Dwight's Rt. 66 Family Restaurant Notches 15th Year in Business

by Myke Feinman
Managing Editor

The Route 66 Family Restaurant in Dwight has been serving the community for 15 years, officially opening its doors under the current ownership Nov. 5, 2001. Maria and Naser Ahmedi came to the Dwight area after running Wishing Well in Odell from 1993 until they sold it in 2003. She purchased the Dwight restaurant from Melvin Mack who had purchased Stark's Restaurant in 1999. The business employs 30 full and part-time employees. The restaurant business is nothing new to Maria. She worked in her father's restaurant in Seneca from age five in 1977. And at the current restaurant, it too is a family business with her children working in the business at a young age. So what keeps the restaurant busy?

"It's a combination of tourism and locals," Maria said. She said it was her idea to change the name from Stark's and secure more traffic with Route 66 in the business name. "If it has 66 in the name, people will come," she reasoned. The strategy worked. Her busiest season is from April through the summer when Route 66 traffic climaxes each year. But the tourism just brings the traffic to her door. It is her homemade specialty items that keep customers coming back for more, she said. The restaurant specializes in homemade soups, coleslaw, broasted chicken, and mashed potatoes and gravy, all made from scratch. Other popular items are homemade lasagna and homemade potato salad. "A lot of people meet here," in Dwight, she said. They come from all points in Illinois and converge on Dwight.

"This is kind of the midpoint," she continued. "Those who find us, they love it, find it so homey with an old-fashioned look to it." She said compared to Odell, Dwight is a "big" town with lots of traffic. "The location was the main key for us, and Route 66 tourism exploded at the time." Longevity of employees helps, too. Waitress Dianna Sullivan has been with the Ahmedi family since she was in Odell, and waitress Betty "Boop" Clover was working for Mack at Stark's before the Ahmedis took over. The restaurant is now a lifetime member of the Route 66 Association, and is a member of the Dwight Economic Alliance, Heritage Corridor and the National Scenic Byway of Route 66. It is also the quarterly meeting place for the Red Fez Shriners. The Route 66 Association meets at the restaurant each spring to discuss plans for

Gardner To Hold Second Annual Festival of Trees

Gardner's Second Annual Festival of Trees will be held Nov. 14 to 27 at the Standard Bank and Trust Co. in Gardner. Last year the event raised more than $5,000 toward parks in Gardner. "We are hoping with the money raised this year combined with the money from last year we will see all new playground equipment for at least one of the parks in town," according to a letter sent out by Katie Bodine and Ida Schopp, program coordinators. The Festival of Trees will kick off with an opening ceremony at 10 a.m., Monday, Nov. 14, at Standard Bank and Trust Co., 128 Depot Street, Gardner. During the two-week viewing, people can examine the trees and auction items. Bids and raffle tickets will be accepted up until just before the tree lighting ceremony to be held at 6 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 27. The winners will be announced at the bank immediately following the tree lighting ceremony. "The festival is a great opportunity for donors to show off their sense of style and fun as well as advertise their business," the letter continues. People can donate a tree, wreath, table setting, or other items, or make a monetary donation, bid on items and purchase raffle tickets to participate. For further information, call Bodine at (815) 237-3035 or Schopp at (815) 237-2287.

DWIGHT POLICE are continuing to do community policing, walking the beat as in the old days, but there are new challenges today that were not a part of police work just a few years ago like dealing with mentally ill people and heroin addiction among the area's youth. But community policing may also turn up safety concerns such as a burned out light in the walkway between Studio 134 and the Bank of Dwight on East Main Street, as pointed out by Angie Turner of Studio 134. She is flanked by Police Chief Tim Henson and Officer Mike Nolan. The Paper photo

Dwight Police Department Adapts To New Challenges of 21st Century

Community policing remains the number one priority of the Dwight Police Department, according to Police Chief Tim Henson, who attended a conference of the International Association of Chiefs of Police Oct. 22 in San Diego, California. But one unexpected challenge facing police departments today, including Dwight, is mental health. Funding has dried up for mental health facilities, which closed doors and dropped the mental health problem onto the lap of law enforcement officers. Dwight Police Arrest Man for Burglary

by Myke Feinman
Managing Editor

The Dwight Police arrested Christian Banks, 20, of rural Dwight, for residential burglary Nov. 1.

Police were called to a break-in at a residence in the 400 block of East Seminole Street at roughly 2 a.m.

Banks was confronted by three witnesses and fled prior to police arrival.

“Banks was also in possession of a loaded handgun during the commission of the burglary,” Police said.

Banks was charged with armed violence, a Class X felony, residential burglary, possession of a stolen firearm, and unlawful possession of a weapon by a felon.

Police said Banks was being held at the Livingston County Jail on a $250,000 bond.

Dwight Police Chief Tim Henson commended the witnesses for contacting the police right away.

“Without their assistance in this incident, the offender may not have been apprehended so quickly,” Henson said.

Henson reminded that all citizens should immediately report crimes or suspicious behavior.

“This will ensure that Dwight is a safer place to live,” he added.

Watchdog Group: Nuclear Bailout Legislation Imminent in Illinois

by Veronica Carter

Much of the media focus in Illinois has been on baseball and the upcoming presidential election, but advocates for renewable energy in the state say residents need to know that later this month, a nuclear bailout bill could be back in front of lawmakers.

Last month, state Sen. Donne Trotter, D-Chicago, said he would introduce another version of Senate Bill 1585, the “2016 Exelon Nuclear Bailout legislation,” as early as the fall veto session, which begins Nov. 15.

SB 1585 amends the Public Utilities Act, preventing premature closings of nuclear power plants. Trotter’s office said there would be dire consequence to the economy, jobs, and the environment if they were to shut down.

Dave Kraft, director of the watchdog group Nuclear Energy Information Service, says the legislation threatens community solar energy projects, which he said Exelon and its Midwest utility, ComEd, want to eliminate.

Illinois’ utility companies have said the bailout only would raise ratepayers’ bills by about 25 cents per month, while ensuring stability and improving Illinois’ energy markets. Critics say ratepayers would be on the hook for an average of $3 per month during the first ten years, and more after that.

The text of SB 1585 is online at ilga.gov.

Diversification Is Still Important for Retirees

During your working years, your primary investment goal is generally growth – you need your money to grow so that you can eventually afford the comfortable retirement lifestyle you’ve envisioned. But when you retire, should you change course and adjust your investment strategy from “offense” to “defense”?

Actually, it’s not quite that simple. To begin with, even while you are working, you don’t want your portfolio to be completely filled with growth-oriented investments, such as stocks. If it were, you would likely be taking on a degree of investment risk that’s too high, because stocks will fluctuate in price – sometimes significantly. And if you only own stocks, you could take a big hit during a market downturn. That’s why you need to have an array of investments – stocks, bonds, certificates of deposit (CDs) and so on. By spreading your investment dollars this way, you can give yourself more opportunities for success while reducing the impact of volatility on your portfolio.

Now, let’s fast-forward to your retirement date. Once you retire, you may need to look at your investment portfolio somewhat differently – instead of “building it up,” you may now want to think of “making it last.” So, your first impression might be that instead of maintaining the diversified portfolio you had when you were working, you need to switch to predominantly “safe” investments, such as CDs and Treasury bonds, to reduce the risk of losing principal. And such a strategy might indeed be effective – if your retirement were only going to last a year or so. But the chances are reasonably good that you could be retired for two, or possibly even three, decades. If that’s the case, then you will have to deal with a threat to your lifestyle that you might not have considered: inflation.

To protect yourself against inflation, you will find that investments such as CDs and Treasury bonds are typically not much help. In fact, in a low-rate environment, your returns on these investments may not even keep up with inflation, much less keep you ahead of it. That’s not to say they have no value – they can provide you with an income stream and help lower your overall investment risk.

But to defend your purchasing power, you will still need some growth potential in your investment portfolio during your retirement years. Your exact percentage of stocks and other growth-oriented investments will depend on a variety of factors – your projected longevity, other sources of income, family situation, risk tolerance and so on. You may want to consult with a financial professional to ensure that your portfolio mix is suitable for your needs.

Many things may change in your life when you retire – but the need for investment diversification is not one of them.

Gas Prices Mixed

The U.S. national gas price per gallon average edged higher this week, up 0.5 cents to $2.21 Monday.

“The rise in gasoline prices was fueled by a major jump in New Jersey (24.9 cents per gallon) due to a rise in gasoline tax, as well as increases in states affected by the Colonial Pipeline outage,” said Patrick DeHaan, analyst for GasBuddy.com.

The Paper publishes last week’s and this week’s lowest averages each week for the towns listed below.

Average U.S. gallon regular price is made up of 20% state & local taxes; 15% distribution and marketing; 18% refining and 47% crude.

Cullom Water System Nominated for Water System of Year

The Village of Cullom has been notified that its water system has been nominated for consideration for the annual Water System of the Year award.

The Illinois Rural Water Association recognizes a water system as an outstanding example of efficiency and highest maintenance standards at their annual technical conference Feb. 21, 2017 in Effingham.

Although not an individual award, it does reflect positively to Cullom's system operator, Tim Lovell, who took over the system in the fall of 2013.

Lovell has operated and maintained the system at peak efficiency while overseeing numerous upgrades to the water plant.

A committee from IRWA will be conducting a site inspection in December and will base the score on overall appearance, operating efficiency, records, safety measures, innovative practices and significant accomplishments.

2nd Quarter Sales Report Good News for Dwight

by Tom Tock

It took an unusually long time for the Department of Revenue to release its April, May, June 2016 sales tax report for Illinois municipalities, but the report was well received in Dwight as it showed a nice 11.5% increase in revenue for Dwight compared to the second quarter of 2015.

This year's 2nd quarter report totaled $170,984 ($125,213 from Livingston Co.; $45,771, Grundy). Last year's 2nd quarter total was $153,326 ($109,889 Livingston, $43,437 Grundy).

Grundy County furnished some 26.7% of Dwight's total sales tax revenue in the 2nd quarter of 2016, 28.3% in the 2nd quarter of 2015.

Drinking & Eating Places, in Dwight (Livingston and Grundy) accounted for $22,277 in sales tax revenue, 2nd quarter 2016, compared to $20,728 a year ago in the same time frame.

Automotive & Filling Stations in the Livingston Co. part of Dwight produced tax revenue of $49,929 in this year's 2nd quarter. It was $47,259 a year ago. The state's report does not show figures for that category in the Grundy County part of Dwight.

The amount of revenue from the additional 1ct. sales tax for Dwight approved by voters in March of this year will not be reported until the 3rd quarter figures are released for July, August, September. The 1c increase is earmarked for infrastructure work in the village.

Second quarter sales tax receipts in 2015 and 2016 for Dwight and other Livingston and Grundy County communities are compared below.

2017 Season Announced for Pontiac’s Eagle Theater

The Vermillion Players, along with the City of Pontiac, have announced show titles and dates for the 2017 season at the Eagle Performing Arts and Conference Center in Pontiac. The dinner theater format begins its second year of performing plays in central Illinois.

The first production is entitled Things My Mother Taught Me, a romantic comedy written by Katherine DiSalvo about a young couple moving to Chicago whose moving day doesn’t go the way they planned. Show dates are February 3-5 and 10-12.

Just in time for the beginning of the baseball season, the spring play is Bleacher Bums, a full-length comedy “peppered with laughs,” about a group of long-suffering, die-hard Chicago Cubs fans who inhabit the outfield bleachers at Wrigley Field. Show dates for this performance, written by Joe Mantegna, are March 31-April 2, and April 7-9.

In October, the focus turns to a comical murder/mystery as Southern Fried Murder will be featured. The story, written by Billy St. John, concerns a wealthy family matriarch who has summoned her family to dinner in a fancy restaurant to discuss her will. But when the Southern lady is killed with her walking stick, mayhem ensues and her possible heirs become involved. This audience-involved production will play on October 20-22 and 27-29.

Finally, the Christmas Holiday production will be Plaid Tidings, written by Stuart Ross, a brand new show that offers the best of Forever Plaid, tied up in a nifty package with a big Christmas bow on top. Filled with Christmas standards that have all been “Plaid-erized,” the boys are back to do their Christmas Special. Show dates will be November 30-December 3, and December 7-10.

In addition, Vermillion Players announced show dates for their summer productions to be held at Chautauqua Park Pavilion. The first show will be on Father’s Day weekend, June 15-18; the traditional Children’s Show, the foundation of the Vermillion Players, will be performed on July 12-16; and the final summer show dates will be August 10-13. Production titles have not been released.

Tickets Available for Winter Wonderettes

Tickets are going quickly for the Vermillion Players upcoming dinner theatre production of Winter Wonderettes, created by Roger Bean, to be held at the Eagle Performing Arts and Conference Center in Pontiac.

Directed by Krista Chmiel, this holiday performance features the talents of Krista Chmiel, Carrie Curtiss, Samantha Farb, and Kelly Lefler. Adding to the performance will be an onstage band featuring Jerry Keck, Seth Brown, and Doug Huxtable.

This seasonal celebration finds the four girls entertaining at the annual Harper’s Hardware Holiday Party. When Santa turns up missing, the girls use their talent and creative ingenuity to save the holiday party. The production will feature 60’s versions of holiday classics such as “Santa Claus is Comin’ to Town,” “Jingle Bell Rock,” “Run, Rudolph, Run,” and “Winter Wonderland.”

Winter Wonderettes will be performed on three successive weekends – November 25-27, December 2-4, and December 9-11. Show times are 7:30 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, with a 2:00 p.m. matinee on Sunday.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Reddick Fire Should Drop School, Start From Scratch

Dear Editor,

As a taxpayer for the Reddick Fire District, the tax money should be spent to upgrade fire equipment, for training for the firemen and for ambulance and EMS services.

The fire district purchased the school building and made it clear they wanted to build a modern fire station on the land in back of the school. Late last year, the board offered sealed bids to sell the building and was unsuccessful.

The RUCE Community Center LLC was formed and the group has no money. The RUCE LLC group wants to seek grants to further the historical status. There are professional grant writers but they charge a hefty fee.

I suggest the board members go to every household and taxpayer in the fire district and obtain a signed form if they want the fire district to spend the money on the gym or if they are against the gym preservation. The village is not interested in the gym because they have no money either.

I suggest the fire board parcel out the land in back of the buildings and sell it to the adjacent landowner and then donate the gym and buildings to the RUCE LLC group. The Fire District should start over for a fire department building at a different location.

The former fire house is still available and their 911 Command Center has never been moved to the school location.

Dwight Should Allow Trees Planted on Berm

Dear Editor,

I’ve always been told — by neighbors who have lived here a lot longer than I have — that the village doesn’t trim or cut down trees between the street and the sidewalk.

Thinking about it, it seemed fair, since the village crews have enough work to do, and trees contribute to the landscaping of the house and provide shade for owners and passers-by.

We don’t expect the village to cut the grass between the street and the sidewalk.

At the Oct. 24 Dwight village board meeting, Public Works Director Steve Kinkade was reported in The Paper to have requested that the village address the problem of residents planting trees on “the berm.”

A call to the village hall for clarification elicited the response that “the berm” meant between the street and the sidewalk, and that the problem was people planting trees there, and later, for whatever reason, asking that the village crews cut them down.

I’d hate to see no trees next to the street. They not only improve the look of the property and give shade to yards and streets, they’re part of the charm of the village.

Surely, we can come up with a solution which allows trees to be planted between street and sidewalk but doesn’t require a tax hike for extra help on the village crews.

Nothing in this world comes free.

Minutes with Boma CUBS

What a week.

I wrote my last column with some reluctant optimism about the Chicago Cubs and their chances of extending the world series to a game 7.

Today on Monday, November 7th, I get the satisfaction of being able to say that for the first time in 108 years, the Chicago Cubs are the best team in baseball at the end of the season.

I went to a local bar to watch the game, and it was a lot of fun through the first eight innings and some change.

Then came the game tying home run, and then I had to leave.

I couldn’t handle it, there were too many people, and having the air zapped out of that place with the tying home run was too much to continue watching the game.

As I was walking back home, I heard an enormous cheer come from the Wrigleyville area (roughly a mile and a half away), and at that point decided to sprint home to see what I was missing.

I got home just to find out that it was a passed ball and Heyward had taken an extra base, but no run had been scored.

Then it rained.

The best rain that has ever fallen from the sky.

The momentum was halted, and the Cubs ended up winning the game in the next inning.

It was as great as I thought it would be, the tears shed by nines-year-old me in 2003 didn’t matter anymore, every heartbreak up until that point didn’t matter anymore, Steve Bartman didn’t matter anymore, the goat didn’t matter anymore.

I almost feel undeserving that I’ve lived in Chicago for a handful of months and I’ve already experienced a championship when people have lived there since the day they were born and haven’t been able to experience it until now.

With all that said, there’s only one thing left to do.

Repeat.

Dear Mom and Dad –

There’s not a day goes by that we don’t think of you. The kindness and love you both showed in everything you’d do.

You both tried to teach us right from wrong. And Dad, there’s no way that any of us could ever known, that God would take you from us while we were still quite young, and though we still needed you both, your work on earth was done.

But we know you’re both watching over us from somewhere up above ‘cause sometimes we can feel the warmth of our parent’s precious love.

And we know the warmth and love we feel can’t come from any other than the Angels that the Lord has made from our Sweet Loving parents.

And though it’s been a long while since God took you both away, we miss you so much! It seems like yesterday.

Love you, Miss you – Love, Your Daughters

Galloway Takes 3rd in 4th and Final State Appearance

On Saturday at Detweiller Park, GSW Cross Country standout Daly Galloway competed in her fourth consecutive state Class A meet, finishing her outstanding career with a third place medal in a race with 214 finishers.

Galloway battled and fought with three other runners throughout the competition. The second place finisher gradually had built a lead of more than ten seconds by the 2½ mile mark, but Daly pushed that to just three seconds by the time she crossed the finish line.

"Daly has always been a tough competitor," her head coach Larry Lane stated, "and her final meet was no different. Her determined and courageous performance over the final half mile of the race was exciting and thrilling to watch, as she ended with an awesome sprint in the last 50 meters of the race to hold onto third place."

Since girl's cross country began in 1979, only four other runners have been more successful at the state meet with their four year finishes than Galloway. She is also the second fastest Class A girl on the new course and the third fastest of all time.

"Daly is an outstanding student athlete that has brought our schools, communities, and cross country team great success," Lane added. "With a GPA of higher than 4.0 and a full ride scholarship to Northern Illinois University, she has made us all very proud and we congratulate her on all of her hard work and success."

Veterans Day Facts

by Sam Erickson

Veterans Day is a holiday that has come to mean more since September 11, 2001, and the U.S. military involvement in Iraq and Afghanistan. Originally started after World War I, the increasing number of veterans in recent years and the military commitments have made the holiday more important to contemporary society. More schools and businesses close, and celebrations have blossomed across the country. Despite those developments, there are still some questions about this national holiday.

There's even some question about the actual name of the day. Does the day belong to veterans? Should the name have an apostrophe? If so, does it belong to one veteran or all veterans? There is no apostrophe in the name because it is a day to honor all veterans.

How is it different than Memorial Day? Memorial Day is meant to honor and remember veterans who have died in the service of their country or because of wounds from service. Veterans Day is meant to honor all veterans. It has taken on an increased awareness of living veterans, their service and the contributions they have made to national security in recent years.

Veterans Day is not only a national holiday in the United States. Dating back to World War I, Canada, Australia and Great Britain all observe Remembrance Day on November 11. The celebrations are a little different in each place, but the overall intent is the same: to honor those who have served to protect the country. Parades, wreath laying and ceremonies mark celebrations in all three countries.

While Veterans Day is a federal holiday, it is not universally observed. There is no requirement for businesses or state offices to close, although all federal services are suspended for the day. There is no federal law requiring all schools to close as there is for other federal holidays, so each school district decides whether to follow the observance. Unlike other national holidays that have been moved to Monday to create a long weekend, Veterans Day is always observed on November 11 regardless of

Dwight’s Jeremy Riegel Retires From U.S. Army as Jumpmaster

AS THE HIGHLIGHT of one paratrooper’s career, Jeremy Riegel of Dwight has his jumpmaster wings pinned on him by a World War II veteran, Major Duke Boswell, at a special ceremony during the 65th anniversary of D-Day in France, 2009.

There are those individuals who are not content to just fly in airplanes — some prefer to jump out of them.

Dwight’s Major Jeremy Riegel, a 1995 graduate of Dwight Township High School and the son of Annette and Troy Riegel, is one of those who prefers to jump out of the airplanes.

Riegel retired from the U.S. Army on Oct. 31, after achieving the distinction of being a jumpmaster (making at least 65 jumps) as part of the Airborne Infantry.

He said the highlight of his career was jumping from a plane over Normandy in France in 2009, the 65th anniversary of D-Day.

During World War II, paratroopers led the Allied Forces a day ahead of D-Day, jumping into German-occupied France during June, 1944, the start of the final operation against German forces that ended the war in Europe by the following spring.

Riegel was the lead planner for the event over France which included dozens of ceremonies. The event included service men and women from the U.S., Canada, the United Kingdom, France, and ...

Germany. Yes, I said Germany. Germany is now our ally.

“The Germans and French are part of the European Union now,” Riegel said. “France and Germany are very close.”

He was also honored after his 67th career jump with the distinction of being named a jumpmaster at a ceremony in France.

Jumpmasters are the expert paratroopers in an airborne unit who train and teach the military techniques of jumping from airplanes.

They are responsible for training soldiers, who enter Army Airborne School, into paratroopers and managing airborne jump operations in airborne units across all branches of services.

When he jumped into France, he said there were 15,000 people lined up to watch the troops land.

“That was the best week in my military career,” Riegel told The Paper.

His jumpmaster pin was put on by World War II veteran, Major Duke Boswell.

He said he had a chance to sit down and talk with World War II veterans.

“It was an absolute unique experience,” he added. “It is the highlight of a paratrooper’s career.”

At the time of the 65th D-Day celebration, Riegel was Company Commander, Chief of Training, and Operations Officer at the 173rd Airborne Brigade, in Vicenza, Italy and Bamberg, Germany.

This deployment was from 2004 to 2009.

Prior to that, he was Platoon Leader and Company executive officer in the 504th Parachute Infantry Regiment of the 92nd Airborne Division from 2000 to 2004 at Fort Bragg, North Carolina.

So his paratrooper career was not just re-enactments of war. He also fought alongside special forces in Afghanistan 24 months in four deployments, 2003 through 2012.

“All four deployments included combat patrolling as well as efforts to rebuild Afghanistan and train Afghan forces,” he said.

“On my deployment as a company commander in 2007-2008, we trained Afghan National Police and Afghan Border Police,” Riegel continued. “To do this effectively, we lived with them for 10 to 30 days at a time. It offered great insight into Afghan culture and how they live their daily lives.”

In 2005, Vice President Dick Cheney came to Afghanistan for the seating of Afghanistan’s first Parliament. “I worked closely with the Secret Services to plan his security and develop crisis action and emergency evacuation plans,” Riegel explained.

When asked if he was ever in harm’s way, he said, “Every deployment, and driving through Baltimore when living in Maryland,” he joked.

“I’m proud about making a difference in so many lives of Afghans,” he said. “When village elders would stand up to the Taliban and kick them out because the elders knew that educating their kids, especially their girls, was a priority, I knew we were making significant progress.”

His final deployment, 2015 to 2016, was for 18 months as Deputy Information Operations Chief/Cyber Chief at the Asymmetric Warfare Group at Ford Meade, Maryland.

His career also took him to Fort Richardson, Alaska.

He is a 1999 West Point graduate.

His mother, Annette Riegel, told The Paper that he would never consider himself a “hero.”

But she said all those who serve in the military are heroes.

“It was an honor to have Jeremy serve,” she said. “I’m grateful to him for his decision to protect and defend our country.”

She also said that her son is now retired while she and her husband continues to work, and asked “What’s wrong with that?” jokingly.

AS PART OF A LONG and varied career in the U.S. Army, Jeremy Riegel was deployed to Alaska, spent four tours in Afghanistan, and recently worked with cyber warfare on his final deployment.

Her son said he owes a lot of his military career success to the lessons and values he took with him from Dwight.

At West Point, he was concerned that his DTHS education would be inadequate, especially in the math and sciences. He found the opposite to be true.

“I’m very thankful for the quality of teachers I had,” Riegel said.

He was also involved in lots of sports growing up in Dwight.

He praised the mentorship and leadership he learned from such coaches as “Rub, Butterbrodt, Baum and Basile, to name a few.”

He said they taught him “real men win, but not at all costs. They win the right way.”

He said a lot of his friends were jealous of the support they saw coming from his hometown of Dwight with such things as Project SOS that sent regular care packages to the deployed troops.

“I’m very thankful I came from a small town,” he added.

AS PART OF THE 65th Anniversary of D-Day in France in 2009, Jeremy Riegel jumped out of an airplane for the 67th time in his Army career.
