GSW Building Committee Discusses Projects and Needs

The Building Committee of the Gardner South Wilmington High School met to discuss facility projects and building needs. Members of the Committee in attendance were Craig Male and Joe Elens. Also in attendance were Board President David Doglio and Superintendent Mike Perrott.

Craig Male reported the status of the current sewer line project. Although the sewer line has been put in the ground on the north side of the building there is still some concrete work that needs to be completed. When the weather cooperates a new concrete pad can be poured at the main entrance of the school. Until the project is complete the public has to enter through door fourteen on the south side of the building by the tennis courts.

Male pointed out that additional work may be needed in the building to replace waste lines that were not included in the scope of work from last summer's renovation project. This project is being reviewed and will have to be scheduled for the summer.

The committee reviewed items that were mentioned during the annual building inspection by the Regional Office of Education. Perrott stated that there are plans to address the few items that showed up on the report. New door releases for the cafeteria doors and running power to ceiling mounted projectors will be addressed.

Board Member Joe Elens pointed out repairs that need to be made to the doors that exit from the gymnasium to the corridor. Perrott was instructed to contact a contractor to look into the needed repairs to the door hardware. Joe Elens also commented that several community members appreciate the installation of handrails in the gym balcony and the additional handicapped parking.

President Doglio encouraged Perrott to continue to work with the maintenance staff to address the minor building issues that were identified. Perrott was also asked to create a timeline for initiating and completing building repair and improvements that were discussed for presentation to the Board of Education at a regular meeting.

Perrott indicated that he was hesitant to begin projects due to the lack of revenue received into the Operations / Maintenance fund. Perrott stated that, "because the Village of Gardner has not forwarded $420,000 of TIF funds owed to the school, many of the needed projects cannot be started. Right now we don't have the money to start some of these projects. It looks like the Village will delay funds owed to the district and delay projects that we need to begin. Summer work may also be delayed or not started."

Super Evan vs. The Evil C. Monster

growing out of control. They clumped up around his thymus gland and caused that mass that pushed up against his airway. That's why his lungs sounded clear even though he was having trouble breathing. Mystery solved. Treatment to continue.

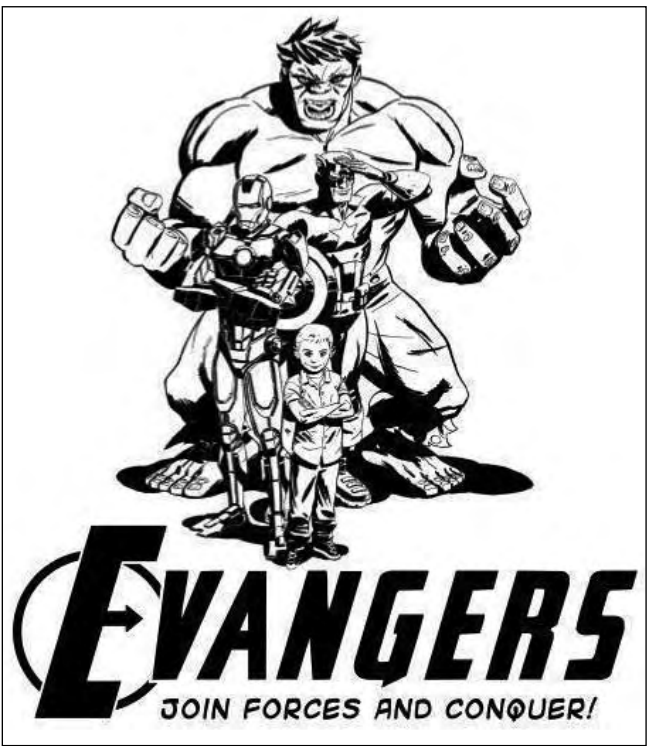

Chemotherapy is the only treatment for this monster. Surgery is not necessary. They placed Evan in Pediatric Intensive Care for a few days and then moved him to the Oncology unit where he would undergo chemotherapy. Within a week, the mass had shrunk and almost completely disappeared. But the fight would have to continue. Leukemia is considered a “smart” form of cancer that will hide out and try to manipulate around the chemotherapy treatments. So Evan will have to continue several forms of chemotherapy for the next three years to beat this monster. But beat it he will, because Evan is no longer just a sweet little six-year-old. Evan has transformed into a hero. Evan is now SUPER EVAN, and with the support from family and friends known as THE EVANGERS, SUPER EVAN will conquer THE EVIL C. MONSTER.

WHAT CAN WE DO?

Because we live in a community and area where good people actually care about each other to an unparalleled degree, this is always the first question you will hear in time of sickness and strife. We all feel a little better knowing we played a part in someone's recovery. Luckily, we have opportunities to help the Sandeno family too. Prayers and well wishes are as always encouraged and appreciated, but you may also decide to become one of SUPER EVAN's EVANGERS. You can go online to evanstshirt.storenvy.com and preorder a very cool t-shirt with the EVANGER logo. The cost of the shirt is $15.00 and proceeds will go directly to the Sandeno family.

You may also decide to attend a benefit for SUPER EVAN on March 16 of this year. Fellow EVANGERS will be hosting a Vegas Night at St. Patrick's Parish Hall. A cornbeef and cabbage dinner will be served to all the leprechauns out there with a night of spirits and Las Vegas type games to follow. More information will become available soon in The Paper. The family will need to travel a lot back and forth in the next few years, and so gas cards are also always a good way to help.

In the meantime, we will keep you posted on our hero's progress and upcoming needs. Keep up the good fight SUPER EVAN, and you will soon be flying high once again. Up, Up and Away!

Financial Gifts for Long-time Valentines

Love is in the air this week, as Valentine's Day rolls around again. During the course of your life, you've probably sent your share of flowers and candy. But if your valentine is also your spouse — and, in particular, your long-time spouse — you may want to go beyond roses and chocolates this year to give a gift that can help lead to financial security.

You can choose to make financial gifts in a number of ways, of course, and some of them could provide an immediate financial impact. But you may want to look even further down the road and consider what you can do for your spouse in the areas of insurance planning and estate considerations.

For starters, do you have sufficient life insurance to help provide for your spouse and any children who may not yet be adults? Many people rely solely on their employers' group insurance, which is often insufficient to adequately cover all the costs associated with maintaining their families' lifestyles — not to mention future costs, such as paying for college. How much life insurance do you need? There's no one right answer for everyone, so you may wish to consult with your financial advisor.

Life insurance isn't the only type of protection you need to consider — because you don't have to die to lose your income. In fact, statistically speaking, you are more likely to become disabled during your working years than you are to die — which is why you need adequate disability income insurance. Your employer may provide disability coverage, but, as was the case with life insurance, it may not be sufficient. So you may also need to consider adding a private policy.

While it's important to maintain adequate life and disability insurance, it's still not enough to ensure your spouse will be taken care of if he or she outlives you. You also need to ensure that your estate plans are in order.

Toward that goal, you will need to work with your legal advisor to create the necessary legal documents, such as a will, a living trust, a durable power of attorney or whatever other arrangements may be appropriate for your situation. In generating your estate plan, you must consider many factors: the amount of assets you have, how you want them divided, when you would like them distributed, and so on. In any case, estate planning can be complex, so you will need to work with your legal and tax advisors before putting any strategy into place.

Life insurance, disability income insurance and an estate plan don't sound like particularly romantic gifts. And you can't really just "give" them on Valentine's Day because it will take some time to assemble the insurance coverage and estate planning arrangements you need. But if you haven't fully worked on these key parts of your financial strategy yet, perhaps Valentine's Day will be a good time to start — because once you've got all your protection needs and estate planning taken care of, you're really giving your valentine some gifts that are designed to last a lifetime.

Edward Jones, its employees and financial advisors are not estate planners and cannot provide tax or legal advice. You should consult your estate-planning attorney or qualified tax advisor regarding your situation.

This article was written by Edward Jones for use by your local Edward Jones Financial Advisor.

Minutes with Boma

Grammys

I’m a pretty big music listener, and last night the Grammys were on, as some of you may have watched as well. It was a relatively uneventful night as far as the Grammy Awards go, but still entertaining. It’s really interesting to see bands like Mumford & Sons and The Lumineers reach this type of fame. It’s sort of a folk/rock kind of sound, but bands like that are really starting to come to the forefront of music.

It’s cool to see music getting back to it’s roots with just an acoustic guitar and a couple voices. Another cool story of the night was the band fun. Yes, that’s the name of the band. They went home last night with a couple of Grammys, one of which was best new artist. The interesting thing was that earlier in the night, after they received one award, instead of getting up there and acting like this was an easy ride, they revealed to everyone that they had been a band for 12 years prior to this year. Their hit song, “We Are Young,” becomes even more ironic due to the fact that most of the guys are in their mid-thirties. Also the fact that they received the best new artist was slightly confusing. All this aside though, the idea behind them making music and doing something they love for 12, going on 13 years, and now having it finally pay off is really something cool to see.

It’s kind of spitting in the face of people who tell you not to chase what you love because it won’t pay off. It might not pay off right away, but if you’re doing something that you truly enjoy, then it’s not a job. That’s probably how they looked at it as they were sleeping on their parents’ couches for some of those years. They loved what they were doing, so it was okay.

It’s good to hear a story like this in a society where we’re often pressured to take the safe route in terms of employment.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

OBITUARIES

Show Your Support

It is amazing to see how wonderfully proud and supportive Dwight and The Paper are of their current and former athletes and all other school functions. I read your paper from front to back each and every week. I have even saved more than a few copies with some proud stories about my children who graduated from GSW High School. I read the story February 6, 2013 - Village of Gardner Postpones $420,000 Payment to GSW High School. So I just have a couple of questions to pose to the Village Board of Gardner. Why can't you support and be proud of our schools and their functions? Why would you waste money that could be spent on children, and not attorney fees and litigation? Judge Marsaglia has ruled, give them the money!!!

Thanks for listening,
Theresa Gallup

Scratch Off Alaska!

We were out of town and I just recently read the article of the visitors to Becker Center. I just thought I'd let you know that they DID miss Alaska. This summer while passing through, my in-laws from Alaska and I stopped at the station, but it wasn't opened. Formerly of Kempton, Derral and Rita Godbee have lived in Willow, AK since 2001. So you can scratch off AK for 2012!

2013 Crop Outlook

by Phil McArdle
McArdle Grain & Commodities

Will we plant more corn in 2013?

Most world grain traders would like U.S producers to increase corn acres and depend on South American farmers to increase supply of soybeans. At the present time, we are expecting South America to produce a record soybean crop although we do see some problem areas in Argentina.

Over the next six weeks, planting decisions will be finalized, with the main question being "how many acres of corn will be planted?" Corn needs to be planted on high-productivity land so in most cases the extra acres of corn usually come at expense of soybeans. At today's prices corn is projected to be more profitable in 2013 than soybeans. While this may be true for 2013 we need to look at what effect this will have on future years. Planting more or all corn in 2013 may result in lower returns for 2014 because we would be planting fewer or no acres of corn following soybeans, of course we expect to get a yield boost for corn following soybeans.

How do we anticipate 2013 net farm income to compare to average income?

Given today's (February 5) future prices, we could expect harvest prices of $5.80 corn and $13.20 soybeans. Using these prices and University of Illinois' table of costs the result will most likely be above average net income.

Should you be pricing some of your 2013 production?

We think so – today's prices are well above values one year ago. Corn is $.60 per bushel higher, soybeans $2.75 per bushel higher and wheat is a dollar or so above last year. And this year, we anticipate South America to produce 30 million metric tonnes more soybean than last year. At the present time Brazil, known for soybeans, is actually expecting more corn than we are. So competition is heating up this year.

Most analysts conclude that grain and oil seed prices still carry considerable premium just in fear of what happened last year. There is also a little weather premium built into 2013 prices. A lot of talk about how dry subsoils across the corn belt are and worries that summer could be hot and dry. If we receive or even get forecasts of improved moisture prospects in coming weeks that weather premium will evaporate quickly.

In summary, with the extremely tight supplies of corn and soybeans here and around the world we don't expect a drop in prices until traders are fairly confident that the 2013 crop is made. Prices are still at near record highs for cash and we will continue to see wide fluctuations on every bit of market news that comes out. The next major market mover will be spring planting weather. That spring weather will go a long ways toward determining how many acres of corn and beans get planted and what kind of a start the crops get off to. I know we have a lot of weather to get through before crop is made but don't overlook today's prices of new crop corn or beans.

FFA Fight Hunger = Free Admission to DTHS Basketball Game

On Friday February 15th at the Dwight JV and Varsity basketball games, the Dwight FFA chapter will host a fight hunger event.

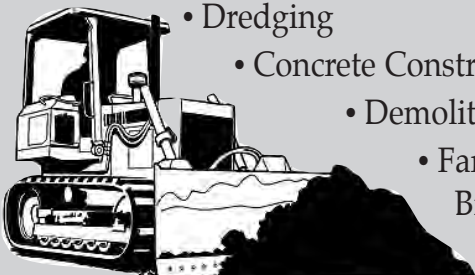

Bring two or more canned food items to the game and admission is free. This event is part of a nationwide campaign by the National FFA's Feeding the World-Starting at Home initiative.

This program is a compelling educational movement to help students understand the issues and effects of hunger. Students then take action to support the human right to safe, affordable, abundant and nutritious food as a means of reducing hunger at home and abroad, starting with a look at the U.S. The first step is to educate students about domestic and global food insecurity. The second is to organize hunger relief efforts that give FFA members opportunities to apply what they have learned to fight hunger and promote food security for all.

Local FFA Chapter Attends 212 Conference

Members of the Dwight FFA Chapter attended the National FFA Organization's 212 Conference at the Chicago Marriott Schaumburg Hotel on January 25 and 26.

The two-day 212 Conference personal development program helped students learn skills for personal growth and how to set and achieve goals. The conference also featured a self-discovery workshop designed to help members find their own passions for success in life.

Illinois held two 212 Conferences with 437 FFA members attending the conference in Schaumburg and another 268 attending the 212 Conference held in Collinsville. The conference is open to freshman and sophomore FFA members.

212 program staff members are college students who are former state or national FFA officers. Many staff members have also worked as counselors for the Washington Leadership Conference, FFA's national leadership seminar held in Washington D.C. each summer.

FFA is a national organization, of over 540,000 members, developing each student's potential for premier leadership, personal growth and career success through agricultural education. Local, state and national activities and award programs provide opportunities for students to apply knowledge and skills acquired through agricultural education.

Are Cover Crops the Future of Agriculture?

by Matthew Boucher
Are Cover Crops the Future of Agriculture?

While driving through the country side late this summer, you may have spotted a yellow airplane or two crop dusting a farmer's corn or bean field. These days, that isn't too uncommon of a sight; however did you know some of those planes aren't crop dusters at all? A few of these "Air Tractors", as they have been nicknamed, are set up to plant seeds in the farmer's fields.

These unique planes are equipped handle large amounts of small seeds, called Cover Crops, and spread them evenly and accurately across the farmer's fields. These seeds are planted at the end of August into mid September, into standing corn or bean fields, where they will grow and produce many benefits to the farmer and the environment as well.

So what is a Cover Crop? Brian Scott, an Indiana farmer who posts about cover crops and his farm, at www.thefarmerslife.wordpress.com puts it best, "It [the plants] covers the soil during the period between the time you harvest one crop and plant the next."

So why would a farmer plant a Cover Crop? There is a list of reasons to plant a cover crop like reducing tillage, reducing chemical applications, reducing fuel

This Highland Township field, above, was growing corn in 2012 when it was over seeded with Annual Rye Grass in September of 2012. After the corn crop was harvested, a lush healthy field of green grass remained.

The Tillage Radish, right, helps the soil retain nutrients.

costs and reducing overall input costs all while potentially raising the Corn or Soybean Crops yield. In Brian's latest post on Cover Crops "Farming Smarter With Cover Crops" he states "Cover crops provide erosion control, improve soil structure, increase organic matter, scavenge soil nutrients, suppress weeds and pests, and some can be used as forage for livestock." For instance, when the Rye Grass shown in the picture above is only 2" tall, its roots can be as many as 3' deep. When these roots die off over the winter, they will leave channels in the ground allowing excess water to penetrate the soil rather than stay atop the ground which can cause compaction, nutrient runoff and could potentially damage the following crop.

Some other examples of Cover Crops are, Cereal Rye Grass which has been proven to have a detrimental effect on soybean pests and can be used for livestock forage, Crimson Clover which can naturally produce nitrogen benefiting the following years corn crop and the commonly used Tillage Radish (pictured below) which loosens up the soils, helps the soil retain its nutrients and can also provide forage for livestock.

This Tillage Radish was planted in September and picked after the farmer's crop was harvested. As the radish grows it takes in nutrients from the soil (preventing them from leaching out of the field) which will be released back into the soils after the Radish dies over the winter months. In the spring, all that will remain in the field is a loose seed bed filled with nutrients that is ready for the following years crop to be planted.

Cover Crops are still fairly new to Midwestern farmers and time will tell if they will be the next big thing in Agriculture, but they are catching on. Their wide array of benefits is beginning to be realized by many more farmers every year. If you would like to learn more about Cover Crops, please visit www.plantcovercrops.com or talk to your local Agricultural Retailer.

Livingston County Pheasants Forever Banquet March 18

The Livingston County Pheasants Forever chapter is holding its annual fund-raising banquet on Monday, March 18, at the Pontiac Elks Club. The doors open at 5 p.m., with dinner served at 6.

Doug Wessels, Livingston County chapter president, said the banquet is the single most important fund-raising event during the year. Everyone concerned with local ring-necked pheasants and wildlife populations in general is encouraged to attend. There will be good food, good prizes, and fun for everyone.

“Attending a Pheasants Forever banquet is an excellent way to contribute to a good cause because your county chapter retains all of the money (exclusive of membership fees) we raise and uses this money for habitat work with farmers and landowners in our immediate area,” Wessels said. “We are trying to put more focus on creating more opportunities for youth in our county to get involved with Pheasants Forever through programs geared to the younger generation this year. We plan to have some activities geared for the kids.”

According to Wessels, Pheasants Forever committee members will soon be calling on conservation-minded individuals in the county to help support the banquet. For more information on the banquet or Pheasants Forever, contact Dick Vaughan at 815-657-8650; Steve Weeks at 815-692-2302; Doug at 815-657-8682; or Mike Oughton at 815-467-0011.

If you need an order form for banquet tickets, you will be able to print from the following web pages: <http://livingstoncountypheasantsforever.org/> and <http://pheasantsforever.org/>

GROWMARK System Acquires Meier Oil Products, Inc. and Manito Transit

GROWMARK, Inc., Bloomington, Illinois, has acquired Meier Oil Products, Inc., and Manito Transit. Meier Oil Products, Inc. and Manito Transit had been a family owned business since 1936 and their business has consisted of a trucking company, a fuel terminal facility in Ashkum and bulk fuel facilities at Kankakee, Pontiac, Sheldon and Champaign.

Kevin Carroll, GROWMARK vice president, Energy, said the acquisition strengthens the GROWMARK System through collaboration between Evergreen FS, Heritage FS and Illini FS and GROWMARK Energy. "This will allow our local companies to work more efficiently as part of the broader GROWMARK System to serve this expanded market. We have a strong heritage of being a reliable supplier of refined and renewable fuels and lubricants. Adding the Meier Oil business enhances our heritage and provides customers ongoing access to quality products," he said.

Mike Meier, President of Meier Oil Products, noted the transaction reinforces his family's commitment to the community and to superior customer service. "GROWMARK, Illini FS, Evergreen FS, and Heritage FS are cooperatives and respected members of the industry and communities we serve. As such, they share our commitment to our employees and to providing quality products at competitive prices. We are honored our customers will have access to a reliable supply of products and can count on ongoing quality customer service," he said.

GROWMARK is a regional cooperative with annual sales of $10.1 billion (FY 2012 data) providing agriculture-related products and services and grain marketing in the Midwest and Ontario, Canada. FS brand farm supplies and related services are also marketed to farmers in the northeastern United States and by GROWMARK subsidiaries. Evergreen FS is headquartered in Bloomington; Heritage FS is headquartered in Gilman; and Illini FS is headquartered in Urbana.

Connecting Communities

by Lucas Nelson

Rural communities often struggle to find new and readily available economic opportunities. In the past decade, however, a new source of employment and revenue has seen fantastic growth. It seems the answer was blowin' in the wind. Renewable energy, especially wind energy, has proved to be a very successful venture. Investment in wind energy helps rural areas immensely. It provides employment, and various types of revenue can flow into a community from a project.

Construction of wind farms require locally available materials and component parts that are manufactured in the U.S. And the tax revenue from wind farms goes back into counties--meaning more money for schools and other community services. Although replete with natural resources and space, there are obstacles to taking full advantage of the potential that wind energy represents. The primary obstacle is one of connection. Production from wind farms can sometimes be too great for nearby communities, and the infrastructure to move that energy elsewhere is either inadequate or missing altogether. Improved transmission infrastructure is essential to alleviating this restriction.

A higher capacity grid means the wind farms have a place to send what would have been excess energy to places that need it. With more outlets to send energy, turbines can be allowed to reach their full potential. Transmission projects are sprouting up across the Midwest, and getting involved with these projects will help rural people insure they get connected to economic opportunity.

Drought Tolerant Annuals at Prairie Creek Library

Are you the gardener who plants a lot of beautiful flowers in the spring and then your dedication starts to diminish as the temperature rises? Did you have problems last year watering your annuals during the drought?

Go to Prairie Creek Public Library, 501 Carriage House Lane in Dwight, on February 28 at 6:30 p.m. to learn about several colorful and easy to grow drought tolerant annuals from Extension Horticulture Educator, Kelly Allsup. She will also demonstrate how to take care of them and ways to reduce water use in your garden.

2013 Kankakee County Vegetable School

Production of vegetables and fruits continues to face many challenges. What are the appropriate technologies to combat these challenges? Listen to researchers and growers talk about fruit and vegetable diseases and pests, weed management, fertility issues, commodity marketing using social media, and other topics including a question and answer session.

The 2013 Kankakee County Vegetable Growers School will be held on Tuesday, February 26, from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. at University of Illinois, Kankakee County, 1650 Commerce Drive, Bourbonnais. A pre-registration fee, which includes lunch and handout materials, is required by February 22.

Call James Theuri, University of Illinois Extension, Kankakee County at 815-933-8337 for more information or check the website: <http://web.extension.illinois.edu/gkw>.

University of Illinois Extension provides equal opportunities in programs and employment. If you need a reasonable accommodation to participate in this program, contact the Unit Office at least two weeks prior to the event. University of Illinois Extension offers practical, research-based programs that help people improve their lives and address critical community issues involving youth, families, economics, health and natural resources.

DTHS TROJANS BASKETBALL

Monday, February 4
Dwight vs. Reed-Custer
JV -
Coal City Sophomore
Tournament

Owen Pulver's 15 points helped Dwight edge out Reed-Custer in the Coal City Sophomore Tournament on February 4, earning the Trojans a trip to the tourney championship.

Devin Connolly, Chris Peck and Colton Fieldman each had five points. Drew Jensen and Drew Travers scored four each. Ryan Gaston scored three. Blaine Livingston put in two. Jayson Powell hit a free throw.

Tuesday, February 5
Dwight vs. Reed-Custer
Freshmen -

Dwight's freshmen boys took it to Reed-Custer, grabbing a 59-29 win on February 5.

"Our defense once again set the tone early and we were able to handle their uptempo style of play," commented Coach Wyllie. "We had a couple guys reach season highs in scoring, which was nice to see."

Drew Travers led Dwight with 19. Peter Hansen scored 12. Connor Gantzert put in ten. Blaine Livingston had eight. Conor Livingston and Trimi Asllani scored two each.

"This was another overall team win for us," Wyllie added.

JV -
In their second meeting in as many days, Reed-Custer's JV team capitalized on a dismal Dwight performance, as the Trojans fell 70-37 on February 5.

Drew Travers led with 11. Colton Fieldman scored six. Chris Peck added five. Ryan Gaston and Conor Livingston each had four. Jayson Powell had three. Damian Flood and Owen Pulver had two points each.

Dwight's JV squad is now 16-8 on the season and 5-4 in the I-8.

Varsity -

The varsity Trojans stepped up against Reed-Custer on February 5, winning 78-57, led by senior Blake Huseman's 30-point game.

"It sounds strange to say that when a player makes eight threes that he had an off night shooting, but Blake actually had several threes go in and out, and could have easily made 12 in this game," said Coach Long in the postgame. "That's how good of a shooter he is." Huseman was 10-24 on the night, eight of which being trifectas.

"Carson Banks and Triston Dircks both had great games on the offensive end and on the boards," Long added. "Caleb Boma did an outstanding job running our offense versus some intense pressure."

Banks ended up with 16 on 6-8 shooting. Dircks scored 12. Owen Pulver put up six points. Kiefer Kious and Riley Christoff each had four. Devin Connolly added three. Caleb Boma connected on two free throws.

"Tonight was a great team win from a defensive, rebounding and offensive execution standpoint," said Long. Dwight is now 8-17 overall and 3-6 in the I-8.

Wednesday, February 6
Dwight vs. Elmhurst
(Immaculate Conception)
Freshmen -
Lisle Freshmen Tournament

Dwight's young Trojans were defeated by Elmhurst

(Immaculate Conception), 57-43, during the first round of the Lisle Freshmen Tournament on February 7.

"Offensively we struggled shooting from the outside. Defensively we did not rebound well, which led to second chance points for them," stated Coach Wyllie.

Drew Travers led Dwight with 18. Conor Livingston had 12. Jace Kennedy put in eight. Blaine Livingston scored three. Michael Bennett had two.

Thursday, February 7
Dwight vs. Sandwich
Freshmen -

Dwight's youngsters pulled out a 42-26 win over Sandwich on February 7.

Drew Travers led the way with 21. Jace Kennedy had 11. Conor Livingston scored six. Blaine Livingston and Michael Bennett added two.

"It was sloppy, but a win is a win," said Coach Wyllie afterwards. "This was our last conference game of the year, which we finished 9-2. Anytime you can win that many games in the Interstate 8, you are doing something right. Hats off to our guys for having such a good conference season."

Dwight's freshmen are now 15-6 overall.

Dwight vs. Plano
JV -
Coal City Tournament

Plano knocked off Dwight, 51-28, in the championship game of the Coal City Tournament, earning the Trojans a second place nod.

PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN
(Never known to fail)

Oh most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh, Star of the Sea, help me and show me herein you are my Mother, Oh, Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in this necessity. There are none that can withstand your power. Oh, show me herein you are my Mother, Oh, Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse in thee (3x). Holy Mother, I place this cause in your hands (3x).

Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, light all roads so that I can attain my goal. You who gave me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and that in all instances in my life you are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things as you confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy towards me and mine.

The Person must say this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3 days the request will be granted. This prayer must be published after the favor is granted.
