DTHS Teacher Lindsey Jensen to Receive California Casualty Award for Teaching Excellence

The NEA Foundation has announced that 45 public school educators from across the country will receive the prestigious California Casualty Award for Teaching Excellence at the NEA Foundation 2020 gala occurring next February in Washington, D.C. – including Dwight Township High School’s own, Lindsey Jensen. Jensen was the recipient of the Illinois Teacher of the Year in 2018.

The California Casualty Awards for Teaching Excellence awardees are nominated by peers for their dedication to the profession, community engagement, professional development, attention to diversity, and advocacy for fellow educators.

Each year, the gala draws nearly 1,000 supporters of public education, and thousands more online, to applaud these awardees. At the gala, the educators are truly the stars, celebrated throughout the night with music, performances, videos, and more.

“This year’s awardees are fulfilling the promise of public education in classrooms, schools, and communities from coast to coast,” says Sara A. Sneed, President and CEO of the NEA Foundation. “Each awardee has met a very high standard, and together, they are celebrated for a shared commitment to educational excellence, innovative approaches to student learning, and support for their peers. We are grateful to California Casualty for its recognition and celebration of the very best in education, and we look forward to honoring the 2020 California Casualty Awards for Teaching Excellence awardees.”

“We are proud to honor these exceptional educators and show our appreciation for their incredible work,” says Beau Brown, CEO of California Casualty. “The California Casualty awardees exemplify educators’ ability to be a positive force in their students’ lives.”

Of the 45 state awardees who were nominated by their National Education Association affiliate, five finalists will be announced at the beginning of the school year and receive $10,000 at the gala. The nation’s top educator will be revealed at the gala on February 7, 2020, and receive an additional $25,000. The gala will be livestreamed at neafoundation.org.

The NEA Foundation and the National Education Association jointly present the awards.

The best teachers stay with us forever. They arrive early and stay late. They encourage, cajole, innovate, and challenge. They impart not just knowledge, but love of learning and discovery. That’s why they are honored each year at the Salute to Excellence in Education Gala. The Awards for Teaching Excellence program recognizes educators from around the country who shine in their schools, their communities, and their own learning. These educators advocate for each other, the profession, and students, and they embrace the diversity of their communities and the wider world.

Dwight Police Investigating Debit Card Fraud

On August 24, the Dwight Police Department took numerous reports of fraudulent activity on debit card accounts. Customers from Dwight and the surrounding areas were victimized. Several area ATMs were used to take money out of these accounts, and the suspects are believed to have used a skimming device to obtain card information. They then would create new cards with the stolen information.

At this point, DPD believes the theft of information occurred on or before June 20. They have been unable to determine what machine was compromised in the area, and it is a difficult task considering the number of victims they are finding. It is also possible that several skimming devices were used.

DPD is working with area businesses, financial institutions, and residents to obtain video surveillance of the suspects, and have been able to locate two suspects at this time. Attempts to identify the suspects are underway.

They ask that if you had fraudulent activity, to report it to your bank and local police agency (where transactions occurred). In addition, if you are at an ATM and see someone using numerous different cards to obtain cash – report it to the police in that jurisdiction.

Phil Becker proudly sits in one of his prize possessions, The California Star, at his garage in Dwight.

Love of Cars a Lifetime Drive

Phil Becker was just 14 when he got his first car -- a 1946 Ford pick-up.

But seeing as he wasn’t licensed to drive, he had to hide it from his parents, Leo and Polly Becker.

“I knew they wouldn’t let me have it,” he said.

But they found out five months later. Dad didn’t care. Mother felt differently. “I got a pretty good whooping on top of it,” he remembered.

It never detracted him. For Becker, a lifelong Dwight resident, it was just the start.

“I have always liked cars,” he said.

That may be a bit of an understatement. He’s owned dozens of vintage cars over the years, fixed them up, then sold them -- or kept them. But he’s always showed them, earning him far too many awards to mention.

Now 70, he’s taken his hobby into retirement, still updating and showing classics: a 1927 Model T, four 1932 Model B’s, a ’46 Ford Woody, a 1947 Sedan delivery, a ’56 Nomad and a ’55 Chevy station wagon.

He’ll never forget that ’46 Ford pick-up, though. He started working for Basil Ambler at the Texaco Station in Dwight when he was 13, waiting on cars, washing their windows and sweeping the floors.

He earned enough to buy that first pick-up. It cost him $50. When he finally did turn 16, he bought a 1959 Ford pick-up.

The filling station opened in 1933 at the intersection of Old U.S. Route 66 and Illinois Route 17. He worked there until he married his wife Deb at age 20. A year later, in 1970, he bought the Texaco station he grew up working at.

The station has been identified as the longest operating gas station along Route 66; it dispensed fuel for 66 continuous years until 1999. Becker donated it to the Village of Dwight. It went through extensive restoration and opened as a visitor’s center in 2007. Ever since, the Texaco station has lured thousands of people from all over the world to fancy the nostalgia. It is on the National Register of Historic Places.

He’s fixed up a lot of cars over the years, hiring much of the work out to those who specialize in new engines, suspensions, interiors, exteriors and the like. There’s always a lot of time, money and love to make them perfect, he said.

And there’s never been a favorite. “I like them all. They all have a connection. They all have their own special little niche,” he said.

But he enjoyed his ’32 Ford three-window coupe, which he owned for 25 years, and the ’32

Ford Victoria he owned for 45 years that served as the family car. He has fond memories going to hot rod shows with then-boys Timm and Todd. “My vacations consisted of big car shows,” he said.

Now that’s what retirement consists of: showing his cars. Car shows have brought him new friends and acquaintances and even celebrity status from those like Wayne Corini, host of the History Channel’s “Chasing Classic Cars,” which will be debuting a segment on Becker from when they met at a car show in California recently. He’s been featured on TV several times.

Since retirement 10 years ago, he’s traveled the U.S. to car shows -- Chicago, Philly, Pittsburgh, Boston, Chattanooga, Nashville, Denver and Dallas. He recently got back from a Carmel-by-the-Sea, Calif., concourse show, hauling several of his vintage cars in a trailer and back. It’s one of many specialty awards -- hundreds of them, including the International Show Car Association’s Best Rod and Grand Champion.

So which car is he bringing to the big car show during Harvest Days? Look for the 1946 Woody.

Illinois Resident, Experiencing Respiratory Illness After Vaping, Dies

The Illinois Department of Public Health (IDPH) learned of the death of an individual who had recently vaped and was hospitalized with severe respiratory illness. The number of cases of people reported to IDPH who have used e-cigarettes or vaped and have been hospitalized with respiratory symptoms has doubled in the past week.

A total of 22 people, ranging in age from 17-38 years, have experienced respiratory illness after using e-cigarettes or vaping. IDPH is working with local health departments to investigate another 12 individuals. Affected individuals have experienced respiratory symptoms including cough, shortness of breath, and fatigue. Some also experienced vomiting and diarrhea. Symptoms worsened over a period of days or weeks before admission to the hospital.

IDPH is also working with local health departments, other state health departments, and the Food and Drug Administration to investigate the names and types of e-cigarettes, vaping products, and devices, as well as where they were obtained.

According to the CDC, in many cases, including Illinois, patients have acknowledged to health care personnel recent use of tetrahydrocannabinol (THC)-containing products. However, no specific product has been identified in all cases, nor has any product been conclusively linked to illnesses. Even though cases appear similar, it is not clear if these cases have a common cause or if they are different diseases with similar symptoms.

Cases have been reported in Chicago and Champaign, Cook, DuPage, Kane, Lake, Madison, McHenry, Peoria, St. Clair, and Will Counties. In order to protect the identity of the affected individuals, additional information is not being provided. The investigation is ongoing and more information will be shared as it is available.

People who experience any type of chest pain or difficulty breathing after using e-cigarettes or vaping in the weeks or months prior to these symptoms should seek immediate medical attention. Health care providers caring for patients with unexpected serious respiratory illness should ask about a history of vaping or e-cigarette use.

More information about e-cigarettes, vapes, and JUULs can be found on the IDPH website at <http://www.dph.illinois.gov/topics-services/prevention-wellness/tobacco/e-cig>

Edward Jones
MAKING SENSE OF INVESTING

Leaving Your Job? What Happens to Your 401(k)?

If you’re in the early stages of your working life – or even in the not-so-early ones – the chances are pretty good that you will change jobs at some point. When that happens, you’ll probably leave a few things behind – but will one of them be your 401(k)?

Of course, you wouldn’t really forget about your 401(k). But you will have to do something with your account.

Essentially, you have four choices:

You can cash out your 401(k). It’s your money, but if you take it out before you reach 59 ½, you will owe federal income taxes, plus any applicable state and local taxes. Also, you will likely be charged a 10% penalty for early withdrawal. Perhaps even more important, if you liquidate your 401(k) when you change jobs, you’ll be reducing the amount you’ll have left for retirement.

You can leave your 401(k) with your old employer. If your former employer permits it, you can leave your 401(k) intact, even after you move to a different job. This might be appealing to you if you like the investment choices in your account, but you won’t be able to make any new contributions. Plus, you won’t face any immediate tax consequences.

You can move the money to your new employer’s 401(k). You can consolidate your old 401(k) with one offered by your new employer, if allowed. You won’t take a tax hit, and you might like your new plan’s investment options. And you may find it easier to manage your funds if they’re all held in one place.

You can roll your 401(k) into an IRA. You don’t need the permission from any employer to move your old 401(k) to an IRA. Your money will continue to grow on a tax-deferred basis, and an IRA offers you a virtually unlimited array of investment options – stocks, bonds, mutual funds and so on. You can make either a direct or indirect rollover. With a direct rollover, the administrator of your old 401(k) sends your money directly to the financial provider that holds your rollover IRA. With an indirect rollover, you’re technically withdrawing the money and moving it to the IRA provider yourself. You will face a withholding of 20% of your account’s assets, but you may be able to recover most of this amount when you file your tax return.

Which of these options is right for you? There’s no one “right” answer for everyone. You’ll have to consider several factors, and you’ll certainly want to consult your tax professional before making any decision.

Prepare your deck for winter

Homeowners often take steps to winterize the interior of their homes in the weeks before winter’s arrival, but such efforts should extend to the outside of a home as well.

Decks make for great gathering places when the weather permits. Decks are where many people spend their free time and eat their meals come spring and summer, when the temperatures climb and the sun sets well into the evening. But as summer turns to fall, homeowners must take measures to protect their decks from potentially harsh winter weather.

- Inspect the deck for problems. Decks tend to be used more often in summer than any other time of year. That makes fall and early winter an ideal time to inspect for wear and tear and any additional issues that may have cropped up throughout the summer. Damaged boards and loose handrails should be fixed before winter arrives, especially for homeowners who plan to use their decks in winter. Fixing such issues in winter and even into spring may be difficult thanks to harsh conditions, so make good use of the relatively calm autumn weather to fix any issues on the deck.

- Clear the deck of potted plants. Even homeowners who intend to use their decks in winter should remove potted plants from the deck in the fall.

The home improvement experts at HGTV note that moisture can get trapped between deck boards and plastic, wood or ceramic containers in cold weather, and that can contribute to mildew, discoloration or decay.

- Store unnecessary furniture. Homeowners who like to sit on their decks in winter will no doubt want to leave some furniture out over the winter.

But those with lots of furniture for entertaining guests can likely move the majority of that furniture into a garage or shed for the winter. HGTV notes that doing so will prevent the potential formation of blemishes on the deck that can result from inconsistent weathering.

- Remove snow, but do so carefully. Prolonged contact with snow and ice can damage a deck. As a result, homeowners should clear snow from their decks when accumulation is significant. HGTV recommends using a snow blower on the deck to avoid scarring. If a shovel must be used, push snow with the planks to reduce the risk of damaging the deck.

Homeowners who take steps to protect their decks throughout the winter months can ensure these popular areas are ready once entertaining season returns in the spring.

Employ Simple Fire Prevention Measures to Maximize Safety

Did you know that, according to the National Fire Protection Association, most people have a false sense of security regarding house fires, believing that they would have approximately six minutes to evacuate their home in the event of a fire?

In reality, smoke and fire spread rapidly and can overcome occupants in less than three minutes.

When a fire occurs, there’s no question that time is critical. The good news is there are several important steps you can take to maximize your escape time. With the following measures in place, you’ll create critical protection for what matters most — your home and family.

1. Install smoke alarms. You should have one in every bedroom, outside each separate sleeping area, and on every level of the home, including the basement. For the best protection, make sure all smoke alarms are interconnected. When one sounds, they all sound.
2. Inspect and clean smoke alarms monthly. Replace batteries in spring and fall. To clean the alarm, open the cover and gently vacuum the interior.
3. Prepare and practice a fire escape plan. Draw a floor plan of your home, marking two ways out of every room — especially sleeping areas. Discuss the escape routes with every member of your household, and agree on a meeting place outside your home in case of emergency. Practice your escape plan at least twice a year.

4. Select building materials that provide passive fire protection.

Passive fire protection is part of the core of the building and helps control fire by limiting its spread. One very effective form of passive fire protection is the installation of insulation. When adding or upgrading insulation, look for products made from naturally fire-resistant, inorganic materials.

Easy ways to clean up leaves

Autumn is marked by colorful foliage and plummeting temperatures. Once those leaves reach peak color, they fall from the branches and collect on lawns, necessitating cleanup projects. For homeowners with big yards, such a project can be tiring and time-consuming. However, there are ways to make leaf cleanup easier.

One of the easiest ways to clean up leaves is to reach for a lawn mower rather than a rake. The mower will cut leaves down to smaller sizes, creating an effective mulch that can add nutrients back into the lawn. Davey, a lawn and landscape solutions service, says that mowed leaves also can be collected in a mower bag and added to garden beds or compost piles.

For those who prefer manual raking, select a rake with tines that will not skewer the leaves in the process. Big rakes also can make faster work of gathering leaves into piles.

The home improvement resource The Family Handyman advocates for the use of a lawn sweeper. This is a manual device that has a rotating sweeping brush that gathers up lawn debris and leaves into an attached hopper bag. Like mowed leaves, the bag can be emptied into a compost pile or distributed where needed.

Raking leaves onto a large tarp is another option. Once it's full, the tarp can be taken to the curb where many towns will collect the leaves seasonally. Otherwise, the tarp can be used as a funnel to put leaves into a gardening bag or another appropriate receptacle.

Leaf blowers remain a fast option for cleaning up yards, but they require electricity or gas and can be noisy. Still, they are a popular choice for large landscapes or when quick work needs to be made of leaf clean-up.

Leaves will fall in autumn, but luckily homeowners have various methods at their disposal to tame the mess

When is the right time to replace your roof?

By: Amy Hargreaves

We're all guilty of overlooking issues around our home. When a problem is out of sight, we convince ourselves that it'll go away and pose no threat to our wallets. Such complacency, however, can often lead to more costly bills. This is never truer than when it comes to the roofs over our heads.

Unlike plumbing or structural problems, it's not always easy to know that your roof needs some attention. For this reason, we've put together a short list of things that suggest you need to take a look above you.

Sunlight from your attic

If the light can get in, so can everything else. This may be a case of some small roof repairs, or you could be in need of a new roof.

The roof is sagging

This can be a major issue and will need to be rectified immediately. If you can see your roof slightly sagging, this could be a sign of structural damage, possibly leading to your roof collapsing.

Water marks

If you are finding various water marks on your ceiling, there could well be a leak in your roof. If you have found patches of water, be sure to check your roof to see if this is the case.

Loose roof tiles

Make a habit of checking your roof at least once a year. If you find that your tiles are a little loose, look into replacing these before any further damage occurs.

Check the age

Roofs are made to last for years. However, they will need to be replaced after a certain amount of time. Check the age of your roof to see if it will need replacing. If your roof is over 15 years old, it's definitely worth having a professional to review your structure.

Did you know that if your roof is not properly insulated at least 25% of heat is being lost? So, what do you need to think about if you're getting a new roof?

Savings

When you're getting a brand-new roof, make sure that it's fully insulated. This will only help with your bills in the long run.

Compromise

We love to look at nice things, but make sure your roof is durable for the next 15+ years and not just easy on the eye.

Research

Look into what roofing materials and styles are best for where you live, ensuring they can keep up with the weather and climate.

As well as this, research your roofing contractors. Make sure they are the right company for the job as roofs can cost a fair amount of money and you don't want to spend more for a substandard job.

5 Tips to make an older home more energy efficient

Try these five simple measures to maximize the energy efficiency of your home:

1. Seal cracks and gaps around your home's windows, doors, and vents.
2. Top up or replace old insulation in your attic.
3. Insulate basement headers.
4. Switch to LED light bulbs.
5. Consider a home energy audit. A professional home energy audit will also provide a list of recommended solutions to help you maximize your energy-efficiency strategy.

Fairbury Garden Club Meets

The August meeting of Fairbury Garden Club was held August 6 at Trinity Lutheran Church in Fairbury. Topics for discussion were the Fairbury Fair and the local gardens. Also on the agenda was the Prairie Central Elementary Flower Show which will be held at the school on Friday, September 13. Connie Kostelc is chairman for the event with Shirley Mee-nen, Andrea Lee, and Paula Trainor-Rosenbaum as judges. Gina Monson will serve as alternate judge. The show is open to all fourth graders at the school and is open to the public from 10:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. on the day of the show. Cash prizes will be awarded to the top four winners.

The program for the evening was "Cooking with Herbs" given by Dorothy Deany from Herb Guild of McLean County. She began by giving the history of the club. She also mentioned that the club maintains a garden along Constitution Trail which includes a prairie garden, culinary garden, butterfly garden, cutting garden, biblical garden, and a grape vine. She reminded people that the Guild always has a plant sale in May the day before Mother's Day at the Trail Garden just in time for planting and for Mother's Day. She said the Herb Guild has begun by Winifred DeLong, who loved herbs. She introduced Deany to many different plants. She remembered vividly the first time she encountered the beautiful plant anise hyssop which smells like licorice. She likes to add the purple flowers to ice cubes for the beauty and flavor.

Another herb that she really likes is chives which she enjoys because it's one of the first to come up in the spring. It's also a perennial and it dries and freezes well. She likes to use thyme in a recipe called brick chicken. The recipe was included in a booklet of recipes which she passed out at the end of the meeting. She suggested that if you're using dried herbs you can put them in earlier but when using fresh herbs to put them in at the end so they cook only a short time. She suggested that the best time to pick them is early in the morning when they have more oils in the plant. Another one of her favorites is basil which comes in so many varieties. She explained how to easily make basil vinegar.

Another favorite is mint since it also comes in a lot of different flavors. But she warns "to watch it well – it can take over your garden world." Some of her favorites in the mint family are lemon balm which makes a wonderful tea and chocolate mint which adds a touch of chocolate flavor. She likes to add it to sour milk for pancakes and other cooking. Some other favorites are flat leaf parsley because of its fresh scent, Bay Laurel which is especially wonderful when fresh, and wild Italian arugula which can add a lot of spice and depth to any meal. She explained how cilantro and coriander are from the same plant. Cilantro is usually the term used for the fresh leafy part and coriander refers to the seeds. Some people do find that cilantro has a soapy aftertaste and this is because they have an allergic reaction to it.

Dill is one plant that you can usually ignore and just pull up the extras. It does tend to self seed. Lovage is a little-known plant that has a deep celery taste, and she said everyone knows sage because it's the taste of Thanksgiving dressing. But she likes to add hers to Brown Butter Sage Gravy.

The September meeting will be Tuesday, September 10, at 7:00 p.m. at Trinity Lutheran Church. The program will be given by Candice Hart – State Master Gardener Specialist. She will be discussing "Rain Barrels." For more information, contact Vice President Bethany Brucker at 309-212-0721.

RATS

Growing up, when I had a lot of different toys and action figures and things of that nature, one of the most frequent toys I played with was ninja turtle action figures. This stemmed mainly from my older brother being into the first TMNT movies that came out in the early 80s, and partly just because the Ninja Turtles were really, really cool.

For those that may not be as into the turtles as myself and my family, a thing to know about them is their primary story involves stumbling into some radioactive ooze. They, along with a rat named Splinter, become enlarged to the size for which the Turtles are known. They're more or less the size of a human being. Maybe slightly bigger, but roughly the same height and very robust.

Now, when watching this on TV or at the movies I thought it was understood that this was a fictional story, and that these reptiles could never get that big. Granted there are some big tortoises, but for the most part, rats and turtles shouldn't be as big as humans.

Then I moved to Chicago, and I would see rats from time to time. It is Chicago, you know. It's a big city and there obviously are going to be rats around. That's just kind of how it works. But last night, I think I saw the biggest rat I've ever seen. I don't think I would mistake a rat for a rabbit, but last night I saw one that looked as big, if not bigger.

These are images that can keep you up at night and make you keep an eye on the bushes as you walk by. I think if this rat and I had engaged in a boxing match, the rat would have easily won. It was the biggest thing I've ever seen, and I think it could be an extra in the next turtle movie.

Here's to hoping I make it to write the next column, and I am not attacked by a giant rat. However, there is always that possibility, as they're getting bigger and bigger every time I see them.

Go, Cubs. Boo, rats.

Rep. Tom Bennett Reports Flooding Addressed

Flood prevention, alternate teacher licensing bills become law. Two more bills I sponsored in the House became law this week. House Bill 2583 came out of my flood prevention task force meetings. It allows conservancy districts to change their names to reflect additional territory that was added, and therefore makes clear that these districts have the right to expand if voters give their approval in a referendum.

This legislation is important for our area because it helps our local river conservation districts work on flood prevention or flood mitigation projects over wider areas.

We have seen repeated flash flooding and river flooding throughout the 106th district in recent years. Oftentimes this flooding can be caused or be worsened by water drainage factors far from the site of the flooding. The water management authorities who protect our communities from flooding are helped by this legislation which lets them better address flooding before it gets out of hand.

A second bill I sponsored which Governor Pritzker signed was Senate Bill 1901, a bill to make some changes to the process for licensing alternative educators under the Illinois School Code. Among the changes were some adjustments to fee schedules and bringing back a requirement that an applicant for an alternative educator license must pass the State Board of Education's teacher performance assessment before they can enter their second residency year.

State agencies warn public about blue-green algae. The Illinois EPA and the Department of Public Health are reminding residents to be on the lookout for blue-green algae on bodies of water in Illinois. This time of year the water conditions are ideal for blue-green algae growth. Most blue-green algae are harmless, but others produce chemicals which cause sickness in people and pets, depending on the amount and type of exposure. There have been reports elsewhere in the nation of illnesses and deaths of pets who came into contact with blue-green algae blooms.

When officials confirm the presence of blue-green algae, they are advised to post signage to warn residents; but not all blooms are reported to state officials.

Those using waterways should be careful to stay away from suspicious looking water. Key warning signs are water that looks like spilled green or blue-green paint; has surface scums, mats, or films; is discolored or has green-colored streaks; or has greenish globs suspended in the water below the surface.

The agencies advise keeping children and pets out of the water and preventing pets from drinking from the water or licking their fur after swimming in water containing a blue-green algae bloom. A person or pet who has contact with a blue-green algae bloom should rinse off with clean, fresh water as soon as possible.

More information is available at the IEPA's Harmful Algae Bloom website.

How much do we owe? As of the time of this writing, the State of Illinois owes $6,389,926,203 in unpaid bills to state vendors. One year ago, the backlog stood at $7.7 billion. This figure represents the amount of bills submitted to the office of the Comptroller and still awaiting payment.

The National Suicide Prevention Lifeline

the nation's mental health public safety net

1-800-273-TALK

Since 2005, the SAMHSA-funded Lifeline, administered by MHA-NYC, has seamlessly connected persons in each state to local crisis centers through its 24/7 toll-free number.

National back-up centers answer calls that local centers are unable to answer.

One National Number For Easy Access

One number can connect people in crisis to help at any time, anywhere in the U.S., and can be shared on a variety of communications platforms.

10,430,970 Calls Answered

1 in 4 callers are in suicidal distress

Lifeline Serves Millions of Veterans & Service Members

Lifeline centers serve approximately 300,000 veterans annually, and connect veterans & service members to the Veterans Crisis Line, which has served over 2.8 million callers since 2007.

The Lifeline Reaches Americans in Crisis

Year	Total Calls Answered
2012	~800,000
2013	~1,100,000
2014	~1,300,000
2015	~1,400,000
2016	~1,500,000

The Lifeline Works

Independent evaluations demonstrate that Lifeline centers are effective in reducing emotional distress and suicidality.

National Best Practices

Lifeline's national standards for assessment and intervention are shared across the country.

Reductions in Health Burdens

Lifeline centers divert callers from unnecessary law enforcement, emergency, and hospital services. Our follow-up models return Medicaid investment dollars two-fold.

Centers Are Under-Resourced

Some states lack resources to answer calls locally causing national back-up centers to answer approximately 30% of all calls. This leads to longer wait times and fewer links to the best local care in those states.

Morris Hospital’s Rhythm of Our Youth Cardiac Screening Returns to DTHS

Morris Hospital will be holding its free Rhythm of Our Youth cardiac screening for students at Dwight Township High School Wednesday, September 11. The purpose of the screening is to prevent sudden cardiac death in high school students by identifying those who may have undiagnosed existing cardiac abnormalities.

On the screening day, a team of specially trained volunteers from Morris Hospital perform electrocardiogram (ECG) screenings free of charge to students who have received parental permission to participate. An ECG is a non-invasive, painless test that measures the electrical activity of the heart and detects certain heart abnormalities that can lead to sudden cardiac death.

Screenings are held during PE class or study hall. The test takes about three minutes to complete.

Based on results of the screenings, about 3% of students are referred to their physician for additional follow-up. Typically, less than 1% are found to have a medical problem that requires cardiac intervention. Results are sent home to the student’s parents and are not shared with the school.

Sudden cardiac death claims more than 2,000 lives of children and adolescents in the United States each year. Most victims of sudden cardiac death have had underlying heart conditions that could have been detected through a simple ECG. The goal of Morris Hospital’s Rhythm of Our Youth screening is to help identify students who may have an undiagnosed heart problem before a serious incident occurs.

Rhythm of Our Youth launched in 2016 with funding provided by generous donors to the Morris Hospital Foundation. This is the second time Morris Hospital has screened DTHS students.

Parents should complete an electronic consent form prior to the screening day by visiting: morrishospital.org/rhythm ofouryouth.
