Odell Men's Horse Takes 2 of 3 Lucrative Stake Races in Illinois

by Myke Feinman
 Managing Editor

Harvey Grieff of Odell and Keith Verdun, formerly of Odell now of Pontiac, invested $2,500 together on a horse that won a $180,000 purse Sept. 23. Not a bad deal.

"I liked this guy from the time I looked at him," Grieff told The Paper last week. Grieff's hunch paid off big.

Earlier this year at the state fair, the same horse, Captain Rhett, won a $50,000 purse. The $180,000 purse was at the Robert F. Carey Race at Hawthorne, Cicero.

The horse is competing in harness racing, which harkens back to the days when horses were used with a harness on the farm to plow the fields. Today, with the exception of the Amish, modern mechanical farm implements, such as a combine for harvesting, have replaced the horse.

Captain Rhett's mother's name is Scarlet, thus the winning horse's name is inspired by Rhett Butler from the famous Civil War novel, Gone With the Wind.

Captain Rhett is a Standardbred horse, coming in at about 1,000 pounds, with 23 race starts over the past two years, so he is still just starting to give the horse owners a return on their original investment. The same horse took fourth place in Du Quoin, the third harness competition in the Illinois' Triple Crown.

Standardbreds are so named because only horses who could trot or pace a mile in a standard time of no more than 2 minutes, 30 seconds were admitted to the "stud book."

Captain Rhett is a pacer, not a trotter, according to trainer Horvath.

Pacing horses are faster and not as likely to break stride. If a horse starts to gallop, it must be slowed down and taken to the outside until it resumes trotting or pacing.

In addition to Verdun is Jim Horvath Jr., trainer and originally from Worth; the blacksmith (known as a horse farrier) is Randy Finn, of Newton; and their vet, Dr. Pete Langley of Peotone. Rounding out the winning team at Hawthorne is Marcus Miller, who was flown in from New York to drive Captain Rhett on Sept. 23.

Miller is "one of the top drivers in the country," Grieff said.

Grieff has three sons, one who runs Grieff Monument (Brad) in Dwight and Grieff Exteriors (Tim) in Odell, and Rich who had horses with Harvey and is still interested in the harness industry.

Because of the depressed state of the horse racing industry, Grieff and Verdun were able to purchase Captain Rhett at bargain basement prices. Such hors-

New Pastor Takes Helm at Dwight, Emington Churches

PASTOR GRANT SPEECE took over at the Dwight First Congregational United Church of Christ and the Emington Congregational United Church of Christ Sept. 24. He hails from Iowa and has served as pastor all over the Midwest in his career which has spanned nearly three decades.

Serving in the U.S. Army may be considered an inspiration to become a member of the clergy, but not just because of battle conditions.

One pastor was inspired because of what he believed to be a lack of morality.

In the case of Pastor Grant Speece, who took over at the Dwight First Congregational United Church of Christ and the Emington Congregational United Church of Christ on Sept. 24, he decided to become a pastor because as an Army officer he "felt God was calling me," he said.

"I was serving under someone I knew was doing some things illegal, causing me to question the morality of what was going on," Speece continued. "He was lying to our superiors in the States."

At the time he was stationed in Central America. It was during the Reagan Administration.

The Iowa native left the Army to attend seminary in 1985, graduating in 1988.

He has served in churches all over the Midwest, including most recently in Michigan.

In addition to serving as a pastor, he was also a chaplain for the U.S. National Guard, until eventually retiring in 2010 from that post.

He was called up for service as a Chaplain in the Desert Storm conflict, in Bosnia, and later in Iraqi Freedom.

He was also called up for duty during flooding in Minnesota.

So did he find a way to counter the Army issues that inspired him to be a pastor?

"As a chaplain I was able to be a conscience for the military," he said.

He told a story of how when in Saudi Arabia, he was with a water support unit, and the unit had trouble with Arabs stealing their water.

Sept. 29: Theft - Police received a report at 2:30 p.m. that a 2013 Sure Trac utility trailer was stolen. The victim is a woman residing in the 200 block of West Mazon Avenue. The theft occurred sometime during the week of Sept. 14-17. The trailer is described as having a black frame and a wooden deck. The Illinois registration plate on the trailer when it was stolen was 6274LB-TA. The trailer has been put in the police data system locally and nationally. There are no suspects at this time; Scam - a 45-year-old Dwight resident reported she had been a victim of a scam. The female victim attempted to purchase a 2007 Toyota Camry on Ebay. She was instructed to purchase three Ebay gift cards for a total of $1,500. The victim believes she will be reimbursed for her loss. There are no suspects at this time; Subject Removal - Dwight police were called to the 100 block of S. Franklin Street, a liquor establishment at 10:20 p.m. Upon arrival, they found two women kneeling next to Tyler Metcalf, 25, of Dwight. Metcalf was “bleeding profusely from the head,” police said. The officers recognized Metcalf as a person who was on probation and was not to be in the liquor establishment. Metcalf was transported by Dwight EMS. Dwight Police are requesting a warrant be issued for Metcalf for Violation of Probation.

Oct. 1: Fire Investigation - Dwight police were notified of a brush fire at 1 p.m. in the back yard of a residence in the 300 block of North Chicago Street. A second caller stated a small shed was burning. The Dwight Fire Department responded a short time later and extinguished the blaze. The owner of the property was not at home at the time of the fire. An origin and cause investigation is being conducted by the Dwight Fire Department and Dwight Police Department. Total value to the damaged property was estimated at $3,000. Arson has not been eliminated as a possible cause of the fire. Anyone who may have information regarding this fire is asked to call the Dwight Police Department Crime Tip Hotline at (815) 584-1975.

Oct. 2 - Theft - At approximately 9 a.m., the Dwight Police department was notified by a female resident from the 400 block of North Clinton Street that her neighbor, of Dwight, came into her fenced-in back yard without permission attempting to take fire wood. The incident occurred over the weekend. Another resident, in the same block of North Clinton Street, also reported catching her and her husband, “helping themselves to their stack of fire wood.” No charges were filed, but the people were “asked to stay off their neighbor’s property,” police said.

Oct. 5: ILEAS Callout - Dwight Police were called to assist in a multi-agency search for a man who had been last seen in a wooded area near Earlville. The suspect was wanted for high-jacking a car and aggravated kidnapping of a child. The case ended peacefully with the suspect surrendering at a home in Earlville at 8:30 a.m. the next day. Dwight Police were one of many law enforcement agencies that assisted in the capture of the suspect.

International Investing: Still a Journey to Consider

Columbus Day is observed on October 9. And while it may be true that Leif Erikson and the Vikings beat Columbus to the New World, Columbus Day nonetheless remains important in the public eye, signifying themes such as exploration and discovery. As an investor, you don’t have to “cross the ocean blue,” as Columbus did, to find opportunities – but it may be a good idea to put some of your money to work outside the United States.

So, why should you consider investing internationally? The chief reason is diversification. If you only invest in U.S. companies, you might do well when the U.S. markets are soaring, as has happened in recent years. But when the inevitable downturn happens, and you’re totally concentrated in U.S. stocks, your portfolio will probably take a hit. At the same time, however, other regions of the world might be doing considerably better than the U.S. markets – and if you had put some of your investment holdings in these regions, you might at least blunt some of the effects of the down market here.

Of course, it’s also a good idea to diversify among different asset classes, so, in addition to investing in U.S. and international stocks, you’ll want to own bonds, government securities and other investment vehicles. (Keep in mind, though, that while diversification can help reduce the effects of volatility, it can’t guarantee a profit or protect against loss.)

International investments, like all investments, will fluctuate in value. But they also have other characteristics and risks to consider, such as these:

• Currency fluctuations – The U.S. dollar rises and falls in relation to the currencies of other countries. Sometimes, these movements can work in your favor, but sometimes not. A strengthening dollar typically lowers returns from international investments because companies based overseas do business in a foreign currency, and the higher value of the U.S. dollar reduces the prices, measured in dollars, of individual shares of these companies’ stocks. The opposite has happened in 2017, when the weaker dollar has helped increase returns from international investments.

• Political risks – When you invest internationally, you’re not just investing in foreign companies – you’re also essentially investing in the legal and economic systems of countries in which those companies do business. Political instability or changes in laws and regulations can create additional risks – but may also provide potentially positive returns for investors.

• Social and economic risks – It is not always easy for investors to understand all the economic and social factors that influence markets in the U.S. – and it’s even more challenging with foreign markets.

U.S. markets are now worth less than half of the total world markets, and growth in the rest of the world is likely to keep expanding the number of global opportunities. You can take advantage of that global growth by putting part of your portfolio into international investments, including developed and emerging markets.

In any case, given the more complex nature of international investing, you’ll want to consult with a financial professional before taking action. If it turns out that international investments are appropriate for your needs, you should certainly consider going global.

He said one officer suggested that those stealing the water be shot.
He countered that perhaps they should purposely carry extra water and give those who need it the water.
The Army went with Speece's suggestion.
Over the nearly 30 years he has been a pastor, little has changed with one key exception he said.
"People don't know a lot about the Bible as they did 30 years ago," Speece said.

"Now I have to explain what it used to be people already knew."
Another difference is people's lives are much more rigidly scheduled, requiring him to make appointments, instead of dropping in on his "flock" unannounced.
He lives in the area now with his wife, Bethany, although he said he is still in boxes.
He will have Sunday services in Emington at 8:45 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. in Dwight.

The churches are 11 miles apart.
He said his time is roughly three-fourths in Dwight and one-fourth in Emington, based on the church populations.
The couple has two grown sons, one of whom is a pastor in Iowa and another who is a chef in North Dakota.
"I'm very pleased to have this opportunity to serve this area," Speece said. "I look forward to it."

Dusty's Commission to Support Veterans from Gov. Bruce Rauner

DUSTY HARMONY is being held by Illinois Governor Bruce Rauner (left) and Dwight Becker/Ambler Texaco man Paul Roeder on the Governor's visit to Dwight, Saturday, Sept. 23. Rauner was in town as part of his annual ride to support veterans.

Note: The following column is written by Myke Feinman's teddy bear, Dusty Harmony.
When Illinois Governor Bruce Rauner stopped in Dwight Sept. 23, as part of his ride to Springfield to support U.S. veterans, I had a chance to meet him.
And the public does not know it, but I was given a secret commission from the Governor to support our veterans.

teddy bears to be given to the loved ones of ILNG soldiers deployed in the War Against Terror. The bears provide something to hug while mom, dad, or older siblings are deployed.
Today I want to discuss another purpose of teddy bears. Comfort for the soldiers. My job is to bring smiles to soldiers suffering from Post Traumatic Stress Disorder.
In Fiscal Year 2011 (latest statistic available), 476,515 Veterans with primary or secondary diagnosis of PTSD were treated by the Department of Veterans Affairs.
In 2010, Secretary Shinseki reduced the evidence needed by Veterans seeking health care and disability compensation for PTSD, which allows for faster and more accurate decisions and faster access to medical care to Veterans.

All Veterans coming to VA for the first time are screened for the presence of symptoms of PTSD and depression.
Treatment is driven by a recovery orientation, which includes a focus on the Veterans' needs and preferences in order to help them fulfill their personal goals and live meaningful lives.
I am instrumental in bringing information and data to our veterans. I take my job very seriously. Everyone should thank a veteran for serving the U.S.

Mammography Screenings really do SAVE LIVES.

“Annual mammography detects breast cancer at its early stages, giving the best options for treatment and the best chance for living a longer, healthier life.”

~ Terri Jacob, RN, MSN
Certified Breast Health Navigator

These simple guidelines from the American Congress of Obstetricians and Gynecologists can help detect breast cancer early:

- Know how your breasts normally look and feel. Any changes should be reported to your healthcare provider.
- Have a clinical breast exam at least every 3 years between ages 29-39. Beginning at age 40, women should have a breast exam by a healthcare provider every year.
- For women at average risk without symptoms of breast cancer, have an annual screening mammogram beginning at age 40. Talk to your physician about the mammography screening schedule that is best for you.

Mammography: Still the Gold Standard for Breast Cancer Screening

When it comes to breast cancer early detection, there is no longer a “one size fits all” guideline. Because each woman is different in her breast cancer risk factors, when to begin annual mammography is a decision that she and her health care professional should discuss together, according to Morris Hospital breast health nurse navigator Terri Jacob.

“There’s no question early detection is key in the fight against breast cancer,” says Jacob. “As with any diagnostic testing, mammograms do have their limitations but they are still the recommended screening exam for early breast cancer detection. Mammography detects breast cancer in its early stages, which gives the best options for treatment and the best chance for living a longer, healthier life.”

However, Jacob says medicine is moving in a direction that is more customized, and breast cancer detection is no different.

“Women should talk with their health care provider between the ages of 25 and 30 to understand what their risks are and to plan when they should begin having mammograms,” she says.

For women at average risk, Jacob says the American Congress of Obstetricians & Gynecologists continues to recommend self awareness and clinician exams for early breast cancer detection, along with annual screening mammograms, which are also recommended by the American College of Radiology:

- 1) Know how your breasts normally look and feel. Any changes (lumps, bumps, dimpling of the skin, asymmetry, nipple discharge and any other change in appearance) should be reported to your healthcare provider.
- 2) Have a clinical breast exam every 1-3 years between ages 25-39 and annually beginning at age 40.
- 3) Women at average risk without symptoms of breast cancer should talk to their provider about having an annual screening mammogram beginning at age 40.

Additionally, Jacob said women should know their family history of breast cancer and talk to their health care professional about the most effective breast cancer screening plan for them individually.

Morris Hospital offers three locations for mammography screenings. Women must have an order from a physician to schedule a mammogram at any of these locations:

- Morris – Morris Hospital, 150 W. High Street
- Channahon – Morris Hospital Ridge Road Campus, 27240 W. Saxony Drive
- Ottawa – Morris Hospital Obstetrics & Gynecology Specialists, 1300 Starfire Drive

In recognition of Breast Cancer Awareness Month in October, Morris Hospital invites women of all ages to join them for a special free event, Hip Hop for Hope, on Friday, October 20 from 6-7:30 p.m. in the gym at White Oak Elementary School, 2001 Dupont Avenue in Morris. Participants will learn hip hop and yoga moves that make exercise fun while enjoying door prizes and breast cancer awareness educational materials.

Reconstruction is a Key Consideration for Breast Cancer Patients

Just as education, early screening, testing and treatment has made breast cancer - in many instances - a less dire diagnosis, the option of breast reconstruction surgery no longer needs to be an agonizing one for survivors.

Dr. Pedro Rodriguez, Plastic and Reconstructive Surgeon at OSF HealthCare Saint Anthony Medical Center, in Rockford, says, while years ago considered strictly a cosmetic procedure - surgical and prosthetic advancements in breast reconstruction makes the post treatment choice much more viable.

"That we can reconstruct the breast with implant-based reconstruction in a more successful way and more successful manner," says Dr. Pedro Rodriguez, Plastic and Reconstructive Surgeon at OSF HealthCare Saint Anthony Medical Center, in Rockford. "But more importantly, implant-based reconstruction has been now the mainstream of reconstruction throughout the U.S. It allows us to reconfigure the tissues. It allows us to provide a stable reconstruction."

With oncology and radiation physicians and support staff, Dr. Rodriguez says OSF Saint Anthony takes a team approach to individualize treatment and recovery for each patient. He says a patient's emotional and physical state must be considered before discussing the realistic breast reconstructive surgery options.

Understanding that breast cancer treatment and reconstruction is a marathon and not a sprint, Dr. Rodriguez says the satisfaction and self-confidence of the patient is always paramount in measuring the successful conclusion of the journey.

"This is a necessity," says Dr. Rodriguez. "There have been many studies that prove that patients that undergo reconstruction have better self-esteem, they have improved quality of life and they go through their daily life in a much more happy tone."

Also an Assistant Professor of Surgery at the University of Illinois College of Medicine - Rockford, Dr. Rodriguez led a panel discussion on breast cancer and reconstructive surgery with other members of the OSF Saint Anthony oncology team during a seminar Tuesday, October 10 at the UIC Health Sciences Campus, 1601 Parkview Avenue, Rockford.

The Paper will send a percentage of the proceeds of these pages to Breast Cancer Research.

Town and Country 4-H Club ‘Launches’ New Year with Food Drive

4-H members celebrated National 4-H week by passing out grocery bags to neighbors and friends in Essex and South Wilmington to get ready for the Town and Country annual food drive.

Cloverbuds, Adalyn and Macy Steichen of Essex, delivered bags in Essex telling residents that they will come back on Sunday, October 15 and pick up donations and take them to the Community Cares Food Pantry in Braidwood.

“We like to help people,” said Adalyn Steichen, who along with her little sister and mom, Amanda Steichen, passed out bags and are looking forward to collecting filled bags next Sunday.

Town and Country members will be collecting donations beginning at 10 a.m. on Sunday, October 15th.

“Whether or not you received a bag on your front porch, you can still bring a donation for the food drive,” said Town and Country President, Miles Hoffman.

If you would like to donate to the food drive, leave a donation on your porch, bring your donation to the Essex Lions Hall on Sunday, Oct. 15 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., or call (815) 685-0030 to have your bag picked up. The motto for 4-H is how good it feels to help others.

This annual project is a good way to start the 4-H year.

October 1-8 marked National 4-H week. This year, Town and Country put its display at the South Wilmington Post Office. 4-H is the oldest youth organization in the United States. Membership is open to all young people between the ages of 8-18. Members participate in a wide range of activities aimed at learning by doing with a focus on STEM, Science, Technology, Engineering and Math. All projects are aimed at positive youth development, with the goal of teaching a skill and helping youth become responsible, capable adults. Most projects are eligible for judging at the Kankakee County and Illinois State Fairs. There is also a program for younger children, ages 5-7, known as the Cloverbud program.

For more information about membership, please contact club leader Mary K. O’Brien at (815) 365-2368.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Thank You, Mr. Kaiser

I have had the distinct pleasure of knowing Dan Kaiser for several years. I have known him as an Educator, Tech Specialist, Grade School Principal, and now as Dwight Township High School Principal. Dan has always been a true professional who goes above and beyond for the faculty and the students. This week I witnessed something extra special at Dwight Township High School, all because of the forward thinking of our Principal, Dan Kaiser.

I got to be part of a special program called Rachel’s Challenge. Rachel’s Challenge was a special presentation given to all of Dwight Township High School students, faculty, and administration. I was blessed to be joined by some of my fellow High School Board Members, Police Officers, and Dwight Economic Alliance Development Director Deb Karch. Rachel’s Challenge is in honor of a 16-year old brave young girl who was the first victim killed in the Columbine shooting.

Rachel had a vision to create what was called Chain Reaction. Her vision was simple. She wants all of us to be nice to others, dream big, choose positive influences, be more kind and compassionate towards others, and start our own chain reaction. Mr. Kaiser took this program a step further and had 50 students, faculty, administration, and Police participate in specialized training to implement this program as the mission and vision of Dwight Township High School. Mr. Kaiser has always been about finding the positive in students. Mr. Kaiser has done a great job in creating a positive atmosphere at our High School.

Mr. Kaiser knows he has created something special at Dwight Township High School, but he never stops there. He constantly looks for how we can improve on the great things we are already doing. Mr. Kaiser hit a Grand Slam with the Rachel’s Challenge Program. Dan, I just wanted to say thank you for your leadership, hard work, dedication, professionalism, and compassion you have brought to Dwight Township High School.

Cubs?

As mentioned in some previous articles, I’m a pretty big Cubs fan, not the biggest in the world, but when they are winning, life is definitely just a little bit more enjoyable. That’s why, this past Friday, just really, really hurt. The Cubs were up 3-1 in the 8th inning, (I think they’ve been up 2 runs in an 8th inning before, but this one will forever live in infamy.)

The had them on the ropes, they would’ve gone back to Chicago, and the series would’ve been 2-0 and they wouldn’t have been more in the drivers seat, it could’ve been very hard to lose the series at that point. Instead, they blew the lead in the 8th on a home run, and then followed that up, by falling behind on another home run, it was just one thing after another, the bleeding could not be stopped.

I thought maybe that given what happened last year, and them winning it all, and ending the drought, would make anything bad that happened this year hurt a little bit less. It doesn’t, it hurts just as much, every game I’m still on edge, I don’t really even want to envision them losing in this first round, especially when they were 6 outs away from going up 2-0 in the series, and would’ve had 2 games in Wrigley to get it done to move on to the NLCS for the 3rd year in a row.

They’re still in a very good position, if the tables were flipped, and they lost game one, and then won game 2, I would be feeling very confident about the upcoming games at Wrigley. That’s not what happened though, and now in my head all I can picture is them losing 10-0 in the next two games at home.

I know they’re better than that, I think they’ll still win the series, it just hurts to know they could’ve really thrown a bigger punch than they did.

When you read this, both games will have already been played, I hope the series is over at this point and the Cubs are in the NLCS.

es can sell for up to $300,000 or more, he said.

A yearling in the Lexington, Kentucky sale sold Oct. 4 for $480,000, Grieff said.

This year, Grieff said he believed the purses at Springfield and Hawthorne would be considerably less before the budget was approved.

The six horses owned by Verdun and Grieff were trained in Florida as yearlings, but are resting in Odell situated on a farm owned by the late Robert Fraher of Odell before continuing racing in Ohio.

Grieff began his harness horse racing career back in 1979 with a friend, the late Leonard Howell.

Grieff said Captain Rhett is going to Ohio to continue to provide more return on Grieff's and Verdun's initial $2,500 investment.

HARVEY GRIEFF OF ODELL and Keith Verdun, formerly of Odell and now of Pontiac, together own Captain Rhett, a horse that won first place in the Robert F. Carey race at Hawthorne on Sept. 23. The purse was $180,000. In the photo at right, driver Marcus Miller rides laying down to cut down on friction and increase the speed of the horse. Horses move up to 32 to 33 miles per hour in a race. Below Miller's photo are Grieff, Verdun and Miller with the owners' families after the win.

Rural Dwight Farmer Grows Organic Crops For Market

BRIAN SEVERSON OF RURAL Dwight was planting a winter wheat crop on his organic farm, just as most farmers are harvesting their traditional corn and soybean crops. The Paper photo

by Myke Feinman
Managing Editor

While most farmers in the area are just now harvesting their traditional corn and soybean crops, Brian Severson, rural Dwight, was planting an organic wheat crop known as Turkey Red.

Severson grows organic crops for local and metro markets, including wheat, popcorn, buckwheat, and specialty corns for milling including red, blue, white and yellow.

“They call the red ‘bloody butcher,’ the blue ‘Hopi,’ and the yellow ‘Henry Moore,’” Severson explained.

The corn is used in products like grits, corn meal, hominy and corn bread, according to Sarah Severson, Brian’s daughter.

When Brian Severson began his farming career, he was planting corn and soybeans “like everyone else,” he said.

The exception is he did not plant any generically-modified crops, so his corn and beans were non-GMO.

“When the kids were little, I started raising sweet corn,” he said. “But there were so many chemicals around the corn, I didn’t want them anywhere near them.”

As time went by, farming markets changed and he could market his crops online.

He also sells a lot to chefs in Chicago, he said.

Dwight Pizza sells his popcorn and rolled oats.

“There are a couple of farm markets in Chicago we deliver to,” he said.

“Our soybeans end up in the Carolinas,” he added.

He explained that after inputs, most farmers make a net profit of about 10% of the gross. In the case of organic crops, the net profit can be 100% of gross or more, he said.

“They are selling their corn for $3 a bushel,” Severson said. “I sell my crops for $3 a pound.”

He said he likes to plant heirloom seed, because he believes the product tastes better.

On the day of the interview last week (Oct. 3), he was planting an heirloom wheat from Kansas, which is connected to another Dwight woman, he said.

He often talks with Lorna Grimes of Dwight, and she said her grandfather raised Turkey Red Wheat, a winter wheat still grown in Kansas.

According to Grimes, who is of Mennonite background, her great-grandfather lived in Russia in the mid to late 1800s.

“The Russian government began to require them to serve in their military,” Severson explained. Mennonites are pacifists.

“So a group of them immigrated to Kansas,” he continued. “They brought with them a red wheat from nearby Turkey when they came to Kansas which proved to do quite well where they settled.”

“Lorna spent a lot of time this summer asking relatives and friends from her home area if anyone still had seed for Turkey Red wheat.”

It was found in Yoder, Kansas, about 40 miles from where Grimes grew up.

“The seed was finally delivered Monday (Oct. 2),” Severson said.

So what makes crops organic?

Eliminating synthetic fertilizers and chemicals from the growth process, Severson explained.

He uses manure for fertilizer, uses potash for phosphate and obtains nitrogen in the soil by growing crops that are later tilled, like clover.

“The clover takes the nitrogen out of the air and puts it in the crop,” Severson said. “Then I disk it into the ground.”

He said any technology after World War II to grow crops cannot be used in organic growing.

“We are re-using our own seed,” he added.

Pumpkin Production

Illinois emerges as the epicenter of pumpkin production each fall as farmers around the state typically harvest more than 550 million pounds of canning and ornamental pumpkins.

In fact, about 12,500 of the 16,400 acres planted to pumpkins in the Prairie State each year are harvested for processing, particularly around the “pumpkin capital of the world” in Morton.

And now that a good portion of the crop has been harvested, it appears pumpkin lovers can exhale as supplies should be ample for a second consecutive year following a rain-induced pumpkin shortage in 2015.

Economist: Margins Tighten As Crop, Livestock Supplies Rise

By Dan Grant
FarmWeekNow.com

Large supplies of crops and livestock likely will weigh on commodity prices through this year and possibly into 2018.

That's the outlook provided by Chris Hurt, Purdue University Extension ag economist, who advises farmers to "hunker down" in the wake of the latest USDA world supply and demand estimates report.

USDA this month raised ending stocks of corn to 2.335 billion bushels. Ending stocks of soybeans, 475 million bushels, and wheat, 933 million bushels, also came in above trade expectations.

"We're in a supply-driven market right now," Hurt told FarmWeek. "It gives concern for the financial position of farmers. Cash flows will be extremely tight again this year as it looks like the revenue situation will be a little weaker than last year."

USDA projects farmers will harvest the largest soybean crop and third-largest corn crop on record this fall.

The Ag Department subsequently lowered its season average price projections by a dime for corn and beans (to ranges of $2.80 to $3.60 for corn and $8.35 to $10.05 for beans) and by 20 cents for wheat to a range of $4.30 to $4.90.

The ample supplies and lower prices for the feed crops should lower feed costs for livestock farmers. But livestock farmers, just as their crop-producing counterparts, face an issue with large supplies heading into 2018.

"For the livestock sector, we're going to see around a 2 percent expansion of animal numbers in general,"

Hurt said. "It looks like we could feed more corn than what's in the current balance sheet."

Livestock farmers should consider locking in feed prices in October. The soybean fall low often occurs around Columbus Day (Oct. 9) while December corn retested its low in September.

But livestock production margins likely will tighten. The portion of meat available per person in the U.S. could reach 222 pounds by 2018, a level last seen in 2007 before crop prices spiked.

"We're building animal production," Hurt added. "It looks like margins will be narrow (for livestock farmers), even with low feed prices."

The benefactor of the supply and price trends appears to be consumers as Hurt foresees limited food price inflation next year based on current production estimates.

by Dan Grant
FarmWeekNow.com

A number of checkered flags flapped in the wind along winding country roads last week in Brown County as Doug Dunn and his father-in-law, Lawrence Volk, moved harvest equipment from one field to the next.

But, while the green and white flags actually were a show of support for the local high school football team in Mount Sterling, some farmers are worried about seeing red or even having to wave the white flag on their farms in this or coming years.

The combination of lower crop prices and yields this season, compared to recent years, will trim margins even more this year for many farmers, including Dunn and Volk.

"This year is pretty tough, not only because of the weather situation, but also finances," Volk, a veteran farmer in his mid-70s, said while harvesting soybeans. "Inputs are so high that we're not getting much out of the crop. At least we've got something to sell."

In between a wet spring and a dry August, hail also caused about 40 percent defoliation in Dunn and Volk's soybeans this year. All told, the duo expects yields to be down between 10 and 20 percent.

Dunn and Volk, like many farmers, endured an extremely wet spring (with rainfall totaling nearly 20 inches in their area) which delayed planting in some spots and forced others, including Dunn, to replant a portion of their crops.

Hot and dry conditions followed in July, with the exception of a saving rain late that month, which Dunn and Volk credit with boosting corn yields near year-ago levels.

Temperatures moderated in August, but the rain in many areas did not return. Dunn and Volk's soybean yields, subsequently, are down about 10 to 20 bushels this season compared to last.

"We missed a lot of rain," Volk said. "If we could have got some around August 1, our beans would've been a lot better. Still, I'm really pleased with them, for what they've been through."

One way Dunn and Volk deal with price fluctuations is by working together and sharing labor and machinery.

Dunn retired from an off-farm job after 30 years with the Illinois Department of Corrections.

"I'm retired from the state, but been a farmer all my life," Dunn said. "We (he and his father-in-law) get a lot done when we work together. It works out good for us."

NOTICE TO LIVINGSTON COUNTY TAXPAYERS
ASSESSED VALUES FOR 2017

Valuation Date (35 ILCS 200/9-95): January 1, 2017
Required level of assessment (35 ILCS 200/9-145): 33.33%
Valuation based on sales from (35 ILCS 200/1-155): 2014, 2015 & 2016

Publication is hereby made for equalized assessed valuations for real property in this township in accordance with 35 ILCS 200/12-10.

Pursuant to 35 ILCS 200/10-115, the farmland assessment for the 2017 assessment year will increase by 10% of the preceding year's median cropped soil productivity index as certified by the Farmland Assessment Technical Advisory Board resulting in a $24.05 per acre increase for each soil productivity index.

As required by 35 ILCS 200/9-210 and 35 ILCS 200/10-115, the following equalization factors have been applied to all Residential, Commercial, Industrial, Farm Homesites & Dwellings and Other land & Improvements to bring the assessments to the statutorily required three-year median level of 33.33%.

Township	Level of Assessment	Twp Multiplier
Nevada	32.05	1.040
Dwight	31.47	1.059
Round Grove	33.33	1.000
Odell	32.36	1.030
Union	32.36	1.030
Broughton	33.33	1.000

Property in each Township, other than farmland, is to be assessed at a 33.33% median level of assessment, based on the fair cash value of the property. You may check the accuracy of your assessment by dividing your assessment by 33.33%. The resulting value should equal the estimated fair cash value of your property. If the resulting value is greater than the estimated fair cash value of your property, you may be over-assessed. If the resulting value is less than the fair cash value of your property, you may be under-assessed.

Assessment records of all parcels within your jurisdiction are available in the office of Supervisor of Assessments during regular business hours (8:00 AM – 4:30 PM). Information is also available on the Internet at livingston.illinoisassessors.com. Before filing an appeal, an attempt should be made to review the details of your property record card. If you are not satisfied with that informal review, you may appeal your assessment to the Livingston County Board of Review. Appeals must be filed in writing by the deadline of November 13, 2017 (30 days after publication date). If you file late, your appeal will not be heard. Contact the Livingston County Supervisor of Assessments for Rules and Procedures of the Board of Review and complaint forms. Complaint forms are also available on the internet at the address listed above or in the office of the Supervisor of Assessments.

Once a complaint is filed, the Board of Review will notify you of a preliminary decision. If you are not satisfied, a hearing may be requested. Attend the hearing to present evidence to support a change in assessed value. You may represent yourself or have an attorney represent you.

The Board of Review will send you a Notice of its final decision on the assessed value and certify those values to the County Clerk to extend taxes for the collection of property taxes. If the property owner does not agree with the decision of the Board of Review, an appeal can be filed with the Property Tax Appeal Board.

Your property tax bill will be calculated as follows:
Final Equalized Assessed Value – Exemptions = Taxable Value
Taxable Value x Current Tax Rate = Total Tax Bill

The following list contains all properties that received an individual change for those townships. The print order is alphabetical based on records of the Office of Supervisor of Assessments as of the date of the creation of this list. The list contains the parcel number, the name of the taxpayer, the assessed value of the buildings (improvements) and the total assessed value according to the records in the office of Supervisor of Assessments. To determine the land assessed value, subtract the improvement assessed value from the total assessed value.

If you have any questions on this heading or on property assessed value, please feel free to contact the Office of Supervisor of Assessments at 815-844-7214 or by mail at 112 W Madison St, Pontiac IL 61764
