DEA Seeks Vendors for 'A Taste of Dwight'

The Dwight Economic Alliance is seeking more vendors for the Aug. 14 "Taste of Dwight" to be held at Renfrew Park, noon to 8 p.m.

There will be free entertainment all day at the event. Vendors may feature food or promote other products for their business.

DEA members are allowed a 12 foot by 12 foot space at no charge. Non-members pay $40 for the space.

"We want people to use this event to promote their business," said DEA member Shayla Samples.

This is the third year for the "Taste" which features Dwight's restaurant's unique food.

For further information, call the DEA at (815) 584-1830 or email: dwightevents@gmail.com for a vendor application.

Harvest Days Committee Seeks Help for Renfrew Park Cleanup

by Myke Feinman
Managing Editor

Dwight area volunteers are wanted to spruce up Dwight's Renfrew Park at a "cleanup party" to be held starting at 9 a.m. July 30.

Volunteers will work through noon, break for lunch and continue to work in the afternoon, said Jerry Beier, Harvest Days president.

"We're looking for volunteers," said Beier.

"We need to go through the park and make sure our plans fit the landscaping," he explained.

Volunteers will be checking to see if trees need trimming, cleaning up the park area, filling in holes if needed.

"We will go through the park, determine if branches need to be trimmed," Jerry said as an example.

"We need people to pitch in," he continued.

"Anybody who has any ideas can let us know when they stop by to volunteer. We need to make the park as beautiful as possible. The main thing is to get people to show up."

Beier said the park is already in "good shape," but some minor work needs to be done.

The Dwight Baptist Academy will provide free lunch for the volunteers that day.

The car show also remains in Renfrew Park.

The entire downtown area will be "closed" to Harvest Days this September due to the railroad crossing work being done on the streets. Events moving from downtown to the park include the Carnival at the Stevenson Pool, craft and flea market, entertainment stage, baby changing station and Harvest Day Headquarters.

Moving to the park leaves the festival more vulnerable to rain because the park does not drain as efficiently as the downtown area, Beier said.

"That makes us nervous," he said of the Harvest Days committee members, but added this is only a one-year move. In 2017, it will return to downtown Dwight.

But Beier joked that even with good planning, "I am 99% sure nothing will go as planned. I think it's going to be good at the park and it will be great to have it back downtown next year."

For any further questions, call Beier at (815) 343-7803.

Dwight Township Office Eyes New Location

by Tom Tock

The officers and board members of Dwight Township met July 5 in the Pioneer Gothic Church at 6:30 p.m. for a Special Meeting that was called to consider the purchase of property at 414 South Washington St. in Dwight.

Patricia Rosenbaum, Township Supervisor, was nominated and approved as moderator for the evening's meeting.

Township Board members Ed O'Neill, Rick Parker, Ron Colebank, and Bruce Bossert were present, as was Jan Masching, Township Clerk; Jeff Perschnick, Township Highway Commissioner; and Rudy Piskule, Township Assessor.

The meeting was opened to public comment after Rosenbaum explained that the purpose of the meeting was to vote on the purchase of property at 414 South Washington St., which is adjacent to the Township's Road and Bridge District property on William Street.

The cost of the property on Washington Street is $15,000. The future plans for use of the property are to construct a new Township Office.

The Pioneer Gothic Church has been serving as the Dwight Township office since July of 1977.

"We would like to have something a little more maintenance - free," said

Small-business Owners Must Protect Their Futures

If you're a small-business owner, you think a lot about today. Is your cash flow sufficient ... today? Are your products and services competitive ... today? Are you confident in your marketing and advertising efforts ... today? And because you are so focused on today, you may be neglecting a key aspect of tomorrow — your retirement. Specifically, do you have a good retirement plan for yourself?

Given that your personal finances are so tied up with your business, your plans for the business will obviously greatly affect your financial situation when you retire. Whether you want to transfer the business to another family member, sell it outright to someone else, or possibly just wind it down, you'll need to plan ahead and consult with your legal and tax advisors.

However, you can take steps now to help ensure you can enjoy a comfortable retirement. You have access to a variety of retirement plans appropriate for small-business owners, including these:

Owner-only 401(k) — This plan, also known as an individual or a "solo" 401(k), is available to self-employed individuals and business owners with no full-time employees other than themselves or a spouse. As the owner, you can contribute to your plan as both an employer and an employee; your total contribution limit for 2016 is $53,000, or $59,000 if you are 50 or older.

SEP IRA — If you have just a few employees or are self-employed with no employees, you might consider a SEP IRA. You'll fund the plan with tax-deductible contributions, and you must cover all eligible employees. (Employees themselves cannot contribute.) You can contribute up to 25% of compensation, up to $53,000 annually. (Contributions for a self-employed individual are limited to 25% of compensation minus one-half of self-employment taxes.) And you can fund your SEP IRA with many different types of investments. Plus, you can establish a SEP IRA for 2016 until April 17, 2017.

Defined benefit plan — Pension plans, also known as defined benefit plans, have become less prevalent in recent years — but you can still set one up for yourself if you are self-employed or own your own business. This plan has high contribution limits, which are determined by an actuarial calculation, and as is the case with other retirement plans, your contributions are typically tax-deductible.

SIMPLE IRA — As its name suggests, a SIMPLE IRA is easy to set up and maintain, and can be a good plan if your business has fewer than 10 employees. Still, while a SIMPLE IRA may be advantageous for your employees, it's less generous to you, as far as allowable contributions, than an owner-only 401(k), SEP IRA or a defined benefit plan. For 2016, your annual contributions are generally limited to $12,500, or $15,500 if you're 50 or older by the end of the year. You can also make a matching contribution of up to 3% of your compensation.

You need to establish a SIMPLE IRA between Jan. 1 and Oct. 1 of any year. In fact, if you'd like to set up any of the retirement plans we've looked at, don't delay. The sooner you open your plan, the more years you will have to contribute — and, as you know, time is often an investor's best friend.

Alcohol, Drug Abuse Still Major Challenge as it Was in Keeley's Time

abusing drugs.

The drugs of choice in 2016 for abuse include alcohol, marijuana and opiates.

Her agency serves 300 to 400 individuals a year, from Livingston County and some surrounding counties.

Last year, there were nearly 990 crises outreach contacts.

She said the agency is stressing prevention, targeting junior high age students, including a program at Odell Grade School, one of four schools in Livingston County where the program is offered.

There are current discussions to offer the program at Dwight Grade School, Diemer said.

How do parents prevent their children from abusing drugs and alcohol?

"Start talking to your kids at a young age," she said. "First grade or before. Tell them you don't want them to do that because they will be disappointed."

Also, it is important to be a good example, not abusing alcohol in front of them or taking illegal drugs.

An alarming number of young people are dying of drug overdoses, which Diemer said is because a person may quit taking drugs, but then if they start abusing again they take the same dose needed for a high as the last time. Trouble is their body can no longer tolerate that much in their system, causing the overdose."

In addition to the Safe Haven program at Dwight, people who wish to be admitted to a drug rehab program can call the IHR Resources Center on the 24-hour hotline, (815) 844-6109.

In addition to drug and alcohol abuse counseling, the center does substance abuse evaluations, outpatient treatment, DUI evaluations, and reports to the Secretary of State for people who need to have their driver's licenses reinstated.

More stories and pictures about Keeley, the special Keeley day events and Keeley history appear on pages 7 to 10 in a pull out section this week.

U.S. Gas Down 29th Day

National gas prices have declined for 29 consecutive days as of Monday, July 11, averaging $2.228 gallon, a drop of 54 cents from this time last year, according to GasBuddy.com.

The Keeley Institute's Final Day

Note: The Paper continues its articles about the Keeley Institute, this being the final article before the Dwight July 14-17 Alcohol and Drug History Society Conference. Also see related stories on page 1 and in our special Keeley section this week.

On Sunday, June 5, 1966, at noon, the last meal was served at The Keeley Institute, and the dozen remaining patients left for home that afternoon.

Treatment ceased after 87 years of continuous operation, exactly 100 years after Dr. Leslie E. Keeley settled in Dwight.

The last franchise at Greensboro, North Carolina had closed the previous year.

That Sunday started as any other day. Breakfast was served between 7:00 and 8:00 a.m. ala carte. The teenage mail waiter in a pressed white jacket with dark dress pants and shoes relayed each order by memory to the weekend cook, Jeanette Larson.

The once-daily cup of coffee or tea was poured. That Sunday noon dinner was, as usual, fried chicken served family style. The platters and bowls of sides were all carried in by hand. Trays could only be used when the dining room had no patients present.

Other than Sunday, the noon lunch was soups, salads, and sandwiches and a light dessert of jello, ice cream or sherbet and cookies. The 5:00 evening meal was meat dishes and homemade desserts.

Marie Reeb was the day

cook for the last six months as tragedy had struck The Keeley yet again, with the passing of the main chef, Robert Zappa.

Several years earlier, the basement of The Lodge was converted into an apartment for the head housekeeper, Anne Tunberg.

She constantly admonished the waiters to "use your head and save your feet."

The dining room had two tables used by a Jag and his boss. After a couple of days, the Jag was moved to one of the four tables of four and ultimately to one of the two tables of six. This progression of tables and family-style dining fostered social skills often lost in drunkards.

The Chicago Tribune's Sunday, June 5, 1966 issue reported that according to the institute's administrator, J.H. Oughton, Jr., "the widening competition of 'free' medicine being offered at the municipal, state and federal level and general economic conditions" promoted the shutdown. He also cited a shortage of professional help, both doctors and managers. Oughton recalled that Dr. Keeley was almost alone in asserting that alcoholism was a disease, but gradually the health disciplines have generally accepted the basic treatment philosophies of the Keeley Institute.

The Leslie E. Keeley Co., through Mr. Oughton, Dr. Keeley's philanthropy continued over the years by donating land for the athletic field, both schools and the ag plot.

The carriage-club house was donated to the village for the new library, and most recently the land for Rotary Park and the original Pine Cone (Clapp Memorial) Trail.

All of this land was part of the Hahn Farm that The Keeley Co. acquired in 1891.

Join the celebration on The Country Mansion grounds starting at 1 p.m., Sunday, July 17.

Time will be provided at 3:45 p.m. for questions from the public.

Dwight Township Office Eyes New Location

Rosenbaum.

She also noted the need for a facility that would allow more and better storage of footstuffs that are offered monthly to some 45 to 75 residents of the Township.

The Township's Food Pantry is open the fourth Wednesday of each month, a joint effort of the Township and five Dwight churches.

Asked what will happen to the Pioneer Gothic Church, which is on the National Register of Historic Places, Rosenbaum said that talks with the Village of Dwight have indicated the Village might accept ownership of the structure once repairs to the Church have been made.

And therein lies something of a problem.

Rosenbaum said that bids have been sought for repairs to the steeple (which leaks rainwater into the foyer of the building), repainting, and other repairs, but she has yet to receive a response from any contractors.

The cost of a new office at 414 South Washington has not been determined "and may be several years in the future," according to Rosenbaum.

414 South Washington is the site of a mobile home with a number of attached structures. It is unoccupied.

Washington St. for $15,000 and the other board members concurred.

"Our first order of business will be to clear the property there," said Rosenbaum.

Minutes with BomaSummertime? It's Changed!

Summer is here but it's also not here.

This is my first summer ever where I haven't really been able to enjoy the weather of the summer. The last few summers I either worked part time jobs, or the job that I worked was outside, so I was really able to utilize the nice weather, one way or another. In that way this summer is very different. I'm in an office, and don't really experience much outside time during the week, (which I realize is the norm for 85% of people.) It's just this is the first time I've gotten to experience it first hand.

What also makes this summer different is the Pokemon Go. For those of you who are unaware of this amazing app development, I will briefly explain. Pokemon Go is an app that allows you to capture Pokemon at various locations in your area. Sound interesting? Just search it in the app store. I've already caught 3, so I'm kind of off to a good start. I'm sure there are a lot of people who have caught more than that. It's really great to see that in a time of high tension, and very heated opinions that we can still enjoy something as simple and universal as Pokemon. It's really just a fun thing that's bringing people together.

I'm pretty sure it's also the first app, aside from workout ones, and geo caching, that involves an abundant amount of exercise in order to be successful at the game. Although I've already read a few articles that have suggested that people are driving very slowly in their cars just to capture the pokemon. I guess with any video game that encourages physical activity there will be people that find a way to shortcut it and be lazy.

I mean I played "Wii" sitting down a lot, so I can relate.

Enjoy every chance you get to really take in a nice day, and go catch those pokemon.

Three Men Founded The Keeley Empire Headquartered in Dwight

Three men founded the Leslie E. Keeley company.

First and foremost, of course, was Leslie E. Keeley who was born in 1834 and died in 1900.

He proclaimed drunkenness was a disease and that he could cure it, which at the ated in Dwight today.

Oughton lived from 1857 to 1925, and was an Irish-born pharmacist. He worked in Seymour Drug Store, below Dr. Keeley's doctor's office.

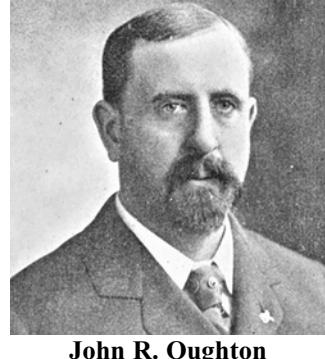

Oughton assisted Keeley in his research projects to

He was known in Dwight as a wealthy merchant when he joined Oughton and Keeley as a founder of the Keeley Institute.

He served as secretary and treasurer of the organization, and with Oughton and Keeley made up the time went against the grain of medical health care professionals.

Dr. Keeley, John R. Oughton, and Curtis J. Judd established the Keeley Institute for the treatment of alcoholism.

Keeley was a graduate of Rush Medical College and an assistant surgeon in the Union Army.

He settled in Dwight as a successful country doctor in 1866.

His home was at 114 East Mazon Ave., next to where the U.S. Post Office is situ-find a cure for alcoholism.

Together they developed Keeley's bi-chloride of gold treatment known as the Keeley Cure.

Oughton lived at 114 West Mazon Ave. until he purchased the Scott Boarding House and grounds from the Keeley at 101 West South Street in 1895. The house on Mazon Ave. is no longer standing.

Curtis J. Judd, who lived from 1839 to 1927, served in the U.S. Army before he retired with the rank of Major.

board of directors serving together for the next 20 years of the organization's existence.

His wife, Estelle Dow Judd, was the sister of Dr. Keeley's wife, Mary Elizabeth.

Judd lived at 324 East Waupansie Street. The house is no longer standing.

In 1895, they moved to Chicago, and Judd commuted to work a few days a week.

Material for this article was provided by the Dwight Historical Society.

Florence Gray, Chicago sculptor, shown as she put finishing touches on the bronze plaque bearing the likeness of the three founders of the Keeley Institute. This memorial—the gift of the citizens of Dwight—was dedicated at the community celebration marking the institute's 60th anniversary on September 17. Authorities on sculpture have pronounced the plaque one of the finest ever executed in the Middle West. Miss Gray, who has done some notable work in modeling, was a pupil of the late Lorado Taft. In company with a colony of other former students and associates of the Illinois master, she works in the studios on Chicago's Midway, where Mr. Taft created some of his most famous sculptures.

A native of Minnesota, Miss Gray has been interested in sculpturing since childhood. When she was in high school in Duluth, Lorado Taft came there on a lecture tour. She met the famous sculptor and showed him some of her modeling work. The result was an invitation to come to the Chicago studio, to live and work. With the exception of a summer spent studying abroad, Miss Gray has been there ever since.

Dwight To Celebrate Keeley Institute Anniversaries This Weekend

This summer will mark three important events in Dwight's history.

Dr. Leslie E. Keeley, M.D., a Union Civil War surgeon, observed that many wounded soldiers became addicted to opiates and whiskey given as anesthesia.

He was one of the first to propose that such addictions are a disease.

Dr. Keeley, in 1866, 150 years ago, chose Dwight to start his medical proactive and a clinic for inebriated soldiers.

He announced in 1879 the discovery of the "Gold Cure" for opiate, alcohol and tobacco addiction.

Within 15 years his successful human treatment gained world reputation, and 126 franchised institutions were opened throughout the U.S. and foreign countries.

By 1892 the Dwight institute was treating as many as 1,000 patients daily resulting in great prosperity for the prairie village.

It closed 50 years ago on Sunday, June 5, 1966, after 87 years of continuous operation.

To commemorate these anniversaries, the Alcohol and Drug History Society, an international organization, is holding a members-only off-year conference in Dwight from July 14 to 17.

Timothy Hickman, Ph.D., professor of addiction history at Lancaster University, London, England, is leading the "I've Been to Dwight" event.

It will be conducted at The Country Mansion Restaurant, 101 W. South Street, which as The Lodge, housed patients of The Keeley Institute from 1930 to 1966.

The Dwight Village Board has proclaimed Sunday, July 17, to be Keeley Institute Day, and the Dwight Historical Society has planned several activities for the general public.

A special Keeley exhibit has been made for the Society Museum in the 150-year-old railroad station between Dwight's two main streets.

It will be open, free to the public, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, July 16 and Sunday, July 17. Also, on Friday, July 15, it will be open from 5 to 8 p.m.

All day July 17, the Dwight Historical Society is offering hourly bus tours of Keeley sites, narrated and including a souvenir booklet. Tours are $10. Call (815) 584-3728 for reservations. Other items commemorating the event will be for sale.

Also on July 17, a simulated Alcoholics Anonymous round-up will start at 1 p.m. on the Country Mansion grounds. These types of round-ups were held from 1958 to 1965 for those in recovery.

The program will open with a Temperance sermon followed by addictions recovery related speeches.

The speakers will have a panel discussion as to The Keeley's continuing influence on the treatment of addiction and address audience questions.

In case of inclement weather, these events will be held inside the Country Mansion.

A time capsule was buried on the grounds as part of the 1939 60th anniversary celebration of The Keeley Institute. The capsule will be opened at 4 p.m. July 14 for public viewing.

The Country Mansion will serve a Sunday breakfast buffet from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m.. The regular brunch runs from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. and menu dining is from 3 to 7 p.m.

The garden patio will be open all three days of the conference.

Reservations should be made at:

www.countrymansion.com

Other restaurants will also open in Dwight during the event.

THE SUMMER AA Round-ups were held each year for Keeley Institute patients, as shown in this ad from 1965.

The Alcohol and Drugs History Society will feature a conference July 14 to 17 focusing on Leslie E. Keeley and his cure for alcoholism in Dwight, Illinois.

The Paper- Then and Now

The Keeley Building on South Prairie, top floor, above a winding wooden staircase was the original office of The Paper, from 1999 to 2006.

The offices of this publication, The Paper, which serves 21 communities in Livingston, Grundy, Kankakee, and LaSalle counties, has ties to The Keeley Institute.

When the offices opened in February 1999, they were housed on the top floor of the Keeley Building on South Prairie Avenue.

Employees had to climb a long, winding wooden staircase to arrive at work. No elevators. This is where the Keeley formula for the Keeley Cure was manufactured.

The first issue was printed with a Feb. 15, 1999 date.

In the fall of 2006, the offices moved to the former offices of Star Newspapers on East Chippewa, where The Paper operations are situated currently.

The former Star Newspapers office on East Chippewa now house the current operations of The Paper. The Paper moved there in 2006.

Rare Keeley Bottles Still Auctioned Off on E-bay as Collector's Items

by Myke Feinman
Managing Editor

As of July 11, there was an ongoing auction for a rare Keeley Bottle, formerly containing the famous Keeley Gold Cure, going for $150.

The bottles have fetched as much as $300 on E-bay, according to a Dwight Historical Society article that appeared in The Paper April 27.

On top of being a part of history, why are the individual bottles selling for so much?

Because The Keeley Institute instructed the doctors all over the world to "destroy" the bottles after the cure was administered.

Evidently some of the doctors did not obey the rules.

The Dwight Historical Society said the bottles can be found all over the world.

This past winter, the Prairie Creek Library, its building formerly a Keeley Institute Clubhouse, asked the Dwight Historical Society if it could borrow a crate of small brown Keeley bottles left over from when the Keeley Institute closed in 1966.

When Dwight's Franklin Street bridge was replaced, numerous bottles were discovered in the creek banks, just a block from the Country Mansion.

Bottles have also been unearthed in old outhouse locations and on farmland.

Some of the earliest bottles had "Double Chloride of Gold Cure" embossed on the back.

The original design was patented March 15, 1881.

Originally bottles were hand blown but the Historical Society said in the 1920s, they were manufactured by "modern" glass factories.

The molds the Keeley owned were not compatible in the new factories so the bottles began to stray from the original patent design.

Wording on the bottles changed, going from "cures" to "remedies" and finally to "treatments."

Dwight is where all of the medicine was formulated.

VARIOUS STYLES of Keeley Cure bottles have survived through the Keeley Institute's history and beyond, with bottles to this day being auctioned off on E-bay.

Year Keeley Institute Founded — Eventful in History

The following article originally appeared in the Sept. 29, 1939 issue of the Dwight Star and Herald:

Rutherford B. Hayes was in the White House. General U. S. Grant was returning home after a triumphal trip around the world. The Apache Indians under Vitorio were on the warpath, attacking white frontier posts in New Mexico.

These items were headline material in 1879, when Dr. Leslie E. Keeley and his two associates, John R. Oughton and Major Curtis J. Judd, established the Keeley Institute in Dwight.

Research into the history of the times brings to light some other interesting milestones:

For instance, 1879 was the year in which Thomas A. Edison invented the first incandescent lamp. He put it in a circuit and it maintained its incandescence for 40 hours. That was the birth of modern electric lights. In that same year, young Edison applied for a patent for his new invention in Washington.

William Lloyd Garrison, abolitionist leader, credited by many with being a force in bringing on the Civil War, died in Boston after a long illness.

John A. Logan was elected senator from Illinois.

Great Britain was fighting a war against the Zulus in the wilds of Africa.

The National League of Professional Baseball was only three years old. The Chicago White Stockings, predecessors of the Cubs, were playing games on the shores of Lake Michigan to small crowds.

The population of the United States was 50,155,000, compared with 130,000,000 today.

Chicago had a population of 500,000. New York was 1,900,000 people; Philadelphia had 847,000. Los Angeles had 11,000, Detroit 116,000, Cleveland 150,000, St. Louis 350,000, Pittsburgh 230,000 and Cincinnati about 250,000.

Sixty years ago there were no automobiles, no radios, no airplanes, no streamlined trains.

The telephone had been invented three years before, but there were none in commercial operation. It was a horse and buggy era.

"Six decades have passed since the Keeley Institute was established," an old-timer pointed out. "Nations have come and gone. But through all these years, the Institute's basic service of human reclamation has been carried on."

10,000 People Thronged into Dwight to Celebrate Keeley's 60th Birthday

Taken from the Dwight Star and Herald, Sept. 29, 1939:

Ten thousand persons gathered in Dwight on Sunday afternoon, September 17, to join in a celebration commemorating the sixtieth anniversary of the establishment of the Keeley Institute honoring the memory of its three founders.

Under a sunny, cloudless sky the crowd — one of the largest ever assembled in Central Illinois — listened for nearly three hours to a program which all who witnessed will long remember.

Although seats had been provided for thousands, "standing room only" was the rule an hour before the ceremonies began.

Great Enthusiasm

Citizens of Dwight, their families and neighbors from the surrounding countryside were there in full force. People came from Chicago and downstate Illinois, from nearby Middle Western states and far distant places.

The keynote of the occasion was sounded by Hon. Frank L. Smith, general chairman of the citizens committee sponsoring the celebration, when he said:

"Sixty years ago there came into being in this little hamlet of ours an idea and an ideal. The idea was that drunkenness was a disease; the ideal was that it could be cured."

Back in the days of the famous Keeley Institute (above), postcards such as the one above in full color were sold and mailed around the globe. This one shows the building now occupied by the Fox Developmental Center. At left is the Livingston Hotel, Circa 1910.

David Doyle's hobby is taking him back to his farming roots as a boy, but he does not like the weed roots that have been a nuisance this year in his home garden plot.

"The weeds sort of got ahead of me," said Doyle, 77, retired, of Saunemin, who harvests a large variety of vegetables in his garden, then gives them away fresh or as canned items, breads, etc.

This is just a hobby for Doyle who is going into his fourth year as a vegetable "farmer."

Last year the vegetable garden provided 79 jars of pickles and 45 loaves of zucchini bread. He gives them all away.

He said the bread and butter pickles are very popular with friends and neighbors.

"We got radishes this big around," he said holding his hands in a large circle.

He said they were so large in circumference, they would not fit in a coffee cup.

He said friends take the monster-size radishes with them to work and munch on them all day long.

This year he also planted sunflowers, which have yet to bloom.

Doyle said they could reach 15 feet high, but his granddaughter has been measuring them against her height every day. They are not that tall yet, but tower over her at 10 years of age.

He grows zucchini, bell peppers, cucumbers, beans, garlic, onions, carrots, radishes, different potato varieties, and cantaloupe.

Doyle comes by farming the honest way, growing up on a farm until the age of 16.

Most of the vegetables are not ready to be picked. He pulled an onion out of the ground, but it was still not ripe, although very close.

"The onions are not ready to be picked yet," he said.

In addition to weeds, he also has insects invade his crops.

"The bugs are eatin' 'em," Doyle said of the zucchini.

THE MOST POPULAR type of pickles grown and canned at the Doyle home are bread and butter, a sweet, but spicy, pickle that is canned and given away to friends. At right, Doyle pulled out an onion from his garden to see if it was ripe yet. He said this year weeds and insects have been trying to take over the large vegetable garden in back of his Saunemin home.

Home Upgrades that Offer Bang for Your Buck

(StatePoint) Putting dollars into a home remodeling project should be done with care. After all, your decisions could affect your home's value if you sell it in the future.

Here are three upgrades to consider:

Attic Insulation

For an affordable home project with a superb return on investment, start at the very top of your home and insulate your attic with fiberglass. This upgrade offers a 116 percent return on investment, according to Remodeling Magazine's 2016 Cost vs. Value Report.

Not only will you see money on the table when you sell your home, this is one job that will prove to reduce energy bills now while improving home comfort.

Fireplace

Make your home a hot property. New homebuyers ranked fireplaces as the number one most desired decorative appearance product in a new home, according to a National Association of Home Builders survey.

"A fireplace can give you the competitive advantage you need to sell your home faster and at a higher value," says Andy Tesch, brand director for Heat & Glo, an industry-leading fireplace manufacturer.

Options abound to make a fireplace a possibility in any room of the house -- including kitchens and bathrooms, or even outdoors. And there's a fireplace to fit your style and needs, whether you're going for a contemporary look, want authentic masonry styling with the functionality of gas, like the TRUE series from Heat & Glo, or need a focal point for your outdoor space. You can even upgrade your wood-burning fireplace with an efficient gas insert. Whatever you choose, a fireplace gives your home a "wow" factor.

For free design resources and help selecting the right fireplace for your home, visit HeatnGlo.com.

New Deck

To improve home value significantly and take better advantage of every square inch of your property, extend your living space outdoors.

A deck is a dramatic addition that makes a statement. For a sound return on your investment, build with wood. Wood offers a 75 percent return, as opposed to composite material, which only offers a 64 percent return, according to the same Remodeling Magazine Report.

While there are some maintenance costs associated with deck upkeep -- staining, pressure washing and furnishing -- doing it yourself can make this a worthwhile upgrade.

Be an informed homeowner. Put your money where it counts with smart home upgrades that improve your comfort today and attract buyers tomorrow.

See the light: Get the real facts about LED bulbs

(BPT) - Light-emitting diode (LED) light bulbs have transformed home lighting since coming on the market.

It's time to finally dispel some common LED myths and get the real facts about these light bulbs.

Myth: LED light bulbs aren't worth the cost.

Fact: LED light bulbs are now only a few dollars more than ordinary light bulbs; significant research and development from manufacturers like Philips Lighting has made LED light bulbs more affordable.

Although the initial cost of an LED may be slightly higher than an incandescent light bulb, making the switch to LED lighting provides significant long-term savings. For example, the Philips A19 LED with a warm glow dimming effect has an average lifetime of 25,000 hours. This means if you have a light bulb on for three hours per day, then it will be 20 years before you need to change it.

Myth: LED light bulbs are not bright enough.

Fact: LEDs can emit the same amount of light as incandescent bulbs while using far less energy.

Light levels are measured in lumens. When you compare lumens, a 9.5-watt Philips LED bulb with a warm glow effect is as bright as a 60-watt incandescent bulb - both emit approximately 800 lumens.

Myth: LED light bulbs need time to warm up.

Fact: It's a big misunderstanding that LED bulbs need time to warm up before they reach full brightness. While fluorescent or CFL bulbs come on slowly, LEDs are "instantly on" and immediately shine with their full light output.

Myth: LED lighting can't be controlled and dimmed.

Fact: Unlike many CFL bulbs, most LED light bulbs are designed to easily dim. Dimmable LEDs can provide the right lighting for any mood or room in your home.

Armed with the facts, you should feel confident that switching to LED light bulbs will allow you to enjoy hassle-free lighting, see savings in your energy bill and create the right ambiance in your home.

Dr. Cichon Works With Morris Hospital To Find His Replacement

by Myke Feinman
Managing Editor

As of Aug. 7, Dr. Mike Cichon of Dwight will have been a physician in town for 35 years.

Preferring not to work until he reaches the ripe old age of 80 like his predecessor, Cichon decided to work with Morris Hospital and Healthcare Centers to find his replacement.

When Cichon came to Dwight three-and-a-half decades ago, it was his first and only position as a doctor.

For his first five years, he worked alongside Dr. Aage Steiniche who was a Dwight doctor for 50 years.

Cichon is 62.

"I don't want to pull a Steiniche," he joked, saying he plans to stop working full time in one year. After that he will work with his replacement part-time.

Cichon completed an agreement that merges Cichon's practice with Morris Hospital.

As part of the agreement, Morris Hospital has purchased Dr. Cichon's practice and office building located at 103 S. John Street in Dwight, where he and his office staff will continue to care for patients.

"I've informed my patients that the time has come for me to begin thinking about my retirement," Cichon said in a news release prepared by Morris Hospital.

"I want to be sure a physician is in place and established before I retire in order to assure continuity of care for my patients."

"We are committed to making sure Dr. Cichon's patients continue to receive the level of care they are accustomed to during this time of transition," said Mark Steadham, president and CEO of Morris Hospital.

A 1980 graduate of Chicago College of Osteopathic Medicine in Downers Grove, he completed his osteopathic internship

Dr. Mike Cichon will mark 35 years as a Dwight physician Aug. 7. He plans to work full-time for one more year and start transitioning to part-time with a new physician taking over his practice. He is working with Morris Hospital to find his replacement.

at Marin Place Hospital in Madison Heights, Michigan.

He chose Dwight to stay close to his family in the Chicago area.

When he started as a physician, smaller hospitals like Streator took care of all heart attacks, strokes and cancer victims. At the time he was affiliated with St. Mary's Hospital in Streator.

"Nowadays, people are transferred to what they call tertiary centers," a different specialty hospital, he said.

Cichon is married to Pam and the couple has two grown children, Doug, 31, and Brenda, 29. They also have two grandchildren and a third on the way.

The affiliation gives Morris Hospital two medical office buildings and three providers in the Dwight community. Dr. Mark Passerman and Nurse Practitioner Kathy Ulivi also serve at Dwight Healthcare Center of Morris Hospital, 101 S. Prairie Ave.

Dr. Cichon's office number remains (815) 584-3051.

"I really enjoy living in Dwight," he added. "It is a nice community with good schools and just one traffic light."

Those patients are in various stages of health.
