Family Who Survived Second Disaster Helped By Dwight

by Myke Feinman Managing Editor

The "glass is half-full for an optimist and half-empty for a pessimist" proverb could be used to describe the good and bad luck of a Dwight family.

One could say that having Dwight their trailer destroyed by a tornado in 2010 was unlucky, losing all their possessions, clothing, etc. including a cherished Green Bay Packers football memorabilia collection.

Furthermore, having their home (converted into two apartments) burned to the ground, killing the occupants of the downstairs March 21, was unlucky. The family lost all their possessions again, including the start of a second Green Bay Packer collection. Their family dog also perished in the fire.

The fire resulted in the deaths of Guy Ralph Sassenger and Chad David Weber, both residents downstairs of the apartment/house on Route 47 across from the Emmanuel Lutheran Church funding so the family could in Dwight.

But then there is the lucky side of the equation. Dan Housman awoke to smell smoke, alerting Tricia Boyne and her son Mark that the building was on fire, allowing them to escape before it was fully engulfed in flames.

"If we had awakened two minutes later, we would be dead," Dan explained to The Paper last week.

He said they escaped downstairs and saw flames coming from the downstairs apartment.

They tried to re-enter the apartment twice to rescue their dog, but could not see or breathe due to the smoke. They also banged on the downstairs windows to get the occupants out to safety to no avail.

Dwight Firefighters were amazed the family made it outside, having arrived after they escaped, and unable to prevent the home from being totally destroyed.

The Red Cross stepped in immediately to provide stay at a local hotel until they could find permanent housing, Dan said.

Dan used funds from his retirement account to pay cash down on a new mobile home.

The Red Cross also helped them connect to local organizations for clothing, Dan added.

But the lucky part does not end there.

A group of families got together to raise funds for the family, arranging for their new trailer to be paid off and two years space rental (one year's rent donated by Creek Ridge Mobile Home Park on Spencer

The family survived a house fire in Dwight on March 21 that resulted in the death of two men. The same family also survived a Dwight tornado that destroyed their mobile home in 2010.

Gardner Business Man Complains About Tax Rates

by Myke Feinman Managing Editor

A Gardner business man complained to the village board at its meeting Monday, April 23, that he would rather build in Braidwood or Coal City than Gardner because of the high tax rate.

Charles Dennison, owner of a Hometown storage facility on Rt. 129 in Gardner, complained that the tax rate was too high, compared to neighboring towns where he also has businesses. He said he was going to purchase some adjoining property to expand his business, but was discouraged due to the high tax rate.

Mayor Mike Serena pointed out that the taxes are higher in Gardner compared to Braidwood and Coal City because of less industry to reduce the overall tax burden, including Braidwood nuclear power plant.

Serena also pointed out that the village portion of the taxes is small compared to taxing bodies like the schools.

Commissioner Dick Hileman noted that the tax rate for the village has not increased for two decades.

On that note, Hileman also explained that the health insurance for the village employees will be increasing soon.

In other business:

 Commissioner Rob Wolf said he will sit down with the water tower repair company to determine the bare minimum repair work to be done. It was revamped totally not too long ago. This is just an upkeep/maintenance job.

· suggested Commissioner James Riley concentrate on the two most significant nuisance issues (like junk cars, yard cleanup) to consolidate legal costs.

· held a moment of silence in honor of the late mayor of Kinsman, Mark Harlow.

- approved allowing Disabled Veterans to sell "forget-me-nots" on May 5 during the Rt. 66 Red Carpet Corridor.
- learned that work on the water main project would begin in July.

Dwight Schools Faculty and Staff Learn To 'Stop the Bleed'

special kits will be in DTHS and DGS classrooms and offices for faculty and staff to use to prevent students from bleeding out from wounds and injuries.

"Far too many deaths occur as a result of the inability to quickly stop hemorrhaging and the time it takes to transport an injured person to a medical facility," Stop the Bleed said.

"However, this can be prevented with on-site Bleeding Control Kits."

Law enforcement officers wear kits on their belts in K-12 schools.

At Dwight, all staff will have kits to provide bandages, apply pressure to wounds and apply tourniquets.

Andi McGraw explained during the training that the tourniquet should be applied a few inches above the bleed. And even though it hurts, it should stop the bleeding, she said, preventing death from hemorrhag-

"Many of the injuries sustained are survivable if first aid is administered," she explained. "Each of you will get a bag" containing various emergency bandages, tourniquets, etc.

She said there may be several size tourniquets because largers ones won't fit small arms or a young student.

"These are all bleeding control methods," she was showing the staff.

She said in a pressure application, applying gauze around the wound and wrapping it, even if it is bleeding through, should be done because of the body's clotting mechanisms that should stop the bleeding.

She said even if such equipment is not available, a t-shirt or towel can be used. She added not to be too concerned about cleanliness during a bleeding emer-

"A tourniquet is okay to stop the bleeding," she said. She advised using a hard object, not a pencil or pen,

Mother's Day - Financial Gifts For Your Adult Children

Mother's Day is almost here. If you're a mother with grown children, you might receive flowers, candy, dinner invitations or some other type of pleasant recognition. However, you might find that you can get more enjoyment from the holiday by giving, rather than receiving. The longest-lasting gifts may be financial ones – so here are a few moves to consider:

Contribute to your child's IRA. If your children have earned income, they are eligible to contribute to an IRA, which offers tax benefits and an almost unlimited array of investment options. You can't contribute directly to another person's IRA, but you can write your child a check for that purpose. This could be a valuable gift, as many people can't afford to contribute the maximum yearly amount, which, in 2018, is $5,500, or $6,500 for those 50 or older.

Give gifts of stock. You know your children pretty well, so you should be familiar with the products they buy. Why not give them some shares of stock in the companies that make these products? Your children will probably enjoy being "owners" of these companies, and if they weren't that familiar with how the financial markets work, having these shares in their possession may greatly expand their knowledge and lead to an even greater interest in investing.

Donate to a charity in your child's name. You might want to donate to a charitable organization that your child supports. In years past, such a donation might have earned you a tax deduction, but the new tax laws, which include a much higher standard deduction, may keep many people from itemizing. Still, it's possible for a charitable gift to provide you with a tax benefit, depending on your age. If you're 70 ½ or older, you must start taking withdrawals from your traditional IRA and your 401(k) or similar employer-sponsored plan, but by moving the withdrawal directly to a qualified charitable group, the money won't count as part of your adjusted gross income, so, in effect, you can get a tax break from your generosity.

Review your estate strategy. Like virtually all parents, vou'd probably like to be able to leave some type of legacy to your children, and possibly your grandchildren, too. So, if you haven't already started working on your estate strategy, consider using Mother's Day as a launching point. At the very least, you'll want to write your will, but you may need much more than that, such as a living trust, a durable power of attorney and other documents. And don't forget to change the beneficiary designations on your life insurance and retirement accounts if you've experienced a major life change, such as divorce or remarriage. These designations are powerful and can even supersede whatever instructions you might have left in your will. As you can guess, estate planning can be complex, so you almost certainly will want to work with a legal professional to get your arrangements in order.

Mother's Day is a good opportunity for your children to show their love for you, and you can do the same for them by helping bolster their long-term security through financial gifts and legacy planning.

Source of Drinking Water

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, oonds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the round, it dissolves naturally-occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can ick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.

include: - Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations, and wildlife.

Contaminants that may be present in source water

Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally-occurring or result from urban storm water runoff, industrial or fomestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming.

Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from variety of sources such as agriculture, urban storm water runoff, and residential uses.

Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban storm water runoff, and septic systems.

Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally-occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the EPAs Safe Drinking Water Hotline at (800) 426-4791.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water which must provide the same protection for public

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population.

Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing We cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead

Source Water Assessment

We want our valued customers to be informed about their water quality. If you would like to learn more, please feel welcome to attend any of our regularly scheduled meetings. The source water assessment for our supply has been completed by the Illinois EPA. If you would like a copy of this information, please stop by City Hall or call our water operator at 15-291-9/6/1. To view a summary version of the completed Source Water Assessments, including: Importance of Source Water; Susceptibility to Contamination; and documentation/recommendation of Source Water Protection Efforts, you may access the Illinois EPA website at http://www.epa.state.il.us/cgi-bin/wp/swap-fact-sheets.pl.

Source of Water: GARDNERBased on information obtained in a Well Site Survey, published in 1992 by the Illinois EPA, one potential source, route, or possible problem site was identified within the survey area of Gardner's wells. Furthermore, information provided by the Leaking Underground Storage Tank Section of the Illinois EPA indicated several additional sites with ongoing remediation which may be of concern. The Illinois EPA has determined that the Gardner Community Water Supply's source water is not susceptible to contamination. This determination is based on a number of criteria including: monitoring conducted at the wells; monitoring conducted at the entry point to the distribution system; and the available hydrogeologic data on the wells. Furthermore, in anticipation of the U.S. EPA's proposed Ground Water Rule, the Illinois EPA has determined that the Gardner Community Water Supply is not vulnerable to viral contamination. This determination is based upon the evaluation the following criteria during the Vulnerability Waiver Process: the community's wells are properly constructed with sound integrity and proper site conditions; a hydrogeologic barrier exists which should prevent pathogen movement; all potential properly constituted with sound integrity and properly and properly controlled with sound integrity and properly controlled with sound integrity and properly did not indicate a history of disease outbreak; and the sanitary survey of the water supply did not indicate a viral contamination threat. Because the community's wells are constructed in a confined aquifer, which should prevent the movement of pathogens into the wells, well hydraulics were not considered to be a significant factor in this vulnerability determination. Hence, well hydraulics were not evaluated for this groundwater supply.

Last Week

It's been a very very long time since I've gone a week without writing a column. I've composed some that may have been less than stellar, but I had been putting them together for a few years straight, and last week unfortunately just ran out of

It stemmed from me visiting Colorado for the weekend, and the complications that I had with travelling back from that. My flight was originally scheduled to land in Chicago at 7:15.

I figured with this landing time that I would have plenty of time to get back, get ready for the week and get the column Then, after boarding the plane, and we're on the runway, we hit the brakes as we make the final turn before it does the rocket noise thing and takes off. As we're hitting the brakes, it makes this noise similar to that of a having a flat tire. It was one of those noises where everyone on the plane is looking around like "uhh, I've never been on a flight that's made that noise before, let me look around to gauge the reactions of other people and see if this is something that's normal."

The only problem was, everyone had this look on their face, it was not a normal noise by any means.

We sit there for a good 10-15 minutes, much longer than you would normally sit somewhere before takeoff, and finally they come and say we have to go back to the gate to change planes.

Which would've been fine, it only would've been about a 45 minute delay, nothing too crazy. The only problem was that I had booked a layover flight in Omaha, and because it had been delayed, the trip no longer could compensate the remaining trip to Chicago, so I was moved to a later flight.

This flight didn't LEAVE, until 8:30, so now, if you account for the time change from Colorado to Chicago, I'm leaving two hours after I was scheduled to land.

If you've ever seen the Terminal, with Tom Hanks, it started to feel a lot like that. Granted, I was only there for about 7 hours and some change, but I contemplated, pushing two rows of chairs together to form a pseudo bed.

The flight takes off, everything is fine, and then I'm waiting for my checked baggage.

Turns out my baggage was already there, and I waited a half hour for every single bag from the flight to come out of the little chute thing, only to find out that I didn't need to wait at

Needless to say, I didn't get home until around 1 a.m. and had to be awake for work around 6.

As much as I enjoy writing this column, sometimes, it's nice to have a little sleep. Which caused me to run out of time for creating a column last week.

Plus, it made for a great backstory, and column this week.

Go, Cubs.

GSW Lady Panthers Softball

Monday, April 23 GSW vs. Grant Park

varsity Lady Panthers took a loss to Grant Park in RVC action April 23.

After one of their worst innings ever played – GSW found themselves down 7-0 early.

However, they rallied back and made it interesting – extending the game to six innings but coming up just shy, 11-9.

"We could have given up and made this a five inning, ten run rule game - but we didn't," stated Coach Bexson after the game. "I was proud of the girls for that, but this is a game that we should have won. It's going to be very tough winning ball games when we make eight errors in six innings.

Madelyn Storm provided three hits and a run, with Tori King adding two hits and a run. Emily Beck had two hits and two RBI, while Shelby Serena contributed an RBI and two hits. Kennedy Fair batted in two, with Carson Halpin chipping in with a hit and a run batted in. Abby Beck added an

Wednesday, April 25 GSW vs. Grant Park Varsity -

For the second time in a row, GSW lost to Grant Park – this time by a 19-11 score on April 25.

Delaney Miner started the game in the circle, allowing seven runs on seven hits, striking out two. Shelby Serena relieved her in the third, as she struck out two but gave up 12 runs.

The Lady Panther offense was led by Abby Beck with two hits and three RBI, followed by Serena who had two RBI on two hits. Carson Halpin had two hits and an RBI, while Ellie Fortier, Paige Patterson, Kennedy Fair, and Miner each had one hit and an RBI. Madelyn Storm came up with two hits. Emily Beck scored twice and added a hit.

"I'm happy with how our offense is doing," said Coach Bexson, "but we're still making a lot of errors in the field. Our defense needs to step it up if we're going to be competitive in these games. When we dig ourselves a hole like this early on in the game, it makes it very difficult to crawl out of it. I'm proud the girls kept their hot bats going, but we really need our defense to make the plays.'

GSW is now 2-8 on the year.

He said the town will need a second cleanup date to be sched-

Family Who Survived Second Disaster Helped By Dwight

by Myke Feinman Managing Editor

The "glass is half-full for an optimist and half-empty for a pessimist" proverb could be used to describe the good and bad luck of a Dwight family.

One could say that having Dwight their trailer destroyed by a tornado in 2010 was unlucky, losing all their possessions, clothing, etc. including a cherished Green Bay Packers football memorabilia collection.

Furthermore, having their home (converted into two apartments) burned to the ground, killing the occupants of the downstairs March 21, was unlucky. The family lost all their possessions again, including the start of a second Green Bay Packer collection. Their family dog also perished in the fire.

The fire resulted in the deaths of Guy Ralph Sassenger and Chad David Weber, both residents downstairs of the apartment/house on Route 47 across from the Emmanuel Lutheran Church funding so the family could in Dwight.

But then there is the lucky side of the equation. Dan Housman awoke to smell smoke, alerting Tricia Boyne and her son Mark that the building was on fire, allowing them to escape before it was fully engulfed in flames.

"If we had awakened two minutes later, we would be dead," Dan explained to The Paper last week.

He said they escaped downstairs and saw flames coming from the downstairs apartment.

They tried to re-enter the apartment twice to rescue their dog, but could not see or breathe due to the smoke. They also banged on the downstairs windows to get the occupants out to safety to no avail.

Dwight Firefighters were amazed the family made it outside, having arrived after they escaped, and unable to prevent the home from being totally destroyed.

The Red Cross stepped in immediately to provide stay at a local hotel until they could find permanent housing, Dan said.

Dan used funds from his retirement account to pay cash down on a new mobile home.

The Red Cross also helped them connect to local organizations for clothing, Dan added.

But the lucky part does not end there.

A group of families got together to raise funds for the family, arranging for their new trailer to be paid off and two years space rental (one year's rent donated by Creek Ridge Mobile Home Park on Spencer

Dan's employer, Anthony Liftgates of Pontiac, and his fellow employees pitched in financially and gave Dan the time off he needed.

MARK AND TRICIA BOYNE and Dan Housman smile as they hold their Green Bay Packer memorabilia received at the Red Cross fund-raiser held in Bloomington, April 24. The memorabilia was presented by Green Bay Packer Quarterback Aaron Rodgers, a thrill for big-time Packer fans Mark and Dan. The family survived a house fire in Dwight on March 21 that resulted in the death of two men. The same family also survived a Dwight tornado that destroyed their mobile home in 2010.

Gardner Business Man Complains About Tax Rates

by Myke Feinman Managing Editor

A Gardner business man complained to the village board at its meeting Monday, April 23, that he would rather build in Braidwood or Coal City than Gardner because of the high tax rate.

Charles Dennison, owner of a Hometown storage facility on Rt. 129 in Gardner, complained that the tax rate was too high, compared to neighboring towns where he also has businesses. He said he was going to purchase some adjoining property to expand his business, but was discouraged due to the high tax rate.

Mayor Mike Serena pointed out that the taxes are higher in Gardner compared to Braidwood and Coal City because of less industry to reduce the overall tax burden, including Braidwood nuclear power plant.

Serena also pointed out that the village portion of the taxes is small compared to taxing bodies like the schools.

Commissioner Dick Hileman noted that the tax rate for the village has not increased for two decades.

On that note, Hileman also explained that the health insurance for the village employees will be increasing soon.

In other business:

 Commissioner Rob Wolf said he will sit down with the water tower repair company to determine the bare minimum repair work to be done. It was revamped totally not too long ago. This is just an upkeep/maintenance job.

· suggested Commissioner James Riley concentrate on the two most significant nuisance issues (like junk cars, yard cleanup) to consolidate legal costs.

· held a moment of silence in honor of the late mayor of Kinsman, Mark Harlow.

• approved allowing Disabled Veterans to sell "forget-me-nots" on May 5 during the Rt. 66 Red Carpet Corridor.

• learned that work on the water main project would begin in July.
