Proudly serving the area since 1999

Wednesday, November 12, 2014

The Tomb of the Unknown Soldier Program November 18 in Dwight

The Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National Cemetery stands atop a hill overlooking Washington, D.C. On March 4, 1921, Congress approved the burial of an unidentified American soldier from World War I in the plaza of the new Memorial Amphitheater. Inscribed on the back of the Tomb are the words:

*Here rests
in honored glory
an American soldier known but to God.*

Members of the Dwight Woman's Club and the Dwight VFW Auxiliary are welcoming community members to attend an evening with Matt Kreeb, a veteran who served in the U.S. Army from 2001-2005 as a Guard of the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery. Kreeb will be speaking about Arlington, the Tomb, and the real life applications of the lessons he learned while serving as a Tomb Guard.

Now a civilian, Matt Kreeb works in a real estate business and Christian ministries. He is a graduate of Eastern Illinois University and Lincoln Christian Seminary. Kreeb and his wife, Jessica, raise their three daughters in Fisher.

Open to the public, the program will begin at 6:00 p.m. on Tuesday, November 18, at the VFW Hall.

There is no charge for the program, however donations

Mid-Term Election Results

by Scott R. Schultz

After what has seemed like an endless parade of political flyers filling our mailboxes, and a never-ending barrage of negative television commercials, the Illinois general election of 2014 has finally come and gone.

Concluding a twelve year run of the Illinois Democrat's control over the state's highest office, Republican Bruce Rauner defeated incumbent Governor Pat Quinn by nearly a five percent margin. Governor-elect Rauner will assume control in Springfield on January 12, 2015. Judy Baar-Topinka overcame a challenge for her Comptroller position, and Secretary of State Jesse White and Attorney General Lisa Madigan also retained their positions. In the race for state Treasurer to replace outgoing Treasurer Dan Rutherford, Tom Cross holds an extremely narrow lead over Democrat Michael Frerichs. At presstime, the race was still too close to call.

Democrat incumbent Dick Durbin easily retained the seat in the U.S. Senate he has held for the past three terms. In the Congressional race for the sixteenth district, Adam Kinzinger also easily retained his seat.

In the Livingston County State House races, voters in the 76th district chose to keep Frank Mautino in office. Tom Bennett was successful in his bid to fill the seat in the 106th district left vacant when Josh Harms chose not to seek another term.

In Kankakee County's 2nd Congressional district, Robin Kelly retained her seat. In the state house, voters in the 79th district had to select from two first time candidates, with Democrat Katherine Cloonan holding a twelve vote lead over Republican Glenn Nixon while awaiting absentee and provisional ballots to be factored into the final tally. While in the 34th district incumbent Elgie Sims was successful in his bid to retain his seat.

Over in the countywide races in Grundy County, incumbents Sheriff Kevin Callahan and Clerk Kay Olson were successful in retaining their seats, while challenger Lori Werden will assume the Treasurer's position.

For the proposed Amendments to the Illinois Constitution, both the Crime Victims Bill of Rights and the Right to Vote amendments passed.

At last, our televisions, radios, and telephones are finally free of political advertisements. Now we can get ready for the blizzard of Holiday ads.

Free Electronic Recycling Event

The Village of Dwight is sponsoring a FREE Electronic Recycling Event at the Dwight Public Works Garage, located at 712 S. Old Route 66, Dwight, on Saturday, November 22, from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m.

Electronic waste is obsolete electronic equipment such as computers, televisions and cell phones that are being discarded, and all will be accepted on November 22. Because of new regulations only one television per car will be accepted, and a second T.V. will be charged.

Your Neighbors Need Your Help!

Once again, St. Peter's Lutheran Church, the Dwight Community and the Salvation Army have joined forces to raise money that will be used to help your neighbors in 2015, right here in Dwight.

It is an annual event that has been used to help many people in need to pay some of their daily expenses. Last year the "Kettle Drive" raised over four thousand dollars.

It is time to ask for volunteers to "man the kettles" and ring the Salvation Army bells this year to make sure St. Peter's has the funds to assist those when the need arises. The church is asking for just an hour or two of time to help them fill the hours that are scheduled at the three locations where the kettles will be located - Shopko, Family Dollar, and the BP Amoco Station on the north edge of Dwight.

These Dwight area businesses have agreed to let the church and its volunteers stand at their business entrances to seek donations, which the church greatly appreciates.

Anyone that can find it in their busy holiday schedule to help, it will be a very rewarding experience; the warm feeling it will surely instill in the heart will truly help those who volunteer realize the true meaning of Christmas. The "Kettle Drive" will be on the four weekends between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Please call Gene Mortensen at 815-584-2523 or Lynne Cronin at 815-584-1106 and schedule an hour (or two) early to be able to choose the location and time slot that best fits your schedule. It also makes the task of filling all the time slots a little easier.

Free Smoke Detector Program for Dwight Residents

The Dwight Fire Protection District recently announced the start of a new program offered through the Illinois State Fire Marshal, that allows them to offer Dwight residents to participate in a free smoke detector program.

This program is funded through the state and is 100% free to all Dwight residents who are in need of a smoke detector.

The detectors, provided by the State Fire Marshal, are that of only smoke detection, not any other harmful gas such as carbon monoxide.

The members of the Dwight Fire Protection District are excited for the new program and are eager to help families get the warning that is needed to help save lives and property.

Anyone who is interested in the program can visit www.dwightfire.org and click on the "Free Smoke Alarm Request Form" to fill out the needed application, or you may call the station at 815-584-2373, ext. 10, and leave a message for Captain Andrew Kelson.

Applications will be processed in the order that they are received.

Dwight Fire also reminds everyone that the smoke detectors and carbon monoxide detectors operate off of batteries, even when hard-wired. It is essential to change the batteries at regular intervals as suggested by the manufacturer. They strongly recommend changing the batteries in your detectors throughout your home every time you change your clocks. Remember, "Change your clocks, Change your batteries."

Dwight Groups Collaborations Assist in Food Pantry Donation

The Dwight Community Youth Helpers and Dwight United Methodist Church made a big difference with a food drive that took place on November 1.

Both groups would like to say how much they appreciated all those who donated food. The food was then taken to the Dwight Food Pantry to help people for the holiday seasons.

The collaboration between Dwight United Methodist Church and Dwight Community Youth Helpers consisted of Christopher Williams, Breanna Dilday, Tyler Gutzman, Moe Fleetwood, Jennifer Williams, Melinda Gutzman, and Darrell and Donna Roland.

See It, Hear It, Report It

The Dwight Police Department has responded once again to numerous complaints of vandalism and thefts. "We need the help of citizens to report these incidents. All too often people just go about their business and don't notify the Dwight Police Department. The sooner we are made aware of these incidents the more likely we can recover evidence required to convict the perpetrators," Det. Beier explained. "When you see something suspicious, please call immediately. When you hear something unusual please call immediately."

The Dwight Police Department is also asking for any resident or business that has video surveillance to contact them.

"We are attempting to make a list of places where video surveillance is being used. This will assist us in generating much needed leads to convict these perpetrators. We must have the cooperation of the citizens to make our community safer," Det. Beier stated. Let's work together and make Dwight a safer place to live.

You may call the Dwight Police Department at 815-584-3132 and speak to Records Clerk Vicki Ryan or Det. Beier about your surveillance system. Thanks for your assistance in this matter.

Sex Offenders in Livingston County Targeted for Verification

On October 29, federal, state and local authorities combined forces in Pontiac in an effort to verify 73 registered sex offenders throughout Livingston County.

Agents and officers from the United States Marshals Service, Illinois State Police, DHS-Immigration Customs Enforcement, Illinois Department of Corrections-Parole, Livingston County Probation, Livingston County Sheriff's Department, Livingston County State's Attorney's Office, Pontiac Police Department and Fairbury Police Department participated in this multi-jurisdictional compliance operation dubbed Operation Clean Sweep.

The main focus of this initiative was to locate and verify every registered sex offender residing in the county for the purpose of ensuring compliance in accordance with the United States Marshals Service mandate of the Adam Walsh Child Protection Safety Act of 2006.

A total of 73 sex offenders were targeted to ensure their addresses and employment were correctly reported. Sixty-two were found compliant, six were non-compliant, two were arrested for registration violations, two Adam Walsh investigations were initiated by the United States Marshals Service and five are under further investigation. It's anticipated that following further investigation by federal, state and local authorities, several additional arrest warrants will be issued by the Livingston County State's Attorney's Office.

Conducting multi-jurisdictional operations such as this, the Sheriff's office says, is a great way for all agencies to work effectively together, avoiding duplication of effort. These compliance checks are necessary in achieving their goal of 100% total compliance. When non-compliance is detected, enforcement action shall be taken immediately.

The American Legion Auxiliary of Skinner Trost Post #122 of Cullom met on October 13 at the Post Home.

With the flags in place, a hand salute was given. Chaplain Vicki Allen offered an opening prayer. In memory of those who died, they stood in silence. The Pledge of Allegiance was led by Co-Americanism Chairmen Pat Fagan and Judy Ehlers. Meri Knapp led them in one stanza of the National Anthem, The Star Spangled Baner. The group joined together in repeating The Preamble to the Constitution of the American Legion Auxiliary.

Linda Vercler gave out a printed monthly calendar to help keep track of community service hours. They ask that members bring them back to the April meeting filled out.

Thank Yous were sent to Ron Shapland, Keith Taylor and Dewey Haag for help setting up for the September fund-raising breakfast, and to participating vendors. Marsha Haag will be sending thank yous to all donating members.

A report on the Auxiliary Breakfast on September 28 had an overwhelming response. Work crews -- everyone showed up on time and worked well together. The income was a pleasant surprise.

Marge Kross gave a report on the Halloween party.

It was decided to do the 10 for 10 at the Christmas party and donate boots, shoes and socks for the lower elementary students.

New Business: The committee will be working on a repeat breakfast scheduled for Sunday, April 19, 2015.

Bingo will now be on the first Thursday of each month, except January 8, due to New Year's the first Thursday in January. Prizes will be raised to $100.00 each for 15 games and $150.00 each for five specials. Crew 1 and 3 will be together and Crew 2 and 4 will join forces.

Marsha Haag worked on a school program for Veterans Day highlighting a guard from the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. A motion was made to pay half the cost and the Legion to pay the other half. It was seconded and the motion carried.

Sick call was made. There were four members to remember.

With no other business to come before the meeting, the Chaplain led the group in prayer and President Fink gave the closing with a hand salute to the flag.

The group met on Nov. 10.

Chatsworth Corner

by Mare Reardanz

The Chatsworth American Legion, Walter Clemons Post 613 was organized April 21, 1920 to honor and support American Veterans in all branches of service.

The men and women who put their lives on the line for freedom. Anyone who has never left home at a young age will never know the anticipation, fear of the unknown or excitement of joining the service.

Go back to the military physical. Standing in line endlessly. Waiting for your turn for an exam and vaccinations. Even if you were scared you couldn't show it to the others. When another would faint you secretly hoped you wouldn't be the next one to fall. The line moved. Another step closer. Then another line.

The night before you were to leave, lying awake most of the night wondering if you would ever see home again, or your family, or your friends. Excitement? Fear? Anticipation. The night seemed endless and fleeting at the same time. As you said your last goodbyes to family and friends, you realized life would never be the same. And now the adventure begins.

Boot Camp made you strong. Physically and mentally challenging, sometimes harsh, but a lesson in respect. You formed a brotherhood with the other young soldiers. A bond tough to break.

Then into service. No matter how or conflict you were shipped to, your life dramatically changes again. To fight for the freedom you and your loved ones deserve.

Veterans Day exemplifies our Nation's bravest. The American Legion brings these men together monthly to share their experiences and memories. No one knows better than another soldier of the pain and suffering, joy and accomplishments they all endured. They talk of those who gave their all. Forever in their hearts.

Veterans, the original American Hero. Each and every one of them. Their stories need to be shared with the children and grandchildren of every generation. Their lives were changed forever. Our lives were changed forever. Stand up when the American flag passes by in a parade, show your respect for the men and women whose lives were changed forever. Thank you, American soldiers and Veterans, for all that you gave.

Love Boxes to Be Delivered December 13

This year, Love Boxes, Christmas food boxes for the less fortunate of the Dwight area, will be delivered Saturday, December 13, from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

This program is designed to provide much needed aid to struggling families within the Dwight community during the Holidays. Though the program intends to help as many families as possible, as with anything, there is only a limited amount of funds/resources available. The committee will try as hard as they can to assist as many families with the resources they have.

Max and Brooke Sulzberger have accepted to Chair this initiative and have fomed a committee made up of Rosie Miller, Mary Ann Denker, Mary Seibold, Rob Pulver, Destiny and Rodney Connor, Whitney and Brian Scott, and Mike and Laura Vigna. This program is a group effort, and the committee members are all working together to help as many people as they can over the Holiday season this year.

All food donations can be delivered to the lobby of the Dwight United Methodist Church. Please make sure any donations are marked as "designated for Love Boxes." All cash donations can be dropped off at the following Dwight financial institutions (The Dwight Bank, First National Bank of Dwight, Centru Bank, and Streator Onized Credit Union). A check may also be mailed to Rosie Miller at PO Box 147, Dwight, IL 60420. Please make checks payable to "Dwight Love Boxes."

Food will be packed Friday, December 12, from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. at the Dwight United Methodist Church. The committee would love to have over 100 volunteers this year to help with delivery and packing.

People can volunteer to help by leaving a voicemail at 815-584-7129, emailing DwightLoveBoxes@gmail.com, or visiting www.dwightloveboxes.com or by just showing up on December 12 or 13.

People can sign up to have a Love Box delivered to a less fortunate Dwight Community member by leaving a voicemail at the number listed/sending an email to the address above, or by visiting the aforementioned website.

Last year, over $9,500 was spent on buying groceries for the program.

Sign-up for those receiving the Love Boxes will end on Monday, December 1. However, the committee has stated that they will obviously take people who call in after that as much as possible, but that it is best to avoid last minute requests.

JUST ONE OF THE MANY different hand crafted items that could be raffled for the Festival of Trees.

Festival of Trees DUMC Hens Bible Study Creates Items to Raffle

The Hens Bible Study from the Dwight United Methodist Church will have a Christmas wreath with the theme "All That Glitters Is Not Gold," at the Festival of Trees.

Shelly Hoffman is putting some of the final decorations on the wreath, which will be one of the silent auction items at the Festival. The Hens Bible Study will donate the money they raise from the winning bid on their Christmas wreath to support local missions, Love Boxes and Christmas for Kids.

Holly Rolando and Ron Erickson have created three

Christmas decorations; a snowman themed ironing board, a winter windowpane, and a decorated tree.

These will all be raffled at the Festival. This is Rolando and Erickson's first year as participants and they will be donating the funds from the sale of raffle tickets on their decorations to the Dwight Food Pantry.

Anyone interested in creating and putting an item in a raffle or the silent auction to benefit a favorite charity or non-profit should contact Marcia Drach at 815-252-3086 by Friday, November 19.

OBITUARIES

William P. Steichen

SHAWANO, WI – William Peter “Bill” Steichen, 85, of Shawano, Wisconsin passed away Monday, November 3, 2014 at Theda Clark in Neenah, surrounded by his loving family.

Bill was born September 17, 1929 in Dwight, son of William R. and Nina L. Sondergaard Steichen.

After attending Dwight schools and graduating in 1947, he left the family farm to pursue other opportunities.

He married Doris Kline October 7, 1950 in Dwight. He worked at Riber Construction Company, building roads and bridges. He then had the opportunity to operate his own Sinclair Gas Station in Dwight. He did that for a few years and then was asked to work for P. L. Murphy Construction Company, burying natural gas lines. This job took Bill and his family to Shawano in 1960, when they settled and made Shawano their home.

After working in many communities and making many friends along the way, he began a new career in 1977. He built his barn and his business from the ground up, and began raising veal calves. He did this until 1993 when he sold the barn.

Bill enjoyed taking care of his large garden, nurturing his many beautiful flowers and feeding the many birds that visited his unique bird feeders. Bill attended many auctions and sales to find that “special item” to add to his modest collection.

Family was always at the center of his attention. He attended the many golfing events, Christmas get-togethers, 4th of July fish fries and other functions he deemed necessary for an important get-together. He will be missed at the nightly sessions at Howie’s, where he rarely gave his own opinion, but rather listened to the vast knowledge that was exchanged.

He enjoyed watching the Brewers and Packers. He would often share his ideas on how each team should be coached and what play the Packers should run.

He will be deeply missed by his family and his many friends.

Bill is survived by his loving wife, Doris, of Shawano; his children, Bob (Ger) Steichen of Cecil; Barbara (Mark) Wawrzyn of Green Bay; Brent (special friend, Jan Raddant) Steichen and Brian (special friend, Julie Zajac) Steichen, both of Shawano.

His grandchildren: Rob Steichen, Brad Steichen, Ann Jacobson, Amy Erickson, Jason Steichen, Jennifer Steichen, Jeff Steichen, Amber Steichen, Cassie Steichen, Jamie Steichen, Stacy Hooymann and Steffany Steichen; nine great-grandchildren: Sophia, Tyler, Drew, Zack, J.J., Macece, Danny, Aiden and Lily also survive.

He is further survived by his brother, Richard (Bev-erly) Steichen of Sun City, Arizona; his sister, Martha (Joe) Polito of Joliet; nephew, Todd Polito, and nieces, Audra Nyquist and Emily Davies.

Bill was preceded in death by his parents; his son, Alan Steichen; and his father-in-law, Clarence Kline, and his mother-in-law, Hazel Kline.

A funeral service was held Friday, November 7, at the Swedberg Funeral Home in Shawano with Rev. Keith Swanson officiating.

Burial: Jerusalem Cemetery.

Visitation was held Thursday, November 6 from 4 until 7, and Friday from 10 a.m. until the time of service.

Vivian Mae Nielsen

DWIGHT – Vivian Mae Nielsen, 100, passed away November 1, 2014 at River North Nursing Home in Kankakee, where she had been a resident for several years.

She was born May 8, 1914 in Gardner, daughter of Louis and Mary Ellen Haskins. She married Harry E. Nielsen October 1, 1932. He preceded her in death February 5, 1988.

They farmed in the Campus/Emington area for many years, then retired to Dwight in the 1970s.

Survivors include daughters, LaVonne (Harry J.) Landers, Ft. Myers, Florida; Dolores (Boyd) Shade, Aroma Park; grandchildren: Susan (Djamel) Bouachri; Kathleen Landers; and Debra (Brian) Schurman; great-grandchildren: Christian, Yasmine and Jared Bouachri and Monica and Mitchel Schurman; and her caregiver of many years, Arthur Kirchner.

Interment was in Oaklawn Cemetery, Dwight.

Maxine Krueger

COAL CITY – Maxine Krueger, 89, of Coal City and formerly of Goose Lake, passed away Friday, November 7, 2014 at Heritage Health in Dwight.

She was born May 1, 1925 in Greenup, daughter of Charles F. and Flosey Lackey Milligan. She was raised in Melrose Park and graduated from Proviso High School with the class of 1942.

Maxine was a 50+ year active member of Coal City United Methodist Church and belonged to the Order of the Eastern Star. During the war she worked on a production line making batteries for military equipment and later worked in real estate throughout the area. She loved antique cars and traveling all over the world.

Surviving are her son, Kurt Kupfer of Carbon Hill; four step-children: Tom Krueger of Godley, Debbie (Danny) Marino, Karen (Jim) Hopson and Curt Krueger, all of Joliet; and numerous grandchildren.

Preceding her in death were her parents; first husband, Rudolf Henry Kupfer in 1969 and second husband, Dale Krueger.

Her funeral service was at 11 a.m., Tuesday, in the Coal City United Methodist Church, with Rev. Walter Carlson officiating.

Burial: Wednesday, November 12, in Oakridge Glen Oaks Cemetery, Hillside, where Maxine will be laid to rest with her first husband.

Visitation was Monday from 4 until 8 p.m. at Reeves Funeral Home, Coal City; and in the church from 10 a.m. until the time of her service.

Preferred memorials may be made to the Coal City United Methodist Church, The Wounded Warriors Project, or any veterans organization.

What Not To Do

Sometimes it’s best to learn by watching someone do what you shouldn’t. Sunday night the Chicago Bears showed us what not to do. They gave little to no effort throughout the game, showed little to no fight, and the execution was also very lackluster. It made me sad to be a Chicago fan. Luckily we still have the Chicago Bulls and the Chicago Blackhawks... and maybe... dare I say it... the Chicago Cubs. Hopefully the Bears helped everyone with their mindset today, even though they might not make as much as the Bears players make, there’s a very high chance that everyone at work is giving a much better effort at whatever they’re doing today than the Bears did on Sunday. Consistent effort, emotion, and execution are really the three main factors for anyone to be successful at a job, the Bears just happen to be showing it on a much larger scale. If there is ever a time when we aren’t successful at something it’s usually because one of those three things was missing. If I get a bad grade on a test (even though I never do) it’s almost always due to a lack of one of those things. It doesn’t just apply to football, and it’s clear with the Bears that even money can’t be the best motivation. The motivation has to be self-motivation at the end of the day. In a way I’m thanking the Chicago Bears for showing me what happens when all three of those factors (effort, emotion, and execution) don’t remain consistent. Have a great week everyone, and don’t be like the Bears.

St. Peter’s Evangelical Lutheran Church Holds Quilt Dedication Sunday

On October 19, the congregation of St. Peter’s Evangelical Lutheran Church, Dwight, held a Quilt Dedication Sunday. The church was decorated with quilts on each pew, the altar and over the balcony rail. Women from the community gather on the first and fourth Monday and Tuesday of each month to tie quilts for Lutheran World Relief. They have appreciated the people of the community for their donations of sheets, drapes, blankets and curtains that have been put into quilts this year. The year-long venture is from October to October. This year they completed 323 quilts. They also took quilts to Diamond to the tornado victims. In October, kits were packed for the relief effort, health kits, baby layettes, school kits and bars of soap. These were taken to Gibson City on October 25 to be transported to the depot in Minneapolis for distribution around the world where needed.

Wednesday, November 5
MVK vs. Milton Pope
7th Grade -

The seventh grade Mavs closed out an exciting week of basketball with a thrilling victory over Milton Pope, 25-23.

MVK's Tommy Cahill made the game-winning bucket with 22 seconds remaining in the game.

The younger Mavericks outscored the Pilots in the final frame, 8-2, securing the win.

Logan Severson led a balanced attack for MVK, with six points and four steals. Cody Carey and Ben Krause each added five points, with all of Carey's coming in the final two minutes -- including a three-pointer that gave the Mavs the lead.

"Cody really carried us in the final quarter with those quick five points on back-to-back possessions," stated Coach Walker. "I was very happy with the way the boys executed the play to get Tommy the game-winner."

The seventh grade squad moves to 3-0 on the season, after defeating Saunemin and Marseilles earlier in the week.

MVK's eighth graders cruised to a win over the Pilots, 46-10.

Isaac Brockman led with nine points and 11 boards. Riley Punke chipped in eight points, while Brody Baudino added seven points to improve their record to 3-0.

"We are really trying to have the boys focus more on their defense skills this season," said Coach Walker. "We can score in many ways but our defense is the key element for this team to be successful."

Odell's Harold Schook took our $25 Paper Bowl gift certificate in week nine. He tied Dwight's Larry Davis with a 12-2 record. The tiebreaker for the week was 746. Schook's guess of 692 was just 54 points off, while Davis was 97 points short after his guess of 649.

One hundred and fourteen entries came in this week. Sixteen prognosticators finished with 11-3 records. They were Dwight's Bill Martin, Bob Flynn, Karen Palmer, Les Maierhofer, Jared Anderson (2x), Jayson Powell, Wayne German, Lee Dixon, and Glenda German, Herscher's Tony Webster, Joliet's Big T, Buckingham's Jerome Schneider, Braidwood's Denise McElroy, and Odell's Terrence and Harold Schook. Twenty-seven entries scored 10-4 records; 10 were 9-5; 16 finished 8-6 and the remaining entries finished .500 or below.

The holiday season is coming, and we are getting ready by doubling our Paper Bowl gift certificate. We will announce our final $25 winner in next week's The Paper, but you can enter now for a chance at our first $50 prize. The drop locations this week are Berkot's Super Foods, Dairy Queen and Jensen's Bp. It's good free clean fun. How often can we say that? Get in today.

Cure Crew would like to thank everyone who attended the 2nd Annual Barb Joyce Strike-Out Leukemia Co-ed Softball Tournament this year.

Without the players, umpires, spectators, everyone that donated items and time, everyone that came to set up, take down, help with 50/50 and in the concession stand, we could not have made it such a success. We hope to see everyone next year!

She waitressed locally for several years; worked at Rohlfs Bakery in Coal City; and was most known as a cook at the Coal City Schools. Marge was an active member of Assumption Catholic Church, where she was involved with The Martha's and Saint Vincent's Table.

It was for these works and many others that Marge was honored as a past Coal City Community Service Award recipient, and served as Grand Marshal of the Octoberfest parade in 2004.

When Margie was not volunteering she took pleasure in playing cards and baking, of which she was well known for her pie crusts and donuts. She was a true Coal City Coalier fan

MAKING SENSE OF INVESTING
Member SIPC

Yipes! IPO Hype Can Lead to Risky Investing

All investors probably wish they had gotten in on the "ground floor" of Apple or Microsoft or any other big success story. And, in fact, you can indeed "be there from the beginning" by taking part in a company's initial public offering (IPO). However, the ground floor of many IPOs may be shakier than you'd think — and might not provide you with the solid footing you need to invest wisely.

Of course, not all IPOs are the same. Many large, profitable companies, seeking to raise capital, have gone public in recent years through IPOs. However, IPOs of newer, unproven companies share some characteristics that should give pause to serious, long-term investors. Consider the following:

Hype — Let's face it: A big part of the appeal of IPOs is the "wow" factor. It looks really cool when the company's CEO — or perhaps a visiting celebrity — rings the opening bell at the New York Stock Exchange. And the rush to buy shares in the now-public company always garners big headlines. Yet "hype" is just one letter removed from "hope" — and hope alone is not a good reason to invest. Furthermore, no single stock — even one that might have strong growth potential — is likely going to be the ticket to investment success.

Lack of track record — By definition, newer companies that launch IPOs don't have long track records. And while it's true that "past performance can't predict future results," it's nonetheless useful to see how a stock has performed in various economic climates and how the company management has responded to different challenges over time.

Exceptional volatility — All stocks fluctuate in value. But IPOs tend to be especially volatile — not just in their first few days of trading but also in their first few years of availability to the public.

Higher risk potential — Generally, IPOs of newer companies are better suited for aggressive investors — those who can handle a higher degree of risk in exchange for potentially higher returns.

Nonstandard accounting — Some IPOs, particularly Internet start-ups, use nonstandard, or "customized," accounting measures to depict their companies in the best possible light. While these measures are not illegal — and in some cases, may even be useful in illuminating a company's performance — they tend, overall, to make it more difficult for potential investors to accurately evaluate a business' profitability, or at least potential profitability. At the end of the day, good old-fashioned profits and cash flow are still the key driver of companies' stock prices.

As an alternative to pursuing an IPO, you could use any extra "investable" money you may have to fill gaps in your current portfolio, based on your goals. Or, if you are truly attracted to the type of business in which an IPO is involved, you might want to consider investing in a more established company in the same industry.

Taking part in an IPO sounds fun and exciting. But as we've seen, IPOs can have some serious drawbacks. And while it may not sound glamorous, a steady approach to investing — one that involves diversification, responsiveness to one's risk tolerance and a constant focus on both short- and long-term objectives — is usually the right choice for most of us.

ALL SET FOR THE Winter Roads?

Gas Prices — Why They Fluctuate From Station to Station And Town to Town

by Bridget De Waard

There are certainly times driving down the highway when the price of gas is not a priority; the gas gauge is on "E" and there aren't many of us that want to pull a "Kramer" and see just how long you can ride on that empty gas tank... after all, no one wants to be on the losing end of that adventure.

However, whenever possible, watching how much you are paying for gas is one way to save a little money here and there, even if it's just a matter of a few cents. There's been plenty of times that, rather than just stopping, it seems better to drive in pursuit of a cheaper per gallon gas price. Which leads to a question — why do some gas prices vary so much, even if purchased from the same company?

The answer is that there isn't just one specific reason, but rather a multitude of determining factors, which can vary depending on the gas station itself. From taxes, to fees, to even the location of the station, all can play a role in determining a price for gas, which causes the fluctuations customers see from station to station.

The biggest factor is, of course, taxes. Gasoline taxes collected by states have an approximately 37 cent range from the lowest to the highest amount, with federal and local governments collecting taxes as well. All in all, these can add around 49.5 cents per gallon to the cost, with around 18.4 of that being purely federal.

Other aspects depend on the gas station itself, and can include things like location, overhead costs, volume, distributors and fluctuating supplier costs.

For example, gas stations that are closer to the highway can charge more for gas, as they can take advantage of customers who want to save time (or who are, ahem, a little too close to empty for comfort). In addition, since most stations are owned and operated by small business owners, the cost of doing business for individual station owners will factor into gas prices.

Higher overhead and lower volume, or, in other words, a less visited gas station, would lead to higher gas prices. This would mean that, even though two gas stations might be the same company and only ten minutes apart, the price of their gas per gallon could vary greatly.

Some business owners are also told that they must purchase their gas through a specific supplier or distributor, which might make it hard for them to price their gas competitively with other surrounding gas stations. Suppliers can also raise prices unexpectedly and a bit sporadically, which will then cause the owner to pass the additional cost along to the customer.

"The price of gas for me went up five cents just two days ago," Pat Huffman, of Huffman's Tire & Auto, commented. "And the very next day it had gone down seven cents a gallon; Our supplier will vary their prices or the stock market will drop, and amidst all these fluctuations, we are just merely trying to stay competitive."

Fees can range from anything to environmental fees, which vary from state to state, to underground storage tank fees and oil inspection fees.

The number one factor is the cost of crude oil, which is determined by supply and demand since it is a global commodity. This means that a whole range of factors can impact the cost, such as weather events, inventories, exchange rates, investments, and OPEC production decisions.

A big factor is what's known as "zone pricing," a controversial strategy used by oil companies which attempts to boost profits by charging dealers different amounts for fuel, even when the cost to make and deliver the specific brand of fuel is the same. The oil companies will consider traffic volume, station amenities, nearby household incomes, population density, geographic characteristics and even the strength of surrounding competitors to determine how much they charge the dealers for the gas, making the cost setting completely out of the business owner's hands.

This can cause a price differential of as much as 50 cents per gallon. Though this seems a bit unfair, the courts have deemed it legal so far. The Federal Trade Commission also said that, "the effect on consumers [is] ambiguous because some customers [get] hurt by higher prices while others [benefit] from lower ones."

So while it seems a bit infuriating when you fill up only to drive just ten miles further and see gas prices almost 20 cents cheaper, the fact is that the fluctuation itself is unavoidable.

What A Spud!

Want a cheap way to keep your windows fog free in the winter? Try this easy trick simply using a potato that also works on any other glass/plastic surface.

- Step 1: Cut a raw potato in half. Be sure to use a clean potato, and scrub any soil off of it if necessary.
 - Step 2: Rub the cut part of the potato on window; this will help prevent condensation from forming on the window, and will clean it as well.
 - Step 3: Use the other half of the potato if needed; it is also possible to simply cut off dirtied slices and keep the rest of the potato for future use if desired.
 - Step 4: Leave to dry without touching.
- According to the post, how long it works or how it compares to a bottle of defogger is up for debate, but it's certainly worth a try!

Preventing/Dealing With Frozen Doors And Locks

There's nothing worse (besides maybe having your car buried beneath a mini mountain of snow) than running late for work, jumping through the knee-deep, snow covered path before you, only to find you are unable to get into your car. It's 6 a.m., and it's freezing; these tips won't magically vaporize the snow, as you might be hoping at that moment, but they should help make this situation less likely to happen (or easier to deal with if it does occur).

Keeping Doors from Freezing Shut

• Step 1: Replace torn or missing rubber gaskets. The gasket, or the seal, along the edge of the door is what freezes, not the metal itself. If you notice tears or gaps where water could seep in, be sure to purchase replacements. Make sure to keep an eye and inspect the seals around each door and window

• Step 2: Wipe down the door frame. Water can collect around the dirt and freeze the door shut once the temperatures drop; keeping the entire door frame clean keeps road debris and other soils from building up over time.

• Step 3: Coat the rubber with a protective liquid. The oil or lubricant will help repel water, helping limit the amount that enters the seal and freezes. Use a paper towel to do this. Though there is some debate on what to use, rubber conditioner/rubber care products are probably the safest options for long-term care. Other lubricants might not last as long per application, and run the risk of drying out or damaging the rubber.

• Step 4: Use a car cover. If parking outside, this will minimize the amount of moisture from snow/rain that can reach door parts and freeze. You can also use a heavy gauge trash bag and hang it over the open car doorway. After oiling the rubber as described above, shut the door over the plastic.

Preventing and Dealing with Frozen Locks

• Step 1: Rub the key and lock with rubbing alcohol. The rubbing alcohol used must contain at least 60% alcohol so that it will adhere to the lock and prevent moisture from freezing over it. Rub it onto the key and door lock with a paper towel once per week to prevent ice from forming. It can also help melt existing ice, but at a much slower rate than the methods described below.

• Step 2: Spray a lock lubricant for severe problems. Use this option if the rubbing alcohol is not enough to keep your lock usable. Greaseless lubricants are usually your best option, as they are supposed to attract less dust and debris. Use only one type per lock, as a mix can easily gum it up.

• Step 3: Spray frozen locks with a de-icer. Keep de-icer in the garage or in your coat pocket in case you are frozen out of your car. These are typically sprayed directly onto the lock; spray onto the lock with the least amount of ice buildup.

• Step 4: Heat the key. Hold the key with an oven mitt or tongs, with the toothed tip over a lighter or match, then insert it into the lock.

• Step 5: Warm the lock with a hairdryer or your own breath. This method is less effective, but worth a try if no other options are available. You can place a cardboard tube over the frozen lock to help direct the warm air. Keep trying for several minutes, especially if conditions are windy.

Save Money AND The Planet: Go Green With Car Care

by Craig W. Armstrong

Save money AND save the planet. Keeping our world green has been a concern for many years., but now keeping money in the bank and food on the table is a concern for millions of Americans as well. A good way to accomplish both is to practice green car care.

The most basic way to think about it is that the longer you can maintain your vehicle, the longer you will be able to avoid buying a new one. A few areas that need inspection are the air filter, the oil and oil filter, and the radiator and cooling system. If you are someone who isn't comfortable under the hood, take your vehicle to an auto shop and let them take a look.

Check your tire pressure. Tires that aren't inflated to the correct PSI (pounds per square inch) create more friction, make the vehicle work harder and use more gas. Keeping your tires properly inflated saves you money at the pump and keeps the planet greener by the use of less gas. The correct pressure will be printed on the tire or found in the owner's manual.

Clean the inside of your vehicle with environmentally friendly products. These products can be purchased or you can make your own. There are many recipes for homemade cleaners that can be found online. Instead of using paper towel to clean the windows, use newspaper. It does a great job and you will be using it to get the news AND clean your car.

Determine if your auto shop is green. Ask if they recycle oil and antifreeze. Also find out if rebuilt parts are available. The cost of these parts can be 50% less. You'll be saving money and recycling at the same time.

One of the best ways to save money and be green is to be creative. We could all use some extra money and maintaining our planet is something we can all take part in. Do your part and help our planet stay green and keep some green in your pocket at the same time.

ALL SET FOR THE Winter Roads?

HEED THE WARNING!

by Ronda Addy

When you start your vehicle, the instrument panel lights up. As soon as the computer verifies everything is working properly, the lights go off. On occasion, however, a light remains on and it is best that you look up a detailed explanation of what the light means and if the vehicle is safe to drive. Let's take a look at the more common warning lights and what you should do if they light up. All of these should be checked out by an experienced mechanic as soon as possible.

If the brake warning light comes on you should check the parking brake first and then the brake fluid level. If it's low, fill it. If the light remains on, you may have a sensor fault. If you press the brake pedal and the light comes on, one of the hydraulic circuits in the brake system has lost pressure and the vehicle may not be able to stop. Whatever you do, don't attempt to drive it. Have it towed somewhere to be repaired.

If the warning light for the antilock brake system (ABS) comes on your brakes will still work, but the antilock braking you need when coming to a sudden stop won't be available. If the ABS and the brake warning lights both come on, your brake system has a serious hydraulic problem, in which case your vehicle is not safe to drive.

The check engine light indicates there is a potential emissions fault. This could be a loose gas cap, fouled spark plugs, the failure of an engine sensor or an emissions control system problem. To find the exact nature of the problem, a mechanic must attach your vehicle's diagnostic connector to a scan tool.

The battery charge warning light indicates your vehicle is running on the battery. The charging system isn't producing enough current for the vehicle's electrical needs. Your vehicle will run as long as the battery has a charge, which could be a very short time. To get more life out of your battery, turn off all unnecessary electrical devices.

If the oil pressure warning light is on don't drive your vehicle. If you do, you will run the risk of severely damaging the engine. Start by checking the oil level. If it is low, add some and then turn on the engine to see if the light goes out. If it does not, you could have a bad oil pump or a faulty oil pressure-sending unit that will need to be replaced.

If the temperature warning light is on don't ignore it. If it comes on while you are driving, stop immediately and turn the engine off. If you don't, you could cause extensive damage to the engine. Once the engine cools off, unscrew the radiator cap and check the coolant level. Never remove the cap when the engine is hot or you could risk getting burned. Add coolant and do a quick check for leaks around the radiator and hoses. Start the vehicle and proceed with care. If the light comes on again, you have an internal problem. There are a number of things that can cause the engine to overheat.

Depending on the make, model and year of your vehicle, there are other warning lights to look out for. These include:

- Lamp out indicator light, which lets you know you have a headlight, taillight, stoplight or turn signal light out.
- Low windshield washer fluid warning light.
- Service reminder light.
- Emissions warning light, which lets you know there is a problem with the emissions sensor or your vehicle has reached a certain mileage.

When a warning light comes on, your vehicle is trying to tell you something. Listen to it and take care of the problem.

Dig Your Car Out Of A Snowstorm

As the winter months begin slowly creeping up, every car's worst enemy is also approaching – snow. You may not be able to win the initial battle, but here are some helpful tips/steps to give you and your car a fighting chance should your vehicle become buried in snow this winter.

• Step 1: Locate your car. This can be tricky, especially after snow has built up, making a row of cars all look the same. To help alleviate this, park your car as close to the road as possible if at home. This will make it easier to find your car, as well as keep you from having to clear out the entire driveway of snow to get out.

It might be helpful to put a stake or a pole out near your car beforehand to make it easier to find; this can also be accomplished by putting a unique topper on your radio antenna. If the car was parked on the street, it is essential to carve out a path to get to your car, so that you can have firm footing when clearing the car. If at work, you will need to wait for the car park owners to help clear the driving areas.

• Step 2: Grab the tools you'll need. Try to avoid using tools like shovels that might scratch the car, just because it's hard to know where the snow ends and where the car begins after it's been buried in snow. Use a broom with soft bristled tips to do the most of the removal work (avoid gardening bristle/corn brooms, which may scratch the car).

At this point, grab an ice scraper for the windshield. You can also use an old towel to remove snow if you need to be very careful getting the snow off.

Dress warmly, as it will get cold; make sure to wear gloves, as you want to be able to keep going. Be sure to wear layers, in the event you might get hot while cleaning and have to remove your jacket.

• Step 3: Start digging out the car. This task can take anywhere from five minutes to an hour; though it will be much faster if you can get a helper or two on the job. Start by digging around the wheels and the sides of the car, especially the driver's door. Shovel the removed snow well away from the car, other cars and pedestrian walkways; you don't want to create more snow hazards.

Brush the snow off the roof and hood onto the ground. If your vehicle is higher than you, use a small step ladder and a broom to push off the snow. Next, use a scraper to clear the windshield, side windows, side mirrors, back window and any parts of the roof and hood that aren't yet free of ice. Do NOT pour warm water on the windshield as this will cause the glass to crack.

• Step 4: Check to see if snow has filled the engine compartment. If so, prop the hood open, remove the snow, dry the spark plug wires and leave the hood open to let everything dry off. Be sure to check your windshield washer outlets to make sure they are clear, since you may need to clean your windows often during winter driving.

• Step 5: Try to unlock door with the key, if the car doesn't have a remote. If your locks aren't frozen, start the car and turn on the heat and defrosters as you continue to clear it off. Make sure the exhaust pipe is clear, and that you only have the engine on while the car is outside; never when the car is in shelter (the build-up of carbon monoxide is toxic).

If it doesn't open, use lock de-icer or clean and try another door is you don't have any de-icer on hand. You can also try using a lighter or match to heat up your key before attempting to unlock your door.

• Step 6: Clear snow away from the tailpipe. The exhaust must be able to flow freely from the tailpipe or it may build up in the car's interior.

• Step 7: Free up the wipers, if frozen. If they were running when you stopped the car, it may damage the wiper motor if you start the car and they aren't free to move.

• Step 8: Start the car. Turn on the heat and rear defroster; wait a few minutes for the car to warm up.

Outgta Take Care Of That Auto

By Ralph Lee

You may not know what end of a wrench to hold, but anybody can get a grip on these helpful car care tips.

• Get the soap - Perhaps the simplest thing to do to take care of your car is to wash it on a regular basis.

• Check the oil. Stat! - Your car's oil is like its blood. It needs to be checked regularly. At least once a month, check your oil level. Top it off if necessary.

And while you're checking the oil...

Check these: automatic transmission fluid, coolant (anti-freeze), brake fluid, differential oil and power steering fluid. Check their levels periodically, top them off when necessary and have them changed when your manual indicates.

• Hold the grease - Head to your local auto parts store and check out the variety of degreasers available. Follow the directions and watch your engine sparkle. An added benefit to having a clean engine is it makes it easier to locate any trouble spots (e.g., leaks).

• Windshield woes - A clean windshield is crucial to safe driving. Virtually any kind of glass cleaner and lint-free towel will have your windshield sparkling in no time.

• Out, out, damned spot - Wiper blades should be changed about once a year. Check your washer fluid level when you check the oil.

• Lots of lights - Avoid driving without lights by doing a periodic walkaround of your car to make sure all lighting systems are functioning.

• Inflation situation - Tires improperly inflated wear out faster and can rob you of the gas mileage you deserve. Get in the habit of checking each tire's pressure at regular intervals. You could be saving your life and you will save money.

Keep an emergency winter kit in the car.

Glenn Baker

COAL CITY – Glenn Baker, 92, of Coal City passed away Friday, November 7, 2014 at his home.

He was born December 17, 1921 in Morris, son of Harry and Theresa Jackson Baker. He was raised in Morris and graduated from Morris Community High School.

Pablo, California; 12 great-grandchildren; one brother, Leroy (the late Evelyn) Baker of Morris; one sister-in-law, Shirley (David) Gunn of Bartlett; numerous nieces and nephews; as well as wonderful friends and neighbors.

Glenn was preceded in death by his parents; first wife, Betty Johnson Baker on October 9, 1995; second wife, Mary Lou Hampton on December 12, 2004; and his son-in-law, Gary Smith.

His funeral service was at 11 a.m., Monday, November 10, at New Hope Presbyterian Church in Coal City. Rev. Jan Chandler officiated.

Burial: Braceville-Gardner Cemetery, where he was laid to rest with his first wife, Betty.

Visitation and video tribute were held at the church Sunday, November 9, from 2 until 4 p.m., and Monday from 10 until 11 a.m.

Preferred memorials may be made as gifts in Glenn's memory to New Hope Presbyterian Church; Grundy Community Volunteer Hospice; or to Honor Flight.

DGS Red Ribbon Week October 27 - October 31

The Dwight Grade School celebrated Red Ribbon Week on October 27. This year's theme was "Join the Fight Against Drugs."

Each day during the week students could dress up to take a stand against drugs. Another activity which first through eighth grades were invited to participate in was to write a letter to a soldier. The letter was to address Red Ribbon Week and to thank the soldiers for their hard fight for this country's freedom.

The letters were collected and divided up among the boxes of items to be mailed to a soldier during Veterans Day. Some students were hoping to become pen pals with the soldier who receives their letter.

Grades one through eight participated in the dress up. The dress up days this year were: Monday, "Give drugs the boot," where children were to wear boots; Tuesday, "Join the fight against drugs," children were to wear camouflage clothing; Wednesday, "You're Our Heroes," children were to wear superhero clothing; Thursday, "We're Red-dy to be Drug Free," children were to wear red; and Friday, Halloween, wear orange or a favorite Halloween shirt.

Students in grades five through eight competed each day during the dress up, the points earned were added together to the points earned during Friday afternoon relay games. The winning grade level (eighth grade) won free admission to the Student Council sponsored dance.

Each student received a special braided key chain with the theme printed on it. Students who participated in the dress up were also given an opportunity to win a prize. Every student who wrote a letter to a soldier received a special Red Ribbon prize.

Mrs. Beth Goodwin, Red Ribbon Week Chairperson, greatly appreciated all the help from Mr. Bailey, Mr. Fox and Officer Beier, who helped plan this year's event.

In addition, Mrs. Schultz and her Student Council Representatives worked tirelessly during lunch to collect names of those students participating in the dress up each day, along with Mrs. Aldrich, who took Goodwin's idea and made two fantastic banners for the kids to sign.

Red Ribbon items were provided by the Elks (Nathan Guest).
