Dwight Village Administrator to Retire

by Mark Boma

The Village will be looking to fill two key personnel positions in the next few months as Village Administrator Kevin McNamara will be retiring effective March 31, 2023; and Finance Director Austin Haacke has accepted that same position with the Village of La Grange Park. McNamara's intentions were announced at the Dwight Village Board Meeting on Monday October 24. Haacke's plans were disclosed by a Village of La Grange press release two days later.

McNamara began his job as Administrator with the Village in 1999 and Haacke has been employed by the Village since 2015. Haacke will start his new position on December 19, 2022.

In other matters at the October 24 Dwight Village Board meeting, EMS Director Michael Callahan made a proposal to the Board that the surplus police squad car be assigned to the EMS Director to be used while on official business. The Board was in favor of the proposition and will formalize with a subsequent resolution.

Three new EMS employees were also approved to be hired: Michael Carpenter, full-time paramedic; Krista Courtney, part-time medic; and Hayden Thompson, part-time basic.

Chief of Police Mike Nolan reported that his staff recently assisted the LaSalle County Sheriff's Department at a standoff situation in Sheridan. He noted these types of incidents are becoming more frequent. He added that he, and all other law enforcement agencies in Illinois, are awaiting clarification on how the Safe-T Act will be interpreted come January 1.

Director of Public Works Cory Scoles informed the Board that a water main problem at the intersection of Union and Orchard was being addressed. He added that updated street lighting in the Fox Center parking lot had been installed.

During Public Forum, Joey Fritsch of the Dwight Lions Club, asked the Board to consider matching the Lions' $10,000 commitment to new playground equipment at Lions Lake. The Board was in favor of allocating an additional $10,000 in matching funds.

In New Business, congestion on Park Street was discussed and it was decided "No Parking" signs will be posted to prevent garbage dumpsters from being blocked. Vehicles that ignore the signs will be towed. Mayor Paul Johnson also notified the Board that Dwight will be included on the south end of a continuing IDOT traffic study of State Route 47.

Trustees in attendance at the meeting were Randy Irvin, Pete Meister, Marla Kinkade, and Justin Eggenberger. Absent were Jenny Johnson and Chuck Butterbrodt. The next Dwight Village Board meeting will be Monday November 14 at the Public Services Complex.

Delivering Your Buddy

By Brandon LaChance

There are many reasons we could be sad.

We won't list them because we all know how long and how close the list can be.

There are also many reasons to be happy, thankful and to give back.

Alli Baudino knew she wanted to give back to children experiencing many of the sad aspects of life a few years ago.

Now, at 8 years old, she has the chance.

"A couple of years ago, she wanted to donate some toys to a children's hospital. Then Covid-19 hit and we weren't able to donate," said Kelli Baudino, Alli's mother. "I wanted her to be a part of it, not just collecting and not able to drop them off. This year, Alli is at least able to drop off, so we wanted to be a part of it. We had the idea for toys and then we got together with Catie Wilkey to involve her business, too. She offered to help us out.

"Eric, my husband, and I are very proud of her. We're from Mazon. Mazon is a small town. We want her to see that there are other things beyond herself and school. We want to show her there are things she can do to make herself feel good and to help others.

"There is life beyond Mazon. There are other things going on. It's easy to focus on yourself, but she has discovered through things like this that she feels good and others feel good. She just wants to keep going."

Alli, along with her older brothers, Colton (12) and Jaxon (11) are going to be packing and delivering many toys to the Lurie Children's Hospital in Chicago to give many children a Christmas they won't forget.

Along with toys Alli has collected from her bedroom, friends, and family, she will also be gifting Buddys in part of the Buddy Drive from Scentsy.

"I reached out to Kelli and told her about the Buddy Drive for Ronald McDonald's House. I asked if Alli would be interested in doing that and that's how Alli was put into the mix of everything," said Wilkey, who is a Scentsy consultant. "My husband, Brian, and I spent time at the Ronald McDonald House in 2009. That's where our passion for Ronald McDonald House has come in. When we got married, the money from the dollar dance went to the Ronald McDonald House. Instead of donating money, we would buy toys for the Loyola house, where we stayed.

"Progressively over the years, we've always tried to do something. When Cassie Roach approached me about joining Scentsy, it kind of worked out well because we are involved in the Buddy Drive."

The Wilkeys' son, Cooper, passed away after a week of life because of multiple health problems.

With understanding what children and their families go through Wilkey knew from the first day of joining Scentsy that she was going to donate as many Buddys as possible.

She sees the same spirit in others in the cause, including Alli.

"There are so many hands on deck for the Buddy Drive," Wilkey said. "With Ali, it's incredible to see little humans wanting to make the world a better place. She's one of them."

Catie Wilkey is part of Cassie Roach's 71-person Scentsy team.

Although not all of them are involved in the Buddy Drive, Roach's team put a smile on many faces with the donation of 180 Buddys (the national team donated 445) to the five Illinois Ronald McDonald House locations and Lurie.

"In order to build my business, I was able to do a lot of fundraising opportunities. Instead of me giving fund drives $20 to one, I was able to give more," Roach said. "I used the business to connect with programs such as the Special Olympics, Ronald McDonald House, and St. Jude's Children Research Hospital. I've also helped locally, including helping kids get signed up for local sports."

Roach, an Independent Scentsy Director from Dwight, joined Scentsy in 2018.

At first, she didn't know how big the Buddy Drive could be.

She donated two in 2019 and one in 2020.

With the addition of Wilkey and the willfulness of the rest of the team, the consultants have made a considerable change to their drive.

"Something I'm doing this year is reaching out to people who I know have been serviced (continued on page 2)

New to Main St., Dwight Bellas Esthetics Pampers in Many Ways

by Brandon LaChance

Since October 17 you've probably seen a new sign at 132 E. Main St.

What is historically the Bank of Dwight and has housed the Dwight Economic Alliance as of late, the location will now enclose multiple businesses including Beautiful Bellas Esthetics.

Crystal Provenzano, 39, originally from Ottawa and who has lived in Dwight for the last two years, has brought her home spa to Main St. to offer her services to the entire community instead of just close-knit customers.

"I'm very girly. I was laid off. I thought, 'I've been doing this for so long, I didn't expect that to happen. It's time to try something different,'" said Provenzano, who was in the automobile industry for 15 years in service, parts, sales, and office management. "It made sense to me because I'm girly and I know the effects of pampering. I was running a spa in my home in a spare room for a little while; I started in June.

"I'm absolutely excited and proud of myself to open a spa because it's not my normal. I'm coming out of my comfort zone to do this. I'm pretty happy with it."

CRYSTAL PROVENZANO has moved Beautiful Bellas Esthetics from her home's basement to 132 E. Main St. The location, which is the office of the Dwight Economic Alliance, is being used as an incubator to help local small businesses.

through and have received help and support from Ronald McDonald House,” Roach said. “They’re starting to share their stories. When they share their story, it’s the full-circle of struggling with something and then being able to give back.

“These buddies, gifts are not only given to the patient, but also to the siblings of the patient. When a child is going through treatment or medical care, it’s not just the child who is dealing with the struggle, it’s the rest of the family, too. It’s a great way to help and give back.”

The Scentsy team began marketing Buddys on Oct. 15 and will continue until Nov. 30, when all the orders need to be completed and turned in for a successful Christmas delivery.

Buddys range from $5-50 as there are Buddys, Buddy Clips, and Bitty Buddys.

They come in all shapes and sizes including Superheros, cartoon characters, animals, and more.

Provenzano put the sign and her business in downtown Dwight with the help of the DEA as it is turning its office into an incubator.

The incubator is planned to help start-up businesses grow and prosper with a year agreement of free space before moving on to their own locations.

“The DEA came out to do a ribbon cutting at my house. It was for publicity, but it was at my home, so I didn’t have a big store front to show them,” Provenzano said. “They came and looked at my spa. Randy Irvin, the DEA president, said they were trying to do an incubator at the DEA to help small businesses start.

“I went and looked at it and I decided it would be a good deal. It’s right on Main St. and it gives me a chance to build my business. I was happy in my basement since I didn’t have any overhead and I was doing OK. But when I saw the place and the space, I knew it was a good idea. My name is right on Main St. and I’ve been a lot busier since I moved into the building.

“I feel really good about the incubator. I feel the DEA is really supportive. They’re helping me advertise. There are a lot of members in the DEA and there are a lot of businesses. My business is getting around to everyone. It’s a matter of being in the public eye because it was only word of mouth before.

“Now, it’s word of mouth and a Main St. location where anyone can see me.”

Jesse White Alerts Consumers to Beware of Flood-Damaged Cars Caused by Hurricane Ian

Illinois Secretary of State Jesse White is alerting consumers interested in purchasing used vehicles to beware of flood-damaged cars resulting from flooding caused by Hurricane Ian or other natural disasters.

In an effort to protect Illinois consumers, White has instructed his office to closely monitor title applications involving potential flood vehicles. This includes ensuring vehicles coming from counties impacted by flooding are properly identified and labeled as flood vehicles when applicable.

White urged consumers to gather as much information as possible about a vehicle before making a purchase. Consumers are encouraged to obtain a National Motor Vehicle Title Information System (NMVTIS) vehicle history report by visiting vehiclehistory.bja.ojp.gov/.

In addition, White said that CARFAX is providing a link to check for flood vehicles. To visit the free link, go to carfax.com/flood.

MAKING SENSE OF INVESTING

Avoid Becoming ‘Burden’ On Grown Children

Here’s an interesting statistic: Some 72% of retirees say one of their biggest fears is becoming a burden on their families, according to a 2021 survey by Age Wave and Edward Jones. Both before and during retirement, what steps can you take to avoid burdening your loved ones in the future?

Here are a few suggestions:

- Build your retirement savings. The greater your financial resources, the less likely it becomes that you’d ever have to count on your grown children for financial support. You may have access to a 401(k) or similar retirement plan at work, so take advantage of it. Even with an employer-sponsored plan, you also may be eligible to contribute to an IRA. In addition to offering a variety of investment options, a 401(k) and IRA provide potential tax advantages. And once you do retire, be careful about how much you withdraw each year from your retirement plans and other investments.
 - Plan for health care costs. Once you are retired, health care costs will be a significant expense. You may have Medicare, but you’ll also want to consider your need for supplemental health insurance to cover traditional medical costs. And you’ll want to consider another potential health-related expense: long-term care. You may never need the services of a home health aide or a stay in a nursing home, but no one can predict the future. Medicare does not cover most costs for long-term care, which can be quite high. In 2021, the annual national median cost for a private room in a nursing home was over $108,000, while the median cost for a full-time home health aide was nearly $62,000, according to a survey by Genworth, an insurance company. You may want to consult with a financial professional on strategies for protecting yourself from these costs.
 - Create necessary legal documents. If something were to happen to you, and you didn’t have the appropriate legal documents in place, your loved ones could be placed in a bind, both financially and emotionally. That’s why it’s a good idea to create documents such as a durable financial power of attorney, which lets you name someone to manage your finances if you became incapacitated, and a durable power of attorney for health care, which allows someone to make medical decisions on your behalf if you can’t make them yourself. You’ll want to work with a legal professional to develop the documents appropriate for your needs.
 - Evaluate your housing needs. As you enter retirement, you may want to evaluate your living situation. Could you downsize to a smaller home, or perhaps a condominium or apartment? Not only might you save money with such a move, but you could also end up relieving your grown children of the responsibilities and hassles involved in clearing out and selling your home should you become unable to do so yourself during the later years of your retirement.
- By taking these measures, along with others, you can go a long way toward maintaining your independence and putting yourself in a place where you won’t burden your grown children. And that’s a good place to be.

DTHS Drama Dept. Presents A Christmas Carol Nov. 11-13

The Dwight Township High School Drama Club fall production will be a rendition of the Charles Dickens classic, "A Christmas Carol." The show is directed by Abigail Groves, with the help of their set and sound director, Allie Victor.

A Christmas Carol tells the story of Ebenezer Scrooge, an elderly miser who, after a visit from the ghost of his former business partner, Jacob Marley, is taken for an adventure through time by the spirits of Christmas Past, Present, and Yet to Come to encourage him to be a better man. After their visits, Scrooge transforms into a kinder, gentler, appreciative man.

The drama department has 11 seniors for the fall production, including Olivia Bond, Harlie Boucher, Emelia Eitenmiller, Lola Furbee, Hailey Heath, Jace Kern, Deidre Miller, Tyler Pugh, Chris Tuterow, Connor Folkers, and Joseph Wright. Miss Abby says she is sad to see these amazing people go on their way, but she knows that there are bright futures ahead for them all.

A Christmas Carol will show Friday, November 11, at 7:00 p.m., Saturday, November 12, at 7:00 p.m., and Sunday, November 13, at 2:00 p.m. Tickets for the show are available for presale at DTSH's main office and will be available on November 1. Tickets will also be available at the auditorium doors. Students, children, and seniors receive a discount.

In other news, the DTSH Drama Dept. also invites the public to see their spring musical, Mamma Mia! The showing of Mamma Mia! will be March 10-12, with more information forthcoming.

Grundy County Heroes & Helpers Charity Event a Huge Success

Not for profit Grundy County Heroes & Helpers, INC. hosted their biggest fundraiser of the year, their 2022 Draw Down held at the Gardner American Legion October 22. Money was raised through the Draw Down tickets, sponsorships, raffles, silent auction, a 50/50, and a live auction. The event raised funds for GCHH's 2022 Shop with a Local Hero event, when first responders (police, deputies, firefighter and EMTs) take Grundy County children in need on a shopping spree to Walmart in Morris with a GCHH volunteer on December 10, followed by a Christmas celebration with Santa.

In tradition with last year's Draw Down, the event included a special Fund a Need portion which benefited two Grundy County families whose children's lives have been impacted by childhood cancer. A live pledge resulted in raising $32,800 for the families to split in half. The Wagoner family of Minooka was selected to receive the donation for their eight-year old daughter, Wren, who was diagnosed with B-Cell Acute Lymphoblastic Leukemia in January of 2022. Wren has two more years of treatment ahead of her.

In attendance was the Van-Hyning family of Channahon. Their son, Breckin, was diagnosed at the age of six in 2020 with Grade IV Thalamic Glioblastoma and passed away 11 months later at the age of seven. The family joins the fight to raise funds to help toward the advancement of Pediatric Cancer research in Breckin's memory through the Brain Tumor Center at Lurie's Children's Hospital.

"Each year, we look for a couple of families who really could use the support of their community to get through a difficult time," said GCHH president Wendy Briley. "We wanted to help them tell their story and then give our supporters and community an opportunity to step in and help. This year's amount raised was beyond generous and makes me proud that our community is so willing to step up and bless these families."

In all, over $80,000 was raised, including the Fund a Need portion. The proceeds go to the 2022 Shop with a Hero, providing the children a $150.00 shopping trip to Walmart for clothes, boots, coats, etc. The children will also attend a festive party with Santa Claus and the heroes with new, unopened toys donated throughout the year, food, and Christmas cheer.

Applications for 2022 Shop with a Local Hero are available online at the GCHH website, gchhinc.org. Families residing in Grundy County with children ages four to 15 are invited to apply. GCHH wishes to provide Christmas joy and an opportunity for children in the community who have experienced some type of adversity this past year to have a positive interaction with police, fire, and EMS while giving their families support. Applications are due November 21 at 5:00 p.m. For more information, e-mail info@gchhinc.org or call 815-200-6957.

Or Best Practice?" presented by Anne Marie Gump, Master of Arts in Elementary Education and ELL specialist at Williams Bay School District, Join Saturday, November 12, from 10:00-11:00 a.m. in the White Community Room of Domy Memorial Library, 201 S. 3rd St., Fairbury. One hour of Professional Development Credit will be available. To reserve a seat, e-mail Connie Rich at jc.rich3@gmail.com or text at 815-520-8266.

Gas Prices For This Week

Since last Monday, the national average for a gallon of regular gasoline has fallen by three cents to $3.76. Fluctuating oil prices and low demand are contributing to the national average moving downward. If demand remains low, as oil prices slide, drivers should see pump prices come down through the weekend. A lower dollar has helped to push crude prices up this week; however, the price of oil declined earlier in the week due to ongoing market concerns regarding the likelihood of a recession occurring.

New Books at
Piper City Library

Piper City Library, 39 Main St., now has the following books available for check-out:

The Warmth of Sunshine by Kelly Irvin; The Last Way Home by Liz Joshson; The Heart of the Mountains by Pepper Bashan; The Road to Freedom by Johnny Baker; and Caught Inside by Mark Hamilton.

In addition to those books, they also have available A Thousand Trails Home: Living with Caribou by Seth Kanter.

A stunningly lyrical first-hand account of a life spent hunting, studying, and living alongside caribou. A Thousand Trails Home encompasses the historical past and present day, revealing the fragile intertwined lives of people and animals surviving on an uncertain landscape of cultural and climatic change sweeping the Alaskan Arctic. Author Seth Kanter vividly illuminates this critical story about the interconnectedness of the Inupiat of Northwest Alaska, the Western Arctic Caribou Herd, and the larger Arctic region. This story has global relevance as it takes place in one of the largest remaining intact wilderness ecosystems on the planet, ground zero for climate change in the US. This compelling and complex tale revolves around the politics of caribou, race relations, urban vs. rural demands, subsistence vs. sport hunting, and cultural priorities vs. resource extraction – a story that requires a fearless writer with an honest voice and an open heart.

Former Cubs

Another postseason, another postseason without the Cubs. There wasn't much of an expectation for them to be involved, so that part is what it is. However, what hurts is that there are Cubs floating around in the ether that are on some of these teams still playing.

Let's start with Kyle Schwarber. He undoubtedly hurts the most. He was lovable, his home runs were maybe the most fun thing about watching the Cubs during his tenure, they went very, very far, and were usually hit very very hard. Then you couple that with the fact that he was let go for nothing. They could've brought him back for just 10 million the year he left. He has since signed a 4/80 million dollar contract which seems pretty reasonable for the guy who's hit the second most home runs in all of baseball this year!

Then there's Nick Castellanos. He was traded to the Cubs at the trade deadline a few years back and was also let go at the end of that season. He has actually struggled somewhat with the Phillies, but he was unbelievable in Chicago in his short stint. There seemed to be something about Wrigley that played well into the way he hit the ball. This leads to the pain not being as stingy as it is with Schwarber, but still hurts nonetheless.

Finally, there's the lovable Dusty Baker. He of course was the Cubs manager during their 2003 playoff run. He now unfortunately is the manager for the Houston Astros, who have the bad aura of the cheating scandal hanging over their head. If they were to win it, I could at least take some solace in the fact that Dusty finally got over the hill. His toothpicks have been through a lot and probably deserve a world series at some point, even if it's with the Astros.

There are Cubbies all around. Regardless of what happens there will be some Cubby sweat and tears involved, one way or another.

Pet of the Week

"When you're the best of friends, share all that you discover. When these moments have passed, will that friendship last? Who can say there's a way? Oh I hope, I hope it never ends, 'cause you're the best of friends." We are hounds and we'll always be friends forever. Won't we? Give us a chance to put our noses to the ground and sniff out the love of your life and in return, we will give the best of ours. Adopt us together or separately but we will always be friends and you will always be family.
