World War II structured the world as we know it when the Allies and the Axis Powers unleashed guns, tanks, ships and other equipment over world issues from 1939-to-1945.

Through the war, many memories, nightmares and triumphs were created to tell stories and pass on from generation to generation.

Unfortunately, as time moves on, some of the original storytellers can no longer tell their WWII memoirs.

Then there is Art Leach (102), who is still here sharing his tales.

"Art is an icon: an absolute icon in what we do. I've sat of birthday cake as the Yorktown Association helped the vet celebrate his 102nd birthday, which is May 1.

"It was special and I appreciate them for thinking about my birthday," Leach said. "They had a nice cake and there were a lot of people on board who participated. They did it during the meet and greet program, which I like visiting with all of the visitors. I do the meet and greet every time I go. It's always a joy. It's quite an honor to be recognized."

"The reunions are fun. When an air group goes aboard a carrier, they just eat and sleep on it. They don't have any other duties aboard. Everyone else has a job. Consequently, you don't know the people until the reunions when you get to meet them and talk to them." Peterson, who has been to each of the last 20 reunions and was a crew member during the Vietnam War, said the WWII veterans used to own the threeday festivity.

Leach also ate a huge piece Florida, and Miami over 11 months before he graduated and received his wings.

> After his Navy graduation, Leach found himself in Glenview practicing aircraft carrier landings on Lake Michigan, San Diego, Seattle, Whidbey Island (Puget Sound), Pasco, Washington, and the Hawaiian Islands.

> During the war while aiming at Japanese fighter planes, Leach called the Yorktown home.

> The Yorktown CV-10, the 10 means it is the 10th aircraft carrier built for the U.S. Navy, was the successor to the Yorktown CV-5 that was sunk by the Navy after the Japanese inflicted a lot of damage.

The CV-10 then helped the cause in three different wars. "I was on it when the ship was deployed to Vietnam when the Vietnam War started. I made 2¹/₂ deployments during the Vietnam War," Peterson said. "The half is because one of them was after we had just returned from the 1965 deployment. We were sitting at the pier in Long Beach and we got notice that we were going to go back to Vietnam within three or four days. We did do that. We called it the Magic Carpet Tour. "In Vietnam, they were running out of airplanes and parts. We left Long Beach and went to San Diego and filled the ship with brand new airplanes and new parts. We dropped off the load in the Philippines and picked up shot-up airplanes and brought them back to the states. All of this happened in about three weeks. That's why I say I made 21/2 deployments.' The stories, the memories, the life experiences no one can relive are abundant during the USS Yorktown reunions. Leach, Peterson, and all of the ship's veterans want you to know the history so those same stories and memories stay alive

Since we were children in the backseat watching our parents drive, the colors on a stoplight have meant the same.

Green equals go.

Red means stop.

Yellow translates to yield. The same can be said for school buses.

"Vehicles need to watch for the red stop sign (stop arm) and the red gateways that activate when the bus is actually stopped," said Angie Goley, the bus director for both Dwight Township High School and Dwight Common School. "We have another set of yellow lights – the Ambers – that go off first. The Ambers should be the first sign to an incoming car or a car behind the bus that the bus is going to stop and don't try to go by it. It's like a yield sign and you don't want to speed up to pass the bus.

"The bus is going to stop and let kids off the bus or pick them up. Other vehicles need to stop."

Unfortunately, other vehicles stopping to extend student safety as they come off or on to a school bus doesn't always happen.

In January, cameras were installed on all Dwight buses to help patrol bus safety. The cameras can see in front of the bus, on the left side of the bus, and there are three cameras installed, 17 stop-arm violations have been spotted.

"It has actually been a real eye-opener. Obviously, first and foremost, the safety of our kids, whether it be in the country, in town, getting them to and from school, or to sporting events, it's a very important job," said Goley, who is in her second year as bus director. "We had the cameras installed to help us with some of the situations that we've come into.

"Some of the violations have resulted in tickets. Some of them have been questioned due to the timing of the stop and whether or not the stop arm was fully extended and a vehicle passing by. Some of them are with the stop arm out for four or five seconds and then the car drives by.

"We're learning as we go, as is the police department. The cameras are very important. At the school, we are responsible for those kids as soon as they get on the bus. It's imperative for everyone to be following the rules, our bus drivers included. Everyone needs to do their part."

John Steurer has been a Dwight bus driver for four years and has seen all kinds of violations.

He believes the cameras are helping drivers, schools, and police officers become more the right side of the bus, Steurer said. "The stop sign will come out and if you leave too much of a gap between the curb and the bus, they'll pass you on the right side of the bus as the students are exiting the bus. It really has happened.

"I've also had situations where I'm at a T-intersection and vehicles wanting to take a left turn think it's OK to go around the bus. It's not OK. Another major one is at railroad crossings. When we stop, we put on hazard lights and open the door and window to listen for a train. People will pass the bus at the railroad crossing when they're not supposed to because it's a no-passing zone and buses are undergoing their policy procedures.'

The cameras have also helped Steurer perform his duties to a higher level as distractions have been deleted from any outside of the bus or on the bus situation.

"Since we have had the cameras, no one can believe what is actually happening. Now we actually have proof; it's on camera," Steurer said. "You make complaints, but when an issue is brought up, you get 10,000 excuses. Now, there are no excuses because it's literally on video.

down with Art many, many times. He has a tremendous sense of humor," said Dean Peterson, the Chairman and CEO of the USS Yorktown CV-10 Association. "He's such a spry spirit. We all just love him to death. Art is full of stories. His mind still works so well. He is as sharp as could be.

"Art doesn't only represent himself, he represents the entire group of pilots who flew off of the USS Yorktown. Sitting down with these guys and listening to what they went through, I could listen to them forever. Art is in that category. He has his own unique tales about his experiences. It's very interesting. You'll hear things from him that you won't hear from anyone else."

Leach, who received the Proclamation of Art Leach Day on May 1, 2020 by the Village of Odell, was a Navy pilot who flew off of the aircraft carrier, USS Yorktown CV-10, during WWII.

The veteran retold his fabled tales during the 73rd USS Yorktown Reunion on April 4-6 in Mount Pleasant, SC. The ship, which was used in WWII, the Cold War, and the Vietnam War, is one of five aircraft carrier museums in the United States and the flagship for the Patriots Point Naval and Maritime Museum.

This year, of the 150 people present, there was only one.

"I was the only WWII guy at the reunion this year. That's the first time that's ever occurred," Leach said. "It made me feel a little weird. We had 105 pilots in my air group. There are only two of us still alive. There is one guy down in Florida and then me.

"A lot of memories come back to me when I go to the reunions. It still has all of the airplanes that I flew. Of course, there are some I didn't fly, as well. Admiral (James) Flatley is still around and comes out. He is the third Flatley admiral in the Navy. He flew a B25 off of the Yorktown."

Leach graduated from Morris High School in 1938 and from Illinois Wesleyan University in 1942. Two days after his college graduation, he was in a uniform enlisting as a pilot in the Navy.

He went to school and pilot training at the University of Iowa, St. Louis, Pensacola,

"The Yorktown is very well known for the WWII history. That's one of our primary tasks. "Today, we're into making memories. That has to do with the crew members who are left, plus what we call legacy members. The Paper

The cameras have affected students' behavior in the bus, have allowed citations to be issued, have brought a red flag to how drivers are maneuvering around buses, and have cut out excuses of who to blame when something goes wrong.

But most importantly, the cameras are helping provide bus safety to everyone in-

"Not paying attention to bus safety is life-threatening, which is why we really are trying to get the word out to people," Goley said. "Our buses, almost all of the time, never have a student cross in front of the bus to the other side of the road to get to their house. At almost every single bus stop, our kids get off on the same side of the sidewalk that the bus door opens.

"Typically, they don't ever have to walk in front of the bus. But, you never know when a little one might dart out in front of the bus. Crazy things have happened. It's scary.'

Edward Jones MAKING SENSE OF INVESTING

How to Be a Good Money Manager in Retirement

If you reach retirement with a significant amount of assets, you've done a great job of saving and investing. But now comes another challenge - making that money last.

You might think that this task, as important as it is, won't be as hard as accumulating the money in the first place. Yet, a sizable number of people have reached a different conclusion. In fact, 36% of retirees say managing money in retirement is more confusing than saving for retirement, and 56% say they wish they had budgeted for more unexpected expenses in retirement, according to the Edward Jones/Age Wave Four Pillars of the New Retirement study.

What steps can you take to help you become an effective money manager during your retirement years? Here are a few to consider:

• Set your goals. Your money management needs will certainly depend, to some extent, on what your goals are for the coming years. Will you travel extensively? Stay close to home and pursue your hobbies? Or maybe even open a small business? Once you identify your vision for retirement, you can estimate how much it will cost, which will then dictate much of your spending and saving needs.

 Stick to a budget. If you've followed a budget throughout your working years, there's no reason to stop now – in fact, budgeting may be even more essential when you retire. Of course, you don't necessarily want to force yourself to be as frugal as possible - after all, you worked hard, saved and invested so you can enjoy a comfortable retirement lifestyle. Look for reasonable cost-cutting opportunities, such as eating out less often or eliminating streaming services you don't

• Don't underestimate health care costs. Even when you're on Medicare and pay for supplemental insurance, health care costs could still be one of your biggest expenses during retirement. Initially, budgeting for $4,500 to $6,500 per person annually may be a good starting point for traditional health care expenses in retirement. However, depending on your health, prescription drug usage and other factors, your costs could be higher or lower. And you may also want to estimate long-term care expenses as part of your plan.

· Look for senior discounts. Once you're a senior, you may be able to find discounts on a wide range of items and activities, such as movies, transportation, groceries, gym memberships and more. By taking advantage of these discounts, you can save a surprising amount of money and ease pressure on your cash flow.

• Establish a sustainable withdrawal strategy. For decades, you've been putting money into your IRA and 401(k). But once you're retired, you will likely need to start taking withdrawals from these accounts. It's essential that you don't withdraw so much early in your retirement that you eventually run the risk of outliving your money. You may want to work with a financial professional, who can analyze your entire situation - assets, expenses, lifestyle, expected longevity, etc. - and recommend a sustainable withdrawal rate. Keep in mind that once you turn 72, you may be required to take out a certain amount each year from your 401(k) and your traditional IRA, so you'll want to incorporate these withdrawals into your overall income strategy

Do whatever it takes to become a good money manager during retirement. You'll find that it's well worth the effort.

DCS Discusses Test Scores, Wall of Hands

by Mark Boma

All board members were present on April 20 for the District #232 Common School Board Meeting at the Dwight Common School.

Principal Julie Schultz gave a presentation on student MAP test scores. The MAP or Measures of Academic Progress tests are computeradaptive assessment tests produced by the Northwest Evaluation Association (NWEA). The tests are designed for kindergarten through 12th grade students, and assess reading, language usage, math, and, for some grades, general sciences on an individual level. The MAP Growth provides each child with a unique testing experience that is suitable for his or her academic level, independent of grade. The scores appeared to indicate that students from the Dwight District followed the profile of other nationally tested students and had consistent score losses due to Covid disruption.

All K-5 and Physical Education openings have been filled. Interviews have been held for the Special Education opening.

Summer School will be offered for identified students in Pre-K through 8th Grade. It will be on the following dates: May 31, June 1, 2, 3; June 6, 7, 8, 9; June 13, 14, 15, 16; and June 20, 21, 22, and 23. Teachers will be identifying students in two categories for summer school: Tier 1, Optional (recommended support) and Tier 2, Mandatory (at risk of retention). Transportation will be provided to all participants.

A partnership with the Boys and Girls Club of Livingston County is being explored. If the grant opportunity is approved, it would provide Pay increases of 5% were approved for both school administrators. Principal Julie Schultz would go from the current salary of $85,280 to $89,544 for the school year 2022-2023. Assistant Principal Jeremy Jenkins would see an increase from $72,100 to $75,705.

The following teacher employments were approved: Sarah Sancken, Kindergarten; Leanne Soppe, 1st grade; Sarah Jones, 2nd grade; Dakota Irvine, 4th grade; Kathryn Crouch, 5th grade; Margaret Donovan, PE; and Amy Veselak, Special Education. All K-5 and PE openings have now been filled. The resignations of Ian Cox, baseball A coach, Madeline Policht, 5th grade teacher; and Jessica Law Special Education teacher were accepted.

The continued insurance coverage and vacation buyback for the retiring Superintendent Richard Jancek was approved.

All the new playground equipment is here and projected installation will be the week of June 13. Community members will be recruited to aid with the project.

Grounds Jack Connor was on hand to solicit the Board's input on painting the cafeteria. Over the last three years, the entire interior of the building has been painted with the exception of the cafeteria. Concern arose with updating that area because of the annual tradition of graduating students leaving their handprints on the wall. Before leaving for the year, each 8th grade student dips their hands in paint and makes an impression on the wall signifying the mark they have left on the school. Some board members felt that the custom was sentimental and symbolic and it would be appropriate to gather input from teachers, students and parents before proceeding. There were also options presented of how the walls might be preserved virtually. The Board opted to delay any official action.

Masks Still Required in Healthcare Settings

Morris Hospital & Healthcare Centers is reminding the public that universal masking is still required in hospital and healthcare settings, despite recent revisions to masking mandates on public transportation and other indoor settings.

This means all individuals entering Morris Hospital or a Morris Hospital & Healthcare Centers facility must wear a well-fitted cloth mask or hospital issued mask covering their nose and mouth at all times except when eating or drinking in the hospital cafeteria. Bandanas, scarves, and face shields are not permitted in place of mask. The same requirements apply when riding on a Morris Hospital & Healthcare Centers' patient transportation bus.

The only exception is individuals who have a note from their provider indicating they cannot wear a mask for medical reasons.

"Even as masking requirements are changing in other settings, it is imperative that we maintain a safe healthcare environment for our patients, visitors, volunteers, providers and staff," said Kimberley Landers, Chief Nurse Executive at Morris Hospital & Healthcare Centers. "Safety is and always will be our top priority. We appreciate everyone's cooperation."

Illinois 47 Bridge Removal Begins April 27

Transportation has announced that the removal of the southbound Illinois 47 bridge over Interstate 55 in Dwight will begin Wednesday, April 27. The work requires a temporary diversion of I-55 traffic through the interchange ramps.

Work to remove the structure is scheduled to begin at 8:00 p.m. All I-55 traffic will be diverted up the existing exit ramps, cross Illinois 47 and re-enter using the entrance ramps. I-55 will reopen to normal traffic flow by 5:00 a.m. The entire removal project is expected to last until May 11 and will require intermittent daily lane closures on I-55.

Work also will reconstruct Illinois 47 from Northbrook Drive to just north of the I-55 interchange (exit 220) and repair the ramps. Illinois 47 will be reduced to one lane in each direction and shifted to the new northbound lanes as work continues on the $9.3 million project, which is scheduled to be completed later this year.

OBITUARIES

Iris Ilea Beier

Iris Ilea Beier, age 17, of Blackstone, Illinois passed away Monday evening, April 18, 2022, at Morris Hospital after an asthma attack stopped her heart. Our sincerest thanks to the Morris Hospital Emergency Department. I will never forget the sweat soaking your scrubs and the tears in your eyes as you fought for my daughter when she couldn't fight for herself.

Born on December 13, 2004, Iris was the heart of our home. While often short of breath, she was never short of kindness. Her sense of humor and quick-witted quips lightened the lives of everyone around her. She could always be counted on to make others laugh. Iris showed love through her actions and didn't hesitate to reach out a hand to friends or family in need.

She was gifted both personally and academically. Iris was a Board Scholar and member of the National Honor Society who maintained a perfect grade point average. She was enrolled in many dual credit and Advanced Placement classes as she prepared to attend college. Iris loved being a Peer Advisor working with elementary age children and looked forward to having her own children some day.

She was an active member in Spanish Club, Yearbook, Choir, and played basketball

Beier and softball for many years. Iris was also selected to represent DTHS at the HOBY Youth Leadership Conference. When not overachieving, she enjoyed spending time with her boyfriend, Thomas, or making mischief at home with her family and plethora of cats.

Iris is survived by her mother, Catherine (Mahan) Beier; her sister, Eden Beier; and brother, Oren Beier; her boyfriend, Thomas Dochterman; and her six Siamese cats (Isla, Skye, Finn, Briar, Wren and Rowan). Her father, Jerry, preceded her in death.

Visitation was held from 2 until 5 p.m. on Sunday, April 24, 2022, with services immediately following in the auditorium at Dwight Township High School in Dwight, Illinois. Cremation rites have been accorded. Memorials in honor of Iris may be made to the Asthma and Allergy Foundation of America. Hager Memorial Home is in charge of arrangements.

While her years with us were too short, she packed a lifetime of memories into that time. Iris was a never-ending source of light and side-splitting laughter. May we find comfort in her absence through the treasured memories we carry of her in our hearts.

Charlotte was the eighth born of 13 children to the late John and Katherine Mack (nee Wisneski) on June 13, 1932 in Whiting, Indiana. She married Earl "Shorty" Fatlan, Sr. on February 26, 1949 in Morris, Illinois. Together they started their family in Gardner and then built their forever home along the Mazon Creek in rural Braceville, where she grew up swimming and ice skating with her siblings, and years later with her own children, grandchildren and greatgrandchildren. She lived almost her entire life on Huston Road.

In the 1950s together with her brother-in-law, Leo, they started Fatlan Trucking in Gardner.

Charlotte enjoyed camping, fishing, playing cards, and sitting around the campfire at the family club that her parents started, the J & K Rancho. A master gardener, she often canned and shared goodies with all of her family and friends. She loved playing the organ and polka dancing at all of the Mack family weddings.

Everyone was welcome at her table for coffee and toast and were treated like family. Charlotte instilled a love of family that will endure for generations to come.

Cubs History

I decided that, with this iteration of the Cubs team, I wasn't going to attend a game until it was finally warm out. I'll attend cold weather games in October but it's a little tougher to do that in April. If that makes me literally a fair weather fan, then so be it.

I attended my first game this year on Saturday and I ended up viewing a historic game. The Chicago Cubs beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 21-0, making it the biggest margin of victory in a shutout, and 1 run short of the biggest shutout victory in major league baseball history.

Maybe the most incredible part of the 21-0 win is that there was only one home run hit throughout the course of the game. Eighteen of the runs were scored on non-home run-scoring plays. I love the home run as much as the next person, but it did make the game much more flowing and exciting from a playto-play basis.

It was a carousel of people crossing home plate, and none of them for the Pirates. This game also got me thinking about what other historic Chicago games I have attended. Oddly enough I have also attended a Cubs game when they were no-hit by Cole Hamels in 2015 when Jake Arietta was on his incredible pitching run. It was the only game the Cubs lost that Arietta started in the second half of that season.

I've also attended the biggest Bulls home loss in franchise history when they lost to the Celtics by 55 points. I can pretty confidently say that the game was not fun to attend, the no-hitter was okay because, by the end of it, I was kind of hoping to see something that you almost never see in person.

Losing by 55 or losing by 35 in basketball doesn't feel that much different. Attending a no-hitter does.

However, on this beautiful, sunny Saturday afternoon, the Cubs were on the right side of history, scoring 21, allowing 0!

Who has the Best BBQ? Rt. 66 Smoke Out Returns

It's that time of year again. The community comes together for a fun weekend as the Red Carpet Corridor showcases the shops in Dwight and the Rt. 66 Smoke Out instigates your nose to follow all of the teams cooking in the Kansas City BBQ Society circuit.

It's the annual event held May 6-7 in downtown Dwight.

"It's a circuit for barbecuers that compete all over the country cooking to be the national winner," said Rodney Connor, the organizer of the Rt. 66 Smoke Out. "Right now I have 29 teams signed up for this year. Some of those guys will be backyard guys just coming here to compete and have fun. But the vast majority of those guys are competing for points in the KCBS standings in efforts to become the national champion."

The competition has been in Dwight for 14 years, but only 11 of them have been under the KCBS sanctioning.

Each of the previous years, the smoke out has been successful in accomplishing its goals as a winner is announced, a sweet aroma enriches Dwight, and local businesses thrive.

"Everyone comes to a BBQ competition and wants to eat barbecue. But, because it's a circuit, they're not here to sell barbecue, they're here to compete. Selling barbecue is just kind of a distraction for them, so they just don't do it," Connor said. "We reached out to all of the local restaurants and kind of asked them to be part of it. We never want to infringe on what they have going on.

"The goal is to bring people downtown and spend their money downtown. Everything we do is to enable that, not infringe."

Instead of being an option to feed you, the Smoke Out is an entertainment option.

"It's like a car show. You can't taste the food. But, these guys spend thousands of dollars on their rigs. They take classes on how to prepare meat and have all kinds of secret tricks," Connor said. "While they don't sell food, they absolutely love chatting with locals that are interested in barbecue.

"For them, a lot of their time is sitting around and monitoring their smokers. They enjoy it if people stop and talk to them. They show off their grill, their set up, and tell them how they're injecting meat. I think some people think there is nothing to do, but actually, there is a lot to do."

The 29 teams registered for the event are a little shy of the 35 teams the Smoke Out saw before Covid-19.

With the virus not keeping people indoors anymore, the current culprits are higher meat prices and expensive gas.

Still, the competition has come a long way from its inception and will continue to thrive.

"Impact Dwight was an organization I was involved in when the Red Carpet Corridor came to town," said Connor. "Kevin Mc-Namara, the Village Administrator, came to Impact Dwight and said, 'Hey, we need you guys to think of something that Dwight can do during the Red Carpet Corridor.'

"I was volun-told to be in charge of the BBQ competition. We knew someone who was involved in the KCBS and told us it would be a good thing for Dwight. We tried it without the KCBS sanctioning for three years and it was fun, but we had a maximum of nine competitors and a number as low as five. Our prize money wasn't much.

"We hosted it at the Guardian Angel Basset Rescue Park for years. Larry Little (the president of the GABR) came to me and said, 'Hey, you need to make this a bigger thing.' He added, 'I'm going to guarantee a prize pool of $1,000. We're going to try to get enough people there. If you don't make enough to cover the $1,000, I'll cover it. If you do, you cover it."

More people came and the $1,000 was made and awarded.

This caused Connor and company to think about the next level. Little pushed for a partnership with the KCBS. Upon inquiry, the KCBS told Connor $6,000 would be a reasonable prize pool if Dwight wanted to see more competitors.

The field went from 10 teams to 35 teams, which brings in more money for the village.

"We try to ask around after the weekend to make sure it was beneficial to the town," said Connor, who also tells the contest entries that the smoke out was created for them to spend their money in Dwight. "I'm closing down a couple of streets. I'm taking up parking. I ask myself, 'Is this worth it?"

"Overwhelmingly, the feedback from the community and the businesses is all positive and it helps bring in money. The barbecuers are spending money while they're here. This is kind of their by Brandon LaChance vacation. They show up from out of town with a bunch of buddies and are here to spend money."

This year will also see the second rendition of the SCA, State Cookoff Association.

The Friday night event is designed to bring locals into the mix for a flavorful competition.

"This is meant to be more for the locals. The KCBS guys are on a large circuit, competing and spending big bucks to do so," said Connor. "SCA is a little different. All you're doing is cooking one steak to turn in and the winner gets $1,000 – and more importantly – bragging rights.

"What's cool about this is you can cook on anything, but most people bring a charcoal grill. They can share the grill with other friends if they want. The entry fee is $125 with a $2,000 prize pool. It's a super fun time."

Seneca Lady Fighting Irish Softball

Wednesday, April 20 Seneca vs. Wilmington

The Lady Irish picked up an 8-6 extra-inning walk-off win over Wilmington April 20.

"Good win against a solid, well-coached Wilmington team," said Coach Holman. "We left a few runners on in the first four innings and then had to lock in to hold them scoreless in the seventh and eighth. Great at-bat by Sam Vandevelde to draw a walk with one out in the eighth, and Zoe Hougas followed with a 1-2 count walk-off home run. Great job by Taya Roe going all eight innings in cold, windy, and rainy conditions.'

Roe wound up with four strikeouts, while allowing six earned runs on eight hits and two walks.

Hougas walked once, in addition to her extra-inning heroics, scoring twice. Madi Mino hit two homers, walking once. Maddy Klicker came up with two doubles, a triple, and a run scored.

Thursday, April 21 Seneca vs. Marquette

Seneca fought off Marquette April 21 to earn a 6-5 victory.

"Great comeback win," stated Coach Holman. "Hit a lot of balls hard early but couldn't find a gap. Finally got going with Zoe Hougas hitting a one-out solo home run in the sixth to give us a little momentum. We've been working hard on our defense and it was outstanding against a Marquette team that was hitting the ball all over the field. We dodged the big inning by throwing triple and a run scored.

strikes and making plays when we had to. We did a great job adjusting our approach and cut our strikeouts in half against one of the best pitchers in 1A softball."

Alyssa Zellers got the "W", allowing two earned runs on five hits, striking out one in three innings, moving to 5-2 on the season.

In addition to the Hougas homer, Allie Arwood doubled in a run. Maddy Klicker went 2-3 with two stolen bases and a run scored. Audry McNabb was also 2-3 with a double and a run scored.

Saturday, April 23 Seneca vs. Fieldcrest and Princeton

Seneca split a doubleheader April 23, defeating Fieldcrest, 13-5, then falling to Princeton, 12-2.

"Long, windy day, but nice to come out with one win," Coach Holman said. "Did not play our best game two against a really experienced and wellcoached Princeton. We have to be better against some of the best teams when it comes to the postseason. Six unearned runs ultimately turned the game."

Taya Roe moved to 7-0 with her game one victory, while Alyssa Zellers dropped to 5-3 following her game two loss.

Zoe Hougas (4-5, 2 triples, 4 R) and Maddy Klicker (3-5, triple, 2 R) led in game one with three RBI each.

In game two, Madi Mino was 2-3 at the plate with a triple and a run batted in. Sam Vandevelde went 3-3 with a

The Panthers pounced all over Grace Christian Academy April 18, winning big, 20-0, in four innings.

"It is always nice when everyone can get in and contribute to a win," said Coach Wills. "Fourteen players scored a run or knocked someone in."

Gabe McHugh got the win on the rubber, allowing no runs on just two hits, striking out six. Dane Halpin pitched one relief inning, striking out two and walking one.

Leading the offensive onslaught were D. Halpin (double, 2 BB, SB, 2 R), Brody Fatlan (2-2, double, R), and Garrett Grant (double, HBP) with three RBI each. include: - Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and pacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations, and wildlife.

Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally-occurring or result from urban storm water runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming.

Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban storm water runoff, and residential uses.

Organic chemical contaminants, including nthetic and volatile organic chemicals

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. Source of Water: CAMPUSTo determine Campus's susceptibility to groundwater contamination, a Well Site Survey, published in 1992 by the Illinois EPA, was reviewed. Based on the information contained in this document, twp potential sources of groundwater contamination are present that could pose a hazard to groundwater pumped by the Campus community water supply well. One is an above ground fuel storage tank owned by Round Grove Township. The other source is inactive Well #2, which is considered a potential route of contamination. As a route, it could provide contamination a direct conduit into the aquifers used by the village wells. The Illinois EPA has determined that the Campus wells are susceptible to IOC, VOC, or SOC contamination. This determination is based on a number of criteria including: monitoring conducted at the well; monitoring conducted at the entry point to the distribution system; the presence of potential routes of contamination; and the available hydrogeologic data for the well.

Maximum Contaminant Level or M	ICL: The highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.
Maximum Contaminant Level Goal	or MCLG: The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.
Maximum residual disinfectant MRDL:	level or The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.
Maximum residual disinfectant goal or MRDLG:	level The level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.

Essential Road Trip Packing Checklist

The open road beckons millions of motorists upon the arrival of warm weather. In advance of the season's first road trip, drivers tune up their engines and plan their itineraries for the adventures that lie ahead.

While it may be tempting to get behind the wheel and see where the road takes you, those who have been around the block - or highway - a few times likely know that road trip planning involves careful packing for the voyage ahead. Bringing the right items along can go a long way toward ensuring a trip is enjoyable and runs smoothly. This list of musthaves can get anyone started on the road trip ahead.

• Proper paperwork: Don't forget to bring along a driver's license, vehicle registration, proof of insurance, and your rental car agreement if you are renting a car. In certain instances, you may need proof of COVID-19 vaccination and/or a negative COVID test. Double-check that you have it all before leaving.

• Vehicle manual: Even the most well-maintained car may suffer a breakdown on the road. Bring along the vehicle manual, which can help you diagnose minor problems. Keep your roadside assistance membership card at the ready in the event you need extra help. • America the Beautiful Pass: If you plan to visit various national parks across America, an investment in the America the Beautiful Pass for $80 provides access to the pass holder and three other adults to more than 2,000 recreation areas managed by five federal agencies. It's available by visiting store.usgs.gov/pass/index. html.

Gare

 Important phone numbers: Bring a written list of important phone numbers in case your phone dies or gets lost.

• Cash: Credit and debit cards are a reliable form of payment, but cash is king. Having cash on hand is a smart move in the event bank cards get lost. Cash also is especially useful when patronizing smaller establishments that might not take credit.

• Roadside emergency kit: Keep a tire changing kit, flares, tools, jumper cables, duct tape, and work gloves in the vehicle for emergencies

• GPS and maps: GPS systems on phones and other devices provide step-by-step directions and can alert to traffic jams. But GPS can be compromised in areas where cellular or satellite service is interrupted by mountain ranges or buildings. The Maps.Me app enables you to download detailed maps that can be accessed while offline. Paper maps can serve as backups as well.

Entertainment: Long road trips are full of opportunities to visit roadside attractions. For the times when the highway is a long stretch of nothing new, bring along movies, music, books, handheld games, and even trivia or mind puzzles to pass the time.

• Cooler with refreshments: Dining out is a great way to sample local cuisine from various regions of the country. But having snacks at the ready can save time and money

The list of road trip essentials continues, but this is a good start. The list can be customized based on drivers' interests and their destinations

How to Maintain an Older Vehicle

New cars have been costly for quite some time, but those costs have spiked considerably since the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic. That unprecedented rise has led many motorists to wonder how they can get more mileage out of their existing vehicles. According to data from Kelley Blue Book and Cox Automotive, the average cost of a new car in September 2021 was just over $45,000. That marked a $3,000 increase from June 2021 and a $5,000 increase from the end of 2020.

Drivers who can't afford to keep up with the rising cost of new vehicles can take these steps to keep their existing cars running smoothly for years to come.

• Take care of the timing belt. Engines may get all the glory, but they cannot run smoothly without a fully functional timing belt. Engines need various components to do their job, and those components must do so at the right time for the engine to run smoothly. Fully functional timing belts help to synchronize movements, but belts must be replaced every so often. Owner's manuals may note when to replace the timing belt, but they generally must be replaced every 60,000 to 105,000 miles. That's infrequent, but drivers can ask their mechanics to keep an eye on their timing belts. One issue many drivers encountered in the early months of the pandemic when people were driving less frequently was timing belts that were failing long before they reached the projected mile markers. That's because infrequent driving can hasten the demise of the timing belt. This is something for aging drivers who no longer drive a lot to keep in mind.

• Take care of the brakes and associated components. The experts at Popular Mechanics urge drivers of older vehicles to replace their brake fluid every two years. Popular Mechanics also advises drivers whose cars are more than seven years old to replace the rubber brake lines when major brake work is required.

• Pay attention to oil levels. The older engines get, the more oil they're going to burn. So drivers of older vehicles should check their oil levels more often than they would if their vehicles were brand new. This also is a great way to discover leaks before they lead to potentially significant issues.

Don't skip maintenance appointments. Even if you're still driving less due to the pandemic, it's best not to skip recommended maintenance intervals. That's true for drivers of all cars, but especially those whose vehicles are aging. Routine tune-ups and oil changes, which may need to become more frequent the older the vehicle gets, can keep cars running smoothly and protect the engine over the long haul.

The rising cost of new cars is compelling millions of drivers to keep their cars longer than they might have anticipated. Some simple maintenance measures can help those cars run strong for years to come.
