Dwight Village Board Considers Cannabis Ordinance

by Mark Boma

The Dwight Village Board of Trustees met on Monday, July 25, in the basement of the Village Hall Complex.

The regularly scheduled meeting from July 11 had been cancelled, which resulted in a month's worth of business to be addressed, including actions from several committee and administrative meetings earlier in July.

Mayor Johnson was unable to attend so Trustee Randy Irvin presided as acting Board President. Other Trustees in attendance were Pete Meister, Marla Kinkade, Chuck Butterbrodt, and Jenny Johnson. Absent was Justin Eggenberger.

The Board sent to the Planning Commission a recommendation from the Ordinance, Judicial, and Licensing Committee that an ordinance be passed allowing cannabis dispensaries in B-2 and I-1 Districts. Current Village ordinance prohibits any cannabis dispensaries.

The Board approved a recommendation from the Ordinance Committee to delete a section of the Municipal Code dealing with Cab/Bus Stands. Since the section refers to cabstand and bus-loading zones which do not exist in the Village, that part of the code would be deleted.

The Ordinance Committee had reviewed the Curb Cuts Permit Application that was updated in September 2021. It was requested that language be added that permit fees for new residential homes be waived and the Board approved.

The Committee also reviewed the Sidewalk/Cafe/Outdoor Restaurant Seating Standards and agreed the regulations were working so that ordinance would remain unchanged.

Village Administrator Kevin McNamara confirmed to the Board that the 15-minute parking signs were still in place at their respective locations.

An ordinance regarding out-building personal property storage units structures was discussed. The Ordinance Committee had settled on the definition being "A non-permanent structure with a footprint not to exceed 16 square feet and no taller than seven feet high." Action on this was tabled pending a decision on the number of units to be allowed.

The Board also approved an updated version of the form used to obtain a Temporary/Special Event Outdoor Liquor Permit.

An Intergovernmental Agreement was approved between the Village of Dwight and Allen Township Fire Protection District which allows for ambulance service to be provided by Dwight to the portion of current Allen Township District to the east and south of Illinois Route 170. For the period of July 1, 2022 to December 31, 2024, Dwight shall be paid on a per call basis at a rate of $300 for services-refused calls and $500 for when client transportation is provided.

The Board also approved the audit and review of the fiscal year 2022 budget.

In final action, the board approved a $5,000 stipend to pay for the infield upgrade at the Dwight Softball field. Labor costs would be provided by the Youth Baseball/Softball League.

The next regularly scheduled meeting of the Dwight Village Council is August 8 at 6:30 p.m.

Oly Farms Kicked Into a Situation Lena Olson Hurt, Can't Work With Animals Because of Recovery

by Brandon LaChance

Lena Olson always tells people not to stand or walk behind horses.

She laughs now as she didn't listen to her own advice on July 22 when getting the Oly Farm's trailers ready for their first horse showcase of the year.

"I was kicked by one of our Clydesdale horses, Arizona, in the stomach. She is a 2,000 pound animal with a lot of force behind her. Arizona is 7-years old. She is the sweetest, quietest mare we have," said Olson, who is the main person behind the hard work at Oly Farms since 2008 and the petting zoo since 2020, but her husband Kris is involved. "She is my favorite. We were loading the trailer to go to our first horse show in Iroquois County. I had just got done washing all the horses and I was putting them in the trailer, so when my husband came outside, we could just get in the trucks and go.

"For whatever reason, she decided that she didn't like the stallion, Clever, I was bringing into the trailer. She decided to try to kick him. She was looking to her left, so I don't think she saw me. She got me with her second kick. The first one hit me in the legs and the second one got me in the stomach and ribs. I was already trying to get out of the way after the first one.

"With the first one, she kicked me back and I hit an upright to a divider in the trailer. That bruised my entire backside, but I'm OK from that. The kick to the stomach broke four ribs and I have a Grade 4 lacerated liver."

After the blow, Olson got Clever tied in the trailer, but was holding her stomach and was having trouble breathing. She made it to the house, but was crawling into the kitchen to find Kris. Lena told her husband what happened and then waited four hours to go to the hospital because she still wanted to go to the horse show.

Kris talked her out of it. The couple went to the Pontiac Hospital and were sent to Bloomington. In Bloomington, the Ol-

Lena Olson was kicked in the stomach on July 22 by Arizona, a Clydesdale from Anheuser-Busch that was born on Super Bowl morning in 2015 when the game was played in Arizona. The kick resulted in four broken ribs and a Grade 4 lacerated liver. Olson may be out of action for six months and didn't know what to do with the farm. Through the help of the community she is finding answers.

sons were told to go to Peoria because it's a Level 2 trauma center and she needed a Level 1.

Lena stayed in Peoria for one night and was released when her blood work showed the liver was healing itself and she would not need surgery. The ribs were a concern because of breathing, but the doctors told her to relax and not risk putting strain on the lacerated liver because it could cause huge issues.

Although Arizona was on the giving end, she still received some trauma of the emotional kind.

"By the time Kris got out there, Arizona was already moopy because she knew what she did and felt bad. They're like big dogs. She knew she made a mistake." Lena Olson said. "When I go outside now, she puts her head down because she wants me to scratch her.

Dwight Fire Incidents 7/22 - 7/29

Dwight Fire Protection District responded to the following incidents:

July 22: Mutual Aid to Coal City – Canceled.

July 27: Tree Limb on Power Lines – N. Chicago; Overheated/Smoking Cooking Equipment – W. Waupansie St.; Motor Vehicle Accident – I-55.

July 28: Automatic Fire Alarm – E. Chippewa.

Dwight FPD also responded to 12 medical assists with Dwight EMS.

Central Illinois' first ambulance delivered to Ukraine in early April has been moved to the front lines as the need for ambulances in the war-torn country continues to grow.

On March 29, an Advanced Medical Transport (AMT) of Central Illinois ambulance filled with supplies donated by AMT and OSF HealthCare and their Mission Partners (employees) left Chicago's O'Hare International Airport for Ukraine.

The ambulance made its way into Ukraine in early April where it was assigned to work in Kyiv, the nation's capital. According to Ukrainian officials, during the past three months it has been used at a cardiac hospital transporting critical ill patients in need of life-saving care.

That changed in early July when the ambulance was reassigned. It has now been moved to the Kharkiv region in the northeastern part of Ukraine – which is under constant attack from Russian missiles and rockets.

The AMT ambulance and its Ukrainian crew will be responsible for providing life-saving care, which will include responding to areas of active conflict.

Chris Manson, Vice President of Government Relations for OSF HealthCare and who initiated the ambulance donation project, recently returned from a second trip to Ukraine where he was able to help drive an ambulance donated in the second wave into the country.

"It was gratifying to see the ambulances and medical supplies in-country and fulfilling a tremendous need. The Ukrainian teams I met with have been extremely appreciative of everything people in the U.S. are doing to help," said Manson.

While the AMT of Central Illinois ambulance is the first ambulance to make it to Ukraine, a total of seven ambulances are now working in Ukraine. Four more are on their way to Ukraine by ship, with five more leaving in August. By early August, three Illinois ambulances will be operating in Ukraine. Donated ambulances and the critical medical supplies they are filled with have come from across the United States.

MAKING SENSE OF INVESTING

529 Plans: Underused But Valuable

In just a few weeks, students will be heading off to college – and parents will be getting out their checkbooks. Without a college-bound student in your home right now, you might not be thinking much about tuition and other higher education expenses, but if you have young children, these costs may eventually be of concern – so how should you prepare for them?

It's never too soon to start saving and investing. Unfortunately, many people think that they have a lot of "catching up" to do. In fact, nearly half of Americans say they don't feel like they're saving enough to cover future education expenses, according to a 2022 survey conducted by financial services firm Edward Jones with Morning Consult, a global research company.

Of course, it's not always easy to set aside money for college when you're already dealing with the high cost of living, and, at the same time, trying to save and invest for retirement. Still, even if you can only devote relatively modest amounts for your children's education, these contributions can add up over time. But where should you put your money?

Personal savings accounts are the top vehicle Americans are using for their education funding strategies, according to the Edward Jones/Morning Consult survey. But there are other options, one of which is a 529 plan, which may offer more attractive features, including the following:

- Possible tax benefits – If you invest in a 529 education savings plan, your earnings can grow federally income tax-free, provided the money is used for qualified education expenses. (Withdrawals not used for these expenses will generally incur taxes and penalties on investment earnings.) If you invest in your own state's 529 plan, you may receive state tax benefits, too, depending on the state.
- Flexibility in naming the beneficiary – As the owner of the 529 plan, you can name anyone you want as the beneficiary. You can also change the beneficiary. If your eldest child foregoes college, you can name a younger sibling or another eligible relative.
- Support for non-college programs – Even if your children don't want to go to college, it doesn't mean they're uninterested in any type of postsecondary education or training. And a 529 plan can pay for qualified expenses at trade or vocational schools, including apprenticeship programs registered with the U.S. Department of Labor.
- Payment of student loans – A 529 plan can help pay off federal or private student loans, within limits.

Keep in mind that state-by-state tax treatment varies for different uses of 529 plans, so you'll want to consult with your tax professional before putting a plan in place.

Despite these and other benefits, 529 plans are greatly under-utilized. Only about 40% of Americans even recognize the 529 plan as an education savings tool, and only 13% are actually using it, again according to the Edward Jones/Morning Consult study.

But as the cost of college and other postsecondary programs continues to rise, it will become even more important for parents to find effective ways to save for their children's future education expenses. So, consider how a 529 plan can help you and your family. And the sooner you get started, the better.

Gas Prices For This Week

Since July 25, the national average for a gallon of regular gasoline fell 14 cents to $4.21. The estimated rate is 80,000 b/d lower than last year, but it could pressure pump prices and slow price decreases if the trend holds.

4-H Enrollment Fee Waived for Youth in Livingston, McLean, and Woodford County Clubs

4-H members are our leaders of tomorrow. 4-H strives to change the lives of youth through project exploration, leadership, teamwork to build the confidence needed to write their own futures. For a second year, beginning September 1, youth throughout Livingston, McLean, and Woodford Counties will be able to participate in 4-H clubs without having to pay an enrollment fee for the 2022-2023 program year.

Katie Buckley, 4-H Youth Development educator in McLean County, believes this is an excellent chance for “youth who are unsure about whether or not 4-H is for them to take this opportunity to try it out.”

4-H is truly for everyone and youth can join a club at all times of the year. The 4-H New Year begins for local clubs on September 1, so this is the chance to offer this exclusive opportunity for the three counties. This includes existing and new 4-H youth ages eight to 18 and Cloverbud youth ages five to seven by September 1. All members must be enrolled and have all paperwork turned in by October 31 to receive their fee waived. Fee waivers have always been available for families who have a limited income as well as families with more than three youth enrolled.

4-H has been a long-standing youth organization that spans worldwide. Youth can explore a variety of project areas that fit their interests. Project areas range from animal science, career and leadership development, healthy living and nutrition, and STEAM (science, technology, engineering, arts/ag, and math) to name a few.

“4-H strives to provide a sense of belonging, independence, generosity and mastery for each member. Through their club experiences and projects, youth develop skills that will serve them now and in the future,” says Alcha Corban, 4-H Youth Development educator for Livingston, Woodford, and Unity Community Center. “4-H has something unique to offer to all youth whether they are into robotics, computer science, cooking, or leadership. This program serves to empower youth and assist them in acquiring skills they will use the rest of their lives.”

Visit an area 4-H show this summer to see why youth should take the chance and get involved in your local 4-H program where youth you know can learn how to write their own 4-H story. Visit go.illinois.edu/LMW4H for more information about what 4-H has to offer and how to get started in Livingston, McLean, and Woodford County 4-H. Explore the county pages and if new to the program, fill out the interest survey there to get started today. For questions, contact local 4-H staff at the Extension office at Livingston, 815-842-1776, McLean, 309-663-8306, and Woodford, 309-467-3789.

If you will need an accommodation to participate, contact the Extension office at the number above. Early requests are strongly encouraged to allow sufficient time to meet your access needs.

Another great County Fair season

One of the best parts of summer in east-central Illinois is our county fairs – there is nothing quite like it.

The competitions, the old (and new) friends, the shows, the games, the food, and fun – they all combine to create a summertime event like no other.

Our area has some of the best county fairs in the state – thanks in large part to some really great local organizers and volunteers who make them such a success every year – it takes organization, work, flexibility and dedication.

Thanks also to the many exhibitors and participants in groups like 4-H and the FFA, and all those who make our county fairs so special.

The Illinois Secretary of State’s office has announced that the expiration dates for Illinois driver’s licenses and ID cards have been extended to December 1.

You can find more information from the Secretary of State at ilsos.net

Unemployment debt might have to be paid for with tax hike on jobs. During the pandemic, Illinois, like a lot of other states, borrowed money from the federal government to pay the large number of unemployment claims which were suddenly filed. But unlike most of those states, Illinois did not pay back the loan, even though the state had the funds to do so. This spring’s state budget made a partial payment, but left $1.8 billion unpaid, with no stated plan to how to pay it back.

If the state does not pay back the full amount it owes to the federal Unemployment Insurance trust fund, it could be forced to make up the difference by raising taxes on employers and cutting benefits for the unemployed. Now that Illinois has missed the deadline for making the payment in full, the debt is accumulating interest, which will only make it harder to repay.

Illinois could have repaid this debt in full, and spared Illinoisans the possibility of having taxes on jobs increased, but instead the budget prioritized other spending projects. Now this growing debt remains and we have heard no plan for how the state will eventually pay for it.

DNR reminding hunters about late-summer hunting opportunities. The Illinois Department of Natural Resources has announced the dates for late-summer hunting seasons throughout the state.

Squirrel season starts August 1 and runs through February 15, with closures during firearm deer season in the late fall.

Other seasons open later in the year, mostly in early September.

Visit the DNR website for more details on daily limits and other information about these hunting seasons.

“But that’s all I can do because I can’t do chores. If my body can handle it, I’m at a 10-pound weight restriction for the next two months. They said for me to be 100-percent recovered, it would be a minimum of four months and a maximum of six months. They said I’m closer to the six months. They didn’t put me on any food restrictions. I’m on pain killers, so I know better than to get into a case of Budweiser.”

Arizona was originally an Anheuser-Busch Clydesdale, but the beverage company let the horse go because of color criteria. Her name came from the day she was born as she saw her first sunlight the morning of the 2015 Super Bowl, which was in Arizona.

Olson can tell stories about all of her horses and other animals including how they got their name, ages, birthplace, and character strength and weaknesses.

This is why the recovery time is so tough for the animal lover. She doesn’t know if she’ll be able to keep all of her animals if she can’t do the chores and the routine she has developed.

Plus, pay bills.

“Over the first three or four days, because sitting here doing nothing you have a lot of time to think, I was thinking about the hospital bills rolling in,” Olson said. “I think I’ll be able to go back to my job (lunch lady) when the school opens, but I’m not 100-percent positive either, because it depends on my restrictions and whether I can do it or not. The doctor may not want me on my feet that long. So, we’re going to revisit the work situation next week.

usually out in the barn most of the time. I have the summer off since I work at a school and he works and helps as needed. He had an accident in years prior that limits his ability for certain things, which makes me feel horrible because I can see he’s doing it. I also see he’s struggling at times.

“I thought about getting rid of some of the animals. We have the petting zoo. I don’t want to totally deplete it. I want to try to keep some of the animals, so we can fulfill some of our commitments we already made for the rest of the year.”

Birthday parties, Dwight’s National Night Out on August 2, and the Illinois State Fair are some of the Oly Farm’s commitments Lena refuses to back out on.

The animal caretaker made a Facebook post speaking about the incident and the possibilities of selling animals and reductions in events.

This sparked community members of all types to reach out with assistance, including Kati Ricken who started a Go Fund Me page, “Oly Farms Needs Help.”

“I’ve only spoken with her twice just going to her farm with my children,” said Kati Ricken, who used to live in Dwight and now resides in Verona with her husband Sean Johnson and their children Oliver Johnson (3) and Haylee Johnson (2). “I just think she is a really special part, an important part, of our community because there isn’t many places in the Dwight area to bring your kids to learn about agriculture and animals.

“She does it for free or donations. The kids get to have fun and learn, and the adults do as well. She works hard on the farm and she still has a full-time job. I just really don’t want to see her lose her animals. I think it’s a cause that is really important to our community.”

Lena Olson has seen and felt the support.

When asked about it, she chokes up and doesn’t know what to say until she catches her breath.

“Before and after the post the entire community is coming together to support everything that we do for our people because when we come out it’s off of donations,” Olson said. “We don’t charge people for anything on the farm. It gives everybody the experience to pet the animals, sit on a horse, or ride a horse. I didn’t want to take that away from everybody, but we have to do what we have to do to pay the bills. Everyone has come together to help. We’ve received Tractor Supply gift cards and there is a GoFundMe page to help us keep everything so we don’t have to get rid of what we have.

“I’m speechless. Being part of a small-farm community is great. The gratitude is just over pouring. I can’t keep up with some of it. People are coming out and helping with chores. We’ve had food brought to us. I can’t cook because it’s a struggle to lift a plate to get it into the microwave.

“I don’t even know what to tell people. Thank you is not enough. I didn’t expect any of this at all. It’s the little things that add up to big things. At this point, we might not have to get rid of any animals.”

As of July 29, Oly Farms hasn’t sold any animals and the Go Fund Me page is up to $1,085.

A Message from Senator Patrick Joyce

Across our region in these dog days of summer, one word keeps coming to the forefront: relief.

I see kids out with lemonade stands and playing in pools and under sprinklers to beat the heat. Farmers are out checking their fields and hoping for some rain to avoid the devastating effects of drought on their prized crops. Consumers are looking everywhere to save a few bucks against the relentless wave of inflation.

I have worked hard these last few months to help provide relief, both in Springfield and around the district.

I strongly supported the Illinois Family Relief Plan in the spring legislative session, and families are starting to see the benefits these past few weeks. The plan provides nearly $2 billion statewide in tax cuts and direct payments. You’re saving on your grocery, gas and property tax bills. Families who need it most are taking advantage of direct checks and an expanded Earned Income Tax Credit. And in August, a 10-day sales tax holiday on school supplies will help families get ready for classrooms to open.

We have been smart about using our federal pandemic relief dollars to hold the line on spending and create the opportunity to help families during these tough times. We have more work to do, but this is real relief and I know families in the 40th Senate district can use it.

Drug addiction is a scourge on our communities. We cannot ignore this problem – we have to take it head on. I supported legislation to provide relief from the pressures of drug addiction through a new statewide drug take-back program for prescription drugs, more support to hire professionals to help those with addiction and mental health issues, and access to lifesaving medications for those struggling with opioid abuse.

I invited University Park residents to a Water Bill Relief Fair, where local families struggling to pay their bills or facing disconnection could get up to $1,500 in assistance.

Our local school districts are getting some much-needed relief in the form of School Maintenance Grants. Schools throughout the 40th District will get $800,000 to improve the physical condition of the school buildings, which really is an investment in the educators and students who work together there.

My office is doing its part to provide relief. We had a good turnout locally for our Mobile Office Hours in Kankakee, with the Illinois Secretary of State’s office for a Mobile Secretary of State Event in New Lenox, and our latest Coffee, Conversation and Constituent Services event a day later. Local constituents were able to get assistance on a number of issues, including the drivers’ licenses and state IDs. As long as I am in office, we will make bringing critical services to you a top priority.

Look for more in the coming months on my local visits and ways we are working to deliver for the 40th District. I urge you to contact me anytime I can help: 708-756-0882, or at senatorpatrickjoyce.com. I will continue to share the latest news on my website, in The Paper, and on my Facebook page: facebook.com/senPatrickjoyce40/.

OBITUARIES

Jerome ‘Jerry’ Rose

Jerome “Jerry” Rose, a lifelong resident of Dwight, Illinois, died Sunday, July 24, 2022 at Heritage Health in Dwight.

Born September 24, 1935 in Dwight Community Hospital, Jerry was a son of James and Sophie (Kunis) Rose.

He was raised in rural Dwight and graduated from Dwight High School with the Class of 1953. Jerry worked on the family farm before being drafted into the United States Army in November of 1958.

On May 23, 1959, he married Laura Jean Elsner in Saint Patrick Catholic Church, Dwight, and together they would live for a time in Germany while he was stationed there in the military. Jerry was honorably discharged from military service in September of 1960 and returned to Dwight, where he and his wife would live and raise their family.

He gained employment with Ambler’s Texaco in Dwight as a mechanic before pursuing a career as a meat cutter. Jerry worked at several grocery stores, including the A&P Grocery Store in Pontiac, Illinois; Super-Valu in Dwight; and Chipains Fresh Market in Lemont, Illinois, before he retired at the age of 62.

He was a member of Saint Patrick Catholic Church in Dwight and a past member of the Loyal Order of Moose Lodge 182 in Pontiac.

Jerry was always a mechanic at heart and took great pride in working on his own cars. He was always tinkering with something and always on the lookout for his next project.

He was a devoted family man and was a wonderful caregiver to his children. Jerry was a social man who loved catching up with his friends and going out for coffee. He leaves behind a legacy of hard work and kindness, and will be missed dearly by all who knew him.

Surviving are his son, David J. (Lucie) Rose of Saint Charles, Missouri; two grandchildren: Joshua (Angela) Rose of Saint Peters, Missouri and Heidi (Darryn) Rose-Fiscus of San Antonio, Texas; three great-grandsons: Caden, Everett, and Griffin; two sisters: Ann (the late Chester) Kuta of California and Marjorie (Lester) Hansen of Dwight; as well as many cousins and numerous nieces and nephews.

Per Jerry’s wishes, cremation rites have been accorded.

The family received friends for a memorial visitation in Saint Patrick Catholic Church, corner of Mazon Avenue and Prairie Avenue in Dwight, on Friday, July 29, 2022 from 10:00 a.m. until the 11:00 Mass of Christian Burial celebrated by Reverend Chris Haake.

Burial with full military honors followed in Mount Olivet Cemetery, Dwight.

Into the Deep End

It’s August. Aside from being really, really hot, that also means that fantasy football draft season is here and upon us. This isn’t that much different than most of the rest of the year, because I also indulge in fantasy baseball and basketball. But fantasy football season, and the time leading up to it, just feels a little different. It’s the big one.

The landscape upon which people get their information for fantasy football and all sports has changed greatly. In its early years, it was basically just whatever general knowledge you had about football. Then it morphed into magazines, and things prior to the season, and has evolved all the way into having information coming out from every different angle and capacity.

Most leagues in the current day usually have some sort of payment or buy-in involved. Usually. And then the winner of the league will take home a large chunk of that buy-in. It doesn’t have to be a lot, but it’s a good way to keep people accountable and insure a competitive league.

If there’s a next tier of craziness that can be waded into, I think I’m waist deep in that water. Recently I subscribed to a paid Substack (Substack is a newsletter/subscription service), that paid Substack is for fantasy football information.

We’ve reached the meta stage of fantasy football where I am paying to get information about something I’m paying to compete in. There’s obviously multitudes of outlets that provide an abundance of information for free that don’t require money, but this just feels like the natural progression of things.

The biggest, and most important question, is obviously, will it help me actually succeed when it comes to playing fantasy this year? But I’m diving into the proverbial deep end and paying cold hard cash to get any little bit of extra information that could be beneficial to me this coming fall.

Best of luck to anyone else competing.

Go, Cubs!

PARTY IN THE PARK

July 29-31

Dan Doglio Celebrated During Party in the Park

Dan Doglio, the originator of Party in the Park in South Wilmington, passed away back in January and was honored this past Friday night during Party in the Park with a tribute speech and a banner displayed at the park.

Dan started Party in the Park back in 1996, with the help of many family and friends, and the entire community has come together for the past 25+ years to continue to make the event a success.

Dan's vision was to have a town festival where there was something for all ages to go out and enjoy at the park, while raising funds to support beautification projects at the VFW park.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT YOUR DRINKING WATER

Village of Mazon Has Levels of Manganese Above State Drinking Water Standards

Our water system recently violated a state drinking water standard. Although this is not an emergency, as our customers, you have a right to know what happened, what you should do, and what we are doing to correct this situation.

We routinely monitor for the presence of drinking water contaminants. Testing results we received on 6/9/2022 show that our system exceeds the state maximum contaminant level (MCL), for manganese. The state MCL for manganese is 0.15 milligrams per liter (mg/L). The average level of manganese for a 4-sample set was 0.16 milligrams per liter.

What should I do? What does this mean?

- Excessive manganese in the water may cause staining of plumbing fixtures and laundry. It may also produce an unpleasant taste in beverages, including coffee & tea.

What happened? What is being done?

Due to a transfer pump failure, there was inadequate mixing of our shallow and deep wells. The motor has since been replaced. We anticipate resolving the problem within the year.

For more information, please contact Brody Jones at 1-815-448-2206.

Please share this information with all the other people who drink this water, especially those who may not have received this notice directly (for example, people in apartments, nursing homes, schools, and businesses). You can do this by posting this notice in a public place or distributing copies by hand or mail.

Pneumonia: A Disease Without a Season
Summer is a time when people are typically thinking about fun in the sun and less about guarding themselves against diseases that typically come in the winter time. However, there is at least one common illness that people can contract any time of year: pneumonia. That's why area doctors are encouraging older adults to protect themselves from the malady now. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), each year about 900,000 Americans get pneumonia, a lung infection caused by bacteria, viruses or fungi. Dr. Brian Curtis is an OSF HealthCare physician in Peoria. He says the best way to prevent the disease is by getting vaccinated, and for certain populations, not getting vaccinated comes with major risks. "It could cause you to be admitted to the hospital. And at times when that happens, the pneumococcal bacteria gets into your bloodstream and you develop what we call sepsis, and people have been admitted to the ICU, placed on the ventilator and have died from it," warned Dr. Curtis. Dr. Curtis added, this is especially the case with older individuals. In 2021, pneumonia killed nearly 50,000 people in the U.S.; about 84% of them were older than age 65. "People over the age of 65 are more susceptible to having bad outcomes from any type of virus or bacterial illness and it's just an age-related phenomenon," he said. "Their immune system is just not as effective as it was at a younger age." Dr. Curtis says anyone with weakened immune systems and children under the age of two are also at a higher risk for pneumonia. There are two pneumococcal vaccines recommended for older adults. Dr. Curtis recommends discussing those options with a health care provider to determine which immunization is best for you. If you don't have a primary care physician, visit osfhealthcare.org to find one near you.
Morris Hospital Announces Pediatric COVID-19 Vaccine Clinics
Morris Hospital & Healthcare Centers will be offering two pediatric COVID-19 vaccination clinics in early August for children ages six months through five years. Due to limited supplies, appointments are required by calling the Morris Hospital location hosting the vaccine clinic. The pediatric COVID-19 vaccine clinics will be held: • Wednesday, August 3, from 8:30 a.m. to noon, in the upper level of the Morris Healthcare Center of Morris Hospital, 151 W. High St., Morris. Phone, 815-705-3300. • Friday, August 5, from 8:30-11:30 a.m., at the Morris Hospital Ridge Road Campus, Suite 201, 27240 W. Saxony Dr., Channahon. Phone, 815-467-1518. Children ages six months through five years will receive the Moderna COVID-19 vaccine using smaller needles that are designed specifically for children. A second dose of the Moderna vaccine is needed one month after the first shot. Children receiving the vaccine must be accompanied by a parent or legal guardian. While there is no out-of-pocket cost, take your insurance card. Parents should allow time for a 15- to 30-minute observation period following administration of the vaccine. COVID-19 cases in children can result in hospitalizations, deaths, MIS-C (inflammatory syndromes) and long-term complications, such as "long COVID" in which symptoms can linger for months. Vaccination, along with other preventative measures, can protect children from COVID-19 using the safe and effective vaccines already recommended for use in adolescents and adults in the United States. In clinical trials, vaccine side effects were mild, and similar to those seen in adults and with other vaccines recommended for children. The most common side effect is pain, redness or swelling at the injection site, fever and swelling/tenderness of lymph nodes. Pediatric COVID-19 vaccines may also be available through area retail pharmacies. Check retail pharmacy websites for availability by location and appointment scheduling. Morris Hospital is not administering COVID vaccines during physician appointments. Parents who have questions about the pediatric COVID-19 vaccine are encouraged to talk with their child's physician.

Blood, Platelet Donors Needed to Help Prevent Seasonal Blood Shortage

Just as most cars need to be refueled constantly, so does the nation’s blood supply. The American Red Cross has faced a concerning drop in blood and platelet donations this summer. Donors are needed to make an appointment to give in August to help prevent a blood shortage.

The decline in donations has caused the Red Cross blood supply to shrink nearly 20% in recent weeks. The availability of blood products will continue to decline if donations do not increase. People should not wait until they hear there is a blood shortage to give. Type O negative blood donors are especially needed now.

“This is a concerning trend that may soon make it tougher to keep blood products stocked on hospital shelves,” said Paul Sullivan, Red Cross senior vice president of donor services. “By choosing a time to give now, donors can help pump up the blood supply for those in immediate need of lifesaving care and those who rely on transfusions for treatment.”

Donors can schedule an appointment to donate using the Red Cross Blood Donor App, by visiting RedCrossBlood.org, or by calling 1-800-RED-CROSS (1-800-733-2767).

As blood and platelet donations drop, gas prices have reached all-time highs in the U.S. As a thank you, all who go to give through August 31 will be automatically entered for a chance to win gas for a year, a $6,000 value. There will be three lucky winners. Everyone who goes to give blood in August will also receive a $10 e-gift card to a merchant of choice.

The Red Cross follows a high standard of safety and infection control. The Red Cross will continue to socially distance wherever possible at blood drives, donation centers and facilities. While donors are no longer required to wear a face mask, individuals may choose to continue to wear a mask for any reason. The Red Cross will also adhere to more stringent face mask requirements per state and/or local guidance, or at the request of blood drive sponsors. Donors are asked to schedule an appointment prior to arriving at a drive.

A blood donor card or driver’s license, or two other forms of identification, are required at check-in. Individuals who are 17 years of age in most states (16 with parental consent where allowed by state law), weigh at least 110 pounds and are in generally good health may be eligible to donate blood. High school students and other donors 18 years of age and younger also have to meet certain height and weight requirements.

Give Monarch Butterflies Something to Munch On, Plant Native Milkweeds
Imagine eating only one type of food your entire life. Your survival depends entirely on being able to find this food. This is the challenge monarch butterflies, Danaus plexippus , face every day as landscapes change nationwide and fewer native plants are available. But home gardeners can help. Along with other insects, monarch butterfly populations have been declining for decades.
This week, the non-governmental organization International Union for the Conservation of Nature listed a subspecies of monarch butterflies as endangered. The U.S. government maintains its own endangered species list which entitles species to federal protection under the Endangered Species Act. Monarch butterflies were denied federal endangered status in 2020. The monarch caterpillar feeds exclusively on milkweed, Asclepias sp., plants says Brittnay Haag, University of Illinois Extension horticulture educator. “It is a unique relationship,” Haag says. “If no milkweeds are growing in the landscape, no monarch butterflies are flying around the garden.” Females typically lay their eggs on milkweed leaves ensuring larvae have an immediate food source once they hatch so they have enough energy to transform into a chrysalis. Monarchs have adapted to eat the toxic compounds found in milkweed, cardiac glycosides, which deters birds and small mammals from eating them as adult butterflies. Once an adult monarch butterfly emerges, they will visit flowering plants, including milkweed, for nectar. Illinois is home to 22 species of milkweed and the state butterfly is, you guessed it, the monarch. "All of these grow in a variety of habitats that can easily be replicated in your own backyard, allowing you to grow the plants that support monarchs," Haag says. Milkweeds are a great native plant for the home garden with colorful blooms to support local wildlife. These herbaceous perennials flower in spring and summer. Milkweed flowers have high levels of nectar and are a favorite food source for pollinators. Flower colors vary from species to species but can be pink, purple, red, white, green, or orange. Mature flowers turn into pods of seeds that are attached to white, fluffy floss which is easily dispersed throughout the landscapes by the wind. Common milkweed, Asclepias syriaca , is a weedy species that is unwanted by many gardeners and farmers. “Thankfully, there are gorgeous alternatives to this milkweed species which support the monarch in a variety of habitats,” Haag says. A huge patch of milkweed is not necessary to benefit the monarchs, a small patch can be a great resource. Consider planting multiple species for season-long support of the monarch because each species has a distinct phenology and bloom time. Butterfly milkweed , Asclepias tuberosa , has striking orange flowers that make it an ornamental garden favorite, many gardeners do not even realize it is milkweed. It blooms from May through September, growing 2 to 3 feet tall. It grows best in full sun and well-drained soils. Prairie milkweed , Asclepias sulvantii , also commonly called Sullivan's milkweed, is found in moist to wet prairies in Illinois. It is often mistaken for common milkweed, but it has smooth, succulent-like leaves and is not aggressive in the landscape. It makes a great addition to any perennial flower garden with its large leaves, reaching 3 to 4 feet tall. Swamp milkweed , Asclepias incarnata , is found natively growing in swampy areas, wet ditches, and meadows throughout Illinois. The gorgeous pink blooms appear June through August, atop 5-foot lance-shaped foliage. This plant prefers full sun and moist, well-drained soils. Poke milkweed , Asclepias exaltata , grows best in shade, or partial sun, in moist, well-drained soils. It can reach 2 to 6 feet tall, depending on the growing conditions. The white, drooping blooms appear from June through August. Whorled milkweed , Asclepias verticillate , has whorled, linear leaves that grow best in full sun and moderate to dry conditions. It blooms later than most milkweed, July through September. It creates 1 to 2-foot-tall drifts of fine, delicately textured foliage. Free Morris Hospital/YMCA Class Reduces Parkinson’s Symptoms Morris Hospital and the Morris Community YMCA are offering a free Pedaling for Parkinson’s class that is designed to help individuals with Parkinson’s disease optimize their physical function by improving their gait, balance, speech, handwriting, and overall endurance. Taught by Morris Hospital Wellness staff with support from physical therapists, classes meet on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays from 1:00-2:00 p.m. at the former LivFit studio, 109 E. Jefferson Street, Morris. Participants must receive approval from their doctor prior to attending. Research conducted at the Cleveland Clinic found that individuals with Parkinson’s can experience a 35% reduction in symptoms by riding an indoor stationary bicycle for one hour three days a week. While cycling is not a cure for Parkinson’s disease, there is compelling evidence that shows pedaling a bicycle at a rapid pace may change the life of someone living with Parkinson’s disease. To register, call the Morris Community YMCA at 815-513-8080.

MONARCH BUTTERFLIES have started arriving back in Illinois from their Mexican wintering grounds. Winter numbers increased 35%, Mexican officials recently reported. Illinois Farm Bureau file photo

Pet of the Week

Dear Diary,
As I lay here on the bed in this room watching all the cats play, I can't help but wonder if there is a home for a 10 year old cat like me. I'm nothing special. I'm not young, I'm not active. I'm just a cat that likes the simple things in life like a warm bed, a soft touch and a kind heart. I see all these active and vibrant cats getting adopted around me and I wish I could stand up and scream "I'm here too" but I can't because I'm too shy. I wish I could rub my body along the legs of the people who enter the room but I can't because the last person I did...I loved and he passed away. I wish my heart wasn't broken and my smile went away but maybe one day I will learn to love again. I wish someone would give me a chance to just be me! -Vivian

Prairie Creek Public Library Offers New Service

Millions Of Titles Online For Free

by Brandon LaChance

Magical wizardry, breathtaking acts of love, fire breathing dragons, C.I.A missions, terrifying war tragedies, incredible athletic feats, and every other tale of entertainment whether fiction or nonfiction has found another way to find you.

The Prairie Creek Public Library has connected with Hoopla.

Hoopla, a downloadable application, offers millions of titles online for free with a never ending availability.

“If they already have a library card, all they have to do is download the app. You can download it to your phone, your computer, Ipad, and your television if you have Roku or a smart TV,” said Kim Frauli, who has been with the library in Dwight for six years and is in charge of cataloging. “Once you download the app, it will ask you for the barcode on the back of your card. The pin number is the last four digits of your library card number.

“Once you’re in, you can download up to 10 titles per month. That would be anything, movies, books, audio books, magazines, and music.”

If someone wants to check out Hoopla, they do need to get a library card to enjoy the numer-

THE PRAIRIE CREEK LIBRARY IN DWIGHT has added Hoopla to its E-reading options. A library patron with a library card can use the free service for millions of book, audio book, music, magazine, and movie titles once the Hoopla application is downloaded.

If a patron wants to change the pin number from the last four of their library card, they are welcome and have an easy option to do so. Note, expired library cards will not work. Your old card must be updated.

“We have had several people come in to renew their cards so that they can use the service. My daughter left for a trip out of state and had to get her library card renewed because it expired so she could use Hoopla while she was gone,” Frauli said. “She wanted to read in the car. I think it’s a very useful service to do those types of things.”

Being able to check out books and everything else you’d want at the library online brings up the question: if a service such as Hoopla essentially takes away from the story telling world a brick and mortar library always encourages?

According to Frauli, it’s quite the opposite because the library always has programs and plenty of titles, while Hoopla offers non-stop availability.

If 100 Prairie Creek patrons wanted to read the same title off of Hoopla, they can, while the library can only supply a few at a time when it comes to particular, popular items.

“I don’t think Hoopla is hurting the library because there are other reasons to come to the library. We have different programs. We have Toddler Time for the kids, which is twice a week,” Frauli said. “Usually once a month we have a craft night for adults and there is a craft event for kids once a month also. We have guest speakers. Earlier this summer, we had someone come in and do a program on Rt. 66.

“Hoopla will make things easier. If we only have one copy of the book, only one person can read that title at a time. With Hoopla, anyone who wants to read a book can. It will always be available. We have other online services, but they have limited availability also and you may be on a waitlist to get something.”

The library’s board made the decision to include Hoopla into its arsenal and the process of obtaining the service was quick and easy afterward.

Although Hoopla is new and is nationally quite popular, Prairie Creek still offers its other online options.

“If people go to the library’s web page, prairiecreeklibrary.org, there is a button called electronic resources, that’s where you can access the other E-book subscriptions. Also, My Heritage is available to look into genealogy and family trees, and Explore Illinois gives discounts and coupons on museums and activities around the state.”
