Two Gardner Residents Assaulted at Gunpoint, One Injured

by Myke Feinman
Managing Editor

Two Gardner residents were held at gunpoint Saturday, Oct. 24, after arriving home late at night from a hayride for children.

Grundy County Police arrested Gardner resident Cody Miles, 18, and Noel Cottrell, 21, with an address listed as Joliet.

Both were arrested for assault and battery, but the State’s attorney’s office charged them with battery only.

The incident took place at the home of Terri Balcom, in the 300 block of Pine Street, while her father, Robert Dewitt, was visiting.

When Dewitt and Balcom attempted to break up a fight, at 11 p.m. that night, they were held at gunpoint and Dewitt was beaten to the point that he needed to be hospitalized, Balcom told The Paper.

Dewitt was treated and was released, but is unable to return to work as of deadline, she reported.

She told The Paper she is planning to circulate a petition to evict the residents where the two arrested men reside.

“I was at the house, and my dad stopped over,” she recalled. “Two people whom we didn’t know were fighting in our front yard.”

She said she had children in the home and wanted the fight stopped, but she and her father ended having guns pointed in their faces and the father was physically assaulted.

The next court date for the two arrested was to be Nov. 3 for reduction of their bond of $10,000 each, according to Grundy County Sheriff Kevin Callahan.

Callahan said the charge of battery is a Class A misdemeanor, with a penalty of up to one year in jail and a fine.

“Cottrell is a self-admitted gang member,” Callahan told The Paper on Monday.

Windfarm Expected to Blow In 20 Years of Benefits to Herscher Area

by Myke Feinman
Managing Editor

Money may not grow on trees but it does float in on the wind.

Windpower will cause additional tax money to flow into the budgets for the Herscher Unit 2 school district, Kankakee County, fire districts for Pilot and Otto Townships, and other taxing bodies as beneficiaries of additional tax revenue starting next year through 2036.

The extra revenue is being generated by increased property value due to the recent completion and start of operations at the Pilot Hill Wind Farm project.

Herscher Unit 2 Superintendent Rich Decman said last month that he estimates there will be roughly $142,000 in additional funds to the district from the windfarm next year. The following year, the first full year of operation for the project, will generate roughly $814,000, Decman said.

But schools are only a piece of the overall puzzle, although the largest chunk, with additional funds going into other municipalities and townships, fire districts and the Kankakee Community College coffers.

For example, EDF Renewable Energy, the project developer and operator, is spending an estimated $8 million in road improvements in the area for the two-phase windfarm.

The first phase of the project, involving 103 GE wind turbines, will produce 175 megawatts of electricity, and employ 10 individuals full time including five trained at Kankakee Community College. Roads were improved in the area under agreements with the County and township boards.

Just to put 175 megawatts into perspective, at peak power the wind farm will produce 1,000 megawatts, annually capable of producing up to 8.8 million megawatts.

The electricity from the wind turbines is fed directly into the grid so the electrons used to power a typical Herscher home may or may not be from those wind turbines.

The average homeowner uses 8.5 megawatt hours per year.

Dwight Cookie Recipe Published by B&N

by Myke Feinman

The Cookie Monster would be a friend to Sharon Soto.

Soto, of Dwight, the food services director for Dwight Township High School, Dwight Elementary School and Elwood schools, was recently published in the Barnes & Noble Cookie Bake Off book, on sale now at the bookstore across the country.

Her recipe is one of 4,000 entries nationwide.

Soto will be at the Joliet B & N store signing copies of the book on Friday, Nov. 6, starting at 7 p.m.

The recipe for her Lemon Blueberry Delights is on page 64, and has not only her name, but Dwight, Illinois above the recipe.

Her sister of Gardner, Sari Engle, was Soto’s motivator to enter the contest.

“I am a chef by trade, but my passion is baking,” Soto told The Paper last week.

A year ago at Lent, she said she started making cookies and froze them for Easter.

She gave them to family and friends who raved about them.

Sister Sari suggested she enter the contest, and after a lot of coaxing, Soto succumbed to her sister’s gentle prodding and entered the contest.

At first she heard nothing and in fact did not win a top prize.

But she later learned hers was one of 75 recipes selected to be published in the book.

She added that samples of her cookies will be available at the book signing, so the cookies monsters can taste her masterpiece.

SHARON SOTO, Dwight, submitted a cookie recipe chosen to be published as one of 75 recipes in a Barnes and Noble cookbook. Her Lemon Blueberry Delights was one of 4,000 entries in the contest.

Thinking of Adopting? Be Prepared for Expenses

November is National Adoption Awareness Month. If you're considering adoption, you know that it will change your life in many ways. And you'll need to prepare for many of these changes – including the financial ones, because adoption can be expensive.

The average U.S. adoption costs between $8,000 and $40,000, while the range for international adoptions is $15,000 to $30,000, according to the Child Welfare Information Gateway, a U.S. government-funded adoption information service.

Given these numbers, you might think you'll have a tough time paying for an adoption. However, you can get some financial help in the form of tax benefits, which include both a tax credit for qualified adoption expenses and an exclusion (from your taxable income) of employer-provided adoption assistance. In 2015, the maximum tax benefit you can claim is $13,400; this amount is reduced if your modified adjusted gross income (MAGI) exceeds $201,010 and is completely phased out if your MAGI is $241,010 or more. The adoption tax credit is nonrefundable, which means it's limited to your tax liability for the year.

Here's an example of how you might use the tax benefits. Suppose you pay $13,400 in qualified adoption expenses in 2015 and your employer reimburses you for $3,400 of those expenses. Assuming you meet the MAGI guidelines, you can exclude $3,400 from your gross income for 2015 and claim $10,000 ($13,400 minus $3,400) for the adoption tax credit. (Tax credits reduce your income tax liability on a dollar-for-dollar basis.)

Of course, while these tax benefits can reduce your overall cost of adoption, you still have to come up with the money – which, as we've seen, can amount to many thousands of dollars – in the first place. How will you do it?

Your first step is to plan ahead – as far ahead as possible. Since the adoption process can often take a year or more, you will generally have some time to prepare. When you find the adoption agency that best meets your needs, get an estimate of the total costs involved. Once you've got this figure, you can determine how you'll meet these costs.

You might be tempted to take out a loan from your 401(k), but you should try to avoid this move – a 401(k) loan will likely reduce the growth potential of this account, which is designed for retirement. You might also consider a loan from a bank – but debt is debt, even if it's for the purpose of expanding your family, and it's always a good idea to keep one's debt level down.

If you knew you wouldn't need the money for, say, two years, you could consider putting away a certain amount each month in a special "adoption fund" in an investment that's highly liquid and offers significant preservation of principal. If the circumstances of your life allow you to plan even farther ahead, such as three to five years, you can find a savings or investment vehicle that may be appropriate for providing the money just when you need it.

Adopting a child will change your life. Planning ahead, and carefully considering your options for paying for the adoption, can help you reach this major milestone in a manner that makes financial sense – now and in the future.

Park by GGS May be Reorganized, Will Remain Gardner Open Space

By Myke Feinman
Managing Editor

The Gardner Village Council quickly responded at its meeting Oct. 26 to a rumor that a park in Gardner was being closed.

Commissioner James Riley suggested the park equipment be condensed, moving the swings near the jungle gym and other equipment, while the space where the swings are will be turned into a grass area.

One member of the audience that night, Dan Bell, said he had heard that the park was being closed and asked that the village retain its green spaces.

“Open space is the most valuable thing you have in town,” Bell said. “Don’t give up something you have been given.”

He also suggested the green area may be turned into a small softball diamond for smaller children, which Mayor Mike Serena said was a “good idea.”

Commissioner Riley said the cost would involve moving the swings and seeding over the area where the swings are with grass.

The condensing of the equipment to one spot will reduce maintenance costs, Riley said.

“I’m not in favor of eliminating the park,” Mayor Serena said emphatically.

“We’re just condensing it,” Riley responded.

The council said it will consider the matter further before taking action.

The board learned in a report from Guy Christensen, Chamlin and Associates, that the permit to continue the construction of a new storm sewer line in Gardner has been issued by the Illinois Department of Transportation.

Christensen said IDOT stopped the project just when they were about to cross Illinois Route 53, concerned about flooding issues in the state route’s ditches.

The purpose of the line is to eliminate standing water in some areas of the village.

IDOT was satisfied that the capacity of the state’s ditches can handle flood waters. The $500,000 storm sewer line project will run on the south side of Main Street to Jackson and on Jackson south to Dwight street.

The contractor has 100 days to finish the work, but it may not be completed before winter weather sets in.

Christensen estimates that restoration work such as grass reseeding or some resurfacing of roads may be held up once winter hits. But he is hopeful most of the work will be completed before that. Work was to resume Nov. 2.

In other action, the board:

- heard a complaint from Bell about burning in the village, suggesting that people not burn leaves, but mow or rake them up.

- Learned the all-town cleanup will be Nov. 9 with residents allowed to leave large items at the curb.

- Learned the Gardner Festival of Trees will began Nov. 16 and run through Nov. 29, per Ida Schopp. She said 10 trees have been donated so far and that proceeds go to the village park funds.

Region Prices Volatile

The price of regular gasoline in The Paper’s circulation area was volatile again, with the trend down in some places and up in others.

“We expect the week ahead may be a slightly bumpy one as whole gasoline prices across nearly the entire country have perked up slightly,” said Patrick DeHann, senior petroleum analyst for GasBuddy.

“While we can’t eliminate the possibility of relatively small price adjustments in the short term, we expect prices to generally be lower by the arrival of the holidays,” he added.

The average U.S. gallon of regular unleaded gasoline price is made up of several factors including roughly 17% in state and local taxes, 19% in distribution and marketing, 25% in refining and 40% for refining costs.

Area Sisters Founders of Non-Profit Weighted Comfort for Kids

Weighted Comfort for Kids believes in the value of pressure therapy and aims to provide sensory comfort to any autistic minor in need. Two sisters, Katie Kinzler of Dwight and Liz Depew are the founders of this non-profit. They both have friends or family with autistic children. When Katie saw a friend who needed a weighted blanket, she took it upon herself to locate a pattern and buy the materials to make it. She confided in her sister, then together they formed their non-profit organization. The collaboration received tax exempt 501(c)(3) status on July 8, 2015.

Several members of Streator’s Knot-a-Stitch quilting group sewed weighted blankets for the non-profit. These blankets, filled with poly pellets, provide sensory comfort for autistic children. Recent studies have shown that deep pressure touch generated from a weighted blanket will signal the brain to release serotonin, which in turn naturally calms and relaxes the body to promote sleep and relieve stress.

A family in need may request a weighted blanket from www.weightedcomfortforkids.org. Katie and Liz’s goal is to help 30 to 100 kids per month. If local service organizations wish to help, directions for sewing a blanket can be found on the website, or questions can be e-mailed to weightedcomfortforkids@gmail.com.

Farmers receive “rent” for the use of their land during the 20-year life of the turbine, and also benefit from the land virtually locked in as farmland for the next 20 years. Developments for housing or other purposes would be unlikely to gobble up the farmland while the wind turbines are present.

After 20 years, the turbines will either be upgraded with new technology or closed down, at no cost to the farmers, Baker said.

This is phase one of a two-phase project. The second phase will involve another 100 wind turbines, but be located mostly in the Tri-Point School District.

The Tri-Point project, known as Kelly Creek, is scheduled to go online in late 2016, according to Jon Baker, project developer for EDF.

It will have a similar scope in wind turbines and electrical generation.

Tri-Point Superintendent Jeff Bryan said the project is expected to bring in $1.5 million in tax revenue, for a district that has a $5 million total budget.

Farmland will be negligibly impacted by the project. For every 160 acre farm parcel, roughly four to five acres are taken out of production during the life of the turbines.

But some people object to the windfarms for various reasons, which Baker said are not based in reality.

He said communities reap financial and environmental benefits, as every megawatt produced by wind power is offsetting electricity generated by coal fired plants or some other fossil fuel.

“We want to make sure the benefits are generated locally,” Baker said, “for local schools, people driving on improved roads.”

The turbines are set back

1,500 feet from any buildings and therefore windfarms tend to be located in open areas to avoid being too close to structures.

Illinois has a rule that at least 25% of electricity be generated from renewable sources by 2025, which accounts for several windfarms being located in Illinois.

It has been seven years since the project was begun. Most projects take four years in development, at least, Baker said.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Cheer Coach Responds

I would like to respond to Ken Gamble's letter as printed in last week's issue. Thank you for your interest in DYF cheerleaders, but you did not have all the facts. This season, we had only 16 girls. The majority of girls were very young; only seven had cheered before. By the time we got into the playoffs, four older team leaders had announced they were done for the season due to school commitments. Therefore, we decided to make the first playoff game our last because we just didn't have enough bodies. None of the girls seemed disappointed when we discussed it, and I received no negative feedback from parents.

You also mentioned a cancelled high school performance, which was a high school fundraiser. It wasn't affiliated with DYF, but I can tell you from experience that scheduling events at high school football games is difficult because there are so few opportunities. I'm sure the people on that end tried their best, but they can't control the weather.

It's disheartening that you are quick to voice displeasure in the newspaper, but never once approached me or another coach and asked the reasoning behind our decision or thank us for our efforts from July-October. Our commitment did not end with practices and games. It involved planning, choreographing and providing transportation. We did receive thanks from many parents, and I would like to thank the parents and girls who made this season enjoyable. Special thanks to Carrie Lovell and Jillian Frauli for their coaching efforts!

Sincerely,
Kim Frauli, 2015 DYF Cheer Coordinator

Reflect

One of the reasons I like writing these columns is that it forces me to reflect. Even if the reflection is only for a half hour, it makes me stop, and slow down and think about what's ahead, and what has already taken place. There's always a fine line to walk between reflecting, and looking back on what you've accomplished, and keeping your nose to the ground and working and working knowing that looking back on what you've done could be a cause to slow down and not accomplish what you're setting out to do. In school for example, I have one semester left in the spring and then I'm graduating. It's very easy to just attack it head on, and not look back on what got me here, it's easy to forget all the work that I've put in to get to this point. We live in the moment, it's very hard not to. The reflection period really keeps things in perspective. It can also work as a pat on the back when you need one. When times get hard in school, or there are a lot of tests in a short amount of time, I can look back and know that I've done it before and I'm not in uncharted territory. It really helps me. I might not stop and do it as much, or at all if it wasn't for this column. It really drives me to think back on what has happened, recently, why it happened, and if it happened in a way other than what I wanted how can I change it in the future. There are a lot of different ways to step back and set up a plan of attack going forward.

Soldier Returns From Iraq With Broken Mind, Body; Strong Spirit

ERIC ROEBUCK, Verona, who served two tours in Iraq, returned with Post Traumatic Stress Disorder plus physical injuries, and was given a medical discharge. But despite the trauma, he said he would go back to fight “in a heartbeat.”

by Myke Feinman
Managing Editor

U.S. Army veteran Eric Roebuck, 29, of Verona, said he returned from Iraq to America with knee problems, a mild traumatic brain injury, and repeated nightmares attributed to Post Traumatic Stress Disorder.

“I came back with the body of a 90 year old,” explained Roebuck, half joking.

PTSD develops after a terrifying ordeal that involved physical harm or the threat of physical harm, according to the National Institute of Mental Health.

Roebuck’s PTSD and other injuries trace back to May 14, 2011 in Iraq.

“Me and my buddy were walking around on base,” Roebuck remembered.

He said a rocket-propelled weapon came in, with a warhead kill-blast radius of 175 feet.

He and the older soldier, a large fellow described by Roebuck as weighing 300 pounds, were standing roughly 100 feet from where the weapon exploded.

The blast blew Roebuck 10 feet away, and knocked him unconscious, but neither he nor the other soldier were hit with any shrapnel.

“There was shrapnel all around us,” he said.

Roebuck said his friend picked him up, thrust him over his shoulder and called for medics.

“The doctors said ‘I don’t know how you survived,’” Roebuck explained.

“I now have to have a sleeping machine,” Roebuck explained of his sleep apnea. The machine forces air into his nose should he stop breathing.

The Army gave Roebuck a full medical discharge and medical benefits.

Before the injury, Roebuck served as a scout for the 1st Cavalry, 3rd Battalion, 8th Cavalry regiment.

He had enlisted, inspired to help after the terrorist attack of Sept. 11, 2001.

His unit was called the “White Horses” and the unit’s motto was “honor and courage.”

Honor and courage were required for his specialty, assigned as a sniper attached to top secret missions in Iraq.

“I was a scout, so on my first tour, I would go out with a Ranger platoon or a [U.S. Navy] Seal team,” Roebuck said.

“As a scout, I was a Battalion asset,” Roebuck said.

On his missions with Army Rangers or Seal Teams, the soldiers searched for bomb makers and enemy cell leaders.

Of the 10 enemy targeted individuals assigned, “we nabbed seven of 10,” he said.

His first tour was from Jan. 1 to Nov. 14, 2009. The second was from Jan. 12 to Nov. 21, 2011.

“I had a lot of fun on missions,” he said, with his tongue planted firmly in his cheek.

He said some missions involved knocking on doors to seek the bomb makers or cell leaders, not knowing if they would be greeted by gunfire through the door.

“We went on a lot of raids,” he added.

Roebuck married a Verona native, Danielle, and the couple has a boy, now age 10. His son was just a baby when his father deployed to Iraq.

But unlike the days of World War II or Korea or even Vietnam when there were only letters from home for communication from soldiers, today’s soldiers are allowed to see their loved ones “face to face”, thanks to the Internet.

So Roebuck did not come home to a son who did not know who he was.

However, after a secret mission, if there was a casualty, there would be blackouts for communications with family until next of kin was notified.

Which made for some tense moments back home, he said.

“If someone was killed, we couldn’t talk to our families for two or three days,” Roebuck said.

Danielle tolerated the blackouts and welcomed her husband home after his final deployment. She tried to console him when he suffered with the nightmares.

“She really didn’t know what to do,” Roebuck said.

But a great uncle in Ohio who is actively working with veterans helped Danielle learn to help her husband cope.

Roebuck proudly sports a tattoo on his hand in remembrance of a soldier friend he lost in Iraq.

But the violence in Iraq is not over. He said he feels angry that all of the sacrifices made by him and his fellow soldiers were “for nothing.”

ISIS took over Mosul in Iraq and destroyed priceless archeological treasures.

“When ISIS took Mosul in the middle of last year, they destroyed everything,” Roebuck said. He said he fought to protect that city from just such destruction.

“You feel bad,” he said. But, “I’d go back in a heartbeat,” he added, although his medical discharge would prevent it.

Roebuck’s body and mind may be injured but his spirit remains strong.

TO HONOR A FRIEND WHO DIED after only being deployed in Iraq two months, Eric Roebuck, Verona, sports a tattoo honoring PFC Albert Jex, who also trained with Roebuck before deployment.

GSWB Fall Sports Awards Night Held

South Wilmington Grade School recently hosted the GSWB Fall Sports Awards Night. Students were honored for softball and baseball for the Fall season. The following awards were presented:

Boys -
Kade Kociss - MVP;
Michael Ashley - Offensive;

Grant Olsen - Most Improved; Nolan Perkins - Defensive; Chris Ruiz - Pitching.

Girls -
Kylie Hawks - Most Improved; Kennedy Fair - Offensive; Shelby Serena - Pitching; Carson Halpin - Defensive; Madelyn Storm - Coach's Award.

Lady Trojan Golf Awards

Despite the rainy, cool conditions in Lisle on Saturday for the Class A sectional meet, the GSW cross country team ran well - some even competing in their first sectional race.

The boys' squad, with just one senior and four new runners, placed tenth overall, which Coach Larry Lane says is a tremendous accomplishment. "They should be proud of their race and their season."

The team had two members qualify for the state meet at Detweiler Park in Peoria on Saturday.

Daly Galloway, running alone for three-quarters of the race, successfully defended her sectional crown.

"Every time I saw Daly on the course during the race, she had a huge smile on her face," Lane said.

Michael Mankowski, the lone senior boy, continued his fine season, finishing seventh overall and was the fifth individual qualifier in the meet.

"Watching Michael qualify for state reminded me what hard work, desire, and determination can accomplish," Lane added.

Individual times are as follows"

Girls -
Galloway - 18:59, 1st.

Boys -
Mankowski - 17:27, 7th;
Dan Muller - 18:55, 49th;
Payton Christoff - 19:22, 66th; J.C. Santos - 20:06, 77th; Kerrick Dyer - 21:05, 117th; Josh Pearson - 21:07, 118th; Calvin Croy - 21:08, 119th.

Gibson Elected to 3-Year Term Serving the IHSA Legislative Commission

Chris Gibson, Gardner-South Wilmington Athletic Director, has recently been elected to a three-year term to serve on the Illinois High School Association Legislative Commission. Gibson defeated Wheaton St. Francis Athletic Director, Dan Hardwick, in the recent election for IHSA Division 3, which covers a vast area from Elmhurst to Herscher and Newark to the Indiana border.

The Legislative Commission functions as the IHSA's screening committee for proposed amendments to the Constitution and By-laws. Meeting annually in November (or when called into special session), the Commission considers every proposed change to the Constitution and By-laws. Proposals receiving majority support in the Commission are then submitted to all member schools, who vote in December by electronic ballot. Each member school has one vote. Proposals are adopted if approved by a simple majority of votes cast.

Gibson has served as athletic director at Midland High School (1998-2002), Special Assistant to the Director of Athletics at Olivet Nazarene University (2002-2006) and is in his third year as athletic director at GSW High School.

Two Is Better Than One

Week 6 Paper Bowl XV

For the first time in Paper Bowl history, we have two happy swamis claiming prizes. Dwight's Anne Martin came in with the best score at 12-2. Martin left no doubt and now has a shiny new $25 Paper Bowl gift certificate in her hand. The second prize wouldn't be as easy to determine. In fact, Anne Martin came within a point of winning two times. Ten entry forms came in at 11-3. Our second winner would be determined by the tiebreaker. The tiebreaker for the 6th week was 658. Odell's Randy Battle had a tiebreaker guess of 665, just 7 points off. Anne Martin had one entry with a tiebreaker score of 650, eight points off. Randy Battle is one point better and has collected his prize. The rest of the pack that finished 11-3 included Anne Martin again with a 630 tiebreaker score. Bill Martin had two entries in contention with tiebreakers of 666 and 643. Dwight's Ken Taylor was in with a guess of 643. WALTER CLEMONS AMERICAN LEGION Post #613 in Chatsworth.

The Chatsworth American Legion, Walter Clemons Post 613, was organized April 21, 1920, to honor and support American veterans in all branches of service—the men and women that put their lives on the line for freedom. Anyone that has never left home at a young age will never know the anticipation, fear of the unknown or excitement of joining the service.

Go back to the military physical. Standing in line endlessly. Waiting for your turn for an exam and vaccinations. Even if you were scared, you couldn't show it to the others. When another would faint, you secretly hoped you wouldn't be the next one to fall. The line moved. Another step closer. Then another line.

The night before you were to leave, lying awake most of the night wondering if you would ever see home again, or your family, or your friends. Excitement? Fear? Anticipation. The night seemed endless and fleeting at the same time. As you said your last goodbyes to family and friends, you realized life would never be the same. And now the adventure begins.

Boot Camp made you strong. Physically and mentally challenging, sometimes harsh, but a lesson in respect. You formed a brotherhood with the other young soldiers. A bond tough to break.

Then into service. No matter which war or conflict you were shipped to, your life dramatically changes again—to fight for the freedom you and your loved ones deserve.

Veterans Day exemplifies our Nation's bravest. The American Legion brings these men together monthly to share their experiences and memories. No one knows better than another soldier of the pain and suffering, joy and accomplishments they all endured. They talk of those who gave their all. Forever in their hearts.

Veterans are the original American Hero. Each and every one of them. Their stories need to be shared with the children and grandchildren of every generation. Their lives were changed forever. Our lives were changed forever. Stand up when the American flag passes by in a parade, show your respect for the men and women whose lives were changed forever.

Thank you, American soldiers and Veterans, for all that you gave.

Odell Village Board Meets October 12

On October 12 in Odell, a Regular Village Board Meeting was held at 7:00 p.m. in the Council Room at Village Hall, 213 S. Front St., with Mayor Joyner presiding and with proper notice having been posted.

Roll call showed the following Trustee Members were physically present: Gary Wykes, Jamie Johnson, Phaela Hodges (at 7:06 p.m.) and Brian Mills. Staff present: Iris Thorne. Village Attorney present: Ed Legner. State Representative Thomas M. Bennett was a guest. Mayor Joyner called the meeting to order at 7:00 p.m., at which time a quorum was present.

Mayor Joyner led the Pledge of Allegiance. Trustee Mills moved to approve the minutes of the September 14 regular Board Meeting as printed, and was seconded by Trustee Johnson.

It was approved by unanimous roll call vote.

Iris Thorne reported that the Treasurer, Jim Rebholz, has supplied copies of a YTD Fund Summary and a MTD Treasurer's Report. Bank balances for the month ending September 30 are as follows:

Odell checking – $63,737.67; Odell savings – $89,246.54; Illinois Funds Gen Fund checking – $226,987.56; Illinois Funds MFT checking – $87,376.04; General Fund CD's – $225,465.53; Odell Tourism – $35,379.43.

Thorne reported that the State is still withholding Odell's portion of Video Gaming and Motor Fuel Tax money due to the State not having a budget in place.

Trustee Johnson moved to approve the Treasurer's Report, and was seconded by Trustee Wykes.

It was approved by unanimous roll call vote.

Board Listing Report #853 run on October 12 at 9:11 a.m., representing all due bills for the Village for October 2015, and Board Listing Report #854 run on October 12 at 9:36 a.m., representing all due bills for Tourism for October 2015 were presented for payment approval.

Trustee Mills moved to approve and pay all bills on the Board Listing Reports, and was seconded by Trustee Wykes.

It was approved by unanimous roll call vote.

No representative from the Livingston County Sheriff's Department was present for the police report.

Thomas Bennett, State Representative, stopped by briefly for the public forum and talked with the board about the current budget situation, which could go on until next year. Mr. Bennett answered questions and encouraged the board to contact him with any questions in the future.

Old Business: Trustee Mills moved to accept the water rate increase that was voted on last month, to take effect beginning at the next billing cycle, and was seconded by Trustee Wykes.

It was approved by roll call vote: Yeas – Wykes, Hodges, Mills; Nays – Johnson.

The Route 66 Trail Bids were tabled due to the State withholding grant money, and no action was taken on the proposed interest rates received from two banks due to the hold put on the Route 66 project.

Attorney Ed Legner presented the board with a draft of an Ordinance Authorizing The Use of Registered Properly Equipped Golf Carts In The Village of Odell. The Ordinance does not contain the requirements which will go into effect on January 1, 2016. Attorney Legner will revise the Ordinance to include those requirements before the November meeting for the Board's review. The issue was tabled until the November meeting.

Attorney Legner also prepared a draft of a Culvert Policy. The policy was tabled until measurements of the culvert can be confirmed with Superintendent Rich Ribordy.

Concerning the Clearwell update, Legner reported that the Judge will be considering all filing and will be issuing his ruling in the near future.

New Business:

Legner presented the Tax Levy Ordinance for tax year 2015 in which the increase is reflected in the IMRF line item. The board suggested putting the maximum allowable increase into the Police Protection line item and the balance in IMRF. Legner will revise the Ordinance to reflect that change. Tax Levy Ordinance tabled until November meeting.

Trustee Mills, representing the Fire Department, reported that the Fire District has started receiving its tax money and is currently:

- 1) Using tax money to train four EMTs, which will bring the total to nine EMTs and 12 first responders.
- 2) Using Duffy to back them up on calls as needed.

3) Updating the ambulances as to comply with the state code.

Misc. New Business: Trustee Wykes suggested that the Village look into purchasing a set of forks for unloading chemicals. Mayor Joyner will have Superintendent Ribordy obtain prices for the November meeting.

Trustee Johnson moved to adjourn at 8:15 p.m., and was seconded by Trustee Mills.

It was approved by unanimous roll call vote.

'Flora, Fauna and Fascination' Show at Pontiac Art Center in November

The November Gallery Show at the Pontiac Community Art Center, 103 W. Madison St., will exhibit "Flora, Fauna and Fascination" through November 25. The show features mostly photography plus various other media inspired by the fascination in plants and animals by local artist, Constance Kostelec.

Kostelec is a retired educator whose interest in plants led her to involvement in various gardening organizations, including 16 years as a Livingston County Master Gardener. Her love of nature, of course, also extended to animals.

The Pontiac Community Art Center Gallery is open Monday through Friday,

10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Saturday, 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., and Sunday, noon to 4:00 p.m. There is no admission fee and the public is welcome.

Headaches

Just about everybody gets a headache once in a while, but what's the deal with recurring headaches? Causes of persistent and recurring headaches can include problems with neck, upper back and upper rib joint mobility. Muscles of the neck, upper back, chest, and across the top of the shoulders are common "Headache Culprits" also. These muscles can get tight, weak, and knotted up, referring pain to the head. Even "migraine" sufferers can have significant and undiagnosed muscle and joint problems contributing to the severity of their headaches. Proper treatment of muscle and joint related headaches requires professional assessment of neck, back, rib and shoulder joint and muscle health followed by physical therapeutic treatment aimed at restoring adequate joint motion, resolving stiffness, and restoring muscle strength and coordination. When the muscles and joints of our body function properly together, these painful and injured areas often calm down, and feel and work better during our daily lives. Consider an expert Chiropractic Physician examination of your pain, injury or physical inability to get back on the road to a better quality of life! Learn more about Chiropractic Physical Therapy today by visiting DwightPain.com and calling 584-2225 (BACK). Dr. Michael Smith, D.C. is now accepting Medicare & most Insurances.

The woman in the center, wearing glasses and a patterned top, holds a quilt with a pink border and a 'hello kitty' design featuring a rainbow and a cat. The woman on the right, wearing a white shirt and glasses, also holds the quilt. The room has a wooden door and a patterned curtain in the background.

The next meeting will be held Nov. 17 in the community room at Prairie Creek Library.

An admission fee applies and includes dinner. Children and senior citizens receive a discount. Those wishing not to have dinner also receive a discounted price.
