pay for most of them.

While Medicare does cover many medical expenses, it also has its own costs. You probably won't pay a premium for Part A (inpatient/hospital coverage), since you likely had this cost deducted from your paycheck when you were working. But if you are hospitalized, you'll have to pay deductibles and coinsurance (the percentage of costs you pay after you've paid your deductible). Part B (doctor's visits) requires a premium, deducted from your Social Security checks, and you must pay an out-of-pocket deductible. After you meet this deductible for the year, you typically pay 20% of the Medicare-approved amount for most doctor's services. And when you enroll in Part D (prescription drug plan), you will likely also have to pay a monthly premium, an annual deductible and coinsurance or copays.

To help pay for the Medicare deductible, coinsurance and copayments, you may want to get supplemental insurance, known as Medigap. Premiums for Medigap vary, depending on the plan you choose.

As an alternative to original Medicare, you could select Medicare Advantage (sometimes called Part C). Medicare Advantage plans are offered by private companies approved by Medicare, but the benefits and costs vary by plan. These plans generally will incorporate Medicare Parts A and B and will provide additional medical coverage, such as prescription drugs.

When you incorporate all the above, the annual out-of-pocket costs for traditional medical expenses likely will be about $4,500 to $6,500 per year, per person - not insignificant, but certainly a number that can be addressed by careful planning.

But there's one more expense to keep in mind: long-term care. The average cost of a private room in a nursing home is more than $100,000 per year, according to the insurance company Genworth. And Medicare typically pays few of these expenses.

Clearly, between regular medical costs associated with Medicare or those not covered by it, and costs resulting from the possible need for long-term care, your health care bills can mount. To meet these costs, you need to plan ahead - and take action.

For example, it's essential that you incorporate health care expenses into your overall financial strategy. You can also work with a financial professional to run some "what-if" analyses to see if your strategy would be derailed by a potential long-term care stay. And the professional you work with may be able to suggest specific protection vehicles that can help you meet the costs of long-term care.

The best time to prepare for your health care costs during retirement is well before you retire. So, if you haven't already started, now is the time to do so. When it comes to paying for health care, the fewer surprises, the better.

by Tom Tock

Okay, Tock, two weeks ago you reflected on Trump and his mischievousness with the pandemic subsidy money and with the media -- and you wrote "this guy rocks."

Then last week you wrote, "Donald, you're fired!" You sound confused.

I am. Although "disappointed" would be a better word. Very disappointed.

Mary Schmich, columnist for the Chicago Trib, tried to list all the words used by commentators to describe the abortive takeover of the U.S. Capitol. Words like "shocking" and "inevitable," 13 words altogether.

Then she listed 14 words such as "attack" and "stunt" to describe the event itself. Fourteen more words classified the attackers: "mob" and "dupes" among them.

All the words she listed were appropriate. It was, without a doubt, a very bad happening.

Just think, Trump could have retired knowing he received 74 million votes, although in a losing effort, and made a graceful exit.

Now he may well be impeached by both the House and Senate, he has fractured his own party, people died needlessly, and the inauguration will look like a military encampment.

It's going to take a long time for Republicans to regroup.

Closer to home, we can try to enjoy the demise of Mike Madigan's reign as Speaker of the Illinois House, though his shadow will remain. And the Governor still has to come to grips with the financial difficulties that exist in a very sick state.

Pritzker seems to ignore spending reforms put forward by such organizations as the Illinois Policy Institute. He has his hat hung on the prospect of a federal bailout, and officials predict he may get one after the new president is seated in Washington.

Meanwhile Crain's reported that Illinois lost population for the seventh straight year. As of July 1, 2020, the U.S. Census Bureau estimated Illinois' population dropped by 79,487 in the last year and is now estimated to be 12,587,530.

Illinois has lost 250,000 residents since the last census in 2010, which could mean the state would lose two Congressional seats.

A friend loaned us a box of memorabilia from the time of R.R. Donnelley & Sons Co.'s 1968 arrival in Dwight. I am old enough to remember many of the Dwight officials and local businessmen and women who met a number of times with Donnelley people prior to the official announcement of the company coming to Dwight.

The atmosphere was electric. It was a different world.

Livingston County HCE Holds January Board Meeting

The Livingston County Home and Community Education Board met January 11 in Pontiac. Members made plans to send delegates to the Illinois Association Home and Community Education annual conference in Effingham March 9-11. Several items made by county HCE members will be entered in the Cultural Arts Show at the conference. Livingston County HCE will support the conference by placing an ad in the conference program book and donating an item for the silent auction. Shirley Meenen, scholarship chairman, announced that information will be sent to all Livingston County high schools near the first of March on the $1,000 scholarship to be awarded to a graduating senior or a college student from Livingston County. Applications are due May 31 and may be obtained from school guidance counselors or the Livingston County University of Illinois Extension Office by calling 815-842-1776 after March 1. Plans are being made for a program and three lessons on Super Saturday on March 20. Topics will include Gardening for Swallowtail Butterflies, Current Diet Trends, Modern Trends in Textiles and Clothing, and What is Chronic Pain? The event is open to the public. The Livingston County HCE annual meeting, to be held April 19, was also discussed. The next board meeting is scheduled for Monday, February 15.

5 Minutes with Boma

Hours of Operation

This week's column is a complaint/PSA/gripe, whatever phrase you want to use, that's what this one is.

Last week, I left the fine village of Dwight in pursuit of a somewhat particular food item, one that a certain place may specialize in. I will not go into details on the type of food or the restaurants in question, but just know they were not in Dwight.

I had not had what I was looking for in a while, so I thought it would be good to mix it up and have it for the first time in a while.

The first place I went to get said item had a sign outside their establishment that stated they were open every day until 9 pm, every day. I went on a Thursday, unless things have changed in the definition of "every day" I think Thursday falls under that umbrella.

I arrived there around 8:15 p.m., and to my disappointment as I walked up to the door, it was locked and the employees inside told me they were closed for the night. Interesting, I thought, as it was not 9 p.m. and that's what the sign clearly stated. I may not be the most intelligent, but I can read numbers on a sign.

Alas, I left, disgruntled, but realized that in this town there was another restaurant with similar menu items. I, naturally, looked up this establishment's time of operation as well, as luck would have it, it said they were also open until 9 p.m. Perfect, I could still get my food item I desired.

I drove to this next restaurant, it's now 8:20-8:25 roughly, as I'm walking up, the employee who was working shut off the open sign and locked the door.

Now, I understand that Covid has made it difficult on business and things are not normal per se, but in my opinion that's inexcusable. You can't have times listed, places, especially online where it's very easy to update the time. Also, at both places, there were other cars who were also trying to get food, so it was not just me who was looking to get some food. It's incredibly disheartening to have to guess hours of operation, if you're stating you're open to a certain time, be open to that time, don't be arbitrary about it.

The old man is now done yelling at the clouds. Have a wonderful week.

OBITUARY

Peggy J. Leonard Drake

Peggy J. Leonard Drake, 73, of Bonita Springs, Florida and formerly of Dwight, passed away Thursday, January 14, 2021 at Carle BroMenn Medical Center in Normal.

Her funeral will be private. There will be no visitation. Cremation rites have been accorded by Carmody-Flynn Funeral Home, Bloomington.

She was born November 8, 1947 in Streator, a daughter of James and Lillian Mathisen Scott. She married Kenneth H. Drake on October 10, 2010.

Surviving are her husband, Ken, and her daughter, Kjersten Woodward of Normal. Peggy also leaves her step-children whom she loved dearly; many grandchildren; one brother, James (Lorraine) Scott of Aurora; and one sister, Nancy Olsen of Moline.

She was preceded in death by her parents and one son-in-law, James Woodward.

Peggy retired after a long career with R.R. Donnelley in Dwight.

Peggy very much loved her family and friends. She found happiness being on the go and spoiling her grandkids with shopping sprees. Peggy enjoyed doing puzzles in the solitude of her home in Canada, as much as she loved playing cards and dominoes with a couple of cocktails while in Citrus Park.

Peggy loved to travel and soak up as much sunshine as she could find. She was an amazing wife, mother and grandmother, and will be greatly missed.

In lieu of flowers, memorials may be made to St. Jude Midwest Affiliate.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

‘I Will Gladly Take My Chances...’

Carol Coulter
Dwight

Ironically, I was reading “the corner” about “mischievous Donald” and the “reign by the gang of four...you know, Kamala, Barack, Hillary, and Joe,” when I heard the Capitol of the United States had been breached by Trump supporters who were unhappy Trump had lost the 2020 election.

How could this disrespect occur during a joint session of Congress doing the people's work as stipulated by our Constitution? Oh! The current disgruntled president suggested these people march down Pennsylvania Avenue to the Capitol.

Really? I will gladly take my chances on the aforementioned “gang of four” instead of Trump, Giuliani, Flynn, Cruz, and the other Pinocchios.

How to confront the potential onset of memory loss

No two individuals are the same, but many men and women encounter similar changes as they approach their golden years. As adults get closer to retirement, their eyeglass prescriptions may need to get a little stronger and their workouts may need to be a little less intense as their bodies adjust to the physical challenges of aging.

Many changes associated with aging don't affect seniors' ability to live independently. However, one common concern for older adults is the potential decline of their cognitive health, which can compromise their ability to get through their daily lives without some form of assistance.

According to the National Institute on Aging, many older adults worry about memory loss as they age. The Alzheimer's Association notes that voicing concerns about memory loss can make those worries seem more real. That fear may compel some aging men and women to write off memory loss as a minor side effect of getting older. And in many instances, memory loss is not severe and not indicative of the onset of dementia or Alzheimer's disease. However, the Alzheimer's Association notes how important it is for aging men and women to seek support if they are concerned about their memory or any changes in the way they're thinking or behaving. Doctors can be invaluable resources for aging men and women, offering tips on how to confront memory loss and recommending strategies that can improve cognitive function.

The Alzheimer's Association recommends aging adults take a three-pronged approach to memory loss the moment they notice any changes in their memory or behaviors.

1. Assess the situation.
Start making a list of any changes you notice each day. Changes could be related to memory, thought patterns or behaviors. Note anything that feels abnormal or is causing you concern.

A good assessment also will involve careful consideration of any and all potential factors that may be behind your concerns. Is something other than aging going on? Family stress or a recently diagnosed medical condition can lead to the same not be ignored.

2. Have a conversation.

The Alzheimer's Association notes that many people find it helpful to discuss their concerns with a loved one rather than going it alone. Don't delay such conversations, but try to figure out how you will approach them in advance.

After discussing your concerns with a trusted loved one, ask this person to accompany you when you discuss these concerns with your doctor. Having a loved one accompany you when visiting the doctor can calm your nerves, and this person can serve as a backup who can ask the doctor any questions or share any concerns you may forget to ask or bring up.

If a loved one says your concerns sound like normal aging but you still want to seek more support, don't hesitate to contact another friend or family member.

3. Reach out for help.

The Alzheimer's Association is a reliable source of information that can be accessed online at www.alz.org and over the phone at 800.272.3900. Individuals also can find local resources by visiting www.alz.org/CRF.

Many individuals are scared to confront the potential onset of memory loss. But no one has to make such a journey alone.

issues many people associate with dementia or Alzheimer's.

The Alzheimer's Association lists 10 warning signs for Alzheimer's at www.alz.org/10signs. Familiarize yourself with these signs to see how they line up with how you're feeling.

Take note of anyone who has shared concerns about your memory loss, thought patterns or behaviors. It's not always easy to hear loved ones express such concerns, but they should

Seniors: Get Your Flu Shot – It’s Important!

Getting vaccinated for the flu is more important than ever. Not only will a flu shot help keep you and your family healthy, it can help reduce the strain on the healthcare system and keep hospital beds and other medical resources available for people with coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19).

This is no ordinary flu season; it's a flu season amid a pandemic. With two dangerous viruses going around at once, it's time for people to protect their communities by getting the vaccine already available: the flu vaccine.

And people with Medicare are at greater risk for serious complications from flu. A flu shot is an important preventive tool for individuals with asthma, diabetes, and heart and lung disease - chronic conditions that can increase the risk for serious flu-related health complications or even death. It's the best protection from getting and spreading this flu virus, and it's covered by Medicare at no cost. Medicare Part B covers one flu shot per flu season per beneficiary. You pay nothing for a flu shot if your doctor or other qualified healthcare provider accepts Medicare payment for giving the shot.

A flu shot won't protect you against COVID-19, but it has many other important benefits. Flu vaccines have been shown to reduce the risk of flu illness, hospitalization, and death.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), there's no evidence that a flu vaccination increases your risk of getting sick from a coronavirus, like the one that causes COVID-19.

Those at high risk for flu complications include young children, pregnant women, people 65 years and older, and people with certain chronic health conditions. Anyone who is six months old or older should get a yearly flu vaccine.

The CDC recommends getting vaccinated in September or October, but a flu shot anytime during the flu season can help protect you.

Flu season in North America rarely begins before early October and usually lasts from December to March. In the past two years, the peak activity has occurred around mid-to-late February. Your body needs two weeks after a shot to develop a protective response to the influenza virus, so your best bet is to get vaccinated before the flu rate begins to climb.

Workplaces and other settings that usually provide flu shots may not do so this season because of the challenges of maintaining social distancing. For more information on where you can get a flu vaccine, visit www.vaccinefinder.org.

When going to get a flu shot, please practice everyday preventive actions and follow the CDC's recommendations for running essential errands. Ask your doctor, pharmacist, or health department if they are following CDC's vaccination pandemic guidance. Any vaccination location following CDC's guidance should be a safe place for you to get a flu vaccine.

If you have a child over six months old who qualifies for Medicaid or the Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP), you may also qualify for a flu vaccination at no cost to you.

What's the difference between flu and COVID-19? Influenza (flu) and COVID-19 are both contagious respiratory illnesses, but they're caused by different viruses. COVID-19 is caused by infection with a new coronavirus (called SARS-CoV2) and flu is caused by infection with influenza viruses. Because some symptoms of flu and COVID-19 are similar, it may be hard to tell the difference between them based on symptoms alone, and testing may be needed to help confirm a diagnosis.

It is possible to have flu and COVID-19 at the same time. Health experts are still studying how common this can be.

The CDC has developed a test that will check for A- and B-type seasonal flu viruses and SARS-CoV2, the virus that causes COVID-19. This test will be used by U.S. public health laboratories. Testing for these viruses at the same time will give public health officials important information about how flu and COVID-19 are spreading and what preventive steps should be taken.

So please protect yourself, your family, and your community by getting a flu shot. Visit the doctor, pharmacy, or other local providers to get a flu shot today.

Retirement Travel Tips That Won't Break the Bank

Retirement ushers in a new stage in life, one in which adults have ample free time to pursue their interests and hobbies.

When eight or more hours per day are no longer allocated for work, those hours can be devoted to other pursuits. Retirees have the time to travel, and such exploration need not break the bank.

A 2014 MassMutual survey found that 72 percent of respondents reported feeling quite happy or extremely happy in retirement. Being able to travel when and where they desire may be a big component of this happiness. A study by Virtuoso found that travel factors significantly into the lives of today's seniors. They spend more on travel than any other generation — an average of $11,077 a year. Travel spending is at the highest among people between the ages of 75 and 79.

Learning how to get the most bang for your traveling buck can help retirees make travel more affordable.

- Avoid peak travel seasons. Many working families are restricted by school and work schedules, often limiting travel to summer and holiday breaks. The hospitality industry tends to raise their prices during these times of year. Retirees can travel any time they want. Booking trips during less busy times of year for tourism is a great way to save money.
- Consider a rental agreement. Retirees who want to travel for many weeks or even months out of the year may want to think about renting their homes while they are gone. The money earned in rent can help offset the costs of travel.

- Think about alternative living situations. Seeing the country and traveling most of the time may be more doable if retirees forego the house entirely and opt for different residences. Many recreational vehicles are large enough to be full-time homes. Simply park the RV in a new spot each month for a different perspective. House boats can be an option for the marine-minded.
- Try a repositioning cruise. Cruising is a popular form of travel for seniors. Investopedia says cruise lines offer discount repositioning cruise trips when they need to move ships from one port to another, usually during the off-season. Unlike typical cruises where a ship will return to the port of origin, a repositioning cruise stops at several ports on the way and ultimately docks in a new end destination.
- Find an inexpensive destination. For the cost of staying at a popular family resort for a week, you may be able to stay for double or triple the amount of time for about the same amount of money elsewhere. Weigh destinations carefully and compare costs. Think beyond the "popular" destinations around the world.

Travel is a favorite pastime for retirees. Cost-saving strategies can make travel more budget-friendly for seniors who want to spend more time exploring.

DID YOU KNOW?

Many people plan to retire by a certain age, but few may actually still be working at their targeted retirement age. In the United States, the age at which working Americans expect to retire has risen to 66. But a Gallup poll showed that most don't stay on the job that long, instead retiring when they're about 60 or 61. In addition, according to a 2018 Employee Benefit Research Institute survey, 48 percent of workers wanted to retire after age 65, but only 19 percent of retirees stayed on the job that long. The reasons vary, but one positive outcome is having enough money to live comfortably during retirement. Still, early retirement largely involves unexpected scenarios. These may include poor health, having to care for an aging parent, downsizing, new skills required for the job, or other work-related reasons.

Healthy eating options for seniors

“Let food be thy medicine” is a quote attributed to Hippocrates, the ancient scholar considered to be the father of modern medicine. The saying relates to the notion that what people put in their bodies can heal and/or prevent certain conditions.

For seniors with medicine cabinets full of over-the-counter and prescription medications, the idea of relying predominantly on food to promote optimal health may be tempting, and various foods can be particularly useful to the 50-and-over demographic.

According to the World Health Organization, poor diet is a major contributor to many of the diseases that affect older people. Certain foods may be particularly helpful.

Brain-friendly foods: Foods such as avocado, leafy vegetables, sunflower seeds, blueberries, and salmon are good sources of vitamin E, antioxidants, omega-3 fatty acids, and other nutrients that may help ward off dementias like Alzheimer’s disease.

Anti-inflammatory foods: Foods rich in omega-3 fatty acids may help prevent inflammation that can cause cancer and rheumatoid arthritis.

Fruits and vegetables: Fresh, canned or frozen produce tend to be high in micronutrients, including a variety of important vitamins that are essential for all components of health. Eating dark green vegetables, such as leafy greens or broccoli, and orange vegetables is advised.

Energy-boosters: Choose whole grains that can provide sustained energy by way of healthy carbohydrates over processed grains.

Bone-friendly foods: Calcium-rich foods, such as milk, yogurt and cheese, can prevent calcium from being leached from the bones, which contributes to conditions like osteoporosis.

Digestive system-friendly foods: The digestive system slows down as the body ages, as the walls of the gastrointestinal tract thicken and digestive contractions that push waste along may slow down and become fewer. Foods rich in fiber can promote proper digestion by moving food through the digestive tract more easily.

High-iron foods: Without enough iron in the body, a person may feel tired and lethargic from a reduced production of hemoglobin, which carries oxygen in the blood from the lungs to the rest of the body. Tofu, spinach, lentils, pumpkin seeds, and fortified breads and cereals are high in iron.

Smart food choices can help seniors live long and healthy lives.

How to Help Aging Adults Adapt to Technology

Children, adolescents and young adults likely cannot imagine a life without modern technology. Technology may have pervaded every part of life in the 21st century, but it wasn't so long ago that phones were still attached to walls and people had to watch their favorite shows and films exclusively on televisions instead of having the option to watch them on devices like smartphones and tablets.

The transition to life in the age of technology went smoothly for most segments of the population, but some aging adults have had a more difficult time making the adjustment. That difficulty was apparent throughout the COVID-19 pan-

dem, when public health agencies like the World Health Organization and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention urged aging adults to limit interactions with people outside their homes. Such recommendations forced many seniors to communicate with their families exclusively over the phone or via video conferencing apps like Zoom.

If seniors have had a hard time adapting to technology, their families can try these strategies to make that transition go more smoothly.

- Go over product manuals with seniors. The senior care-giving experts at Home Care Assistance note that older adults are less likely to learn through experimentation than they are by reading instructions in the manual. When helping seniors learn to use new devices, go over the owner's manual with them as you set up the device. Mark important pages in the manual so seniors know where to go for quick answers if they experience any issues logging in or using certain apps.

- Look for senior-specific devices and guidebooks. Seniors make up an enormous segment of the population, and tech companies have long since recognized that there's a market for products designed specifically for aging men and women. When shopping for devices for seniors, look for those that have been designed to help them overcome issues that have proven problematic for aging adults in the past. Devices that feature touchscreens with large menus, easily accessible navigation tools and simplified features can help seniors as they learn to use new technology.

- Be patient. Some seniors are excited by the prospect of learning to use new technology, while others may be hesitant. Patience is essential when working with an aging loved one who's intimidated by technology. Take the time to explain apps and features and don't take it for granted that seniors will know how to use a device or recognize what a device can do.

Today's seniors may not have grown up with technology at their fingertips, but they can still learn to use devices to their advantage.

How Expenses Can Change During Retirement

Work is a major component of daily life, so much so that Andrew Naber, an industrial and organizational psychologist and an associate behavioral scientist at RAND Corp., determined that the average person spends 90,000 hours at work over the course of his or her lifetime. According to a 2014 Gallup poll, the average American retires at age 62, but roughly 64 percent of professionals bid farewell to the workplace between ages 55 and 65.

Retirees must make a number of adjustments once they call it a career. No such adjustment is as significant as the financial one. Most people find their post-retirement income is considerably less than when they were working full-time. That is why financial planners often recommend saving and investing enough during working years to be able to replace 80 percent of preretirement income. Certain expenses get lower after retirement, but some will rise. Here's a look at what to expect when the bills come due during retirement.

- Food costs: Food costs may go down in retirement because shopping and preparing meals for one or two people is much less costly than feeding a family of four or more. However, dining out may increase as you have more free time to visit local eateries.

- Automotive costs: According to data from the U.S. Department of Transportation, the average commuter spends 25.8 minutes behind the wheel twice a day, and the average driver puts in 13,474 miles behind the wheel each year — with people between the ages of 35 and 54 clocking close to 15,000 miles. Less time spent in the car means fewer gasoline fill-ups and longer durations between oil changes and other services. Without commuting, that cash stays in your pocket.

- Taxes: Many people can expect to be done paying federal income taxes when they are retired and no longer earning an income. If the majority of retirement savings were in Roth IRA accounts, contributions are available for withdrawal tax- and penalty-free at any age.
- Housing: Your mortgage may be paid off before or soon after retirement. That eliminates the single largest expense in many people's budgets. If your home will not be paid off, it's possible to downsize to reduce monthly payments.

- Travel: While many other expenses can go down, travel is one expense that can shoot up during retirement. But many people are happy to bear this cost. With more time for travel, retirees may allocate more funds toward vacations and other great escapes.
- Health care: Seniors often see their health care needs and costs go up after retirement. It's important to understand what is covered by health plans, and it's equally important to set money aside for unforeseen medical expenses.

Many costs of living decrease after retirement. However, it is wise to take in the whole picture to understand how to budget for retirement.

Lincoln Presidential Library Joins with State Board of Education for Art Contest

Illinois children can showcase their artistic talents and consider the importance of art in our lives, thanks to a statewide art contest sponsored by the Abraham Lincoln Presidential Library and Museum and the Illinois State Board of Education.

The theme of the contest is "Art Surrounds Us." Illinois students from kindergarten through high school can let their imaginations run wild to create original works of art reflecting what the theme means to them.

Judging will occur across four levels: K-2, 3-5, 6-8, and 9-12. In each level, a winner and three runners-up will be selected, and one piece will be selected as "Best in Show."

The 16 top designs will be displayed by the Abraham Lincoln Presidential Library and

Abraham Lincoln
PRESIDENTIAL LIBRARY AND MUSEUM

Museum, and a single winner will be used as a poster sent to all schools during Illinois Arts Education Week, March 15-19.

Artwork may be submitted now through Feb. 12. The winners will be announced in conjunction with Illinois Arts Education Week. The winner of

"Best in Show" will also be recognized at an ISBE Board meeting and a framed copy of their work will hang in the Board office.

Submissions must be 11 inches by 14 inches and two dimensional. They cannot feature copyrighted characters or images. More details are available at bit.ly/ALPLM-ArtContest.

The Abraham Lincoln Presidential Library and Museum, at 212 N. Sixth St. in Springfield, is dedicated to telling the story of America's 16th president through old-fashioned scholarship and modern technology.

The library holds an unparalleled collection of Lincoln books, documents, photographs, artifacts and art, as well as millions of other items pertaining to Illinois history. Meanwhile, the museum uses traditional exhibits, eye-catching special effects, and innovative story-telling techniques to educate visitors.

Dwight Reviews GLCEDC Annexation Request January 11 Board of Trustee Meeting Summary

by Madelyn Fogarty
madelynfogarty@yahoo.com

The Dwight Village Board of Trustees met January 11 following a holiday recess. The board is currently conducting meetings via teleconference calls to help ensure the safety and wellbeing of all those in attendance and as allowed by an edict from Governor Pritzker. Village Administrator Kevin McNamara noted that the governor has extended the order through February 6.

In new business, Adam Dontz, CEO of the Greater Livingston County Economic Development Council, was on hand with an application request for the annexation of approximately 365 acres of land situated east of town known as the McPart L.L.C. parcels (Parcel Index Numbers (PIN) 05-03-400-011 and 05-03-400-010.

Mayor Jared Anderson explained that, as this property is presented to prospective clients, it is helpful if there are facilitated agreements with the Village of Dwight for water and sewer should the property be developed. According to Dontz, proposals have been submitted to the GLCEDC from national brokerage companies and their recommendation is that the annexation and zoning be done before they move forward with a national marketing campaign.

The GLCEDC has negotiated a five year purchase option for the property and has done its due diligence with regard to inspections and property studies at an investment of approximately $100,000. The board approved sending the McPart annexation petition to the Planning Commission for a public hearing.

In a communication notice, the Village of Dwight has been selected as a recipient of an Illinois Housing Development Authority $60,000 grant through the Strong Communities Program. The grant is to be used for improvements through tear downs of decayed property. At this time, no guidelines had been made available.

In reports to the board, Mayor Jared Anderson gave a shout out to the Dwight Public Works for their efforts following the recent snow and ice that covered the area for several days. Cory Scoles with DPW asked the community for patience as they work to clean up all of the downed branches.

Chief of Police Tim Henson called on citizens to be aware of Illinois House Bill 163 and Senate Bill 1188 pointing out that there are unfunded police mandates in the bill, among other things, which he called "detrimental" to current and future police officers. Chief Henson encouraged everyone to write their senators and representatives to make their voices heard.

"There is a lot of traction with these bills and, the more people that are heard, the better," stated Chief Henson.

Representing the Dwight Economic Alliance, Jane Anderson reported that great community support was shown for local businesses during the DEA Buck sales leading up to the holidays. According to Jane, December sales were $2,735.

"DEA Bucks are a great way to put your money back in to the community," said Anderson.

Plans for the 2021 Route 66 Smoke Out are underway with the event slated for Saturday, May 1. This year's event will feature two competitions – a Backyard BBQ competition and a regular Smoke Out contest. Both events are KCBS sanctioned. Organizer Rodney Connor is planning the event downtown this year and in conjunction with the Red Carpet Corridor. Pending COVID restrictions, if DEA's Springfest event does take place this year, it will also be held downtown.

Anderson encouraged everyone to visit Emling Florist during its close out sale to wish Linda Emling a happy retirement and thank her for the many years of business service to the community. It was also noted that hair and beauty salon Studio 134 has moved to its new downtown location at 146 E. Main Street.

Also approved by the board were:

- payment of December 22, 2020 bills totaling $169,175.87.
- payment of January 11, 2021 bills totaling $57,528.63.

Present for the January 11 session were Mayor Anderson, Trustees Randy Irvin, Jerry Curtis, Marla Kinkade, Chuck Butterbordt, Jennifer Johnson and Justin Eggenberger.

The next meeting of the Dwight Village Board of Trustees will take place at 6:30 p.m., Monday, January 25. Please check prior for meeting location meeting / access information.

Third Quarter Sales Taxes Are Mixed

by Tom Tock

Sales tax receipts for Dwight in the third quarter of 2020 were down from the pre-Covid year of 2019, while other communities showed some gains.

Third quarter 2020 results for Dwight were $252,865.

The third quarter of 2019 provided Dwight with sales tax of $286,984. The first quarter of 2020 produced $222,699; second quarter $229,141.

All the sales tax numbers include the non home rule additional sales tax of 1¢ that was added to certain Dwight sales after July 1 of 2016 and was dedicated to infrastructure improvements.

The 1¢ tax was worth $109,018 in the third quarter of 2019. It brought in $93,121 in the third quarter of 2020.

Dwight had 140 sales taxpayers in 2019; 126 in 2020.

DCS Approves Blue Sky Solar Energy Tax Abatement January BOE Actions

by Madelyn Fogarty
madelynfogarty@yahoo.com

Dwight Common School District #232 Board of Education met via a virtual meeting on January 13 where it approved a tax abatement request from Blue Sky Solar Energy, LLC.

The Blue Sky Solar Project, impacting 2,700 acres of farm land in Grundy County between Dwight and Gardner as the largest proposed solar farm in Illinois, is expected to bring substantial new money to the Dwight Common School District each year after agreed upon tax abatement incentives are gone.

Last week, DCS Board members approved a Resolution authorizing District 232 to execute the tax abatement agreement for Blue Sky Solar Energy, LLC, allowing a two-year, eighty-percent (80%) first year abatement, and twenty percent (20%) second year abatement, not to exceed $2 million in total. Blue Sky Solar Energy, LLC had previously requested a 75% tax abatement for two years with a maximum $4 million abatement. The application requires that it result in a final agreement signed and delivered on or before 90 days after the resolution adoption. There are a total of 15 taxing bodies involved. Once fully up and running, Dr. Jancek estimated a $12 million increased EAV with an approximate $300,000 of potential revenue each year.

In other financial business, it was reported that the State of Illinois currently owes the district $34,580.40 in mandated categorical payments for 2021.

In reports to the Board, Principal Julie Schultz reported that, with current enrollment numbers at 477 total students, 79 percent of students have chosen the hybrid learning platform with 21 percent remote. Mrs. Shultz thanked teachers and families for all of their effort during the first semester and noted that "everyone is thrilled to be back in the building."

Assistant Principal/Athletic Director Jeremy Jenkins reported that the IESA and IHSA have, again, pushed out the potential start date for school sports with a plan to revisit in late January. It was noted that Scholastic Bowl has a team and will be moving forward with virtual meets.

Administrators are looking at creative ways to build skills and prevent retentions as the need for after school and possible evening study programs increase due to COVID circumstances.

"Ultimately, we want to give everyone as many opportunities as possible for success," stated Principal Schultz.

Superintendent Dr. Richard Jancek reported that there will be two new board members with Tara Hansen and Lori Bowman running unopposed for two opening seats on the board. Current BOE members Bo Partney and Cathy Ferguson will not be seeking re-election to retain their seats. Also on the April consolidated election ballot will be incumbent board members Nick Stepanovich and Marc Ellis looking to retain their board seats.

In maintenance, Dr. Jancek reported that bleacher inspections will be taking place to ensure these are up to code with any repairs noted and fixed. In addition, the 1960's walk-in freezer/cooler is in need of repair as well as the cafeteria dishwasher. Significant food service revenues from the federal government due to COVID may be used to fund these projects.

In other business, Dr. Jancek reported on government COVID relief funding, and possible expenditure of these funds with the District's portion totaling approximately $350,000. This one time lump sum stimulus payment must be expended by September 2022 and can only be used in three categories: Personal Protective Equipment (PPE), including building and cleaning supplies necessary to keep the building open; loss of learning options; and mental health. Some options being considered for use of the relief funding include afterschool programs; Saturday morning sessions; evening resources; summer school options, snacks and a late bus rider option for the after school programs; PPE; and a fulltime social worker.

In another matter, the board reviewed a crop and income report on the nine acres of farm ground leased out by the district. The district's net income from the 2020 corn crop was $865.40. Proceeds are designated for outside playground / activity projects

The board also:

- approved IASB Press Plus Board Policy Issue 106 Updates (second reading).

- approved hiring Allison Schantz, Health Aide, with the Dwight High School District assuming 50 percent of the salary / benefits.

All board members were present at the January virtual session. The next regular meeting of the Dwight Common School Board of Education will be 6 p.m., Wednesday, February 10. Please check the school's website for location / virtual access information prior to the meeting. Since October 2020, members of the Redbird and Trojan community have been able to virtually login and watch regularly scheduled monthly board meetings.

State Rep. Tom Bennett, 106th District

New General Assembly, Speaker

I was honored on Wednesday to once again take the oath of office as the representative from the 106th district. It is a privilege to represent the people of our area, and I remain grateful to you for your trust.

This year we face many challenges as a state, and there is much the General Assembly needs to do to meet those challenges. We have to get serious about reforming our ethical culture in state government. We must fix our broken pension system and reform our property taxes as well. This should be the year we work together to pass a realistic, balanced budget based on an honest assessment of what our fiscal condition is.

The state of Illinois also has some administrative challenges that we have to overcome soon. The problems in the Department of Employment Security continue to make things hard for those who have become unemployed due to the pandemic, or those who have had fraudulent applications filed in their names. And we must straighten out the backlog of FOID card applications.

When we reach the end of the spring session in May, we as legislators will have to come back and ask ourselves some important questions. What have we really done to help all of Illinois? What have we done to help our constituents protect themselves and recover from Covid-19? What have we done to improve the process at IDES? What have we done to help our local businesses that have lost millions due to the pandemic?

What have we done to help our neighbors who no longer have jobs? What have we done to improve the ethical tone and culture of the House? What have we done to take some of the governmental burden off of businesses? What have we done to improve our schools and roads? What have we done to improve our budget, our debt and our pension situation? Who have we helped?

There is much to do, but if we are willing to work together and make tough choices, we can meet the challenges we face.

Madigan Out as Speaker
 The Illinois House of Representatives got its first new Speaker of the 21st century this week, as Representative Chris Welch of Hillside was chosen to lead the body for the upcoming term. Welch replaces longtime Speaker Michael Madigan of Chicago, who was first elected Speaker in 1983.

Speaker Welch joined the House in 2013 after serving on his local school board. Before becoming Speaker he was chairman of the House Executive Committee.

Former Speaker Madigan was a longtime impediment to reform and amassed far too much power for any one individual in government, I hope that Speaker Welch will seize the opportunity to improve the climate in the General Assembly on everything from ethics and civility to including both parties in passing legislation. This can be a real turning point for the state if we can change things for the better in the Illinois House.

Voting No on law enforcement bill

I voted no on a law enforcement bill, House Bill 3653 (formerly known as House Bill 163), which was opposed almost universally by law enforcement and prosecutors from every part of the state because it harms law enforcement and makes our state less safe. Unfortunately it passed by a vote of 60-50.

Disappointing end to 101st General Assembly

Before the inauguration on Wednesday, the House returned for five days of session to finish the outgoing 101st General Assembly. It was a chance to wrap up bills before the new members of the House were sworn in. It could have been a chance to act on ethics reform and property tax reform, to look into the failures at the Department of Employment Security, or reduce the wait time for FOID card applications, or to re-assert the legislature's role in state government after months of Governor Pritzker's governing by executive order.

What we got was a hyper-partisan session that seemed at times to have more to do with internal Democratic Party politics than it did with governing the state of Illinois. Not a single Republican bill was even called for a vote during the entire session. It was a serious disappointment.

Among the other bills passed were a well-intentioned but flawed education bill. It was laden with unfunded mandates which will force property taxes to be raised while decreasing the qualifications for obtaining quality educators by removing the minimum grade point average of 3.0 to obtain an alternative Educator License. The House also continued its frustrating pattern of passing legislation that will hurt small businesses and job creators in Illinois.

There were a few bright spots. There was a great amount of concern that the lame duck session would see an income tax increase rushed through, but that did not occur. We also saw a few good pieces of legislation, like a bill to crack down on payday lenders, but overall it was a sad end to the outgoing General Assembly.

VA Director steps down

On Monday morning the House held a hearing to look into what went wrong at the LaSalle Veterans Home where a coronavirus outbreak sickened many veterans and staff. Numerous shortcomings in the state's response to the outbreak have come to light in the aftermath.

Monday afternoon the director of the Illinois Department of Veterans Affairs, Linda Chapa LaVia, announced she was stepping down from her post. She will be replaced by Major General Peter Nezamis, who will serve as interim director of the agency until a new director can be appointed.

How much do we owe?

As of the time of this writing, the State of Illinois owes $5,295,045,572 in unpaid bills to state vendors. One year ago, the backlog stood at $6.7 billion. This figure represents the amount of bills submitted to the office of the Comptroller and still awaiting payment. It does not include debts that can only be estimated, such as our unfunded pension liability which is subject to a wide range of factors and has been estimated to be more than $14 billion.

 MAKING SENSE OF INVESTING

Pre-Retirees: Plan Now for Health Care Costs

If you're close to retirement, you'll have several financial issues to consider. But you'll want to pay attention to one of the most important of these issues: health care costs. How can you prepare yourself for these expenses? First, get an early start on estimating health care costs. More than two-thirds of those planning to retire in the next 10 years say they have no idea what their health and long-term care costs will be in retirement, according to the Edward Jones/Age Wave Four Pillars of the New Retirement study. And some people don't worry much about these costs, which may be considerable, thinking that Medicare will pay for most of them.

While Medicare does cover many medical expenses, it also has its own costs. You probably won't pay a premium for Part A (inpatient/hospital coverage), since you likely had this cost deducted from your paycheck when you were working. But if you are hospitalized, you'll have to pay deductibles and coinsurance (the percentage of costs you pay after you've paid your deductible). Part B (doctor's visits) requires a premium, deducted from your Social Security checks, and you must pay an out-of-pocket deductible. After you meet this deductible for the year, you typically pay 20% of the Medicare-approved amount for most doctor's services. And when you enroll in Part D (prescription drug plan), you will likely also have to pay a monthly premium, an annual deductible and coinsurance or copays.

To help pay for the Medicare deductible, coinsurance and copayments, you may want to get supplemental insurance, known as Medigap. Premiums for Medigap vary, depending on the plan you choose.

As an alternative to original Medicare, you could select Medicare Advantage (sometimes called Part C). Medicare Advantage plans are offered by private companies approved by Medicare, but the benefits and costs vary by plan. These plans generally will incorporate Medicare Parts A and B and will provide additional medical coverage, such as prescription drugs.

When you incorporate all the above, the annual out-of-pocket costs for traditional medical expenses likely will be about $4,500 to $6,500 per year, per person - not insignificant, but certainly a number that can be addressed by careful planning.

But there's one more expense to keep in mind: long-term care. The average cost of a private room in a nursing home is more than $100,000 per year, according to the insurance company Genworth. And Medicare typically pays few of these expenses.

Clearly, between regular medical costs associated with Medicare or those not covered by it, and costs resulting from the possible need for long-term care, your health care bills can mount. To meet these costs, you need to plan ahead - and take action.

For example, it's essential that you incorporate health care expenses into your overall financial strategy. You can also work with a financial professional to run some "what-if" analyses to see if your strategy would be derailed by a potential long-term care stay. And the professional you work with may be able to suggest specific protection vehicles that can help you meet the costs of long-term care.

The best time to prepare for your health care costs during retirement is well before you retire. So, if you haven't already started, now is the time to do so. When it comes to paying for health care, the fewer surprises, the better.

the corner

by Tom Tock

Okay, Tock, two weeks ago you reflected on Trump and his mischievousness with the pandemic subsidy money and with the media -- and you wrote "this guy rocks."

Then last week you wrote, "Donald, you're fired!" You sound confused.

I am. Although "disappointed" would be a better word. Very disappointed.

Mary Schmich, columnist for the Chicago Trib, tried to list all the words used by commentators to describe the abortive takeover of the U.S. Capitol. Words like "shocking" and "inevitable," 13 words altogether.

Then she listed 14 words such as "attack" and "stunt" to describe the event itself. Fourteen more words classified the attackers: "mob" and "dupes" among them.

All the words she listed were appropriate. It was, without a doubt, a very bad happening.

Just think, Trump could have retired knowing he received 74 million votes, although in a losing effort, and made a graceful exit.

Now he may well be impeached by both the House and Senate, he has fractured his own party, people died needlessly, and the inauguration will look like a military encampment.

It's going to take a long time for Republicans to regroup.

Closer to home, we can try to enjoy the demise of Mike Madigan's reign as Speaker of the Illinois House, though his shadow will remain. And the Governor still has to come to grips with the financial difficulties that exist in a very sick state.

Pritzker seems to ignore spending reforms put forward by such organizations as the Illinois Policy Institute. He has his hat hung on the prospect of a federal bailout, and officials predict he may get one after the new president is seated in Washington.

Meanwhile Crain's reported that Illinois lost population for the seventh straight year. As of July 1, 2020, the U.S. Census Bureau estimated Illinois' population dropped by 79,487 in the last year and is now estimated to be 12,587,530.

Illinois has lost 250,000 residents since the last census in 2010, which could mean the state would lose two Congressional seats.

A friend loaned us a box of memorabilia from the time of R.R. Donnelley & Sons Co.'s 1968 arrival in Dwight. I am old enough to remember many of the Dwight officials and local businessmen and women who met a number of times with Donnelley people prior to the official announcement of the company coming to Dwight.

The atmosphere was electric. It was a different world.

Project Blue Sky Enters Development Phase

The Blue Sky Solar Project proposes more than 1 million solar panels over 2,670 acres between Dwight and Gardner.

The power from the project will be delivered into the local electrical grid, helping to diversify the regional energy portfolio.

Schools in Dwight and Gardner could see a significant financial impact when the project reaches fruition, but the project is looking for a three-year tax abatement, meaning districts won't see any revenue until at least 2026-27. The project is estimated to pay over $36 million in property taxes to local taxing jurisdictions over the life of the project.

In addition to his novel, Madia has also had several screenplays produced, to what he called, "mixed reviews." Madia enjoyed writing the book more because of the creative license it afforded him.

Gas Prices For This Week

The national average for a gallon of gas has increased by 7 cents. Pump prices have increased while gas demand remains low. Crude prices continue to increase due to optimism that the coronavirus vaccines will help crude demand recover. However, drivers should expect to see pump prices continue to climb.

Livingston County HCE Holds January Board Meeting

The Livingston County Home and Community Education Board met January 11 in Pontiac. Members made plans to send delegates to the Illinois Association Home and Community Education annual conference in Effingham March 9-11. Several items made by county HCE members will be entered in the Cultural Arts Show at the conference. Livingston County HCE will support the conference by placing an ad in the conference program book and donating an item for the silent auction. Shirley Meenen, scholarship chairman, announced that information will be sent to all Livingston County high schools near the first of March on the $1,000 scholarship to be awarded to a graduating senior or a college student from Livingston County. Applications are due May 31 and may be obtained from school guidance counselors or the Livingston County University of Illinois Extension Office by calling 815-842-1776 after March 1. Plans are being made for a program and three lessons on Super Saturday on March 20. Topics will include Gardening for Swallowtail Butterflies, Current Diet Trends, Modern Trends in Textiles and Clothing, and What is Chronic Pain? The event is open to the public. The Livingston County HCE annual meeting, to be held April 19, was also discussed. Because the December meeting had to be cancelled due to COVID-19, the Christmas community service project was extended into the new year. The board and HCE members throughout Livingston County are collecting snacks to be delivered to the Livingston County Sheriff's Office to show appreciation for the services they provide to the citizens of Livingston County. The next board meeting is scheduled for Monday, February 15.

5 Minutes with Boma

Hours of Operation

This week's column is a complaint/PSA/gripe, whatever phrase you want to use, that's what this one is.

Last week, I left the fine village of Dwight in pursuit of a somewhat particular food item, one that a certain place may specialize in. I will not go into details on the type of food or the restaurants in question, but just know they were not in Dwight.

I had not had what I was looking for in a while, so I thought it would be good to mix it up and have it for the first time in a while.

The first place I went to get said item had a sign outside their establishment that stated they were open every day until 9 pm, every day. I went on a Thursday, unless things have changed in the definition of "every day" I think Thursday falls under that umbrella.

I arrived there around 8:15 p.m., and to my disappointment as I walked up to the door, it was locked and the employees inside told me they were closed for the night. Interesting, I thought, as it was not 9 p.m. and that's what the sign clearly stated. I may not be the most intelligent, but I can read numbers on a sign.

Alas, I left, disgruntled, but realized that in this town there was another restaurant with similar menu items. I, naturally, looked up this establishment's time of operation as well, as luck would have it, it said they were also open until 9 p.m. Perfect, I could still get my food item I desired.

I drove to this next restaurant, it's now 8:20-8:25 roughly, as I'm walking up, the employee who was working shut off the open sign and locked the door.

Now, I understand that Covid has made it difficult on business and things are not normal per se, but in my opinion that's inexcusable. You can't have times listed, places, especially online where it's very easy to update the time. Also, at both places, there were other cars who were also trying to get food, so it was not just me who was looking to get some food. It's incredibly disheartening to have to guess hours of operation, if you're stating you're open to a certain time, be open to that time, don't be arbitrary about it.

The old man is now done yelling at the clouds. Have a wonderful week.

OBITUARY

Peggy J. Leonard Drake

Peggy J. Leonard Drake, 73, of Bonita Springs, Florida and formerly of Dwight, passed away Thursday, January 14, 2021 at Carle BroMenn Medical Center in Normal.

Her funeral will be private. There will be no visitation. Cremation rites have been accorded by Carmody-Flynn Funeral Home, Bloomington.

She was born November 8, 1947 in Streator, a daughter of James and Lillian Mathisen Scott. She married Kenneth H. Drake on October 10, 2010.

Surviving are her husband, Ken, and her daughter, Kjersten Woodward of Normal. Peggy also leaves her step-children whom she loved dearly; many grandchildren; one brother, James (Lorraine) Scott of Aurora; and one sister, Nancy Olsen of Moline.

She was preceded in death by her parents and one son-in-

law, James Woodward.

Peggy retired after a long career with R.R. Donnelley in Dwight.

Peggy very much loved her family and friends. She found happiness being on the go and spoiling her grandkids with shopping sprees. Peggy enjoyed doing puzzles in the solitude of her home in Canada, as much as she loved playing cards and dominoes with a couple of cocktails while in Citrus Park.

Peggy loved to travel and soak up as much sunshine as she could find. She was an amazing wife, mother and grandmother, and will be greatly missed.

In lieu of flowers, memorials may be made to St. Jude Midwest Affiliate.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

'I Will Gladly Take My Chances...'

Ironically, I was reading "the corner" about "mischievous Donald" and the "reign by the gang of four...you know, Kamala, Barack, Hillary, and Joe," when I heard the Capitol of the United States had been breached by Trump supporters who were unhappy Trump had lost the 2020 election.

How could this disrespect occur during a joint session of Congress doing the people's work as stipulated by our Constitution? Oh! The current disgruntled president suggested these people march down Pennsylvania Avenue to the Capitol.

Really? I will gladly take my chances on the aforementioned "gang of four" instead of Trump, Giuliani, Flynn, Cruz, and the other Pinocchios.

Senior Lifestyles

How to confront the potential onset of memory loss

No two individuals are the same, but many men and women encounter similar changes as they approach their golden years. As adults get closer to retirement, their eyeglass prescriptions may need to get a little stronger and their workouts may need to be a little less intense as their bodies adjust to the physical challenges of aging.

Many changes associated with aging don't affect seniors' ability to live independently. However, one common concern for older adults is the potential decline of their cognitive health, which can compromise their ability to get through their daily lives without some form of assistance.

According to the National Institute on Aging, many older adults worry about memory loss as they age. The Alzheimer's Association notes that voicing concerns about memory loss can make those worries seem more real. That fear may compel some aging men and women to write off memory loss as a minor side effect of getting older. And in many instances, memory loss is not severe and not indicative of the onset of dementia or Alzheimer's disease. However, the Alzheimer's Association notes how important it is for aging men and women to seek support if they are concerned about their memory or any changes in the way they're thinking or behaving. Doctors can be invaluable resources for aging men and women, offering tips on how to confront memory loss and recommending strategies that can improve cognitive function.

The Alzheimer's Association recommends aging adults take a three-pronged approach to memory loss the moment they notice any changes in their memory or behaviors.

1. Assess the situation.

Start making a list of any changes you notice each day. Changes could be related to memory, thought patterns or behaviors. Note anything that feels abnormal or is causing you concern.

A good assessment also will involve careful consideration of any and all potential factors that may be behind your concerns. Is something other than aging going on? Family stress or a recently diagnosed medical condition can lead to the same not be ignored.

2. Have a conversation.

The Alzheimer's Association notes that many people find it helpful to discuss their concerns with a loved one rather than going it alone. Don't delay such conversations, but try to figure out how you will approach them in advance.

After discussing your concerns with a trusted loved one, ask this person to accompany you when you discuss these concerns with your doctor. Having a loved one accompany you when visiting the doctor can calm your nerves, and this person can serve as a backup who can ask the doctor any questions or share any concerns you may forget to ask or bring up.

If a loved one says your concerns sound like normal aging but you still want to seek more support, don't hesitate to contact another friend or family member.

Seniors: Get Your Flu Shot – It’s Important!

ting and spreading this flu virus, and it's covered by Medicare at no cost. Medicare Part B covers one flu shot per flu season per beneficiary. You pay nothing for a flu shot if your doctor or other qualified healthcare provider accepts Medicare payment for giving the shot.

A flu shot won't protect you against COVID-19, but it has many other important benefits. Flu vaccines have been shown to reduce the risk of flu illness, hospitalization, and death.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), there's no evidence that a flu vaccination increases your risk of getting sick from a coronavirus, like the one that causes COVID-19.

Those at high risk for flu complications include young children, pregnant women, people 65 years and older, and people with certain chronic health conditions. Anyone who is six months old or older should get a yearly flu vaccine.

The CDC recommends getting vaccinated in September or October, but a flu shot anytime during the flu season can help protect you.

Flu season in North America rarely begins before early October and usually lasts from December to March. In the past two years, the peak activity has occurred around mid-to-late February. Your body needs two weeks after a shot to develop a protective response to the influenza virus, so your best bet is to get vaccinated before the flu rate begins to climb.

Workplaces and other settings that usually provide flu shots may not do so this season because of the challenges of maintaining social distancing. For more information on where you can get a flu vaccine, visit www.vaccinefinder.org.

When going to get a flu shot, please practice everyday preventive actions and follow the CDC's recommendations for running essential errands. Ask your doctor, pharmacist, or health department if they are following CDC's vaccination pandemic guidance. Any vaccination location following CDC's guidance should be a safe place for you to get a flu vaccine.

If you have a child over six months old who qualifies for Medicaid or the Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP), you may also qualify for a flu vaccination at no cost to you.

What's the difference between flu and COVID-19? Influenza (flu) and COVID-19 are both contagious respiratory illnesses, but they're caused by different viruses. COVID-19 is caused by infection with a new coronavirus (called SARS-CoV2) and flu is caused by infection with influenza viruses. Because some symptoms of flu and COVID-19 are similar, it may be hard to tell the difference between them based on symptoms alone, and testing may be needed to help confirm a diagnosis.

It is possible to have flu and COVID-19 at the same time. Health experts are still studying how common this can be.

The CDC has developed a test that will check for A- and B-type seasonal flu viruses and SARS-CoV2, the virus that causes COVID-19. This test will be used by U.S. public health laboratories. Testing for these viruses at the same time will give public health officials important information about how flu and COVID-19 are spreading and what preventive steps should be taken.

So please protect yourself, your family, and your community by getting a flu shot. Visit the doctor, pharmacy, or other local providers to get a flu shot today.

Retirement Travel Tips That Won't Break the Bank

Retirement ushers in a new stage in life, one in which adults have ample free time to pursue their interests and hobbies.

When eight or more hours per day are no longer allocated for work, those hours can be devoted to other pursuits. Retirees have the time to travel, and such exploration need not break the bank.

A 2014 MassMutual survey found that 72 percent of respondents reported feeling quite happy or extremely happy in retirement. Being able to travel when and where they desire may be a big component of this happiness. A study by Virtuoso found that travel factors significantly into the lives of today's seniors. They spend more on travel than any other generation — an average of $11,077 a year. Travel spending is at the highest among people between the ages of 75 and 79.

Learning how to get the most bang for your traveling buck can help retirees make travel more affordable.

- Avoid peak travel seasons. Many working families are restricted by school and work schedules, often limiting travel to summer and holiday breaks. The hospitality industry tends to raise their prices during these times of year. Retirees can travel any time they want. Booking trips during less busy times of year for tourism is a great way to save money.
- Consider a rental agreement. Retirees who want to travel for many weeks or even months out of the year may want to think about renting their homes while they are gone. The money earned in rent can help offset the costs of travel.

• Think about alternative living situations. Seeing the country and traveling most of the time may be more doable if retirees forego the house entirely and opt for different residences. Many recreational vehicles are large enough to be full-time homes. Simply park the RV in a new spot each month for a different perspective. House boats can be an option for the marine-minded.

• Try a repositioning cruise. Cruising is a popular form of travel for seniors. Investopedia says cruise lines offer discount repositioning cruise trips when they need to move ships from one port to another, usually during the off-season. Unlike typical cruises where a ship will return to the port of origin, a repositioning cruise stops at several ports on the way and ultimately docks in a new end destination.

• Find an inexpensive destination. For the cost of staying at a popular family resort for a week, you may be able to stay for double or triple the amount of time for about the same amount of money elsewhere. Weigh destinations carefully and compare costs. Think beyond the "popular" destinations around the world.

Travel is a favorite pastime for retirees. Cost-saving strategies can make travel more budget-friendly for seniors who want to spend more time exploring.

Getting vaccinated for the flu is more important than ever. Not only will a flu shot help keep you and your family healthy, it can help reduce the strain on the healthcare system and keep hospital beds and other medical resources available for people with coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19).

This is no ordinary flu season; it's a flu season amid a pandemic. With two dangerous viruses going around at once, it's time for people to protect their communities by getting the vaccine already available: the flu vaccine.

And people with Medicare are at greater risk for serious complications from flu. A flu shot is an important preventive tool for individuals with asthma, diabetes, and heart and lung disease - chronic conditions that can increase the risk for serious flu-related health complications or even death. It's the best protection from get-

DID YOU KNOW?

Many people plan to retire by a certain age, but few may actually still be working at their targeted retirement age. In the United States, the age at which working Americans expect to retire has risen to 66. But a Gallup poll showed that most don't stay on the job that long, instead retiring when they're about 60 or 61. In addition, according to a 2018 Employee Benefit Research Institute survey, 48 percent of workers wanted to retire after age 65, but only 19 percent of retirees stayed on the job that long. The reasons vary, but one positive outcome is having enough money to live comfortably during retirement. Still, early retirement largely involves unexpected scenarios. These may include poor health, having to care for an aging parent, downsizing, new skills required for the job, or other work-related reasons.

Healthy eating options for seniors

“Let food be thy medicine” is a quote attributed to Hippocrates, the ancient scholar considered to be the father of modern medicine. The saying relates to the notion that what people put in their bodies can heal and/or prevent certain conditions.

For seniors with medicine cabinets full of over-the-counter and prescription medications, the idea of relying predominantly on food to promote optimal health may be tempting, and various foods can be particularly useful to the 50-and-over demographic.

According to the World Health Organization, poor diet is a major contributor to many of the diseases that affect older people. Certain foods may be particularly helpful.

Brain-friendly foods: Foods such as avocado, leafy vegetables, sunflower seeds, blueberries, and salmon are good sources of vitamin E, antioxidants, omega-3 fatty acids, and other nutrients that may help ward off dementias like Alzheimer’s disease.

Anti-inflammatory foods: Foods rich in omega-3 fatty acids may help prevent inflammation that can cause cancer and rheumatoid arthritis.

Fruits and vegetables: Fresh, canned or frozen produce tend to be high in micronutrients, including a variety of important vitamins that are essential for all components of health. Eating dark green vegetables, such as leafy greens or broccoli, and orange vegetables is advised.

Energy-boosters: Choose whole grains that can provide sustained energy by way of healthy carbohydrates over processed grains.

Bone-friendly foods: Calcium-rich foods, such as milk, yogurt and cheese, can prevent calcium from being leached from the bones, which contributes to conditions like osteoporosis.

Digestive system-friendly foods: The digestive system slows down as the body ages, as the walls of the gastrointestinal tract thicken and digestive contractions that push waste along may slow down and become fewer. Foods rich in fiber can promote proper digestion by moving food through the digestive tract more easily.

High-iron foods: Without enough iron in the body, a person may feel tired and lethargic from a reduced production of hemoglobin, which carries oxygen in the blood from the lungs to the rest of the body. Tofu, spinach, lentils, pumpkin seeds, and fortified breads and cereals are high in iron.

Smart food choices can help seniors live long and healthy lives.

How to Help Aging Adults Adapt to Technology

Children, adolescents and young adults likely cannot imagine a life without modern technology. Technology may have pervaded every part of life in the 21st century, but it wasn't so long ago that phones were still attached to walls and people had to watch their favorite shows and films exclusively on televisions instead of having the option to watch them on devices like smartphones and tablets.

The transition to life in the age of technology went smoothly for most segments of the population, but some aging adults have had a more difficult time making the adjustment. That difficulty was apparent throughout the COVID-19 pan-

dem, when public health agencies like the World Health Organization and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention urged aging adults to limit interactions with people outside their homes. Such recommendations forced many seniors to communicate with their families exclusively over the phone or via video conferencing apps like Zoom.

If seniors have had a hard time adapting to technology, their families can try these strategies to make that transition go more smoothly.

- Go over product manuals with seniors. The senior care-giving experts at Home Care Assistance note that older adults are less likely to learn through experimentation than they are by reading instructions in the manual. When helping seniors learn to use new devices, go over the owner's manual with them as you set up the device. Mark important pages in the manual so seniors know where to go for quick answers if they experience any issues logging in or using certain apps.

- Look for senior-specific devices and guidebooks. Seniors make up an enormous segment of the population, and tech companies have long since recognized that there's a market for products designed specifically for aging men and women. When shopping for devices for seniors, look for those that have been designed to help them overcome issues that have proven problematic for aging adults in the past. Devices that feature touchscreens with large menus, easily accessible navigation tools and simplified features can help seniors as they learn to use new technology.

- Be patient. Some seniors are excited by the prospect of learning to use new technology, while others may be hesitant. Patience is essential when working with an aging loved one who's intimidated by technology. Take the time to explain apps and features and don't take it for granted that seniors will know how to use a device or recognize what a device can do.

Today's seniors may not have grown up with technology at their fingertips, but they can still learn to use devices to their advantage.

How Expenses Can Change During Retirement

Work is a major component of daily life, so much so that Andrew Naber, an industrial and organizational psychologist and an associate behavioral scientist at RAND Corp., determined that the average person spends 90,000 hours at work over the course of his or her lifetime. According to a 2014 Gallup poll, the average American retires at age 62, but roughly 64 percent of professionals bid farewell to the workplace between ages 55 and 65.

Retirees must make a number of adjustments once they call it a career. No such adjustment is as significant as the financial one. Most people find their post-retirement income is considerably less than when they were working full-time. That is why financial planners often recommend saving and investing enough during working years to be able to replace 80 percent of preretirement income. Certain expenses get lower after retirement, but some will rise. Here's a look at what to expect when the bills come due during retirement.

- Food costs: Food costs may go down in retirement because shopping and preparing meals for one or two people is much less costly than feeding a family of four or more. However, dining out may increase as you have more free time to visit local eateries.

- Automotive costs: According to data from the U.S. Department of Transportation, the average commuter spends 25.8 minutes behind the wheel twice a day, and the average driver puts in 13,474 miles behind the wheel each year — with people between the ages of 35 and 54 clocking close to 15,000 miles. Less time spent in the car means fewer gasoline fill-ups and longer durations between oil changes and other services. Without commuting, that cash stays in your pocket.

- Taxes: Many people can expect to be done paying federal income taxes when they are retired and no longer earning an income. If the majority of retirement savings were in Roth IRA accounts, contributions are available for withdrawal tax- and penalty-free at any age.
- Housing: Your mortgage may be paid off before or soon after retirement. That eliminates the single largest expense in many people's budgets. If your home will not be paid off, it's possible to downsize to reduce monthly payments.

- Travel: While many other expenses can go down, travel is one expense that can shoot up during retirement. But many people are happy to bear this cost. With more time for travel, retirees may allocate more funds toward vacations and other great escapes.
- Health care: Seniors often see their health care needs and costs go up after retirement. It's important to understand what is covered by health plans, and it's equally important to set money aside for unforeseen medical expenses.

Many costs of living decrease after retirement. However, it is wise to take in the whole picture to understand how to budget for retirement.

Lincoln Presidential Library Joins with State Board of Education for Art Contest

Illinois children can showcase their artistic talents and consider the importance of art in our lives, thanks to a statewide art contest sponsored by the Abraham Lincoln Presidential Library and Museum and the Illinois State Board of Education.

The theme of the contest is "Art Surrounds Us." Illinois students from kindergarten through high school can let their imaginations run wild to create original works of art reflecting what the theme means to them.

Judging will occur across four levels: K-2, 3-5, 6-8, and 9-12. In each level, a winner and three runners-up will be selected, and one piece will be selected as "Best in Show."

The 16 top designs will be displayed by the Abraham Lincoln Presidential Library and

Abraham Lincoln
PRESIDENTIAL LIBRARY AND MUSEUM

Museum, and a single winner will be used as a poster sent to all schools during Illinois Arts Education Week, March 15-19.

Artwork may be submitted now through Feb. 12. The winners will be announced in conjunction with Illinois Arts Education Week. The winner of

"Best in Show" will also be recognized at an ISBE Board meeting and a framed copy of their work will hang in the Board office.

Submissions must be 11 inches by 14 inches and two dimensional. They cannot feature copyrighted characters or images. More details are available at bit.ly/ALPLM-ArtContest.

The Abraham Lincoln Presidential Library and Museum, at 212 N. Sixth St. in Springfield, is dedicated to telling the story of America's 16th president through old-fashioned scholarship and modern technology.

The library holds an unparalleled collection of Lincoln books, documents, photographs, artifacts and art, as well as millions of other items pertaining to Illinois history. Meanwhile, the museum uses traditional exhibits, eye-catching special effects, and innovative story-telling techniques to educate visitors.

For more information, visit presidentlincoln.illinois.gov or follow them on Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram.
