Dwight Welcomes Two New Officers Jake Bakalik, Trevor Sember Sworn In Monday

by Brandon LaChance

If you were trying to memorize the roster of the Dwight Police Department, it might be tougher than knowing the Chicago Cubs around the trade deadline.

Chief Mike Nolan took the position in February and has gone through a high turnover as veterans are retiring and new guys are stepping in.

"It's an exciting time for the Dwight Police Department. This is probably the biggest turnover ever," Nolan said. "Detective Gary Beier and I have gone back in the archives to see if there was ever another time where six full-time officers were hired in an 18-month period like we're in the process of doing."

"We're sending two guys at a time to the police academy. When I was hired, I remember we'd send one at a time every few years. We're in a very good position in Dwight."

On Monday, Aug. 8, Dwight welcomed two new officers to the staff as Officer Jake Bakalik and Officer Trevor Sember were sworn into office.

Both officers went through the police academy and Nolan is happy to add them to the roster.

"We just had these two gentlemen graduate from the police academy on July 29," Nolan said. "That's after completing 14 weeks, about 560 hours, of basic training at the Macon County

Law Enforcement Training Center in Decatur.

"The training covers everything from report writing to mental health and crisis management to accident investigation to being certified with handguns, rifles, and tasers, scenario-based training, along with the power point training they have to sit through."

With Bakalik and Sember now members of the DPD and two more graduating from the police academy at the end of August, Dwight will be back to full staff as they'll have 11 officers with nine of them full-time and two of them part-time.

However, two will be leaving the squad soon as Sgt. Glenn Peters and Officer Charlie Houch plan to retire.

Officer Bakalik and Officer Sember are excited to put on the Dwight Police Department badge and help the community.

Let's get to know them:
OFFICER JAKE BAKALIK

Bakalik, 25, originally from Gardner who bought a house in Marseilles prior to employment with the DPD, hadn't worn a badge before but he's not new to uniforms.

"I started my career in the military. I've been in the National Guard for 7½ years. I've explored other careers. What it came down to was the structure and being able to help people. I (continued on page 14)

NATIONAL NIGHT OUT was held in downtown Dwight August 2, with community members enjoying the festivities.

James Feller Named Herscher Labor Day Parade Grand Marshal

The Herscher Chamber of Commerce and its Labor Day Parade Committee have announced that James Feller has been selected as the Grand Marshal of the 2022 Herscher Grand Labor Day Parade.

Born June 14, 1945, James is the middle child of Gilbert and Edith Feller (Burling). His sisters are Wanda Splear and the late Donna Denault.

James and his wife, Bonnie (Meents), recently marked their 57th wedding anniversary. They have two children, whom are both married with families: Tim and his wife, Susan; Melinda and her husband, Kelly Duby; and five grandchildren, Brandon (Val), Madyson, Blaise, Delaney and Saige; and two great-grandchildren, Abbott and Taytum.

James grew up on a farm between Herscher and Buckingham, where he helped his father with farming starting at eight years of age. He attended Buckingham Grade School for six years before going to Herscher to finish grade school and graduated from Herscher High School in 1963. He played numerous sports throughout his years in school, including summer leagues. He started working for farmers in the area when he was 12 years old, bailing hay, shelling corn, and walking beans – "you name it, I did it," Feller says.

In 1960, when James was 15, he and his parents moved off the farm to Herscher and started running the Herscher Frozen Food Locker. His duties included shooting, loading and cleaning the livestock and then hanging it in the cooler for his dad to custom butcher and store for the farmer. Working at the locker through high school at nights and on weekends, until it closed in 1967 due to changes in health department requirements, is how he earned his spending money.

One week after graduating high school, James went to work in construction for Elmer Brinkman Construction. In 1975, he started his own business, James A. Feller General Contractor, which he owned and operated until 2019. In this time, he built custom homes and additions, remodeled homes, built several buildings for VanVoorst Lumber, roofed houses and poured concrete in the area from Wilmington to Paxton and Dwight to Kankakee. He also built and/or added on to three banks, State Bank of Herscher, State Bank of Herscher – Limestone, and Vermillion Valley Bank in Chatsworth, along with additions to a dentist office and a doctor's office.

James was involved in the community over the years in different capacities, from volunteering to coach his son's baseball teams to serving four years as a Village Board Trustee. In his younger years, he played and eventually sponsored a slow pitch softball team for many years. He was a Chamber of Commerce member for years and received the Chamber of Commerce Citizen of the Year award in 2015. He was also a member of the Herscher Lions and served as president for one year, as well as helping to cook for Corn Bowl, running a shift at the big stand and working the beer tent on Labor Day, and announcing the raffle at Spring Fling.

National Night Out: A Great Success

by Brandon LaChance

Dwight Police Department detective and school liaison, Gary Beier, didn't know what to expect from the first National Night Out celebration in downtown Dwight.

When the approximately 500 guests left, the bounce houses, display tables, and activities were all put away to conclude the Aug. 2 event, Beier and committed volunteers turned the lights off with smiles on their faces.

"I thought it went very well. It was very well attended," Beier said. "I have some better planning to do for the future. I didn't know how many people would attend. It was an awesome lesson to learn and I'm prepared for next year."

"It was amazing to have the type of turnout we did. There has been so much positive feedback about the night. The point of the event was to get people together and have fun. I think we accomplished that."

The list of thank yous is pretty long as a majority of the community came together to make the event successful.

The Dwight Rotary Club and the Dwight Lions Club came together to man the grills. Beier said they cooked all night and didn't take a break. He added the clubs were surprised with the turnout as well and that National Night Out wouldn't have been possible without the Rotary or the Lions.

The Dwight Woman's Club was busy throughout the celebration as it ran the sidewalk chalk competition. Heritage Woods provided desserts such as cake and brownies. They were all gone.

"We were going to have popcorn but the popcorn maker didn't work, so we just skipped it. I'll take that as the only problem with an event, every time," Beier said. "That was an easy decision. We put that thing to the side and I don't think anyone was disappointed."

"It's nice to have everyone to come together. That's what National Night Out is all about. We all came together for a great night. That makes our community that much stronger. We like that."

Operation SOS (Support Our Soldiers) attended the National Night Out and received generous donations such as $708.

The Streator Onized Credit Union crew had the task of keeping the snow cones coming with the help of the snow cone machine donated by the Dwight Economic Alliance. SOCU also manned the bounce houses.

"We were disappointed Oly Farms had to back out, but everyone is hoping for the best for Lena (Olson)," said Beier of the petting zoo provider who recently was kicked in the stomach resulting in four broken ribs and a Grade 4 lacerated liver. "I hated to not have them here. Hopefully she's recouping and we'll have them here next year."

"I'm very grateful for everyone that came out and helped. Hopefully, we can pull it off again next year."

Since last Monday, the national average for a gallon of regular gasoline has declined 15 cents to $4.06. According to new data from the Energy Information Administration (EIA), gas demand dropped from 9.25 million b/d to 8.54 million b/d last week. Thomas Bennett, State Representative 106th District

Embattled DCFS director grilled by Legislative Audit Commission

Since December, nine children have died under DCFS watch. Meanwhile, DCFS Director Marc Smith has been held in contempt of court 12 times for failing to place children in state care appropriately.

Last week, Director Smith and DCFS staff appeared before the bipartisan Legislative Audit Commission to answer for troubling missteps outlined in recent State audits of the agency. According to CBS 2 Chicago and other media reports, Smith was grilled by legislators over the agency’s massive and repeated failures to protect children under its care.

Several audits of the department reveal glaring problems. In 98% of cases, DCFS was unable to provide home safety checklists and 100% of employees and contractors had no receipt or acknowledgement of DCFS policies.

I and fellow House Republicans have repeatedly called for Director Smith’s resignation and a complete restructuring of DCFS. Thus far, those calls have gone unanswered by Governor Pritzker and his administration.

Illinois State Police changes FOID card

“clear and present danger” standard.

The presumption, under Illinois law, is that most persons who apply for a FOID card, required to purchase and possess a firearm, ought to get one. Exceptions include the authority granted to the State Police not to issue a FOID card to any person who is a “clear and present danger” to others.

“Clear and present danger” is a legal term that can be expanded or shrunk; and the State Police have now expanded the definition of “clear and present danger” to prevent likely dangerous individuals from receiving a FOID card to purchase firearms.

Rather than defining “clear and present danger” as involving an actual impending or imminent threat of substantial bodily harm to themselves of another person, the new standard adopted will allow any violent, suicidal, or assaultive threat, even if not immediate or imminent, to stop the issuance of a FOID card.

The new State Police language was adopted by emergency rule, which means that it is already in effect.

Jesse White Awards Over $627,000 Project Next Grants

Secretary of State and State Librarian Jesse White awarded $627,624 in 2023 Project Next Generation (PNG) grants to 30 public libraries statewide to support the mentoring program. PNG grants provide for mentors to work with middle and high school students to develop skills using various technologies. The at-risk students learn to achieve success through project-based learning, and gain life skills, such as effective communication, goal setting and conflict resolution.
"I am committed to improving the lives of at-risk youth in Illinois," said White. "I established this innovative program when I first became Secretary of State to give students an opportunity to receive hands-on experience with the latest technological tools at their local library. MAKING SENSE OF INVESTING

When Can You Choose Retirement?

If you're like most people, your work has been a central part of your life. So, wouldn't it be nice to have the flexibility to decide when you no longer want to work?

Many people of retirement age have achieved this type of control. In fact, two-thirds of workers ages 65 and older say they work primarily because they want to, not because they have to, according to a 2021 study by Edward Jones and Age Wave. But that means that one-third of workers in this age group feel financially compelled to work. This doesn't necessarily mean they dislike the work they do — but it's probably fair to say they would have liked the option of not working. How can you give yourself this choice?

You can start by asking yourself these questions:

- When do I want to retire? You'll want to identify the age at which you wish to retire. You may change your mind later and move this date up or back, but it's a good idea to have a target in mind.
- What sort of retirement lifestyle do I want? When you retire, do you anticipate staying close to home and pursuing your hobbies, or do you hope to travel the world? Would you like to spend your time volunteering? Open your own business or do some consulting? Clearly, some of these choices will require more resources than others, so you'll want to follow a financial strategy that aligns with the retirement lifestyle you intend to pursue.
- Am I saving and investing enough? As you chart your course toward your retirement journey, you'll want to assess the sources of income you'll have available. If you think you may be falling short of achieving your retirement goals, you may need to consider saving more.
- When should I start taking Social Security? You can begin collecting Social Security benefits as early as 62, but your monthly payments will be much bigger if you wait until your "full" retirement age, which will likely be between 66 and 67. Your decision about when to take Social Security will depend on several factors, including your other sources of income and your family history of longevity. Of course, as you're probably aware, the Social Security system is facing significant financial stress, so it's possible that we may see changes to Social Security, based on actions Congress could take. In any case, you might want to be fairly conservative in estimating how much Social Security can contribute to your retirement income.

By addressing the above questions, you can get a clearer sense of when you might reach the point at which work is optional. But you'll also need to consider other factors, too, such as how much you enjoy working or when your spouse or partner is planning to retire. In any case, the sooner you start planning for this next phase of your life, the better position you'll be in when it's time to make the transition.

Morris Hospital’s June Fire Starter Demonstrates Pride and Teamwork

While the Environmental Services department at Morris Hospital has a lot of ground to cover keeping all 28 of the organization’s facilities clean on a daily basis, one of their many responsibilities that the Environmental Services manager doesn’t worry about is linen. Except, that is, when Melissa Hackett is on vacation.

Hackett, of Morris, has devoted the past 17 years assuring clean linens are on hand and supplied throughout Morris Hospital & Healthcare Centers, an important function that helps keep patient care running smoothly. Described as one of the most dedicated, hard-working employees around, Hackett was honored as Morris Hospital & Healthcare Centers’ June Fire Starter of the Month. “Melissa is a great asset to Morris Hospital,” a co-worker wrote in nominating Hackett as Fire Starter of the Month. “She is dedicated to her job and her department, loves this organization, and feels a sense of belonging here. She takes pride in what she does and is willing to learn all aspects of Environmental Services.”

While Hackett is always willing to help wherever she is needed, she is best known for assuring that clean linen is available for the hospital and clinics. This involves receiving the clean linen from an outside vendor, maintaining and stocking carts in the linen room, preparing linen supplies for delivery to off-site locations, and making sure ambulance linen packs are available every day. She takes pride in her responsibilities and keeps track of the linen that leaves the hospital and the linen that comes back, along with notifying her manager when more linen needs to be ordered.

“Melissa knows her linen, and she knows her clinics,” says Ana Mendrick, Manager of Environmental Services at Morris Hospital. “She is an excellent team member, always hard working and very reliable. I am very excited for her to receive this honor. For me, her dedication and hard work is gold.”

As much as Hackett is counted on to keep the linen room running smoothly, both Mendrick and Environment Services Supervisor Sue Raikes appreciate her genuine willingness to step away from the linen room and assist with cleaning office space and departments when needed.

“Over the last several years in particular, Melissa has stepped out of her regular duties when needed to help with coverage and staffing issues,” says Raikes. “She is always willing to help and will even volunteer to come in an extra day when she sees that we are short staffed. That way, she knows everything will be ready to go when she comes in on Monday. She does whatever it takes to get the job done. She has a huge heart and is truly a team player.”

Hackett says her favorite part of coming to work every day is simply doing her job. She also enjoys seeing her co-workers and helping others.

“It feels good helping people,” she says.

In early civilizations, fire starters were individuals who had the important job of keeping the flame alive. With over 1,400 employees, Morris Hospital & Healthcare Centers is the largest employer in Grundy County.

Holistic Health & Wellness Fair in Godley August 13

Spotted Dog Acres will be hosting a Holistic Health & Wellness Fair at Godley Park District Saturday, August 13. This fair will feature intuitive readers, massage therapists, energy healers, crystals, aura photography, natural products, and more. The purpose of the fair is to spread awareness of self-care and non-traditional healing modalities.

Spotted Dog Acres’ Holistic Health & Wellness Fair will feature 19 booths with 17 mind/body/spirit/arts exhibitors from near and far. Some of the more local exhibitors will be The Mind and Body Shop of Wilmington, Melba Clark of Reddick, and Healing Spirit Wellness Spa of Morris. One out-of-state exhibitor, Marcia Colver, is traveling all the way from Montana to share her gifts. With many exhibitors offering mini sessions, it’s a perfect way to try something new without having to commit to a full session.

There’s a growing interest in holistic wellness and metaphysical principles, yet there aren’t many local resources or connections available for people in the area. Spotted Dog Acres’ Holistic Health & Wellness Fair aims to change that by connecting people both near and far. And what better place to do that than Godley Park District? The park district grounds are tranquil and beautiful, and it’s centrally located to many other neighboring towns.

The fair will be held in the GPD gymnasium on August 13, from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Admission is free.

For more information, visit spotteddogacres.com/events or facebook.com/spotteddogacres.

Spotted Dog Acres is a holistic farm based in Gardner. They raise goats, chickens, and rabbits, and make goat milk soaps, bath bombs, and farmhouse décor.

The Livingston County Health Department (LCHD) will be assisting in the collection of unused tires in an effort to reduce mosquito breeding grounds by providing a means of environmentally safe tire disposal.

Tire disposal program eligibility requirements:

start September 6 and end on September 29.

- No farm or construction equipment tires can be accepted.
- Tires can be off or on the rim.
- Tires must be unloaded by the individual dropping them off.

Born October 12, 1938 in Chicago, Theresa Ann was the daughter of Thomas and Anne (Hajcak) Buban.

She attended St. Rose Grade School in Wilmington; St. Francis Academy in Joliet, and was a proud alumni of the College of St. Francis, class of 1960.

Theresa pursued a career as a teacher in elementary education, first teaching at Bradley West Elementary School and then moving on to Brodnicki Elementary School in Justice.

Locally, Theresa was a substitute teacher at St. Rose School, Braceville Elementary, Goodfarm School, Coal City Elementary and Gardner Grade School. It was from Gardner Grade School that she retired as a full-time teacher's aide in 2002 after being at the school for 15 years.

Theresa was a long-term parishioner of Immaculate Conception Church in Braidwood. In addition to being a very devoted mother, she loved to read and do word searches. Theresa was dedicated to her Catholic faith, praying the Rosary daily. She loved to be with her children and loved even more making and sending "care packages" to her grandson, Nickolas.

Surviving are three children: John and Michael of Braceville and Rosanne Whyte of Chico, CA; one grandson, Nickolas Whyte, who was the light of her life; one brother, Tom (Linnea) Buban of rural Braceville; and the father of her children, Kenneth Slanicky.

Ida M. Schopp

Ida M. Schopp, age 95, of Gardner, Illinois, died peacefully Friday, August 5, 2022 at Heritage Health in Dwight, Illinois.

Born May 12, 1927 in Lexington, Illinois Ida Mae was a daughter of Leo Walter and Dora Susan (Baumgardner) Burke.

She was raised and educated in Chenoa, and on December 22, 1945, Ida married Gordon Francis Schopp in Pontiac. Together, Ida and Gordon settled in Gardner in 1955, where they raised their family.

Ida's employment started at Nationwide Glove Factory in Pontiac, where she earned 45 cents per hour. She later took positions at Ideal Manufacturing in Gardner, where she made baby clothes and then the Coil Factory in Dwight before becoming the Deputy Clerk in Gardner in 1979, where she worked until retiring in 2000.

A dedicated member of the Gardner community, Ida belonged to Church of Hope where she served as a Deacon and Elder, as well as sang in the choir. She was active in the Gardner Beautification Committee; Gardner Legion Auxiliary and the Gardner Lions Club. When her children were young she served as President of the P.T.A. and was also a Scout Leader. Ida was proud to have been the founder of the Gardner Food Pantry at the Church of Hope and remained active until recent years curating the Gardner Archives. Outside of the community she loved so dearly, she was also a member of the Royal Neighbors of America.

Generous and blessed, Ida was constantly crocheting afghans for over 60 years giving nearly every one away. When she saw someone in need, it was always the desire in her heart to meet their need to the best of her ability. Ida truly was a generous and selfless soul.

Some of her favorite pastimes including attending auctions. Ida loved antique dishes, and amongst her vast collection included her countless Jewel Tea dishes. It would also be an understatement to say that Ida loved to garden. Aside from her own meticulous gardens that surrounded her beautiful Victorian home, Ida also created the landscaping and maintained the flowers at Church of Hope for many years. Gardner was proud to have their own Ida Schopp as the Grand Marshal of the Grundy County Corn Festival in 2013, and it was only fitting that her float was adorned with flowers from her own gardens and flower seed packets were handed out, all signed by Ida herself.

One of Ida's quotes was "Things half done, are never done..."

It is fair to say that Ida Schopp accomplished great things and got a lot done. She did leave this world in a better place because of her acts and deeds. In Matthew 25:23 it is stated: "Well done, good and faithful servant..." Ida Schopp was a faithful and dedicated servant. She helped the poor, served her community well, and strived to preserve the history of others. Gone from our sight, Ida leaves behind a priceless collection of memories and good deeds that will carry on in the hearts of all those who were fortunate enough to know and love her.

Survivors include her children: Gordon Schopp (Lorraine McDonald) of Utah, Evelyn (Dan) Jerbi of Gardner and Kathy Fredrick of Minooka; her daughter-in-law, Kay Schopp of Arizona; (25) wonderful grandchildren and great grandchildren; brother, Howard (Emmy) Burke, and numerous nieces, nephews, cousins and friends.

Ida was preceded in death by her husband, Gordon January 18, 2001 and one son, Duane Schopp.

The family will receive friends for a visitation at The Church of Hope, 202 N. Monroe Street in Gardner on Wednesday, August 10, 2022 between the hours of 5:00 p.m. and 8:00 p.m. Funeral services will follow Thursday morning, August 11, 2022 at 10:00 a.m. in the church. Reverend Jan Chandler will officiate.

Burial will be in Braceville Gardner Cemetery, where Ida will be laid to rest with her late husband, Gordon. Her grandsons will act as pallbearers.

Preferred memorials may be made as gifts in Ida's memory to Church of Hope, 202 N. Monroe Street - P.O. Box 248, Gardner, IL 60424

Family and friends are encouraged to sign the guest book, upload photographs and share Ida's memorial page online through social media.

Illinois Farmers Impressed With Variety of Bay State Agriculture

by Tammie Sloup
FarmWeek

Standing on a cranberry bog, a group of Illinois Farm Bureau Young Leaders felt the earth ripple as a peer jumped up and down.

“Whoa, the ground is moving,” one nervously announced.

Bogs are a type of wetland, characterized by a spongy, mat-like substance on the water’s surface, making it possible for the ground to slightly bounce. Cranberries grow on low-lying vines in bogs (or marshes) layered with clay, gravel, peat and sand.

“It’s something totally out of the norm for us in Illinois; just to feel how different the soil is to produce cranberries,” said Illinois Farm Bureau Young Leader Committee member Sadie Asher.

Asher joined nearly 40 others on the IFB Young Leader Ag Industry Tour July 11-15 in Massachusetts. In fact, much of the tour was “out of the norm” for Illinois farmers.

During their visit to the Bay State, the Young Leaders also:

- Shucked oysters from Duxbury Bay.
- Plucked and tasted berries straight from the vine.
- Stood alongside lobstermen as they fished lobsters from Boston Harbor.
- Explored more than a dozen agriculture, aquaculture and agritourism operations throughout Massachusetts, meeting and learning from young and seasoned farmers, as well as Massachusetts Farm Bureau leaders and staff.

Massachusetts’ climate and soil – largely heavy, clay subsoil – nourish the nurseries and fruit and vegetable farms spanning the rolling hills, broken in the state’s center by the Connecticut River Valley.

Agriculture is not a major industry in Massachusetts, which is nearly 50% urban. Land is expensive, and farms are smaller, averaging 60 acres.

But Young Leaders saw firsthand how the state’s farmers – many first-generation farmers – are doing more with less.

“A lot of these farmers here have been first generation and while they’re in one of the oldest parts in the United States, they’re still beginning their businesses here,” said Caitlin Morris, a primary science teacher from Vermilion County.

For example, Ryan MacKay is a 31-year old first-generation farmer who has built upon his agriculture endeavors since high school.

He treated the group to tours of two locations on his Lilac Hedge Farm in Rutland – his pasture-raised livestock farm and packing facility for home-delivered meals and grocer clients, and what he describes as his more “public” farm, featuring AirBnB residences, a farm bar and kitchen, farmstand, bandshell and a walking path where guests can get up close with emus, ostriches, a camel and other animals.

“A lot of it was fighting the kinks out as we went,” said MacKay, who is also the Massachusetts Farm Bureau vice president. “No other farm has the offerings we do and we pride ourselves on that.”

Young Leaders frequently commented on the progressiveness of the state’s farmers.

“They have to take risks because the cost to invest is so high due to urbanization, and it causes them to have to look around for other ways to make money,” said Lucas Hanke, who works on his family’s corn, soybean and wheat farm in Clinton County.

Johnathon Lock, Fulton County Young Leader chairman who farms with his dad, said he was surprised by the small farm sizes and specialization of operations.

“And just the amount of risk that some of these farmers are having to take out here,” Lock said. “Obviously, all farmers have risks but I’ve just been amazed at how much that they are risking, and are still thriving through these times and not being beat down.”

First-generation farmers also have an advantage, Morris added.

“They’re not sticking to the ‘This is the way we’ve always done it,’ because they haven’t been around for as long. They’re really looking forward to making sure that they’re moving with the market and growing as the market needs them,” Morris said. “It’s incredible.”

Many of the farmer hosts have received state and federal funding to help build their operations.

“One thing that has really stood out to me is how many young farmers are applying for grants and using the USDA to get their farm up and running,” said Illinois Young Leader Committee member Ida Hand of Montgomery County. Hand grew up on a row crop and beef cattle farm and now works for Farm Service Agency. “That really shocked me because I feel like in Illinois, not a lot of people use USDA, or even apply for grants that they hear about.”

And it’s not just newer farmers broadening their operations and creating niche markets.

Third-generation cranberry grower Cassander “Cass” Gilmore, who operates Bogside Acres and Benson’s Pond with wife, Erin, has seen agritourism take off in recent years. And he wasn’t about to be left behind. The couple converted the former screenhouse on the property into a farm wedding venue. With views of the 40-acre cranberry bog, the venue is booked three years out.

He also offers tours of the cranberry bog, which is owned by the Gilmore family, a member of the Ocean Spray Cooperative.

When it comes to ag innovation, Barstow’s Longview Farm’s motto says it all: “Looking forward since 1806.”

Denise Barstow is part of the seventh generation on the Hadley farm, which is nestled between a mountain range and the Connecticut River.

The milk market crash in the early 2000s fast-

WES PENNEY OF TWO BUOYS LOBSTER talks with Illinois Farm Bureau Young Leaders about fishing in the Boston Harbor. The three-man crew typically fishes six days a week, except from February until mid-May when whales are in the bay. It takes about seven years for lobsters to grow to a desired size, with the crew catching between 40,000 and 50,000 pounds a year.

tracked the family’s decision to diversify their dairy farm. They opened an on-site farm store and bakery and installed an anaerobic digester that creates enough energy from methane gas to power 1,600 homes. A USDA grant, along with local investors, afforded the family the unique opportunity to install the digester.

“It’s one of the first digesters that also runs on food waste,” Barstow said, adding food waste is collected from area restaurants. “It offsets our carbon footprint by 85%.”

Challenges shared between farmers in both states include drought conditions this year, as well as staffing issues. Many of the host farmers said they struggle to find workers, especially seasonal help. A handful of the farmers rely on H2A workers, many of whom are Jamaican.

But even the H2A program can be costly and is heavily regulated, farmers said, adding that requirements mandate everything from housing conditions to the number of silverware pieces needed for each worker.

From aquaculture to fruit plants and orchards, Massachusetts agriculture looks little like Illinois’ sprawling corn and soybean fields. But Young Leaders say opportunities such as the Ag Industry Tour bring farmers together to share ideas and challenges.

“We pigeonhole ourselves in trying to make sure we educate our own consumers when we need to make sure that we’re educating ourselves about agriculture outside of our state,” Morris said.

Safety Expert Presentation at DTHS Aug. 16

Mark your calendars for Tuesday, August 16, as Dwight Township High School welcomes Don Shomette in the DTHS Auditorium at 6:30 p.m. to offer a school safety presentation for parents, guardians, and Dwight community members.

Shomette is a nationally-recognized violence prevention expert with a concentration in human safety, threat assessments, student safety assessments, community policing, and school-based officers.

He is different than any other safety expert in the fact that he treats people holistically.

Those who attend his trainings or benefit from his coaching and consulting grow both professionally and personally. It is his mission to inspire and motivate those that he helps to not only grow more proficient in their work, but also happier in their lives by seeing safety as something so much more than cameras and locks.

Child care will be provided by DTHS students for children ages three to 12.

Riverside Opens Center for Emotional Well-Being

The Riverside Atrium in Bradley is now home to the Riverside Center for Emotional Well-Being, bringing together Riverside Psychiatric Specialists and the Riverside Pathways Programming. This move allows Riverside to increase outpatient mental health services to the community.

“The last few years have brought to light the need for additional mental health services within our community,” said Riverside President and CEO Phil Kambic. “By expanding and bringing our outpatient mental health services together under one roof, we hope to make these more accessible to those in our community that need mental health assistance.”

Riverside Pathways offers Partial Hospitalization Program (PHP) and Intensive Outpatient Program (IOP) in a group setting. The Pathways PHP program provides a minimum of 20 treatment hours per week and the IOP program provides a minimum of nine treatment hours per week. Pathways currently treats clients starting at the age of eight. Each program’s overall goal is to stabilize day-to-day stressors, create healthy coping skills and provide medication monitoring.

Also located within the Riverside Center for Emotional Well-Being are Riverside Psychiatric Specialists, who see patients in a one-on-one setting.

If you or someone you know needs mental health services or would like to learn more about the services provided by Riverside Behavioral Medicine, call the Central Intake Division at 844-442-2551.

Kankakee County to Mail Postcards for Voting By Mail

Voters in Kankakee County will receive a postcard in early August explaining a new option for voting by mail.

According to Kankakee County Clerk Dan Hendrickson, “You may now apply to permanently be placed on vote by mail status.”

The postcard to voters will include an application to be permanently placed on this list, and an explanation of the new law that created the list. Those on the permanent vote by mail list will automatically receive a ballot in the mail 40 days in advance of any general, consolidated or primary election. When they receive the postcard, voters have four options related to the new permanent vote by mail list.

1. Apply to receive a ballot in advance of every Kankakee County election, stating which party’s ballot the voter wants for primary elections. They will cast their ballots by mail.
2. Apply to receive a ballot by mail for only elections that do not require a party designation.
3. Apply to receive a ballot solely for the 2022 General Election.
4. Do nothing and not be placed on the list. They will continue to vote at their polling places on election day, vote early, or vote by mail as allowed in the past.

This new voting option was put into place by Illinois law in June 2021. Illinois is one of several states to have this option for their voters. Hendrickson said he is required by law to send the letter and application to all voters in Kankakee County on August 10. This law is part of a trend to encourage voting by mail.

“There is the convenience of early voting from home. In some of the larger polling places, it relieves the pressure of long lines at the end of election day,” he said. “In general, (voters) have the benefit of sitting at home, researching the candidates and taking their time to fill out a ballot. If you want to vote by mail, you don’t have to remember to request the ballot,” he added.

Other advantages of permanent voting by mail relate to possible bad weather on an election day, and more convenience for people with a disability, limited mobility or transportation concerns.

Hendrickson said he does have some concerns.

“I don’t see a problem with fraud,” he said. “We have a good handle on the number of ballots we mail out and the ones that have come back. My biggest concern is if you are on the permanent ballot list and then you want to switch between parties for a primary, we’ve already sent you a ballot. I’m wanting to ensure the first ballot comes back to our office and the right ballot gets to you.”

When someone moves, he wants to be sure that he is notified of address changes, and wants to know ballots are going to the right address.

“I do have a concern where we mail out a ballot, they don’t get it or forget, and then go to the polling place. On the poll book, it states that a ballot was sent, and the election judge will see that.”

There are procedures between the precincts and the County Clerk’s office to work this out on election day.

Hendrickson is also concerned about the costs associated with the mailing to all county voters. He assures voters that while the whole country is trending to early voting and mail-in ballots, regular Election Day will continue in Kankakee County.

“The polls are going to be open. You will still have the option to do what you’ve always done and vote on election day if that’s your preference,” he said. “When we get that application back, that’s when something will change. Or if you choose not to apply now, you can always come back later to the County Clerk’s office and ask for an application to be put on the permanent vote by mail list.”

Hendrickson said the letters to voters will be sent Aug. 10. Ballots will be sent on September 29 to those who return an application asking to be on the permanent vote by mail list. Hendrickson noted that some voters might get similar letters from other groups who are encouraging permanent voting by mail. Despite other mailings, he is required to send a letter from their office to every Kankakee County voter. Voters only need to file one application.

Most importantly, he wants people to understand this option and urges people to call or come in to the office at the 189 East Court Street in Kankakee if they have questions, call 815-937-2990 or e-mail at clerk@k3.county.net.

USDA Increases Funding for Partnerships to Safeguard, Restore Wetland Ecosystems

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) is investing up to $20 million in fiscal 2023 to help conservation partners nationwide protect and restore critical wetlands through the Wetland Reserve Enhancement Partnership (WREP). USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) is prioritizing proposals that support efforts to mitigate climate change by restoring wetlands while also prioritizing assistance to underserved communities. Last year, NRCS funded $11 million in partnerships. Partner proposals are due September 23.

"Restoring and protecting wetlands can improve water quality, enhance wildlife habitat and help address climate change. Partnerships are absolutely essential to this work," said Ivan Dozier, State Conservationist in Illinois.

Restored wetlands help to improve water quality downstream, enhance wildlife habitat, reduce impacts from flooding and provide recreational benefits. The most sought-after lands for the WREP program are referred to as "marginal," meaning they do not produce to their full capacity due to repeat flooding or standing water. Removing marginal lands from production can provide economic benefits for agricultural landowners while also restoring the wetlands to accomplish their full functions and values.

Through WREP projects, eligible conservation partners protect, restore and enhance high-priority wetlands on agricultural lands. WREP enables effective integration of wetland restoration on working agricultural landscapes, providing meaningful benefits to farmers and ranchers who enroll in the program and to the communities where the wetlands exist.

WREP will continue to prioritize enrollment of historically underserved landowners in its ranking of proposals. This includes proposals that:

- Target places with historically underserved producers,
- Focus outreach to historically underserved producers,
- Provide assistance with application materials and helping resolve heirs' property and title issues.

WREP workshop on August 17, at 1:00 p.m. Eastern. Contact Lisa McCauley at lisa.mccauley@usda.gov for the login information. The webinar will be recorded and available for any partners unable to attend.

The Lower Wabash River & White River Oxbow project in Indiana and Illinois, led by The Nature Conservancy, seeks to enroll 1,000 acres. This project aims to build on existing efforts of local partnerships between NRCS, The Nature Conservancy and the Conservation Law Center to enroll historically underserved landowners in the historic Lyle's Station area, which was settled in the early 1800's and is one of the last remaining Black American settlements in the state. The project focus is to reduce nutrient export from the Wabash River and to improve important habitat around priority oxbow lakes for monarch butterflies, migratory birds and large river fish species.

WREP is part of the Agricultural Conservation Easement Program (ACEP), which is a Farm Bill conservation program. Through WREP, states, local units of government, non-governmental organizations and American Indian tribes collaborate with NRCS through cooperative and partnership agreements. These partners work with tribal and private landowners who voluntarily enroll eligible land into easements to protect, restore and enhance wetlands on their properties.

Pet of the Week

I was told that I needed to write something about myself. I've been thinking for about an hour now and I got NOTHING! I'm an average dog living an average life in a crazy world. I like to run around and play games and even get the zoomies once in a while. There was this one time that I chased my tail and almost caught it and, oh, oh, oh, and one time I found a grasshopper in the grass and it jumped and it scared me and I barked at it. I also played in the water one day and got all wet and I shook to dry off and everyone got soaked and I laughed so hard...they didn't! It's the small things in life that make me smile. A kind hand, a warm bed and a gentle soul. If you are looking for an average dog with an average life then come to LCHS and ask to see me. I'm just a 4 year old average dog named Harold with a great smile.

Featured Business of the Week!

If you're thinking about buying a new home, look no further than your Peoples National Bank branch in Dwight. With more competitive rates and smaller down payments than ever before, it's easy to buy your new home with a partnership from your hometown bank!

Dwight Welcomes Two New Officers
Jake Bakalik, Trevor Sember Sworn In Monday

wanted to be there for the community," Bakalik said. "I felt like I wasn't really fulfilling something that I needed.

"I wanted to stay local. I only applied to Minooka, Grundy County, and Dwight. I like the area. I have the smaller-town mindset. I think it's easier to learn here and there is more opportunity. I have no specific job duties that I'm excited about. I'm excited to do and be a part of everything. I want to be there for people when they need someone the most."

The National Guard helped with some of the training because he was used to the physical aspect.

However, some of it didn't help him sleep at night at the academy because it was new and different from the military.

"Having a military background, I was already prepared for the academy. When you first start off in this job field it's mind-wrenching because policing is a lot different than the military," Officer Bakalik said. "It's not where you just go out and do your thing. There is more interaction, and talking with people.

"Starting off, everyone is nervous. I was nervous. As you go through the academy, they break all of that out of you. You get a lot of experience talking with people and they break away your insecurities so you can jump right in and have confidence when you get to the streets."

OFFICER TREVOR SEMBER

Sember, 21, is only a few years out of high school.

However, the Streator native has known he was going to be a police officer for quite some time.

"My grandfather (Lee Sember) and my uncle (Brian Sember) were both police officers. I started my career as a correctional officer at Livingston County Jail," Sember said. "With my family, I always heard their stories. There were all kinds of stories with different types of people they were involved with and the stories were different in terms of good, bad, or funny.

"I knew when I went into corrections that I wanted to use it as a stepping stone to get to the road. Being able to talk with officers about their stories was influential as well."

Sember will be the youngest officer in the Dwight Police Department.

Instead of worrying about his youth being used against him, he's using it as an advantage and a strength early on in his career.

"I'm excited to be able to do this for 30 years," Officer Sember said. "Being young, I feel I have a different perspective than a lot of people. I'll learn and get an education from others and I'll be able to share and educate others because of how young I am.

"I feel everyone in the department is very educated on their jobs and I feel I'll be able to learn a lot here."
