Sweet Brewings Causing a Buzz!

By Rachael Reynolds-Soucie

Something sweet is brewing at 111 E. Chippewa in Dwight: Unpossible Mead, one of only a handful of companies in Illinois crafting mead, an alcoholic beverage fermented with honey, water and yeast.

Brian Galbreath, of Coal City, is renovating the 2,300-square-foot building, turning a former plumbing and heating space into a hip place to sip a drink that dates back to 7,000 B.C., predating wine and beer.

"Mead is where craft beer was in the '80s and where wine was in the '70s," Galbreath said.

In other words, it's creating a buzz. According to the American Mead Makers Association, mead is the fastest growing alcoholic beverage in the U.S.

Galbreath purchased the building built in 1898 in July last year and in March quit his job hauling steel with Faletti Enterprises in Dwight. He bought the equipment and got to work renovating the space and making mead. He's done much of the work himself, covering the walls with rustic galvanized metal, building Murphy-style tables, hanging industrial lighting and resurfacing a spacious bar counter.

Self-taught Galbreath has he zested more than 200 lemons to steep in the mead.

Galbreath is on the cusp of an emerging trend. The closest meadery to Dwight is in Chicago. But modern mead makers are creating loval drinkers thanks to a diversity of flavors that can't be found among any other alcoholic beverage. Galbreath said mead can be sweet, dry, still or sparkling. You can add herbs, spices and fruit. And because it contains no wheat, barley or rye, it's naturally glutenfree.

But what gives mead its unique character and range of flavors is the honey. Often called "honey wine," Galbreath offered me a taste of the Basswood Blossom. It had a delicate floral aroma and tasted a bit like white wine, with a sweet, honeyed aftertaste.

"Honey comes in many colors," he said. While in the tank room, he opened up pails of sweet, sticky honey colored light blonde and dark molasses. Each has a distinct taste based on what the bees pollinated, and many beekeepers strategically place their hives near different crops to influence flavor.

A bucket of Zambia wildflower tastes very robust. Caramelized honey offers a sweet, nutty flavor. Other honeys get their flavor from orange blossoms, clover, almond blossoms, avocado blossoms and star thistle prized in Michigan. He samples honey before he buys in bulk, five-gallon buckets costing anywhere from $150 to $430 for thyme honey from Spain. Galbreath also has his friend in Joliet. He plans to relocate it to the rooftop of the building but the year-old hive is too delicate to move. It's thriving though, having produced about 120 pounds of honey. And once they are moved, they'll have blossoms to pollinate right outside their door: Galbreath has planted apple trees on the property. The beekeeping necessary to produce honey for mead is a job unto itself. Bees need care otherwise the colony can collapse. But when properly tended to, own hive, being tended by a gallons and gallons of honey can be harvested, which makes drinking mead good for the environment. Supporting bee populations is vital to the planet's ecosystems.

Making mead is similar to brewing beer, but simpler. Water, yeast and honey are seven giant tanks in the mead making room, three of which are almost ready to hit the tap for a soft opening during Harvest Days: the Basswood Blossom, which is a traditional light mead; a cherry mead aged on oak; and Lemon Drop, for which poured into the tanks, and as it ferments, the honey sugar turns into alcohol. An average batch uses 40 gallons of honey. It's then carbonated in a stainless steel vessel after filtering and then packaged.

Patients, Illinois Win Big New Opioid Alternative Law

Illinois, representing cultivation centers and dispensaries licensed under the Illinois medical cannabis pilot program, issued the following statement as Governor Rauner signed Senate Bill 336:

"Today, Illinois has taken an important step forward in health care policy. With the signing of Senate Bill 336 into law, we are helping address the scourge of prescription opioid abuse that costs thousands their lives in Illinois, and giving many Illinoisans the real relief they need through Illinois' medical cannabis program.

"Backed by proven medical research, this new law provides a smart alternative for Illinois patients suffering from pain that until

> "We are also providing a critical streamlining of the application process to the medical cannabis program with this law, which will allow all patients to benefit from receiving the help they need from cannabis treatment much quicker than the significant wait times that are so frustrating now. We thank our lead sponsors in the Illinois Senate and House, Senate President Pro Tempore Don Harmon and Rep. Kelly Cassidy, Gov. Rauner and the strong bipartisan majorities that supported providing patients health and regulatory relief through this new law."

Consider Financial Gifts for Your Grandchildren

National Grandparents Day is observed on Sept. 9. If you're a grandparent, you may get some gifts or cards - or maybe even a phone call! But you might feel that it's better to give than to receive, especially when it comes to your grandchildren. And you can make a real difference in their lives by making a financial gift for their future.

For starters, think about your grandchildren's education. If college or some type of vocational school is in their future, you may want to help them meet some of the costs, which can be considerable. One common education-savings vehicle is a 529 savings plan. With this plan, earnings on withdrawals are tax free, provided they are used for qualified education expenses. (Keep in mind that 529 savings plan distributions not used for qualified expenses may be subject to ordinary income tax and a 10% IRS penalty on the earnings.) You also may be eligible for a state income tax incentive for contributing to a 529 savings plan. Check with your tax advisor about these incentives, as well as all tax-related issues pertaining to 529 savings plans.

A 529 savings plan's contribution limits are quite generous. And, as the owner of a 529 plan, you have flexibility in choosing where the money goes - if your grandchild decides against college or another type of advanced education, you can transfer the plan to another beneficiary. And due to recent tax law changes, the scope of 529 plans has been expanded to include qualified withdrawals of up to $10,000 for tuition expenses per year per beneficiary at public, private or religious elementary or secondary schools. Be aware, though, that a 529 savings plan could affect any financial assistance your grandchild might receive. Although a 529 plan owned by a grandparent won't be reported as an asset on the Free Application For Federal Student Aid (FAFSA), withdrawals from the plan are treated as untaxed income to the beneficiary (i.e., your grandchild) — and that has a big impact on financial aid. So, you may want to contact a financial aid professional about the potential effects of any gifts you're considering.

A 529 savings plan isn't the only financial gift you could give to your grandchildren. You also might consider giving them shares of stock, possibly held in a custodial account, usually known as an UTMA or UGMA account. However, you only control a custodial account until your grandchildren reach the age of majority as defined by state law, at which time they take it over. They then can use the money for whatever they want - and their plans may not have anything to do with books or classes.

Still, your grandchildren might be particularly interested in owning the stocks contained in the custodial account - many young people enjoy owning shares of companies that make familiar products. And your gift may even get your grandchildren interested in long-term investing.

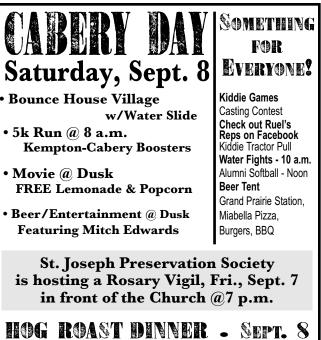

No matter what type of financial gifts you give to your grandchildren, make sure you keep enough money to pay for your own needs. It's important to balance your personal savings needs with your desire to be generous.

Giving financial gifts can be rewarding - to you and your grandchildren. Consider exploring some possibilities soon.

66 Licks, now on Route 66

By Rachael Reynolds-Soucie

You can get your kicks on Route 66 and you can get your licks as well, now that an ice cream food truck has opened in Odell.

66 Licks, run by Sue and Brad Grieff and their daughter ,Kelly Harris, opened in August and is parked at 102 West Street, home of the historic Mobil gas station, which they also purchased last month.

Fall may be approaching, but it's always a good time for ice cream. At least that was the thought when Kelly came up with the idea of opening up a food truck several years ago. The family's new venture became a reality when they purchased a food truck and renovated it.

They are open seven days a week, from 5:30-8 p.m. Monday-Friday, and noon-8 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. All three help run the business. Brad and Sue own Grieff's Precious Monuments & Laser Etching in Dwight.

66 Licks serves cones, sundaes, shakes and slushies. They have eight to 10 flavors and rotate often. Customer favorites that will be served regularly are butter pecan, vanilla and blueberry with crushed blueberry ripple. Prices range from $3.50-$5.50. They also serve hot dogs, perfect for a quick bite to eat after work with some of the best dessert around.

Ice cream is trucked in every week from The Chocolate Shoppe, a well-known label made in the great dairy state of Wisconsin. Get a taste of the other offerings:

Zanzibar Chocolate made with three types of cocoa that is reminiscent of rich, fudge brownies. The Brownie Cascade is chocolate ice cream overflowing with brownie pieces, caramel cups and swirls of fudge. And This $&@! Just Got Serious combines salted caramel ice cream with sea salt fudge and salted cashews.

Are you drooling yet?

They set up a table and umbrella each day for people to sit and enjoy a scoop or two. Sue said they would eventually like to turn the historic gas station into an all-out ice cream shop.

For now, the mobile truck will serve at its home base on West Street and will also set up at fairs and festivals -including upcoming Dwight Harvest Days.

TAKE A SHORT TRIP on Route 66 and you will find 66 Licks at 102 West Street in Odell waiting to take your order. Open 7 days a week, serving hot dogs and ice cream in cones, sundaes, and cups. Slushies are also a favorite. Make a point to stop the next time you are in Odell! Looks delicious!

Mobile Food Pantry in S. Wilmington Sept. 10

On Monday, September 10, at 4:00 p.m., Catholic Charities' Mobile Food Pantry will be distributing food at St. Lawrence Church (135 Rice Rd. in South Wilmington) in the church parking lot (rain or shine).

Catholic Charities and the Northern Illinois Food Bank have partnered to deliver nutritious food (meat, produce, and nonperishable items) to people in need.

Participants are asked to take bags, laundry baskets, or boxes to transport food and grocery products to their vehicles. Shopping carts will be available. A representative from Catholic Charities will be available to explain additional services provided by the agency.

Beekeeping in Dwight B-1 District Approved Three Seats on Dwight Village Board to Open /August 27 Board Actions

by Madelyn Fogarty madelynfogarty@yahoo.com

Beekeeping in the Village of Dwight will be permitted in the B-1 Downtown Business District on rooftops only following approval by the Board of Trustees of a recommendation from the Dwight Ordinance, Judicial and Licensing Committee. No more than three hives will be permitted and a copy of the person's State registration will be required before a permit is issued.

The action follows a request made in July by Brian Galbreath, owner of a new meadery, Umpossible Mead, which is preparing to open in Dwight's downtown area this fall. Galbreath plans to place a bee hive on the roof of his meadery and will use the honey produced in his business. Trustee Randy Irvin was opposed to the move.

Also at the August 27 session of the Dwight Village Board, two additional recommendations from the August 13 Ordinance Committee meeting were approved including a Public Safety Employee Benefits Act Ordinance which establishes administrative procedures for assessing PSEBA claims and establishes a definition of catastrophic injury.

Also approved was a Small Wireless Facilities Deployment Ordinance which regulates the attachment of small wireless facilities on municipal utility poles or other structures.

In other matters, a recommendation from the August 20 Administration Committee meeting was approved. The Morris Hospital Clinic on Prairie Avenue will have time-limit designation parking signs on seven of the 12 new parking spaces only. The time slots will be Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Additional road closures were approved as requested by the Dwight Harvest Days Committee. South Prairie Avenue from East Chippewa to East South Street were added to the Harvest Days street closure list. The additional space is needed to include handicap parking east side of the railroad tracks so there will be no crossing of the tracks except for emergency vehicles as needed from Wednesday through Monday of the celebration. Harvest Days will be held September 20 - 23.

Village Administrator McNamara Kevin announced that September 22 is the first day to pick up, and pass, a petition for anyone wishing to run for village offices. Three four-year trustee seats will open as terms for Randy Irvin, Jim Mixen and Marla Kinkade expire. The election is April 2, 2019. Also, for the November election, the last date to register at the Dwight Village Hall, or any location outside of the County Clerk's Office, is October 7. McNamara also thanked the Kime family for donating a bench at both the Stevenson Pool and the Lions Lake butterfly garden.

Mayor Jared Anderson reported on a meeting he attended in Joliet with the CEO of Union Pacific Railroad. Expansion is ongoing and Anderson indicated that additional freight trains are expected to be passing through Dwight.

Dwight EMS Director Al Metzke extended a "big thank you" to all the emergency personnel that assisted during a recent serious accident involving a lengthy extraction.

Nancy Norton, President and CEO of the Grundy Economic Development Council, was on hand to provide an economic snapshot and update.

"The business climate is positive if you are looking for a job," Norton told the board. "But you are probably not that happy if you are trying to hire employees right now as our unemployment is at historically low levels."

According to statistics Norton, presented by Grundy County initial unemployment claims hit another new low in 2017 with another marked year over year decline. Unemployment claims in Grundy County continue to be dominated by the construction sector.

Norton told the board that huge, our health care is growing, the industrial vacancies of our large buildings is at 1.4 percent, so we are really feeling like we are in a good place," said Norton.

With "a very fluid workforce", 74.1 percent of Grundy County residents commute outside of the county to work, while, in turn, 62.8 percent of workers in Grundy County commute in from outside the county.

After years of strong growth, growth in Grundy County has been very slow since 2010. Illinois as a whole has shown negative population growth each of the last four years. Also, Ag land values continued their decline in 2017, making four years of consecutive decline.

For more information, you can visit the GEDC web site at www.gedc.com.

Erin Fogarty, Health Education and Marketing Director for the Livingston County Health Department, was at the meeting to promote smoking policies for Village of Dwight public parks. Fogarty asked the board to consider adopting smoking policies, such as designated smoking areas, for all village parks, but at a minimum the baseball/softball fields, which are primarily for use by children.

"Our objective isn't to punish people, our objective is to educate people and to encourage healthy behavior - that is really the driving force behind this," said Fogarty. "It gives a renewed awareness for this health issue and it puts it back into the public spotlight, because second hand smoke is still an issue and we need to be sure that we keep it away from our children. It is a health concern for them."

Governor Thomas Ford Chapter DAR Meets

Governor Thomas Ford Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution met at the American Lutheran Church in Gibson City Monday evening, August 27, at 6 pm for the first meeting of the new program year. The Daughters were pleased to welcome prospective members and husbands to this meeting. Tradition-ally, at this meeting, the assembly recites the Pre-amble to the Constitution in anticipation of celebrating Constitution Week, Septem-ber 17-23. The DAR was instrumental in getting the resolution passed during President Eisenhower's term in 1956 to observe Constitu-tion Week. All citizens are encouraged to ring bells on September 17th at 3 pm in celebration.

Vice Regent Carol Camp introduced Mr. Tim Hess and his program "Teaching Patriotism Through Music". Under Mr. Hess' leadership, the Paxton-Buckley-Loda Panther Regiment is known statewide for its military music. The band played for the last Honor Flight that flew back into Champaign, IL. It is the only high school band to play for this event. Even though the plane was late, the band entertained those waiting by playing patriotic songs from the WWII era. The band played patriotic music as the Gold Star 500 Mission rode into Paxton, Illinois. Mr. Hess has traveled with his band to New Orleans where they have shared the stage with 566th Air Force Band and the Marine Band.

Mr. Hess encourages the students to thank the Veterans for their service and sacrifice. It is not about being part of the band, but about respect for Veterans and their families. The PBL Panther Regiment plays for community Veterans Day programs in the fall and performs a Salute to Veterans concert every spring.

Better Call Saul

I was having a very hard time deciding what to write about this week, but I finally settled on a television show that I've been watching weekly and following very closely.

This show, as indicated by the title of this week's column, is "Better Call Saul." This stems from the Breaking Bad series which comes from creator Vince Gilligan and won numerous Emmy's during its run on air, and is now a staple of the streaming service giant, Netflix.

When the show was announced that it would be created, and as a prequel, I was very skeptical. This was one of those times, where I thought that maybe Breaking Bad, just should've ended, that it didn't need a spin off, and that it would somehow tarnish the amazing show that was Breaking Bad.

I was also curious how a prequel to a television show would work, I mean I know how it would work, but I was wondering how a show, where many of the characters' fates are pre-determined would play out, if it would allow for suspenseful moments, or if they could be created with each character's fates already known.

As the 4th season has begun to unravel on its host channel, AMC, I am completely 100%, couldn't be anymore on board with the show, "Better Call Saul". It's unbelievable how good this show has become. There were some lulls throughout the first season or two, but as it has progressed it has far exceeded every expectation I had, and then some.

There is a multitude of characters whose fates I do not know, and even the ones whose fates I do know, they are effortlessly able to create suspenseful moments. It's almost evolving into Breaking Bad at this point, in terms of the suspense, and complex plot lines, everything about it is everything that made Breaking Bad great.

It's to the point now where I feel that Better Call Saul is almost overshadowed by the greatness cloud that Breaking Bad created, that if Better Call Saul existed in another world where Breaking Bad was never a thing it would be seeing, and enjoying the same success as its predecessor.

Nonetheless, I couldn't be more excited to watch how it unfolds, and if you're a fan of Breaking Bad, I really really recommend diving back into the world of the Southwest and take on Better Call Saul head on.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Freedom of Conscience

We may not like it, we may find it repulsive the manner in which people express their grievances or protest injustice, but tolerance is such a small price of freedom we bear when compared to those that have fought, suffered, and bled for those freedoms whether it be in armed services, on buses, from pulpits, in the streets of America, or by silent and solemn non violent protest of taking a knee publicly to call attention to the injustice. Tolerance is a beautiful and essential element of a civilized and free society.

It is one's freedom to honor the flag or national anthem, or to hold either or neither in reverence. As we honor our freedom of conscience we should equally respect the freedoms of others to whom we may have differences. At the same time we can all celebrate the human rights we share.

George Washington: "While we are contending for our own liberty, we should be very cautious not to violate the conscience of others, ever considering that God alone is the judge of the hearts of men, and to Him only in this case are they answerable."

I will not oppress my brothers that take a knee during the National Anthem or the Pledge of Allegiance. I applaud their right and their courage to exercise their right to protest injustice in the very forum that portrays justice and liberty for all, when and where it is being glorified, and to confront peacefully those notions and assertions, implicit or explicit, among the nations symbolism, to challenge a nation's conscience about the contrast between our ideals and reality, and what is right and what is wrong, and to provoke our individual and collective conscience, thought and debate; the product of which will get us closer to serving, and being one nation under GOD

Words cannot express our appreciation for the love shown to our Mother over her 101 years.

The excellent care given to her the last 10 years at Heritage Health was amazing. The care she received from Hospice of Kankakee Valley was extraordinary. Both provided mom and our family, the physical, emotional and spiritual support throughout the time mom was in the nursing home.

Thanks for all the prayers, thoughts, cards, visits, masses, donations, food and flowers given to us during this bittersweet time.

Thanks to Fr. David Sabel for the memorable Christian burial mass. Thanks to Hager Memorial Home for their care and compassion shown to us during this 12 difficult time. The luncheon provided by the Altar and Rosary Society was delicious and very much appreciated We are blessed to have such wonderful family and friends.

Your expression of love and thoughtfulness will never be forgotten.

Tri-Point High School Students Off to a Great Start

For the last two years the high school has received a Bronze Medal Award from U.S. News. This ranking is based on student performances on state-required tests and how well the students are prepared for college. Tri-Point High School students are working hard on their skill-sets in technology, creative problem solving, and peer grouping. Chase Cathcart, above left, is utilizing technology to create a presentation that focuses on sensory components in Art, while implementing design principles. HY+Q Program Recognizes Area Farmer for High-Value Soybean Success

John Larkin, Odell, has been recognized by the checkoff-sponsored High PLUS Yield Quality (HY+Q) Program for growing high-yielding soybeans with exceptional feed value.

Larkin grew a Beck's Hybrids soybean variety that yielded in the mid to upper 50 bushels/acre range. It had a Livestock Feed Value Score of 8 out of a possible 10, near the top of varieties submitted for quality testing from Illinois farms in 2017.

"I was really happy with how the yield and quality of these beans," says Larkin. "They yielded as good as anything we had last year."

Larkin has submitted samples from his soybean fields to the United States Soybean Export Council's (USSEC) quality testing program for several years. Results from 2017 USSEC samples provided new insights into the connection between quality and enduser value, thanks to a collaboration between USSEC and the HY+Q Program, which was created by the Illinois Soybean Association.

The program showed that key amino acid components of Larkin's high-value soybeans would have theoretically saved swine producers $1.27/head and poultry broiler feeders $0.03/head in finishing costs compared to theoretical meal from the bottom 1 per cent of samples submitted to USSEC in 2017. Nutritionists say these savings are substantial and could contribute to higher profitability for livestock producers.

"I really think increasing value for end-users is a winner," says Larkin. "I planted a whole bunch of them again this year - 150-160 acres because they did so well last year. We'll send them in again to USSEC this year and see how they turned out."

"We want to congratulate John for his exceptional success this year growing Beck's soybeans," says Timothy Hartman, Beck's Seed Advisor. "For over 80 years, Beck's has been dedicated to providing farmers the highest-yielding seed products to fit every operation. Our customer's success always remains at the forefront of our business."

Larkin is hopeful that increased attention to growing high-value soybeans can help improve demand for U.S. soybeans because of the higher value to customers. "If it helps the hog man and the chicken man, they will be willing to pay more," he says. "It will increase their income and ours, too. One will help the other."

Enlisting seed companies to improve the feed value of the soybeans they breed will be critical, adds Larkin. "I think this would be an advantage if we improve amino acid quality," he says. If we got companies to breed that way, that would be a real plus."

As it has since its inception in 2014, the HY+Q program is asking farmers to submit soybean samples for quality testing from the 2018 crop. To request a postagepaid sample bag, visit www.soyvalue.com.

Wednesday, August 29 GSW at Bishop Mac Conditioner

The Panther cross country team competed at Kankakee Community College in the Bishop Mac Conditioner August 29.

The F/S and the varsity girls' races are a four-mile competition where two athletes alternate running one mile at a time to cover the full distance.

The varsity boys race for six miles in their event.

"Our squad again showed improvement over their 2017 times," stated Coach Lane. "They displayed race smarts early and wonderful focus over their last miles."

Shawn Romanetto and Carter Butterbrodt, the team's only freshmen, finished in 20th and earned an award.

"I was proud of their willingness to race hard from the start and their tenacity to fight and focus during the final, strenuous 1/2 mile of the race," Lane added.

Rvlie Bond and Alexis Brooke delivered the best finish with their 16th place in the girl's varsity race. Bond rebounded from an off day in the Morris race and Brooke continued her strong 2018 - cutting 16 seconds from her 2017 performance.

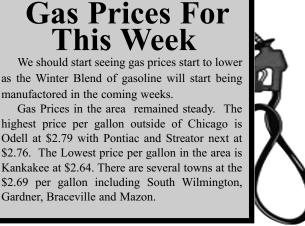

The best boys varsity result was the 19th place finish for Bryce Lucus and J.C. Santos, with both runners showing considerable improvement over their 2017 races.

"Their mile splits were very close together," said Lane, "which is the smartest

Jack James also lowered his splits from one year ago. Lacking a GSW partner, he teamed up with a Peotone runner and turned in a strong performance after his disappointing race at the Early Bird Invite.

Rustic, Reclaimed Wood Perfect for Outdoor Entertaining

by Rachael Reynolds-Soucie

When Ashley Carroll and her husband Brad decided to tear down an old barn on their farmstead in Flanagan, little did they know how much mileage they would get from the rubble.

Her handy dad, Keith Perry, of Dwight, used the wood to build two bars for Ashley's wedding, held at in-law's property not far from their home, set up under a big white tent. They were perfect for the occasion: rustic, reclaimed and quite the conversation piece.

When Keith's wife Kathy decided she wanted an outdoor entertainment center, the materials -- that torndown barn at his daughter's.

"I did the work, she came up with the idea," he laughed.

The Perry's live in Dwight and spend a lot of time in their backyard. Who wouldn't with their set-up: a deck, a pool, a hot tub, patio furniture and of course a grill. Their grandson Brayden, Ashley's almost 11-month-old son, has spent plenty of time in the pool this summer.

The only thing missing was the entertainment, aside from what Brayden can provide, of course. So Keith got to work on his wife's idea.

At first sight it looks like a storage unit. Then you open the doors to reveal a television. The bottom is made for storage, such as patio cushions and pillows. he knew just where to find It has a shabby chic feel with the gray barnwood peeking out from white-washed areas. The rusted hinges were reclaimed from the old structure, too, looking like something Joanna Gaines would sweet talk hubby Chip into building.

"Everything came from that barn," said Keith, who pulled it together in two Saturday afternoons.

With the Americana trend continuing to gain popularity in home decor, reclaimed barn wood is a hot commodity, easily fetching $6 a foot. Homeowners are using it for flooring, ceilings, kitchen islands, bathroom vanities and more. Knock-offs are everywhere, which makes Keith's creations so cool.

"My wife thinks so," he laughed.

Now, they can sit out on a beautiful night and watch golf, drag racing and Cubs games, Keith said.

It's perfect, which makes him think of the next project his wife will be dreaming up.

Defining Hardscape and How to Use It

Curb appeal is beneficial in various ways. Curb appeal can make a home more attractive to prospective buyers and give existing homeowners a place they want to come home to. In its study of the worth of outdoor remodeling projects, the National Association of Realtors found standard lawn care and overall landscape upgrades were most appealing to buyers, as well as the most likely to add value to a home.

Although plants, grass and other items can improve curb appeal, homeowners should not overlook hardscaping.

Hardscaping is an industry term that refers to the non-living features of a landscape. These features can include everything from decks to walkways to ornamental boulders. Introducing paths or paver walls to a property helps develop that home's hardscape. Hardscape and soft elements often work in concert to create inspiring landscape designs.

DIY landscape designers can heed certain tips to make the most of hardscape features on their properties. Choose materials.

As with many landscaping projects, homeowners must first determine what types of additions they would like on their properties. Common hardscape features include patios, decks, walkways of pavers or bricks, and retaining walls. Hardscape elements can be functional or simply decorative features that add whimsy to the yard.

FLOORING

Choose a theme.

The right style allows hardscaping and softscaping materials to work together. For example, homeowners may want to give their yards an eastern feel, complete with a koi pond and decorative bridge or trellis. A formal English garden, however, may include manicured paths with stepping stones and ornate topiaries. Mixing too many styles together can take away from the overall appeal.

The pros suggest looking at the overall plan of the design, even if all of the work can't be completed at once. This way the eventual finished project wil be cohesive.

Think about the purpose.

Hardscaping can look good but also serve key purposes. Pebbles or gravel can mitigate trouble areas that don't grow grass or plant life well. Retaining walls hold back soil in yards with sharply inclined hills. Mulch can set perimeters around trees and shrubs, as well as planting beds. Fencing, another form of hardscaping, is essential for establishing property boundaries and adding privacy.

Consult a professional.

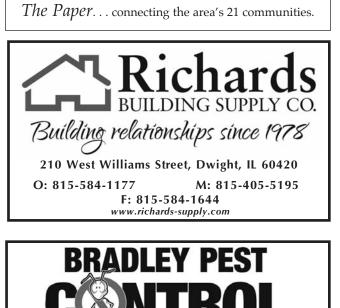

While many hardscaping additions can be handled by novices, large-scale projects, such as patios and decking, can change the grading of the yard. Professionals can map out how to handle drainage issues and meet building codes. In addition, professional installation can ensure hardscaping features last for years to come.

Hardscaping refers to the elements in a landscape that aren't living, such as paths, walls and fences.

Hardscaping should blend with the nature around it and take its cues from the surrounding environment. This can help softscaping and hardscaping work as one.

Kira Bean and Mia Buck each had a hit and two RBI in the contest, while Hailey Heath knocked in a run on two hits and a walk. Megan Livingston (walk), Kassy Kodat (triple), and Erin Anderson (walk) each supplied a hit. Addy Harms walked once.

Livingston suffered the loss, allowing four earned runs on nine hits and three walks, fanning four.

Thursday, August 30 Dwight vs. Herscher "В" -

Dwight's "B" team defeated Herscher 9-7 on August 30, moving the team's record to 10-2 on the season.

DGS LADY REDBIRDS SOFTBALL

Samantha Harsh earned the win in the circle, striking out 11.

At the plate, the Lady Redbirds were led by Taylor Heath, who went 3-3 with a double – scoring three times. Harsh was 2-2, scoring one run, while Maci Johnson went 2-3 with two runs scored. Ellorah McCullough singled and scored a run, with Kiah Handzus going 1-3.

8th Grade -

In the eighth grade meeting, Dwight got back to its winning ways with a 12-7, come-from-behind victory over rivals, Herscher – using an eight-run seventh inning to pull off their 12th win of the year.

"Herscher kept us on our toes," said Coach Trainor, "forcing us to try to make plays under pressure. It was a good game for us to work through."

The big seventh was aided by Kassy Kodat's grand slam and two crucial stolen bases by Ashlyn Heikkila. Kodat would end up with seven RBI on a 4-5 night at the dish. Megan Livingston and Erin Anderson each had three hits and one RBI. Heikkila was 2-3 with an RBI, while Kira Bean and Mia Buck each had an RBI on one hit. Hailey Heath walked twice, followed by a walk by Murphy Connolly.

Going the distance, Livingston struck out eight on the mound, giving up two earned runs on three hits and two walks.
